

Action Follows Cuban Attacks on U.S. Planes

14,124 RESERVISTS CALLED UP

(Cabled Wire Services)

WASHINGTON—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, acting after U.S. reconnaissance aircraft were fired upon over Cuba, Saturday night ordered 14,124 Air Force reservists to active duty to man 24 troop carrier squadrons.

The announcement was made by Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester, who read a McNamara statement saying the Cuban situation "requires we be prepared for any eventuality."

Asked if the new troop action signified that an invasion of Cuba was imminent, a Defense Department spokesman declined comment.

Sylvester made public McNamara's decision after the White House had announced the contents of a letter sent by President Kennedy to Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev saying he was willing to negotiate on the Cuban crisis if Soviet missile bases are withdrawn from Cuba.

The Defense Department already had announced that a reconnaissance plane was missing after a sortie over Cuba.

The pilot, listed as "missing," was identified as Maj. Rudolph Anderson Jr., 35, of Greenville, S.C. His father said Anderson had been training as a U2 pilot.

The Defense Department did not say his plane was shot down, although it did say that reconnaissance planes were fired upon.

The announcement said Anderson is an Air Force officer, but had no mention of the type of plane that he was flying. A spokesman refused to give any further details about the plane or the area in which it was lost.

Anderson's next of kin were listed as Mrs. Frances Jane Anderson and his sons, Rudolf Anderson III, 5, and James B. Anderson, 3.

McNamara's troop order announcement said that "today, U.S. unarmed reconnaissance aircraft, conducting surveillance of the buildup of the offensive weapons secretly introduced into Cuba by the Soviet Union, were fired upon."

McNamara's statement added:

"To insure that the nations of the Western Hemisphere continue to be informed of the status of the threat to their security, it is essential that such reconnaissance flights continue. The possibility of further attack on our aircraft and the continued buildup of offensive weapons in Cuba require that we be prepared for any eventuality."

"Therefore, tonight, acting under the authority granted to me by Executive Order 11058, dated Oct. 23, 1962, I have instructed the secretary of the Air Force to order to active duty 24 troop carrier squadrons of the Air Force Reserve with the associated support units."

Quite obviously troop carriers could be used to transport military units for a strike against Cuba itself if this were to be ordered.

In announcing that one aircraft conducting surveillance operations over Cuba was missing, the Defense Department said that these missions will continue. The statement also said that "appropriate measures will be taken" to protect the planes and insure their effectiveness.

The Cubans themselves had said during the day that anti-aircraft batteries "drove off unidentified warplanes."

JFK WILLING TO TALK

Defuse Rockets First, K Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy told Premier Khrushchev Saturday night he was ready to negotiate an immediate end to the Cuban crisis, provided that Khrushchev stops work on nuclear-missile bases in Cuba and defuses the missiles.

Climaxing 24 hours of hectic summit-level exchanges between the two leaders, Kennedy laid out a two-point program of agreement built upon what he called "the key elements" of a letter which Khrushchev had sent him Friday night. The two points are:

1. Khrushchev would agree to remove the nuclear missiles from Cuba "under appropriate United Nations observation and supervision" and to halt any further installation of such weapons in the island.
2. Kennedy would agree, upon establishment of "adequate arrangements" through the U.N. both to lift the U.S. Navy's arms blockade around Cuba and to give assurances "against an invasion of Cuba."

While the President said that he saw no reason why these arrangements could not be completed and announced "within a couple of days" he concluded his letter to Khrushchev with a grim note of warning on the need for speed.

"The continuation of this threat, or a prolonging of this discussion concerning Cuba by linking these problems to the broader questions of European and world security, would surely lead to an intensification of the Cuban crisis and a grave risk to the peace of the world."

In his letter, Kennedy summed up Khrushchev's previous suggestions as requiring Russia to remove offensive weapons from Cuba under U.N. observation and stop sending weapons to the Castro regime, while the United States would—with U.N. safeguards—halt its weapons blockade of Cuba and pledge not to invade Cuba.

But Kennedy insisted that Russia must first stop work on missile sites in Cuba and render offensive weapons there incapable of operation "under effective international guarantees."

In a message Saturday night to U.N. Acting Secretary General U Thant, Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro offered to stop construction of major military facilities in his country if the United States lifted its blockade.

Khrushchev's letter of Friday did not contain any reference to the deal the Soviet premier proposed in a separate message broadcast Saturday morning by Radio Moscow under which Russia said it would take offensive weapons out of Cuba if the United States pulled missiles out of Turkey. Kennedy rejected that proposal earlier Saturday.

AROUND THE WORLD Saturday, there were these other developments in the Cuban crisis:

Venezuela Alerted

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI)—President Romulo Betancourt Saturday night ordered the mobilization of Venezuela's armed forces.

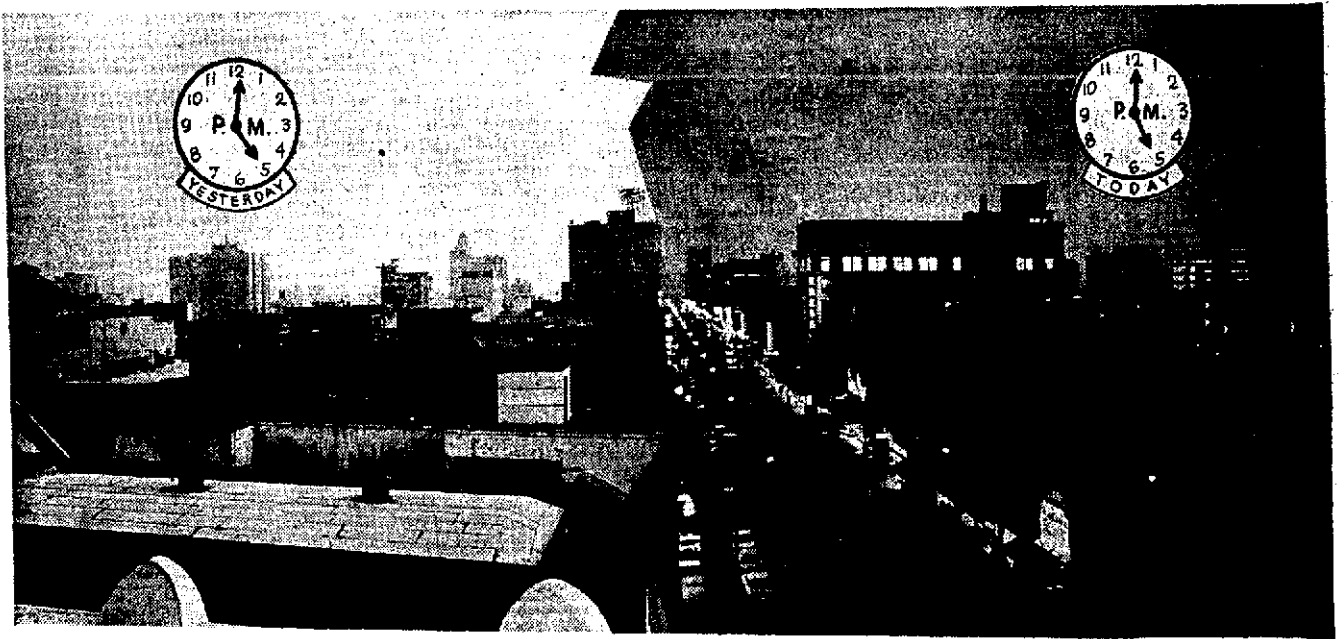

It was understood that Venezuela, in addition to holding its troops and planes in readiness, would supply warships for the blockade of Cuba.

Venezuela has a 15,000-man army and a small but well-equipped air force with about 75 first-line aircraft and an equal number of support and training planes.

NIGHT CREEPS FORWARD ON 25-HOUR DAY

Split scene of downtown Long Beach, divided, roughly, just east of Pine Avenue, shows how much darker it will be today at 5 p.m. than it was Saturday because California is back on Pacific Standard Time. You should have turned your clocks and watches back one hour before you went to bed if you didn't want to get up an hour late this morning. Officially, the state switched from daylight-saving time back to standard time at 2 a.m. today, making this a 25-hour day.

AF Reservists Await Orders

There is an excellent chance 200 Air Force reservists from Long Beach will be involved in the activation of 24 reserve troop-carrier squadrons, the operations officer of the 452nd Wing said Saturday night.

Maj. Richard Leebrick, formerly of Long Beach, told The Independent, Press-Telegram by telephone from his Riverside home that the four squadrons of the 452nd may be called up.

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara revealed the summoning of the 24 squadrons Saturday.

The Pentagon late Saturday declined to name the specific units included in the mobilization, and 452nd headquarters at March Air Force Base near Riverside had not been given the word.

But Maj. Leebrick said he understood the reserve squadrons called up last year in the Berlin crisis would be the last to be activated.

EX-LUXURY RESORT GIVEN STATE

Corona Center for Drug Addicts to Be Ready Soon

By GEORGE FLOWERS

Bats, skunks and foxes have been chased out of an abandoned resort hotel at Norco. Broken glass and roofs of a long-vacant Navy hospital are being repaired.

In all, $25 million worth of deserted buildings are being rehabilitated in that tiny town 40 miles from Long Beach, to pave the way for the State of California's greatest rehabilitation effort upon its men and women.

IF ALL THE dust and dirt is cleared out of the abandoned Corona Naval Hospital in time, California will open its first and only rehabilitation center designed exclusively for narcotics addicts on Jan. 7, 1963. Indications are the project is on schedule.

When the rehabilitation center for narcotics addicts opens, it will be filled to capacity in a matter of months. Superintendent Ronald W. Wood, a native of Long Beach, predicts. The former naval hospital facilities, and the rehabilitated Norconian Hotel, will accommodate 1,800 men and women, plus administrative, medical and training facilities.

THE SITE, a few miles from the city of Corona, was abandoned by the Navy five years ago and fell into a melancholy tangle of dust, weeds and jungle.

Two years ago, with whopping support by both parties in the state legislature, the California Rehabilitation Center was established—on paper.

The State's Department of Corrections obtained the Corona Naval Hospital, and with it the ancient (1928) resort hotel as surplus property, without cost.

Refurbishing the buildings will cost $3,260,000. Complete rehabilitation programming will be possible at the center by June 1, 1963.

Meanwhile, glaziers and carpenters, dusters and roofers, plumbers and painters are putting the Corona Naval Hospital—as it may always be known to tens of thousands of sailors and Marines, back in condition.

CD Has Rough Week but Situation Improves

By BOB SANDERS

It was what is known as a "rough week" around the Long Beach Office of Civil Defense but, according to Assistant CD Director Evar P. Peterson, things are "looking up all the way around."

On the heels of President Kennedy's Cuban quarantine announcement Monday the office was deluged with calls at the rate of five a minute, most from people wanting to know what to do in case of an attack.

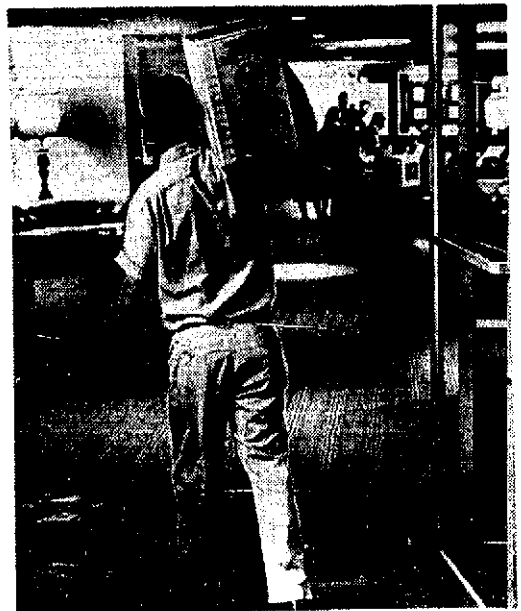

AT THE SAME time, housewives began a run on markets to lay in the two-week food supply the Civil Defense authorities have advised all along, and depleted stores' supplies of canned goods.

Water department officials reported increased consumption as householders apparently attempted to put in the two-week supply in containers.

Air raid - warning - siren tests regularly scheduled throughout Los Angeles County for Friday morning were canceled because officials finally decided too many people might think it was the "real thing" and panic.

In the wake of intensified public interest, the Civil Defense office ordered full speed ahead on preparations already being made for the protection of civilians in case of attack.

Thousands of pieces of literature, including booklets and pamphlets on building, equipping and living in family air-raid shelters, (Continued Pg. B-1, Col. 4)

'SURVIVAL-RATION CRACKERS' are carried by Public Service Department employee to basement fallout shelter in Lafayette Hotel. Box was part of three truckloads placed in the shelter Saturday.

Sabin Oral Sunday Crowds Predicted

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

A turnout double that of last week has been predicted for today's oral polio vaccine clinics.

Dr. Sam S. Woolington, clinics chairman, made the prediction. He called last week's Long Beach area turnout of 126,000 persons "remarkable."

Dr. Woolington urged parents to take their children to the clinics even though the youngsters have had a full series of Salk injections.

"Those who take Sabin oral vaccine now will not need a Salk booster shot next spring," he said.

TYPE I SABIN vaccine will be administered today. Individuals who took the vaccine last Sunday should not attend today's clinics, Dr. Woolington said. Those who have already had Type I will be given a chance to obtain Type II on Dec. 2 and 9. Type III will be offered Feb. 3 and 10.

The infant, weighing 5 pounds 6 ounces, was the largest of the four. The hospital reported the other babies were holding their own. They are one month premature and are being cared for in incubators.

The hospital described the mother as tired but in good condition.

Architects for Towers Contracted

Contract has just been signed for architect and engineering services for the proposed 25-story, $30-million World Trade Center structure on Pier J, Long Beach.

Signing the agreement were Charles C. Weidlein, president of International Towers, Inc., developers, and Dan A. Kimball, president of Aerojet-General Corporation.

June 1, 1964, has been set as completion date for the building.

Details will be found on Page 1 of the Southland Progress Section of today's Independent, Press-Telegram.

L.A.C. Says: Decide on Vital Propositions

There may or may not be a war over Cuba. Only Khrushchev knows the answer to that question. It is probable there will be months or years of tension and dangers before the world problems are solved. Many people use such distractions to avoid facing their every day responsibilities as good citizens. But they are faced with the fact that 10 days from now 30 propositions on the ballot will decide many vital issues involving their daily lives.

During the past week in our Independent column we have discussed these propositions and given our recommendations for those of our readers who are interested. We have been asked to summarize them. We are doing so today because voters have their sample ballots which are long and confusing, we urge them to start marking their ballots with their preferences so they will be prepared to use them when they go to the polls. Our recommendations are as follows:

On the State section of the ballot—
YES on 1A—2—4—6—7—9—13—14—15—16—20—21—22—23—24.
NO on 1—3—5—8—10—11—12—17—18—19.
County propositions:
YES on A—B—C and E. NO on Prop. D.
Long Beach city proposition Y—YES.

We urge our readers to read the pro and con arguments accompanying the ballot. They may not agree with our recommendations. That is not important. But it is important that they know what they are voting for. The titles of the proposition on the ballot indicate their meaning. But in many of them the true meaning can only be found in explanations of different viewpoints. We have previously recommended pro and con reading found in discussions by the Commonwealth Club—Town Hall and League of Women Voters. It is late to procure these booklets—but the information with your ballot will be helpful.

In the first column of the ballot will be found the partisan offices. Each candidate has his party designation below his name. It is probable the great majority of voters have already decided on their choices of these partisan candidates. At this time we state our position on only the local candidates for state and federal offices. We endorse Craig Hosmer for Congress. We also endorse Joseph Kennick for reelection to the 44th Assembly District, west side of Long Beach and Lakewood. He is a Democrat, but long before this election voiced his opposition to the CDC leftwing programs. We also endorse George Deukmejian to succeed the retiring Bill Grant in the 39th Assembly district (eastern part of Long Beach).

In the second column will be found under "School" the choice between Ralph Richardson and Max Rafferty. Because of Richardson's close association with the CDC, we have recommended a vote for Rafferty. Next in the 2nd column is "Judicial." There is no competition for eight Superior Court judges. In the 9th we recommend a vote for Leo Freund—now a Judge of the Los Angeles Municipal Court.

At the end of the second column will be found under "County" the vital office of County Assessor. Two very fine men are candidates. John S. Gibson, Jr. is a long time Los Angeles city councilman from San Pedro. He is a capable man who has been a good friend to Long Beach. His opponent is Philip E. Watson, a public accountant with eight years experience in the County Assessor's office. His experience and sound ideas on assessing would make him a valuable successor to John R. Quinn, who is retiring. Either of these men is deserving of support of the voters.

It may seem premature for us to offer these suggestions 10 days before the election. We do so only because of the length of the ballot and because of the distractions that may occupy our space and the people's minds during the coming week. No matter what we may face in Cuba we must also face up to our local and state responsibilities. They will be with us long after the Cuban crisis is resolved. Unless we discharge these responsibilities here at home, we will be weakened in what we can do in any national emergency. By our acts only can we hope to preserve freedoms we cherish—and the place to start is at the local level. If the foundation is not strong, the building will collapse.—L.A.C.

(L.A.C. column by L.A. Council for the other columns, is an expression of personal opinion and does not necessarily reflect the endorsed position of the newspaper.)

Air Crash Kills Italy Oil Czar

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Enrico Mattei, the aggressive Italian government oil czar who shattered international oil profit-sharing traditions, and two other persons were killed Saturday night in the crash of a private plane.

The other victims were identified as William Mc Hale, chief of Time magazine's Rome Bureau, and Mattei's pilot, Ennio Beruzzi, a former pilot for Italy's national airline.

POLICE SAID the twin-engine jet plane crashed in a dense fog near this northern industrial town on a flight from Catania, Sicily, to Milan. The plane lost contact with the airport and came down in a marshy area near the village of Besenigo, 10 miles from Milan.

Flames from the burning jet wreckage were so intense that it was difficult for first-arrivals to approach. There were reports that two and then four people had died in the crash.

But carabinieri (national police) who reached the scene fixed the toll at three, identifying the bodies of Mattei, McHale and the pilot.

MATTEI, 56, won world attention as the aggressive head of the government-owned ENI Ente Nazionale Idrocarburi (national hydrocarbon authority).

He broke the tradition of 50-50 profit-sharing between big Western oil companies and oil-producing countries by granting Iran 75 per cent of profits for oil rights.

Under his leadership, ENI grew into a rich industrial empire including oil fields, refineries, pipelines, tanker fleets, filling stations, and a

U.S. Mishaps Lay Up 45 Million a Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some 45 million Americans are sidelined by injuries each year, a government survey shows. Almost half the injuries happen at home.

Of the various kinds of mishaps, falls lead the list—injuring some 12 million.

Moving motor vehicle accidents rank fourth, according to the survey. They account for 2,890,000 of the injured—compared with 4,108,000 from being "struck by a moving object" (such as a stone) and 3,482,000 from having "bumped into an object or person."

String of petroleum-derivative factories.

Mattei's political and industrial power made many advocates of free enterprise uneasy. "A state within a state," they called ENI. Italy's Communists, on the other hand, saw his activities as leading to nationalization of all industries.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Philippine Airline will expand its trans-Pacific service from one flight to two flights a week starting Dec. 1, Roberto Lim, executive vice president, announced.

The airline now offers a weekly jet flight from San Francisco to Hong Kong by way of Honolulu and Manila.

Currently the airline has one jet aircraft which they operate in conjunction with KLM, Lim said. They also have 35 other aircraft.

The airline is primarily a domestic operation, Lim said. He pointed out, however, that their 5,000-mile flight from Honolulu to San Francisco is the longest non-stop jet flight offered by any airline.

Addicts' Hospital Readied

the lead over other cities in rehabilitating its addicts.

His assistant, Bruce T. Dyer, goes a little further:

"We will have the foremost and best program in the nation—including that of the federal government, he says.

The rehabilitation center was established by legislature to become effective Sept. 15, 1961. When the center came into being, it began to exist on borrowed facilities.

At the Chino Institution for Men, a facility was acquired that could house 760 men. The first man committed (by Superior Court) was received last July 16.

A smaller facility was obtain at the California Department of Corrections at Tehachapi, and facilities for women were made available at the California Institution for Women.

NARCOTICS addicts now being committed are sent to these places for the time being. When the center at Norco is completed, 600 men will be housed in an 8-story building once the central building of the Corona Naval Hospital; 600 men will be housed in one group of barracks and 600 more in another, and 400 women in the former hospital nurses' quarters.

Under California's new narcotics control laws, the commitments—already in the hundreds—will come from three principal sources. One group, whose narcotic addiction has included commission of a crime, will be arbitrary court commitments. Another will be voluntary commitments by the addicts themselves, and a third will be commitment of addicts by members of their families.

All commitments, however, must be processed through Superior Court, and a division in Los Angeles will attack this problem.

"Our first problem will be control," Dyer says. "Many addicts say cure is impossible. We will first attempt to help the addict control his craving."

"Some people say there is no such thing as an alcoholic. They say there are merely alcoholics who have quit drinking. Many people say the narcotics habit is the same."

"After we have worked with control, we will work with rehabilitation."

IT IS A matter of melancholy to Dyer that the center likely will be filled to capacity as rapidly as it is rebuilt. He gazes about the 63 buildings of the Norco facility and comments:

"We have some space to build here, but it may rob us of recreation area."

Recreation area was the total purpose of the site when, in 1927, the lavish Norconian Club was opened by investors seeking the lush Hollywood trade.

It faced a man-made lake (now owned by the Navy and used in its armament training program), was fronted by a private golf course, contained four pools (two indoors) and a lush, marble-floored ballroom.

Vestiges of the luxury remain. The pools are empty (the Navy filled in one indoor pool) and the golf course is gone. But the ballroom still is checker-boarded in black and white marble.

This building will be converted to medical clinic purposes, administrative offices and training programs for state workers.

Wood is somewhat sad about those two big outdoor pools.

"People have become quite angry at the thought of them," he says.

"They have asked us: 'How come dope fiends can have swimming pools when our children can not?'"

"Well, we haven't any plans to use those pools at this time, what with our narrow budget and all. But it might be nice, in the future, to use them in our rehabilitation work—if the public will let us."

THE CALIFORNIA Rehabilitation Center will be a minimum-security type of institution, but is being heavily fenced by civilian contractors now. It will be double fenced around the women's dormitories.

Men and women will be strictly segregated, Dyer says, and possibly will not see each other except at rehabilitation lectures and classes.

One exception:

"We have had man-and-wife couples commit themselves voluntarily, when both have become addicted. I suppose we will have to let them see each other occasionally."

Dyer recalls that the state took over the ex-Navy hospital facilities on March 30, 1962.

"The first day," he says, "an officer ran up the flag—upside down."

"That's a distress signal. And that's what this place is for—people in distress."

Oceanside Dead as Marines Go

Big green helicopters and equipment roll along U.S. shuttle overhead between 101 toward San Diego, the Camp Pendleton and San Diego.

That was the reaction Saturday of City Councilman Jerome K. Jones to the sudden exodus of Marines from nearby Camp Pendleton in the face of the Cuban crisis.

The daily late afternoon flurry of activity was missing in the downtown district due to the absence of Marines, this military city's biggest customer. Marines who have not moved out are busy on the base.

A restaurant favored by Marines reported only four Leathernecks from 3 to 6 p.m. one afternoon instead of the usual "full house."

At Oceanside-Carlsbad College, night enrollment dropped 50 per cent or about 550 students, Marines were recalled from classes to rejoin their units.

Freeman Says Food, Fiber Stocks Ample

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said Saturday his department's defense emergency machinery is in "a very advanced state of readiness."

Food stocks are so high that an all-out crop-production effort would be necessary only in event of a conflict as widespread as World War II, he told UPI in an interview.

He said that if the Cuban crisis turns out to be a Korean-type situation, there would be no need to change present farm policies. But there would have to be a re-evaluation in event of a nuclear war, "because no one knows what such a war would do." He emphasized that, in any event, re-evaluations are continuous.

Freeman said the United States would have adequate stocks of food and fiber to meet needs on the scale of those in the Korean-conflict years. Overall food stocks are more than 50 per cent greater than when the Korean war began, he said.

"There were 400 million bushels of wheat in surplus when Korea erupted," Freeman said. "Now there are 1.3 billion bushels. The feed-grain surplus totaled 30 million tons. Now there are 70 million tons."

Despite heated arguments for and against the measure, the controversial issue was approved quickly. The revenue would be used for street construction only on Phoenix main thoroughfares and freeways.

ELECTION COVERAGE

I, P-T Set Up for Fast Vote Tally

The Independent, Press-Telegram is set up for fast and thorough election night coverage on Nov. 6, with telephone and radio coverage prepared for spot inquiries.

Radio Station KGER (1390) will set up a microphone at the newspaper office and election bulletins covering local and regional voting will be carried as rapidly as returns develop. The station will broadcast national and state returns from its studio between local broadcast periods.

The League of Women Voters as a public service project will provide a crew to answer telephones at the newspaper office. The telephone number for election inquiries is HEMlock 2-5959.

RICHARD BEACH, who has supervised the newspapers' compilation of local returns for many years, will again be in charge of the tabulation crews working at the county building and at other points in the district.

The I, P-T "nearby" staff will collect information on local races in southern, southeastern Los Angeles County and Orange County for publication and answer to inquiry.

Because of the length of the ballot, counting may be slow on election night, but returns will be obtained as rapidly as feasible.

BETTS' TRANSACTION ATTACKED

Conflict of Interest Boils Up in State Treasurer Campaign

By JAMES McCAULEY
Independent, Press-Telegram Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—A hot conflict-of-interest issue has boiled up in a second major California election race. It involves the incumbent treasurer, Democrat Bert A. Betts.

Betts has confirmed a 1960 deal in which he borrowed money from a bank holding state funds and used the loan to buy $6,400 stock in the same bank. Though Betts says there is nothing wrong or illegal about the transaction, his Republican opponent Assemblyman John A. Buserud, brands it as highly unethical.

AND BUSERUD, though not mentioning Nixon or Hughes by name, has raised the question as to whether the deal isn't in the same moral category as a loan from a government contractor.

This was an obvious reference to the $205,000 Hughes Tool Co. loan to Donald Nixon, brother of Richard Nixon, during Richard Nixon's vice presidency. The propriety of Nixon's loan has been sharply questioned by the press and Nixon's critics.

And Buserud injected the issue deeper into the campaign Saturday by wiring Gov. Brown to ask for further comments on questions put to Brown and Nixon by Herman H. Ridder, publisher of the Independent, Press-Telegram.

IN ANSWERING the Ridder question on "whether you believe loans by government contractors to public officials or members of the family are in the public interest," Brown replied:

"Elected officials are not only policy makers for government, they are trustees for the highly ethical standards which are vital to a life of a democracy. As such their actions must not only be above reproach, but beyond question."

In a wire to Brown, Buserud pointed out that a bank holding a state deposit is a state government contractor. Buserud called on Brown either to publicly condemn Betts' transaction or to repudiate his statement to Ridder.

IN ANSWER to an earlier Buserud request for a state investigation on Betts' transaction, Brown had said he had no intention of being drawn into an argument "between candidates for other state offices."

A Buserud spokesman has pointed out that national banks are forbidden by law to make loans for the purchase of the bank's capital stock where that stock is used as collateral for the loan.

Buserud did not charge, however, that the Betts stock was used for collateral. "If not illegal," said Buserud, "the state treasurer's actions are highly unethical."

The San Francisco Examiner, a newspaper that has endorsed Brown, has criticized Betts for "plain, bad judgment" in the loan stock purchase deal. The Examiner announced today it would support Buserud for treasurer.

Deputy Treasurer Richard C. Munden, denied any wrong doing by Betts, though confirmed that Betts made $697 profit in eight months on the bank stock transaction. Betts borrowed the money from Central Valley National Bank of Oakland to buy 200 shares of stock on July 20, 1960. The stock, purchased for $6,400, was sold eight months later for the profit. The state had $3,800,000 deposit in the bank in 1960.

As to Buserud's conflict of interest charge, Munden replied that the state's deposit in the bank remained the same during the period of the loan.

"IN FACT, there was a reduction in state deposit three months before he bought the stock," Munden said. Munden also declared that Betts' stock was only five one hundredths of one per cent of the bank stock. The law allows a state officer this for up to 3 per cent invested in a firm without conflict of interest.

The Oakland loan and stock purchase deal stirred up the hottest controversy in the treasurer campaign.

EARLIER, HOWEVER, Buserud had charged that some of Betts' campaign contributions were from officers and directors of banks with state deposits. Munden replied that bank officials also had contributed to Buserud's campaign and asserted: "That works both ways."

Previously Buserud blasted Betts for the actions of two past lieutenants. He charged that former Assistant Treasurer Lee Feidrich and present Assistant Treasurer Santino D. Meo owned promotional stock in Growth, Inc., an investment firm that has holdings in three banks.

Betts replied that two of the three banks have no state investments. The third, the Bank of Trade, was the first locally owned bank to open in San Francisco in 33 years.

"FOR THAT REASON we deposited $100,000 in the Bank of Trade. That amount represents only five one hundredths of one per cent of the amount above for deposit in banks," Betts said.

Munden accused Buserud of telling half truths about Growth, Inc. He asserted that Buserud failed to point out that most of the Growth, Inc. holdings are in real estate, not banks.

"All are matters of public record. If anything were wrong that would be a strange place to hide it," Munden declared.

Mosk Tells Trainmen He Feels Certain of Victory

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk told a union group here Saturday night a total turnout at the polls "would dramatically show the world that our system of government is truly by, for and of the people."

Mosk's appearance at a dinner meeting of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen in the Lafayette Hotel was a prelude to a special "Mosk Day in Long Beach" Monday.

The attorney general told the trainmen that whatever the size of the turnout, he is confident that Gov. Brown "and a host of other Democrats will be re-elected and elected" because Democrats "have given the state the type of government that serves the state best because it serves no group to the detriment of any other."

William A. Williams, area chairman of Mosk's campaign, said Mosk will make a major political address Monday noon in the California Room of the Breakers International. Tickets will be available at the door for a $5 contribution.

Other stops: 2:30 p.m., a coffee hour at Hody's Restaurant, Lakewood; 4 p.m., greet employees at Douglas Aircraft plant; 6:30 p.m., greet members at Elks Lodge 888, 4104 E. Willow St.

NELLIE FOR GEORGE

Mrs. Nellie Combella has announced her support for George Deukmejian, Republican nominee for Assembly in the East Long Beach Signal Hill 39th District. She ascribed her endorsement to conviction that Deukmejian has qualifications to deal with state problems, as opposed to handling local affairs and to his close legislative contact with retiring Assemblyman Bill Grant, who also has endorsed him.

JOHOVICH PLAN

Democratic nominee for Congress in the Long Beach area 32nd District, announced Saturday a "town hall representation" plan he would implement if elected.

He said he would establish a citizens' advisory committee to give every precinct in the district a direct line of communication with their congressman, through a precinct leader, Representatives of major areas of interest and industry would be chosen by citizens in each area. He said business, shipping, industry, Navy installations, teachers, civil service workers and labor organizations, all would have an advisory voice in congressional representation. Precinct leaders would poll their areas on important issues, he said.

Brown Plays GOP for 'Near-Treason'

By BILL SUMNER
I, P-T Capital Bureau

WASHINGTON—Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California chastised the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee Saturday for a statement he said "borders on treason."

The committee had described President Kennedy's action in the Cuban crisis as a political gesture aimed at winning votes next month on a situation that "had been known for months" — the presence of Soviet offensive missiles in Cuba.

Brown, here for a meeting of the Governors' Conference Committee on Civil Defense, said, "The President did the right thing and at the right time."

HE CALLED the Republican statement shocking, "the most irresponsible statement I have ever heard in my political life . . . if you had heard the briefing today by John McCone."

McCone, CIA head, and others briefed the governors' committee on the Cuban situation and they also had a half-hour conference with the President on civil-defense matters.

But if Brown found the Republican statement shocking, he was not about to forget the California campaign he is waging and his opponent, former Vice President Richard Nixon.

"I think," he said, "you'd all be shocked by the kind of campaign" he is conducting.

HE SAID Nixon had carried on a campaign of accusing Brown of being a Communist but "in the very clever Nixon way. They are trying to prove I'm a very dangerous American."

Brown said he had heard Nixon on television and that he had "called me a Red appeaser. The other pieces are more subtle, on the Murray Chotiner form. But just as vile."

Brown said he had reduced the extent of his California campaign and had asked Nixon to do the same, to no

De Gaulle Faces Test in Stay-or Quit Vote

PARIS (AP)—President De Gaulle faces his stiffest test yet in a national referendum today when the French people will say, in effect, whether they want him to serve out his term.

About 25 million French voters will give their verdict on his administration with ballots on De Gaulle's proposed constitutional amendment for direct election of his successors.

De Gaulle himself has altered the issue by proclaiming he will resign if the proposal is beaten, or if it wins only by what he calls a "vague and doubtful" majority.

'Interception' Defined for K

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Saturday defined the "interception area" for the Cuban blockade as covering waters from northern Florida to the northern tip of South America and from the center of the Gulf of Mexico to the eastern tip of Puerto Rico.

The information was given to acting U.N. Secretary General U Thant by Ambassador Adlai Stevenson for possible relay to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Khrushchev, responding to an appeal from Thant, has stated that for a temporary period Soviet vessels will stay out of the blockade area in order to avoid any clash with U.S. warships.

PRESIDENT Kennedy has also told Thant the United States would not seek any confrontation if Soviet ships stayed clear of the blockade.

The note which Stevenson gave to Thant, according to the State Department, said:

"My government has instructed me to inform you that 'interception area' referred to in your letter of Oct. 25 to the President of the United States and in his reply of Oct. 26 comprises (A) the area included within a circle with its center at Havana and a radius of 500 nautical miles and (B) the area included within a circle with its center at Cape Maysi, located at the eastern tip of the island of Cuba, and a radius of 500 nautical miles.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Montgomery County, Maryland, leads the nation's 3,072 counties in median family income in figures released Saturday by the U.S. Census Bureau.

The bureau's county and city data book, containing statistics gathered in the 1960 census, showed that the median income of Montgomery County families was $9,317.

SECOND highest was Los Alamos, New Mexico, site of government nuclear-bomb testing, with a median family income of $9,269. Third and fourth were Arlington and Fairfax counties, Virginia, $8,670; 4 — Fairfax, containing, like Maryland's Montgomery County, the homes of many federal office workers in Washington, D.C. son, Kansas, 8,161; 8—Marin, Arlington's median family in-

Richardson Issues Cry of 'Smear'

SANTA BARBARA (AP)—Dr. Ralph Richardson Saturday accused his opponent for state superintendent of public instruction, Dr. Max Rafferty, of running a campaign "of scurrility and smears unequaled in California history."

Richardson called Rafferty "the Mickey Spillane of education."

He asked the sixth annual leadership conference of the Affiliated Teachers Organizations of Los Angeles:

"Do the people of California wish to place in Sacramento a man with a willingness to have textbook selection influenced by groups like the John Birch Society?"

HE SAID well-financed right-wing forces are spreading distortions "about my candidacy which would be ludicrous if they weren't so scurrilous."

Richardson said some literature put out by Rafferty supporters "even goes so far as to question my loyalty . . . because I voted with the majority of the Los Angeles City School Board against an Americanism desk."

He said this would have been an office "solely to snoop into the loyalty and integrity of teachers" and that the board rejected it as smacking of a police state.

NO HANGOVER AT SEATTLE

World's Fair Not Only Money Maker, Buildings to Remain

By BETTY HOPPER
SEATTLE (AP) — The hideous mornings after of an almost unbroken line of world's fairs seemingly would cause any sane promoter to take the pledge: never again.

Generally there are tons of litter to clean up, financial disaster to be faced and a lot of weird-shaped buildings for which no one has any use now that the ball is over, buildings of tomorrow that are torn down before tomorrow ever comes.

But the Seattle World's Fair vowed from the start it would be different. And, by golly now that it has closed, it was.

For one, it was a financial success. That alone is enough to insure it a corner in history but there's more. Its buildings are going to stay upright, giving Seattle a legacy that includes:

A $50 MILLION civic center with an opera house acclaimed for its acoustical excellence and beauty and an 18,000-seat coliseum.

A $10 million, six-building complex that will become a science center.

The country's first commercial-sized monorail that could be the forerunner of a system to alleviate urban traffic.

The Space Needle, a 607-foot steel-legged tripod crowned with a revolving restaurant.

THERE ARE less visible but equally admirable results:

The fair, keyed to the 21st century, created a reservoir of goodwill and understanding between the 55 visiting nations and the 9 million fairgoers. Representatives of the foreign countries were unanimous in their description of the fair's success as "beyond all expectations."

The Pacific northwest, Alaska and western Canada reaped a harvest of additional tourist dollars. Washington expected to collect $20-$25 million in taxes alone. Tourism in Alaska rose 20 per cent over 1961 and British Columbia anticipated a $50 million tourist haul.

NO PROJECT of such scope finishes with only hilt in the boxscore and the Fair had its share of errors.

The biggest mistake and one that had wide-reaching consequences concerned housing. A pre-fair survey estimated attendance at 9.2 million — a figure that started Fair officials campaigning for housing facilities. Rumors of a housing shortage spread.

The shortage didn't materialize. The pre-Fair attendance estimate was remarkably accurate but many visitors stayed with friends or relatives or were repeats.

THE miscalculation on housing led indirectly to the collapse of a fair-en-couraged motel-trailer operation and the fair spent $105,000 to refund advance payments and to provide places for visitors en route when the enterprise folded.

Of three cruise ships brought here to serve as floating hotels, two lost money on the venture.

The need for parking, too, was overestimated. Owners, who started charging $2.50 per day, soon dropped their prices to $1.50 and by September the fee was lowered to 75 cents at many lots.

THE SUCCESS of the monorail was partially responsible for the parking surplus. The two elevated trains whisked more than six million passengers over the one-half mile route to the city's center in 106 seconds.

On the fairgrounds itself, the biggest surprise was the failure of Show Street, the Fair's "nice but nude" show. The closure of one girlie show by Fair officials, who decided it was too much girl and too little show, brought unfavorable publicity. Show Street wasn't a flop because science outdrew sex, one entrepreneur insisted, but because:

"This was a family fair and if you've got the family tagging along you don't go to Show Street."

SOME privately financed foreign shops did less business than they had expected and a few concessionaires said they would be lucky to break even.

But the hits far outweighed the misses.

The Fair had a whopping 3.9 million advance ticket sale and sold the nine millionth admission in early September.

The 550 underwriters, who pledged $5 million in the early days to give the Fair a sound financial start, were repaid three months ahead of schedule.

On Sept. 17 the Fair paid Alwac International $4.5 million for the monorail which the Swedish company had installed at its own risk.

ATTENDANCE at the exhibits was much higher than anticipated. Seventy per cent of the Fairgoers toured the U. S. Science Pavilion. The British exhibit attracted nearly half the visitors.

More than two million saw Washington state's "World of Tomorrow" theme exhibit. Huge lines formed outside the National Aeronautics and Space Administration building as Fairgoers waited to see films of the flights made by America's astronauts or to inspect the Friendship VII capsule flown by John Glenn. Culture was a big hit, drawing 2 million persons to see performing arts.

That the effort was worth the price is evidenced by the hundreds of letters received from Fairgoers.

Students March for 1-A Monday

Thousands of college students will ring Southland doorbells Monday in a campaign for passage of Proposition 1-A, the higher education bond issue on the Nov. 6 ballot.

Students at both Long Beach and Orange County state colleges will participate in campus rallies before marching through the areas distributing information on the ballot measure.

Junior colleges have been invited to join the statewide "Students' March for Proposition 1-A."

Nancy Ohara, chairman of the LBSC Students for 1-A, said that the door-to-door drive will follow a noon rally. A faculty and staff organization will donate a trophy to the student group most effective in publicizing the measure.

IN PREPARATION for the campaign, LBSC fraternities have distributed 7,000 bumper strips and have manned information booths on campus.

plan," the presidential proclamation said.

Twenty-five Long Beach State student groups have endorsed the proposal in formal resolutions. The student body also has conducted a campaign to obtain endorsements from community organizations.

AT ORANGE State College, 14 groups will compete in contacting voters. Theme of the drive, which will start after a noon rally, is "Keep College Doors Open by Voting Yes."

UCLA, Los Angeles State and other colleges will stage marches in their campus communities and adjacent areas.

Three major buildings at LBSC would be financed by the passage of the proposition. More than $10 million in construction at Orange State College awaits its approval.

JFK Wins First Round in Test of Wills

By HARRY SHARPE
WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy engaged Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in a world-shaking test of wills last week and won temporarily, at least.

He tossed down the gauge of nuclear war with a naval blockade of Communist puppet Fidel Castro's Cuba where 5,000 Khrushchev "technicians" had built at least 10 nuclear missile bases which could lay to waste much of North and South America.

U.S. reconnaissance planes provided indisputable photographic proof that the bases were "on the ready" and that others were being built. At least 30 missiles, some on launches, were observed.

The President told Khrushchev for all the world to hear that America's full nuclear might would be dumped on Russia if a single missile were rocketed from Cuba. And he gave Khrushchev and Castro only a limited time to dismantle the bases which he said would not be tolerated in this hemisphere. This hinted strongly at a U.S. invasion or decimation of the bases with bombs if there was any stalling.

At a late hour Friday, the White House said Moscow had ignored Kennedy's warning, was rushing work "at a fast pace" on the bases and was trying desperately to camouflage some of them.

The State Department made it crystal clear that the blockade was only one part of the over-all U.S. blueprint. A spokesman recalled a presidential warning that should offensive preparations continue in Cuba, "further action will be justified."

KHRUSHCHEV, who is used to pushing nations around, replied with angry retaliatory threats. But he also declared somewhat conciliatorily that Russia would not be "provoked" into war and said it was time for a summit meeting. Kennedy, however, made clear that this was a dead issue until the bases vanished from Cuban soil.

The blockade was highly effective. Twelve Soviet ships which Khrushchev had ordered to run it, even at the risk of sinking, suddenly changed course. A tanker carrying oil was allowed to proceed unmolested as was another Soviet-chartered vessel flying the Lebanese flag. Americans, though anxious of the outcome, were glad that someone had finally called Khrushchev's hand. Many areas began laying in food stocks and pin-pointing atomic fallout shelters.

U.S. and Allied armed forces everywhere were alerted for "any eventuality." Khrushchev and the Iron Curtain bloc took like precautions. A mighty U.S. military force was building up in Key West, Fla., 90 miles from Cuba. Castro also issued a call to arms. Alarmed members of the United Nations pleaded for peace. Secretary General U Thant offered mediation, suggesting Kennedy end the blockade and Khrushchev cease sending weapons to Castro while they negotiate.

Khrushchev quickly agreed. But the Presidents implacable price was swift dismantling of the bases. He accepted Thant's proposal for talks, and directed U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson to represent him. But the White House said with finality that the blockade cordon would encircle Cuba as long as Soviet ships headed for the island.

These were only a smattering of highlights in a turn of events that hit the world like a gigantic thunderclap.

It was a march to the brink of war much more realistic than Khrushchev had contrived in the past. The President did not shun it. He said the welfare of all humanity was at stake. The essence of his words was that the presence of Soviet missiles in Cuba—the first installed outside Russian territory—was equivalent to Hitler's unimpeded march into the Rhineland 25 years ago. But this time the threat was met, even at the risk of war. The President's ultimatum apparently disrupted a shrewd Khrushchev time-table for forcing the Allies from Berlin. Allied sources said he was playing for a lull in East-West tensions that would keep the West guessing on Berlin while Cuba was turned into an offensive nuclear base. Once this was achieved, he would demand a summit meeting and use the bases as a bargaining weapon to compel the West to accept Moscow's terms on Berlin.

Kennedy took note of this in a sombre nationwide radio-television address on Khrushchev's perfidy. In it he warned the Russians that any overt Soviet action in Berlin also would bring swift retaliation.

But the presence in Cuba of Soviet missiles zeroed in on American cities remained the heart of the crisis.

The President stayed at his desk for long hours, keeping in close touch with developments and conferring with a special executive committee of his National Security Council.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan branded the missile buildup "a deliberate Soviet adventure designed to test the ability and determination of the U.S."

He warned that there must be firm solidarity of purpose among the Allies.

Ambassador Stevenson submitted to the U.N. Security Council a U.S. resolution demanding immediate removal of the Cuban bases. There snapped, "to wait until hell followed a dramatic exchange of freezes over for your answer."

Zorin, parrotting Khrushchev and Gromyko, charged the pictures were fakes. Stevenson offered to accompany him to Cuba to prove otherwise.

In submitting the resolution, Stevenson had said: "The crucial fact is that Cuba has given the Soviet union a bridgehead and staging area in this hemisphere—that it has invited an extra-continental, anti-democratic and expansionist power into the bosom of the American family—that it has made itself an accomplice in the Communist enterprise of world dominion. It isn't a private struggle; it's a world civil war—a contest between the pluralistic world and the monolithic world."

In Havana, Castro who betrayed his anti-Batista revolution into Moscow's hands, warned that any U.N. inspection team coming to Cuba must be prepared to fight. He also denied existence of the bases.

Kennedy asked congressional leaders of both parties to remain on instant call.

Chinese Press on in India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A 10,000-man Chinese invasion force was reported driving down a jeep trail from Towang Saturday in a possible effort to break through the eastern Himalayas into India's thickly populated plains of Assam.

Outnumbered and outgunned Indian troops were putting up stiffer resistance after a week of heavy fighting, a Defense Ministry spokesman said, but two more Indian positions were overwhelmed.

PRIME MINISTER Nehru, whose government has proclaimed a state of national emergency, told a delegation of 48 members of his Congress Party, India is making arrangements to match Communist firepower with arms from abroad.

He said he had written to all nations, except South Africa and Portugal, with whom India has no diplomatic relations, explaining his refusal to enter cease-fire negotiations with the Red Chinese unless they pull back to their positions of Sept. 8.

over western Cuba. This is the section where the Russian missile bases are located.

Cuban Premier Fidel Castro then declared that his country's guns would open up on any plane that violated Cuban air space.

The Defense Department said, however, that "any interference with surveillance of the Caribbean Island will meet counter-action and surveillance will be enforced."

The United States said in effect that it had a right to conduct these aerial inspections.

McNAMARA'S STATEMENT said that "such surveillance operations were in accordance with the resolution adopted on Oct. 23, 1962 (last Monday) by the Organ of Consultation of the Inter-American System under the provisions of the Rio Treaty of 1947."

This was the decision taken by the Organization of American States last Tuesday when it approved the U.S. blockade.

Sylvester said the reservists would come from 20 states but he gave no details of the specific units to be ordered to active duty.

He said the states involved were Massachusetts, Utah, Ohio, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, New York, California, Oregon, Michigan, Oklahoma, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Washington, New Jersey, South Carolina, North Carolina and Texas.

The callup which applied to reserves only and not to National Guard units, was issued on the authority of an executive order by President Kennedy Tuesday. The order implemented the "fight if we must" Congressional resolution of Oct. 3. This authorized the President until next Feb. 28 to order persons of the ready reserve to active duty for up to 12 months.

The resolution carried a clause which prohibits calling members of the armed services who were involuntarily ordered to active duty or whose active duty period was extended in August, 1961, during the Berlin crisis.

tivated in a new crisis. Since there are about 45 such squadrons in the U.S., according to Maj. Leebrick, and "about 20" were pulled in then, it's the 452nd's turn.

Besides the 452nd, the only other reserve squadrons in California are in the 349th Wing at Hamilton Air Force Base, which also has four squadrons.

MAJ. LEEBRICK said there are about 3,000 men in the 452nd, of whom approximately 200 live in Long Beach.

The 452nd used to be stationed in Long Beach. It was the first wing to be called up at the outbreak of the Korean War. Then, it was a bomb wing (light).

K's Turkey Offer Rapped by Nixon

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Richard M. Nixon Saturday night fully endorsed President Kennedy's "strong action" in Cuba, and urged rejection of a Soviet proposal to dismantle Cuban missiles if the United States gave up its bases in Turkey.

To give up bases in Turkey would mean destroying the "anchor of NATO," said Nixon in a televised speech. He seconded the President's announced decision to turn down the Russian offer, which he likened to a "horse for a rabbit" trade that would severely hamper the United States and free world.

Nixon, the Republican candidate for governor, delivered what he termed a major non-political speech to stress that he was speaking "as an American citizen speaking out in support of the President."

HE SAID that in declaring the quarantine of Cuba because of offensive missile bases there, the President took the "only action possible in the interest of the United States and the cause of freedom."

Not to act, said the former vice president, could have led to a "greater risk—war or surrender or both."

Nixon, describing Soviet Premier Khrushchev as a "coldly objective" man who would weigh all the risks "before he presses the button," said the United States in Cuba had to consider the possibility the offensive missiles might fall under the control of Fidel Castro.

CASTRO is a "hot-blooded maniac" who might take a chance in a moment of impulse of touching off a war. He said he was confident "Mr. Khrushchev is not going to risk Moscow to save Havana."

In the instance of Turkey, Nixon said there was no analogy with Cuba in the current situation. Cuba is a Communist satellite controlled by Moscow and the missile bases provide the basis of a bridgehead into the Americas, he said.

"If we should abandon Turkey, our friends in the Near East and our allies in the free world would feel let down and would feel they would go on the bargaining table whenever America is threatened," said Nixon.

HE CALLED for the support of the President by all Americans, and urged Americans not to panic or show fear.

"I believe the action in Cuba was necessary," said Nixon. "That action is reducing the possibility of war, rather than increasing it."

Although his speech was billed as non-political, he recalled that two instances during the Eisenhower administration—regarding Lebanon and the Quemoy-Matsu Islands—where his former chief took "action similar" to that of Kennedy.

"By standing firm against aggression, there was no war and no surrender," said Nixon.

Cuba Guards Coasts

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's regime continued to temper this nation for an invasion Saturday by stringing army and militia units along Cuba's 2,500 miles of coastline. Women with colorful knitted sweaters over their militia uniforms stood guard in a brisk wind in Havana.

Heavy movements were reported on the nation's main highways. In most provinces gasoline sales were limited to armed forces personnel, government officials and doctors, travelers reported. In Havana, two gallons of gasoline were allotted to a customer.

3,000 Picket JFK

WASHINGTON — While the President kept himself occupied Saturday with conferences and decisions of a life-and-death nature, 3,000 people paraded up and down in front of the White House offering advice.

Their counsel differed. Eggs were thrown at one point to further heighten the difference of opinion.

From colleges throughout the East and Midwest, young people offered such advice as: "Peace is the only shelter."

They marched up and down the wide sidewalk in front of the White House, bearing signs and passing out information. With the temperature in the mid-30s, cheeks were pink, breath came out in steam. The pickets were dressed for winter and if you had seen them in any other circumstance you might think they were filing into one of the great football stadiums for less serious pursuits.

Crowd at U.N.

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than 2,000 shouting demonstrators paraded in front of the United Nations Saturday in an outpouring of feeling over the Cuban crisis that was so disorganized that it was difficult to tell who was protesting what.

Despite the differing political views represented — from one end of the spectrum to the other—police reported there had been no incidents in the five-block-long milling crowd.

Scuffle in S.F.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A brief scuffle broke out at Civic Center Plaza Saturday as opposing groups demonstrated over the U.S. quarantine of Cuba.

About 1,200 persons heard actor Sterling Hayden and other speakers denounce the quarantine, while at the other end of the plaza 500 persons listened to other speakers voice support of President Kennedy's action.

Several of the anti-quarantine demonstrations, carrying signs, moved into the opposing rally. They were pushed back, but no blows were struck.

Muscovites Ired

MOSCOW (UPI)—More than 3,000 shouting, whistling Russians demonstrated for 3½ hours outside the U.S. Embassy here Saturday protesting the blockade of Cuba. The demonstrators hurled ink bottles and rocks that smashed three windows of the 10-story embassy.

"Give us the ambassador, give us the ambassador," shouted the throng in a demand to speak to the new U.S. envoy to Moscow, Foy D. Kohler. But Kohler, who was out on a call at the time, returned to his residence instead of the embassy.

An embassy source said that apart from the broken windows, the only other damage was "one or two ink spots on the building and a few scratches on cars parked in front of the embassy."

Britons Arrested

LONDON (UPI) — Police arrested hundreds of Britons demonstrating against the U.S. blockade of Cuba in half a dozen British cities Saturday. Police on foot and horseback battled pacifists in London, where one small demonstration also occurred outside the Soviet Embassy.

The London demonstrators tried to battle their way through heavily reinforced police to demonstrate in front of the prime minister's official residence and in front of the U.S. Embassy in Grosvenor Square but police beat them back in repeated charges.

ABYC Installs Kober, Awards Many Trophies

By DONNELL CULPEPPER
The Alamitos Bay Yacht Club had its 36th annual trophy dinner Saturday night at the Pacific Coast Club, installed Charles Kober as new commodore and passed out dozens of trophies, mostly to its own members.

In fact, the ABYC members did such a good job of defending their racing crowns that few other clubs got more than a mere glance at the various pieces of silverware. Kober replaced the retiring commodore, Thomas F. Knight Jr. Other top officers installed were Richard G. Hanson, rear commodore; John M. Davis, vice commodore; Llewellyn Bixby IV, secretary; John M. Davis, treasurer, and Earl Arnold, port captain.

All of those, with the exception of McCord, Jager, Snipe and Coon were ABYC members. McCord represented

King Harbor Yacht Club; Jager and Coon, Newport Harbor YC.
The Labor Day Skimmer Class trophy, which was won by Bud Horton for the seventh consecutive time, was the original Press-Telegram trophy donated to the club in 1938.

OTHER ABYC members winning first places in the Memorial Day, Fourth of July, Labor Day, spring-summer series and summer fall series were the following:
Art: Glasier, Thistle; Charles Kober and Thornton Hamlin, Dragon; Barry Wood, Skimmer; Jim Galloway, Rick Russell, Dick Russell and Rod Ogilby, National; Jim Galloway, Victory; Alan Harder, Endeavor; Dale Berkinley and Arl Glasier, Lido 14A; Landon Parrill, John Wolf and Frank Shaffer, Lido 14B; Jerry Miller, Lido Jr.; Eric Conn, Pili Exley and Fred Beland, Lido 14C; Mike Crockett, Fred Tebbets and Larry Tiller, Penguin; John Gilchrist, Henry Schofield, Marvin McMahon and Paul Merrill, Sabot; Shawn Robin, Robin Durbin, Margaret Schofield and Gerald Desmond, Sabot; Tom Stewart, Shari Stewart and Jim Hunt, Sabot II.
OUTSIDERS TAKING first places were the following:
Willis Boyd and Pete Conant, Los Angeles YC, Dragon; John Lugh, M. B. Jager and Larry Coon, NBYC, Snipe; Robert Baker, Folsom Lake YC, Pacific Colmaran; Stan Miller and Barry Long Beach YC, Cal. 20; Robert Haldeman and J. F. George A. Hart Jr. was master of ceremonies and Bud Horton and William A. Steerist did a lot of talking out of handing out so many awards.
The club is looking forward to 1963 with more than unusual interest. It hopes to start a new clubhouse in the Long Beach Marina, which will give the Marina its second yacht club.

BLOOMING

Park Car, Place Coin in Tree Pot

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (AP)—The prosaic parking meter is blossoming with tree and flower planters along the main shopping areas of this Long Island town—but you still have to put money in them.

About 125 of the wrought-iron planters will be installed and the total of 306 will be reached as soon as possible, says Newell A. Lasher, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

"They make the district more esthetically pleasing to the shoppers," said Lasher, adding that local merchants — by adding a bit of beauty—hope to woo back customers now patronizing neighboring shopping centers.

The tastefully curved planters contain four-foot Christmas trees. Each tree has 25 twinkle-lights, which will be turned on Dec. 1 and stay on until New Year's Day. The planters also have holders for flags.

The trees will remain until March (without lights). Then artificial flowers will be installed. In August, these blooms will be replaced by an artificial fall foliage arrangement.

American Airlines Buys Jets for Cargo

NEW YORK (AP)—American Airlines has moved to step up its freight business, announcing purchase of $30 million in new equipment for delivery late next year and in early 1964.

G. Marion Sadler, general manager, said orders for four Boeing 707-323C jet freighters make American the first domestic airline to buy jets exclusively for cargo.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Republic Steel Corp. announced a major reorganization of its operating structure, which divides steel producing operations into three major sections.

Named to head the three sections were Harry L. Allen, vice president — operating staff services and customer relations; Charles W. Craven, vice president — flat roll operators, and Robert P. Carpenter, vice president — bar, alloy and pipe operations.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Sea Captains, Diplomats Now Are Barometers

By DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Business judgments suddenly depend less on statistics and economic indicators than they do on diplomats and sea captains.

The naval blockade around Cuba and the international tensions it brought now stand as the prime factors in trying to determine which way business is going.

Talk of inflation or deflation, tax cut or tax hike, boom or bust—all pivoted on the possibility of military encounters.

With the crisis still fresh, businessmen have had little time to act outwardly on it, however. Few even cared to guess as to what it will mean.

Only the stock market, which must try to anticipate important changes, reacted immediately. And the market's see-saw action indicated that even Wall Streeters had trouble agreeing on what's coming.

In this climate of international complexities, some important business happenings were only partially digested. These included excellent earnings reports by auto firms and continued zooming car sales, a dividend cut by Bethlehem Steel and a variety of general business indices that seemed to point on balance to a continued economic plateau.

THE CUBAN situation seemed to raise several possibilities:

1. A Korea-like, limited conflict somewhere in the world.
2. No U. S. fighting, but unrest and upheavals that could disrupt raw material supplies and world transportation-communication lines in general.
3. Little overt change, but a general heating-up of the cold war and a long period of nerves continuing taut.
4. A summit, or other, agreement markedly reducing tension.

The possibility of all-out war is generally ignored if only because few businessmen see any way to base plans on such a catastrophe.

The stock market seemed to bet heavily at one point on some combination of a Korea-type conflict and disruption of international communications.

Such defense issues as rails, aerospace, and steels shot upward while "peace stocks" like retail stores went down sharply. International oils, especially those with Near East links, also suffered at one point.

OTHER MARKETS, during the high tension Tuesday, reflected a similar mood. Foreign stock exchanges went lower. Commodity exchanges here and abroad vaulted on guesses that prices of food and materials would increase in the future. Gold bullion was in heavy demand from people preferring to hold it rather than paper money or securities.

When tension eased, all these extreme positions began moderating.

Businessmen generally declined guesses what might happen internationally. But they were less hesitant to talk about what would happen in a given circumstance—a Korea-like conflict, for instance.

They seemed agreed that business would and could perk up. There is ample productive capacity and work force to expand output in most yields quickly, they said.

A new inflationary spiral might begin, tax-cut talk and recession talk could quickly give way to plans for tax boosts and government controls.

But what if the whole crisis blows over? What would this mean to the economy?

Many analysts say the final effect on business might still be beneficial. A strong stand on Cuba, they say, gave the people a psychological boost that could translate itself into a more positive economy.

Many members of the National Association of Business Economists said that, the Cuban situation aside, they expect a mild and brief recession next year. But their president, William Butler of New York's Chase Manhattan Bank, said Cuba might well cancel that recession even though the situation does not become more acute.

Varied Groups Rally Support to Bus Plan

Representatives of labor, industry and public service are rallying behind Prop. 'Y' in the Nov. 6 election, the "Keep Our Buses Rolling Committee" announced today.

C. E. Scott, chairman and former area general manager of General Telephone Co., said that this support came in the light of the fact that many thousands of people are dependant upon our buses daily to get to their jobs.

Among those backing Prop. 'Y' are Jackson A. McGowen, vice president and general manager of the Aircraft Division of Douglas Aircraft Co.; Labor Leader Wayne J. Hull; Hospital Administrator Don Carner and John H. Kennedy, immediate past president of the Long Beach Postal Union.

PROF. 'Y' is a proposed charter amendment which will allow the City Council to levy up to five cents tax per $100 of assessed valuation each year, only if needed, to set up a transportation fund.

Purpose of the fund would be to help guarantee good bus service in the Long Beach area. City officials have indicated their belief that we may have a stoppage of bus service here shortly after the first of the year unless the city is able to financially help a private company or a non-profit corporation.

McGowen stressed the importance of a bus system to present and prospective employees and to their employees.

"Large numbers of our employees at Douglas depend upon public transportation to get to and from their jobs," he said. "The health and prosperity of Long Beach's economy require an adequate public transportation system and adoption of Prop. 'Y' is essential to keep the system functioning."

HULL, who besides being a well-known labor leader has been active on city economic and urban redevelopment committees, said that Prop. 'Y' is in the best interests of labor as well as others in the community.

"It provides the opportunity of bringing another private industry into the local transportation picture if the present company fails to improve its service," he said.

Carner, administrator of Memorial Hospital, said that "a very large number of our employees use the public bus system to go to and from work.

"A breakdown in our bus service would result in a critical problem for our employees as well as for tens of thousands of other workers throughout the city.

"Families of patients in the hospital also use public transportation in substantial numbers to come to the hospital. The economy of our city is dependent upon keeping the buses rolling. We are fortunate to have the opportunity to insure the upgrading of our bus system by voting 'yes' on Prop. 'Y' in the Nov. 6 election."

Arizona GOP Has 5 Million Little Problems

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona Republican chairman Richard Kleindienst has 5 million problems.

He mailed out 5 million stamps to loyal party members pushing GOP victory in 1962. He asked that the little blue stamps be placed on the front of any letters they write.

Kleindienst got a letter. The Post Office Department advised him such correspondence can be processed only if the stamps are on the back of the letters.

WORLD WAR II--TWENTY YEARS AFTER

Leyte Gulf, Where Jap Sea Power Was Scuttled

Editor's Note: This is the last in the series of articles recalling people and places, campaign victories and catastrophes in World War II.

By GEORGE C. FLOWERS

The greatest sea battle in the history of mankind opened on the murky morning of Oct. 23, 1944, in the Palawan Passage—a stretch of water in the South China sea that flanks the western side of the Philippine Islands. Two United States submarines, the Dace and Darter, were making a routine patrol of this Philippine flank when they chanced upon a Japanese fleet.

It was the armada of Admiral Kurita, northbound from Borneo and carrying one warhead of a four-pronged attack upon the invaders of Leyte.

The battle that ensued stretched 700 miles in one direction, nearly 500 miles in another. It was filled with chance and blunder, but when it was ended the American fleets had emasculated the Japanese, who were never able to attack by sea again.

THE JAPANESE were gambling with the strength they had summoned from their naval base in Singapore, and the last muscles of their home fleet.

Admiral Kurita's north-bound fleet planned to slice halfway through the Philippines when it had cleared the Palawan passage. On a southward course, an attack force under Admiral Nishimura steamed toward the Gulf of Leyte. From the north Admiral Ozawa led a third force toward the covering forces of the American navy.

FLUSHED OUT by the prowling submarines, Kurita's forces ran into heavy trouble when they were still 400 miles from Leyte.

The Dace and the Darter were sharpshooters. The Darter put five torpedoes in Kurita's flagship, the heavy cruiser Atago, at a range of 1,000 yards; it sank in 19 minutes as Kurita and his staff scrambled aboard the destroyer Kishinami.

The Dace hit the cruiser Maya with four torpedoes; it blew up and sank in four minutes. The Darter scored on the cruiser Takao; aflame and low in the water, it turned heel and lumbered back to base in Borneo.

THESE WERE heavy losses, but Kurita had his orders—conquer or die. He nailed his flag to the battleship Yamato and sailed on toward San Bernardino Strait, between Luzon and Samar. Now he crossed paths with Admiral Shima, southbound from the Pescadores and heading, on a long and looping course, into Leyte Bay to destroy the American fleet.

Under Admiral Bull Halsey, the great American Third fleet lay on the east side of the Philippines, fanned out as a protective covering for the forces invading Leyte.

RADIO alerts from the Dace and the Darter, supplemented by the submarine Guittaro which also got a glimpse of Kurita's attackers, alerted Halsey on the sunny morning of Oct. 24.

It was bad timing for Halsey. He had just dispatched Vice-Admiral John McCain's huge task force back to Ulithi for rest and supplies. But he had lots of muscle left, including three task forces strewn over a 300-mile front.

AT 7:46 A.M. Lt. (J.G.) Max Adams, flying a Helldiver, spotted Kurita's fleet. Halsey sounded an alert that was heard all the way back in Washington, D.C.

McCain, 600 miles in the wrong direction, was wheeled about 180 degrees. The Third Fleet's task forces were pulled in tight toward San Bernardino Strait, to meet and destroy Kurita.

AMID THE TENSION Halsey was caught by surprise. Admiral Nishimura's task force was sighted at 8:20 a.m. by planes from the carrier Enterprise.

They flew to the attack, damaging the battleships Fuso and Yamashiro. But this arm of the Jap attack was undaunted, steaming steadily eastward for Leyte. The third and fourth arms of the Jap attack were yet to be discovered.

AS THE JAP task forces drove toward Leyte, they came within the covering range of their land-bound air forces. These Jap aircraft launched a deadly attack on the American ships. The carrier Princeton was set afire. Fighting off these Jap air assaults, the American task forces continued to full-steam for San Bernardino Straits.

ADMIRAL KURITA'S force, doggedly moving east through the middle of the Philippines, was put under vicious attack by American planes at 10:25 a.m.

American pilots couldn't believe their eyes. Before them were the two largest battleships of the world—the Yamato and the Musashi. These 69,500 monsters, almost mythical creatures to the western world, headed an armada of five battleships, 12 cruisers and 15 destroyers.

The mighty Musashi was an early casualty, bleeding oil from a torpedo hit, but she kept her 27-knot speed. Two more bombs, another torpedo, and she began to trail the fleet. Four bombs and three torpedo hits later her bow was knifing under the water, her speed down to 10 knots. At 3 p.m. Kurita ordered her out of the fight.

AS THE MUSASHI turned to leave, 10 more bombs and four torpedoes struck her and she was a dying ship.

The Yamato was hit, too, but not as hard or as often. But Kurita had enough. At 3:30 p.m. he reversed his course.

ABOARD the New Jersey, Bull Halsey pondered the facts at his hand. Where were the Jap carriers?

He fanned out search planes. At 4:40 p.m. they found Admiral Ozawa's task force, to the north.

Ozawa's secret orders were to decoy Halsey away from Leyte. At 7:50 p.m. Halsey took the bait. He ordered three task groups northward to attack Ozawa in the morning.

SO CONVINCED was Halsey that the Jap strength was north, he left San Bernardino Straits unguarded—not even by submarine patrols. But, with the third fleet gone north to chase a will-o-the-wisp, Admiral Kincaid's Seventh Fleet still lay in the Gulf of Leyte, protecting the American invaders.

Admiral Nishimura's task force, which had paralleled Kurita but run south of him, and Admiral Shima's force (on the long, looping course) sailed close to the gulf of Leyte as the night fell.

AT 11 P.M. American PT boats picked up these new assaulters on radar. They engaged the new Jap force just long enough to identify it, then ran for cover.

Nishimura, close now to his goal, pressed on. Next he ran into a wave of American destroyers, and they turned the wrath of war on him in full measure.

When his flagship, the Tashamiro, was hit by a torpedo, Nishimura vanished with her—but not before he ordered the rest of his force onward. The battleship Fuso now led the way.

PEARL HARBOR WAS avenged in the next hour. While Halsey's modern greyhounds were off baying at the moon, six old battleships of the American fleet—every one raised from the mud of Pearl Harbor—lay in wait for the Japs.

Under their vengeful broadsides, the Jap battleships Fuso and Mogami burst into fire, reeled about helplessly and died in the dawn.

STEAMING full blast behind Nishimura came Admiral Shima. He encountered the destroyer Shigure, last surviving ship of Nishimura's armada, but her only signal was that "I have rudder trouble."

Shima drove straight into the graveyard of Nishimura's fleet. All about him were dead and dying Japanese ships.

Abruptly, Shima reversed his course, heading for the Sulu Sea and escape.

NORTHWARD, Halsey had a field day. Admiral Ozawa—commanding carriers without planes—saw his forces decimated. He lost four carriers, a cruiser and two destroyers. That was the price the Japs paid to pull the Americans away.

Kurita, who fled the scene earlier, now returned. Off Samar he struck a weakened fleet headed by Admiral Kincaid. Baby carriers, destroyers hurl themselves on Kurita's forces—suicide missions. They slowed the attack, but they didn't stop it. Kurita abruptly reversed his course at 9:25 p.m., with a smashing victory in his grasp. He had lost tactical control of units, wanted them regrouped. He didn't know the big American force wasn't in front of him.

NOW Admiral McCain was back on the scene, now Bull Halsey was back from the north. On Oct. 25 and 26 the Americans mopped up. What was left of the Jap navy fled for Borneo—28 major fighting ships had been sunk. The Americans lost 2,803 lives, four major ships, and won the greatest naval battle in history.

Chest Massage Brings Life Back

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

CLEVELAND (AP)—The dead are being brought back to life in growing numbers by a simple method of pushing on the chest. Their hearts had stopped, and to a doctor this is clinical death.

In four more minutes, the brain can be damaged irrevocably from lack of oxygen. Healthy life can be restored if the heart is restarted within those precious moments.

Massaging the chest is proving an effective way of restarting hearts, and under ideal conditions in hospitals up to 40 per cent of persons dead from certain causes have been revived, Dr. Maurice Chassin of Maspeth, N.Y., reported Saturday.

THE CHANCES for second life can depend upon when and where you die—whether trained aid is available.

Chest massage has revived men keeling over from heart attacks, patients dying on the operating table, and victims of drowning and electrocution.

But medical, legal and even moral problems are involved. Dr. Chassin and other speakers told sessions of the American Heart Association.

Not just anyone can do the chest massage, Dr. Chassin warned. It must be carried out by well-trained doctors, nurses, or first-aid teams applying rhythmic pressure at the proper area of the chest.

FAULTY METHODS have fractured ribs, punctured lungs and lacerated the heart or liver, Dr. Chassin said.

The person who is seemingly dead may be only in a deep faint, and massage could be harmful, so there is a legal question, said Miss Helen Connors of the American Nurses Association, New York City.

Nurses are not licensed to make diagnoses, she pointed out, and the nurse who undertook chest massage might be held legally liable for any complications.

Rocket Puts Ionized-Belt Probe Aloft

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Explorer XV satellite rocketed into apparently successful orbit Saturday night to survey an artificial radiation belt created by a U.S. high-altitude nuclear explosion last summer.

The payload was shot aloft by a Thor-Delta rocket at 6:15 p.m. EST. More than an hour later, a project official told newsmen, "I see no reason why the satellite would not be in orbit."

The official, Robert Gray of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, reported that preliminary information indicated all three stages of the rocket performed as planned.

But he was reluctant to claim complete success until the satellite had completed one orbit of the globe. Because of the elliptic orbit that was sought, one circuit would take about 5 hours.

The 98-pound payload was aimed on a wide-looping course, ranging from 170 to 10,360 miles above the earth.

VITO ROMANS conducts American citizenship class at West Adult Center. Most of his students lived in countries ravaged by World War II. They are not easily scared by such things as the Cuban crisis.

THEY BACK KENNEDY

Prospective Citizens Firm

By GEORGE ROBESON

The members of a "little United Nations" in Long Beach are backing President Kennedy to the hilt in the current Cuban crisis. They are backing him with a studied optimism born of personal experience with war and communism, and an acute awareness of history.

They are 25 members of an American citizenship class, taught by Vito Romans, executive director of Downtown Long Beach Associates. The class at the West Adult Center, Pacific Coast Highway at Cedar Avenue, is part of the Long Beach School District's adult education program. Its members represent 16 countries.

THE MAJORITY of the students were under bombardment in World War II. They are not afraid today. But their optimism is not blind. They have reasons.

Here is 83-year-old Joseph C. Kremples, who was a bank director in Budapest. He left Hungary after the abortive anti-Communist revolt of 1956.

"Khrushchev will not start war over Cuba," he said. "He has Cuba to think about — but he must also think about Laos, Berlin, Viet Nam, India... he will not think of any one of these alone."

"The Communist tactic is to create much trouble — and then reap what you can."

ROMANS ASKED the class what they would do in President Kennedy's position.

"I would keep the blockade," said a young Italian. The rest of the class nodded agreement. Their opinions:

Russia is bluffing, and the bluff safely may be called. President Kennedy, in the past, has been poorly informed on developments in Cuba. Once informed, he acted wisely. Khrushchev must back down, but he must find a way to save face. The Monroe Doctrine is as important and meaningful now as in the 1820s, and should be enforced.

Kremples, the Hungarian refugee, believes the stand-up to the Communist threat may have come late.

"AMERICA should have stopped them in Hungary in 1956, but she did not. Then we allowed them to build up in Cuba. How is it possible to see everything and do nothing?"

An Italian student disagrees. The blockade was thrown up in time, he says. He believes Cuba has no nuclear warheads for its missiles. The Cuban dog, he maintains, can bark loudly, but cannot bite.

The rest of the free world now stands with the United States, the students agreed. If the world becomes a battleground, Russia and her satellites will stand alone — and she is not willing to force the issue alone.

VALERIE NORMAN, of London, said her homeland has suffered through a war that rained from the skies, and does not want another one — but England will fight beside the United States if war with the Soviet Union should explode.

"The people in England will gripe about war scares, of course," she said. "But they are on the U.S. side in any dispute with Russia."

Ecumenical Council Leans Toward Flexible Liturgy

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Despite the snail's pace, special council consultant on liturgy, told reporters current church thinking is to ease the system of "inflexible uniformity."

"THE CHURCH is moving into a new historical period," said Archbishop Karl J. Alter of Cincinnati.

The council still faces more work on its "schema" for re-vamping rules of ritual.

Communications, as well as other information gleaned about the closed sessions, suggested powerful backing for at least some relaxation in the presently fixed practices of the church.

L.B. System Keeps Students in Buildings

By ROBERT WILCOX

Southland school systems were still split today on the question of keeping the pupils or sending them home in a civil defense emergency. W. Odie Wright, superintendent of the Long Beach Unified District, restated the system's policy of keeping kindergarten through ninth grade pupils "within the buildings." "They will be released only to parents, guardians or older members of the immediate family," Wright said.

HOWEVER the Los Angeles City Board of Education announced two plans in case of alert. If the alert is followed by a "take cover" signal, indicating imminent attack, children will be kept at school to take cover under desks. If the alert indicates an hour or more of warning, children will be sent home. Wright said that in the current crisis, Long Beach teachers have been asked to review civil defense procedure with pupils in all classes. The district's program is being re-evaluated completely and drills are being stepped up at individual schools.

UNDER THE Long Beach program, in the event of an air raid signal at the school (three long rings of the bell), students will march to a place of maximum shelter within the buildings. These include hallways, auditoriums, bookrooms and other locations. Each of the shelter areas is located near a first-aid station with emergency supplies which include first aid kits, stretchers, blankets, water jugs and pans. A first aid station is provided for each 600 pupils. Although some of the staff members have been given other responsibilities, the majority of the teachers will remain with their pupils. In any event, proper supervision must be provided.

"WE MUST be ready to occupy the minds of the children and control their actions in order to assure discipline and avoid panic," says the district's instructions to personnel. "During the emergency period, the Red Cross or other civil defense authorities will be in touch with the principal for the purpose of giving direction or assistance," the instructions state. "Every effort shall be made to keep the pupils and personnel within the buildings until civil authorities are available to assist in the complex procedures of contacting parents."

IN THE EVENT of a no-warning attack, pupils are instructed to drop immediately to the floor at the sight of "a brilliant flash," shielding their faces and other exposed areas. The procedure has been practiced in all schools. Each school has at least two AM/FM radio receivers, one to be tuned to a CONELRAD station and other to be tuned to the school's radio station KLON for local civil defense information. Except for the question of keeping the children or sending them home, a policy which varies among the many Southland school districts, their civil defense precautions are nearly identical.

Shop Wisely, Not Wildly, in Buying Food for Civil Defense Emergency

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Stella George, writer of the following article, has been a teacher of Civil Defense with the Long Beach Board of Education.)

By STELLA GEORGE

It happened last week. A young housewife, mother of two, was ironing and listening to the radio. Suddenly, the announcer said something about having a two-weeks' supply of food on hand in case of emergency. Quickly, the woman unplugged the iron, turned off the radio, grabbed her handbag, and dashed to the bank. "I'm in a hurry," she told the cashier, as she withdrew $50 from a small savings account. "The news, you know. They said to buy groceries right away."

SHE DROVE to the supermarket. There she pushed a shopping cart up one aisle and down the other, filling it with every kind of canned food she found within easy reach. The canned tuna counter was nearly bare. The woman picked up canned crab and lobster and several cans of anchovies. When she finally stood in line to check out, she noticed the cart of the woman in back of her. Bottled water! The other woman saw her look of dismay. "They're all out of water. I got the last five bottles they had. Isn't it awful?"

THE YOUNG housewife paid the clerk, piled the groceries in her car, and headed for another market. They, too, were out of bottled water, but while there she filled a cart with more canned goods picked at random as she hurried up and down the aisles. Not only was there plenty of tuna, but it was on sale. She put 20 cans in the cart. She checked out, piled the groceries in her car, and sat for a moment, thinking. What had she forgotten? Coffee! That was it.

SHE LOCKED the car and went back into the store. She bought eight cans of were passed out to frantic citizens. The campaign to locate, mark and stock community fallout shelters was speeded up. Although many of the shelters remained unmarked over the weekend, Peterson said he expected all to be marked by the end of this week. So far, only four downtown locations have been supplied with food, he added, but the rest will be supplied as soon as the shipments arrive from the federal office.

EQUIPMENT FOR a 200-bed emergency hospital was shipped to the Veterans' Administration for storage until needed. Twenty-two more pieces of radiological detection equipment were distributed among the various fire departments in the city. Although all Civil Defense classes in medical self-help are filled now, applications are being taken for classes to begin in 30 days. At a meeting Friday with the city's department heads, who are the bulk of the city's Civil Defense organization, City Manager John Mansell expressed satisfaction with the progress made during the week.

"WE HAVE increased ability to meet the situation tremendously," Mansell said. "For the most part, our citizens have reacted in a calm and deliberate way that speaks well for the city and its CD organization." One of the problems of Civil Defense that frequently is misunderstood, according to Peterson, is the extent to which the government considers itself responsible for the welfare of its citizens in case of attack. "It should be remembered," he said, "that, in the final analysis, the ultimate responsibility for the safety of the citizen and his family lies with the citizen himself."

"THE GOVERNMENT, city, county, state and federal, only intend to make it as easy as possible for the citizen to save himself. But he must do it himself. "We have had calls from a few people who expect this office to make their preparations for them. This we cannot do. We can only advise them what they should do and hope they remember." Below is a rundown of civil defense status of area cities as surveyed by Independent, Press-Telegram correspondents:

Artesia CD in High Gear

ARTESIA — This community of 11,000 population moved its civil defense organization into high gear late last week. Already established through earlier planning were such matters as availability of hospital and medicinal facilities. The city is policed by the Lakewood Sheriff's Station which has a 10-day storage of foodstuffs and large amounts of medicinal supplies.

Compton Ready for Emergency

COMPTON — A well-detailed basic civil defense program is ready for any emergency, according to Assistant CD Director R. T. Graham. The city's 300 employees all have been assigned duties in event of an emergency. Many employees in state offices here also have civil defense assignments. All schools are ready to serve either as medical centers or for mass feeding. Compton City College would serve as an emergency medical center. Dominguez Hospital, only such large facility in the area, also is in readiness.

Lynwood Speeds CD Activity

LYNWOOD — Civilian defense activity here accelerated swiftly last week, local CD Director Jim Riley said. One hundred municipal employees, previously drilled in civil defense measures, have been put on a standby basis. Civil defense radio equipment, augmenting that privately owned by ham operators, has been out of order but repair work is being rushed, according to the Rev. Bert Reeder, CD radio chief here.

Lakewood's CD Program Set

Lakewood's three-year-old civil defense program needed little revamping during the past week. City Administrator Marshall Julian, who also serves as CD director, said the civil defense plan calls for full use of professional workers in the police and fire departments or those in public utilities, public works, communications and transportation. The Lakewood Sheriff's station is ready to operate as a fully-equipped command CIVIL DEFENSE supplies at City Hall were marked for distribution last week and distributed to points in the city. City Employee Sue Kato marks cartons.

Utilities Officials Tell What, What Not to Do

Municipal Gas Department and other utility officials have received thousands of inquiries about what to do in the event of a civil defense emergency. The following lists of "Do's" and "Don'ts" has been issued by the California Disaster office and approved by city defense officials.

WHEN WARNING IS GIVEN BEFORE DISASTER: Gas service: Don't shut off gas at the meter. You may need this for cooking, water heating and heating your home. If service is restored by untrained people, dangerous accumulations of gas may be released.

Do shut off individual gas appliances as if you were going out for the day. Electric service: Don't shut off your electricity. You may need it for your radio, clock or hot plate. Do shut off individual electric appliances. Water service: Don't shut off water service. You may need it for sanitation facilities or to put out small fires.

Don't draw quantities of water into bathtubs or other containers. This would only reduce pressure. Storage water heaters have enough supplies for drinking and cooking needs. WHEN YOU RETURN HOME AFTER DISASTER, IF ONE SHOULD OCCUR: Gas Service: Do shut off gas at the meter if house piping has been broken, or if strong odor of gas is present and leakage cannot be located.

Don't light matches or operate electric light switches or motors in areas where gas leakage is suspected. Electric service: Don't attempt to restore electric service if fuses blow or circuit breakers operate. Do get the service of your electric utility company if fuses blow or circuit breakers operate.

Water service: Do get the assistance of the Municipal Water Department if water main leaks are observed in the street. Do shut off water at house valve if house piping is broken.

A list of 39 fallout shelters approved by the City of Long Beach, and for which license agreements have been signed for use in event of emergency, was announced Saturday by Evar Peterson, assistant civil defense director. Each structure has a capacity of 50 or more persons. Each has a protection of 100 or more—meaning that the occupants will be at least 100 times safer there than outdoors.

Beach Combing

With Malcolm Epley

ALTHOUGH autumn has been officially with us for more than a month, its presence really strikes home with the change from DST to standard time. (You have adjusted to the clock, I hope.)

The seasons blend so easily in our region that I've always welcomed the time change as a sort of cut-off point, and for that rather unimportant reason disagree with some of my readers who advocate DST all-year.

There's something sort of nice about coming home in the twilight or after dark and seeing the welcoming lights (especially those in the kitchen.)

In some ways, autumn rates as the best season of the year—though its assets are not so apparent here as they were in the high country where I lived for a long time. Up there, the ducks as well as footballs begin flying in the fall of the year. The aspens turn to gold and the vine maple to brilliant red. There's a feel of excitement in the air as deer hunters go to their camps or return with the antlered game on fenders or trailers. There's busy pre-dawn traffic and breakfast rendezvous downtown as bird hunters head for the swamplands and the stubble fields. There's the harvest with its connotations of bounty and well-being. To an old-time high country man, all of this is warm nostalgia.

There are some fine things about autumn here, too. Haze that is not smog lies over the land and the fogs and occasional rains bring change from the old weather routine. The night scene is adorned with the lights at football fields and kids are busy everywhere, morning and evening. It's a pretty pleasant season, and it's nice to be in the middle of it.

PASSING by: Herb Klocksiem, veteran Long Beach public servant. For the first time in many years, there's an election coming up and Herb isn't in the thick of things as a candidate. I think he feels sort of lost. He's ready and willing, with a strong sense of community service, and he'd do a conscientious and thorough job in some responsible appointive or volunteer spot.

Herb served a long time before he finally lost an election in an Assembly race. As is natural in such cases, he probably feels that because of what happened, his efforts are not appreciated.

Hospital, MD List Prepared

I. P.T. Los Angeles Bureau

A master list of Los Angeles County doctors and major hospitals was distributed Saturday to all law enforcement and civil defense offices of the county.

The list includes the name, address, telephone number and specialty of all members of the Los Angeles County Medical Association.

It also includes hospitals, homes and related facilities with 100 beds or more licensed by the State Bureau of Hospitals with the name, address, licensed beds and type of facility.

Locations of 200-bed emergency hospitals in the county are in another section.

THE MASTER list was prepared by the Los Angeles County civil defense coordinator, Roy C. Hoover, with the cooperation of the medical association. Dr. Frank F. Schade, chairman of the medical association's committee of disaster medical care, said the list would be "of inestimable value in the medical and health management of a major disaster."

Doctors are listed alphabetically by cities, which in turn are divided into seven civil defense areas. About 8,000 doctors are listed.

Send Deukmejian to Sacramento With Joe Kennick

AN INCUMBENT OFFICIAL who has done a good job deserves re-election. That is a generally sound precept for political choices, and we are proud to apply it once again by supporting Joseph M. Kennick, Democrat, for re-election as 44th District Assemblyman.

Because of the experience and seniority of a good incumbent, only some unusual and persuasive reason should dictate his removal. No such reason exists in the case of Assemblyman Kennick. His opponent, Republican Wilbur R. (Bill) Richardson, is a good citizen and a pleasant person, but that fact just doesn't tip the scale.

Kennick has served two terms in the Assembly and proved an apt and effective student of the legislative art. He has established a solid record of legislative effort and legislative votes in behalf of Long Beach and Southern California. He has, moreover, ascended to the chairmanship of the powerful Manufacturing, Oil, and Mining Committee, a committee where Long Beach oil problems are frequently heard and where fair, impartial treatment is essential to local interests.

Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick is a valuable and outstanding legislator who deserves to be returned to Sacramento. We urge his re-election Nov. 6.

IN THE 39TH ASSEMBLY DISTRICT, voters must select a successor to Republican William S. Grant, who has retired. The Republican candidate, George Deukmejian, gets our support.

Deukmejian is a young lawyer with an extensive record of community service activities. He has always been closely identified with constructive activities in behalf of the area covered by the 39th District, and he is thoroughly familiar with problems and issues involving the state-community relationship. Because of this background he has received the endorsement of Grant, who enjoyed strong bi-partisan support throughout his long career as Assemblyman.

In supporting Deukmejian, we do not imply anything derogatory about his opponent, Councilman Bert Bond, a Democrat. Both are good men; by sending Mr. Deukmejian to Sacramento, and retaining Mr. Bond as Councilman, the public will receive the able services of both. We feel that for the Assembly position, Mr. Deukmejian has the edge in qualifications.

This being the case, another factor may be mentioned as important: The re-election of Democrat Joe Kennick and the election of Republican Deukmejian would preserve a bi-partisan balance which has proven most helpful to the entire community in the state Legislature.

We are most happy that Deukmejian happens to be a well-qualified candidate, worthy of being selected to round out such a bi-partisan delegation. We urge his election.

Rep. Gallagher Updates Record

By The I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Have you ever asked yourself why you said something foolish? And you'd give anything if the words could be taken back? And would you like to change all of that? Well, join the Congress. On Sept. 26, Rep. Neil Gallagher (D.N.J.) said, in debate: "The Monroe Doctrine has been amended by President Kennedy . . . It is no longer appropriate today." Gallagher, however, decided those weren't the right kind of words to go down in history. So, using the Congressional privilege of revising remarks, he made a slight change. As printed in the record, it now says that President Kennedy was "not retreating" and is firmly upholding the Monroe Doctrine.

IF YOU ARE WONDERING about a possible price and wage freeze to go along with the present crisis, the President has no authority without the approval of Congress. A blueprint for such action is ready, but the consensus is that it will not be required as yet.

VIOLIN VIRTUOSO ISAAC STERN performed Monday night before a sellout crowd at the State Department auditorium. But the hall was half empty when he started. Such was the feeling of crisis that ticket holders either stayed at home to watch the President on TV or, as in the case of a platoon of ambassadors who came in late, took part in the briefings of the evening.

WHILE THE CUBAN CRISIS deepened this past week, Washington society managed to keep a stiff upper lip. They had to be particularly stiff at a party held at the Russian embassy Tuesday night where one Lt. Gen. Vladimir A. Dubovik, in what was described later as an attempt at humor, loudly declared:

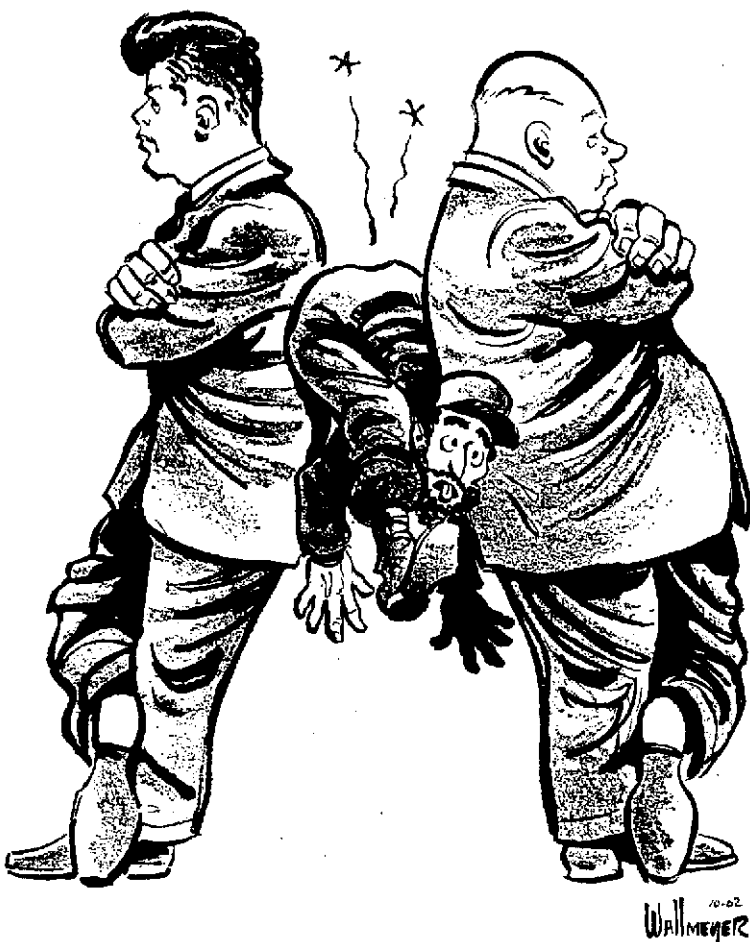

"I fought in three wars already and I am looking forward to fighting in the next."

This life of the party went on to boast: "I joined the revolution as a boy of 16. I was an officer at 18. I fought at Stalingrad and I was wounded two times. I await my orders. If I am to fight, then I fight. If my government says 'stay yourself,' then I will obey."

He refused to be shushed, then treated his outburst as a jest.

AN AMERICAN AMBASSADOR to an African country was in town recently and talking about some of the difficulties of plying his trade in that area of the world. All of his difficulties, he pointed out, are by no means created by the Africans. Some of them come from age-old budget problems. For instance, the State Department has run out of money for travel of its officials. Hence no one goes anywhere anymore. The ambassador said he had never met the U. S. ambassadors to the two countries immediately adjacent to his. "Can you imagine," he remarked, "an American firm having representatives over there and never having a regional sales managers' meeting?"

Blockade Decision Was Least Risky of Three Alternates

WASHINGTON—When Pentagon and State Department advisers sat down with President Kennedy to decide strategy on the Cuban missile buildup, they had three alternatives before them, all prepared at Kennedy's request by Joint Chiefs of Staff.

They were:

1. An invasion of Cuba. This had the advantage of surprise, and the fact that it could be accomplished, like the Berlin wall, before anyone had time to argue about it. But it also meant the risk of killing Russian personnel, and the President wanted to avoid such a provocation at all costs. The plan was rejected.

2. A bombing of the missile sites. This also had the advantage of surprise. It was argued that the missile sites could be put out of commission in a few hours. But again, Russian personnel manning the missiles would be killed. Also, world reaction would have been bad. The plan was rejected.

3. A naval blockade of Soviet arms. This lacked the advantage of surprise and gave the Russians time to prepare retaliation. However the effect on world opinion was considered much better, and also President Kennedy wanted to give the Russians time to consider the consequences. He decided on this alternative as least risky.

The only difficulty in regard to all three alternatives was they did not give Khrushchev any way to retreat yet save face. Knowing that he had problems with his own Red army and the diehard Stalinists, some kind of face-saver was considered. None could be devised.

There was only one disgruntled voice at the private meeting of congressional leaders with President Kennedy on the Cuban crisis.

House Republican Leader Charlie Halleck grumbled loudly over the inconvenience the White House summons had caused him, only to find that he had been called in to be notified, not consulted, about the Cuban decision.

"I was rushed out of Indiana by jet. I just came down from 35,000 feet. My ears are hurting," he complained. "What for? Only to find the decision already made."

He added a few purple words that can't be repeated here.

Other Republican leaders, however, raised only routine questions. The strongest suggestions were made by two Democratic senators: Armed Services Chairman Dick Russell of Georgia and Foreign Relations Chairman Bill Fulbright of Arkansas.

RUSSELL agreed with the President that it was time to stop Communist encroachment upon the West, but suggested that a weapons blockade of Cuba may not be drastic enough. He asked whether it would be more effective and less risky to invade Cuba and present Russia with an accomplished fact, as the Kremlin did when it sent Soviet troops and tanks to crush the Hungarian uprising.

"If the situation is as bad as those aerial photographs indicate," he asked, "do you think a quarantine is enough?"

He noted that the whole United States, particularly the South, was endangered, and that it might be better to eliminate the menace by an invasion.

Sen. Fulbright agreed that stopping Russian ships would be an irritant that might get us into war, whereas eradicating offensive missile bases would be more justifiable yet no greater risk.

Llewellyn Thompson, former ambassador to Moscow who is now advising the President on Soviet affairs, warned that Premier Khrushchev is an impulsive person who might react precipitously to any sudden, violent action such as an attack upon Russian personnel in Cuba.

The President explained tersely that he had already made the decision to impose an arms blockade but that it didn't preclude an invasion later if it should become necessary.

DAVID LAWRENCE

Nikita Won't Take Supreme Risk to Help Fidel Save Face

WASHINGTON—A war scare isn't always easy to deflate, but it isn't necessary to succumb to fears when indubitable facts point the other way.

For if there is one thing that is plain about the world situation today in contrast to any period in history, it is that a nuclear stalemate exists now which restrains the two major powers from destroying one another.

The two world wars of this century came about because there was no balance of power such as prevails today. One side—the Kaiser in 1914 and Hitler in 1939—was really in each instance stronger militarily than the other side. Also, the assumption in Berlin on both occasions was that the United States either wouldn't enter the war at all, or that its help would come too late to affect the result.

Today there is a balance of terror, and what has happened in respect to Cuba doesn't alter the over-all situation in any way. For Nikita Khrushchev isn't going to risk the lives of millions in the Soviet Union in order to help Castro save face. The people of the Soviet Union still remember their battle casualties in the Second World War—amounting to at least 7,500,000. The surviving relatives are numerous. If there's any one thing certain, it is that the Soviet people will not wish Mr. Khrushchev to start a war, and he will not throw any bombs unless they are thrown at his people. It is equally certain that the United States will not start a war or throw any bombs at the Soviet people unless this country has been attacked or there is a certainty that it will be.

For all practical purposes, the stalemate will continue for a long, long time. What confuses many people, and understandably, too, is the fact that bluffing in international policy has not become outmoded. The dangers of miscalculation are always theoretically present. It is often asked: "but supposing somebody pulls the trigger by mistake?"

The answer is that it takes more than one man to make a decision of such importance either in Moscow or in Washington, and the people who surround any commander-in-chief now a days know the consequences to them and their families if a mistake is not prevented.

Bluffing is, of course, a risky business. But the man who is doing the bluffing—Premier Khrushchev in this case—knows the limits of such tactics. Once the other side shows resoluteness, the bluffing tends to become less significant.

Thus, it may well be that President Kennedy's vacillation on the Cuban issue in recent months wrongly gave the Soviets an impression of irresoluteness in the White House. But whatever inferences were drawn from this unfortunate period, the President has exhibited a positiveness and a firmness beginning with his speech last Monday night that now can hardly be misconstrued anywhere.

The waiting period in itself could be regarded as constructive, except for one thing—the missile bases in Cuba already functioning which a reckless Castro could use. That's the real danger to this country and

BOB HOUSER

Prop. 24 Called 'Intemperate Threat' to Our Civil Rights

THE SUBTLE witchcraft of Proposition 24, the Francis Amendment to the State Constitution (subversive activities), may give it victory Nov. 6, especially in view of a 66 per cent stamp of approval it received in the statewide Field Poll. But its ghost may return to haunt the state, the courts and its advocates.

Since the hurrah title looked simply anti-Communist, the poll result is easily explained. But the concern now must reside in students of the proposition who agree with the State Chamber of Commerce conclusion that its passage "would tend to destroy the very thing it purports to protect, namely, the fundamental rights of citizens of this State and Nation. . . . Enactment of this ill-conceived measure would, in the long run, only defeat its own purpose."

"The American form of government and the American system are strong enough and so well founded in justice and in right that they can withstand the attack of Communists, from within or without, without resorting to measures which would destroy the very foundations of a free society. . . . The measure could easily result in widespread witch-hunting by inexperienced and uninformed persons under a definition of the term 'subversive organizations' which can mean all things to all people."

Long Beach Atty. Joseph A. Ball, former president of the State Bar Assn., and Southern California chairman of the Statewide Citizens Committee against Prop. 24, uses even stronger language:

"EVERY RESPONSIBLE lawyer I know in the state says it is unconstitutional; does not provide for due process before blackening reputations and depriving important rights."

"Those who are outrageously advocating this measure now seem to agree it is 'probably unconstitutional but let's have a court test.' We shouldn't do this. The courts are a last protection. The desire to have constitutional government must come from the people. Those who say let's enact unconstitutional legislation are just as much subversive as those who stand on a street corner and try to overthrow the government."

"HITLER CAME to power through the ballot box—he was elected. There is just as big a danger here if we permit unconstitutional provisions to be injected into the state constitution. Those who protest a love for our form of government actually have no concern about it if they advocate this outrageous measure; they are absorbed in their petty fears that we'll be overthrown by an unknown group. The left-wingers who despise our Constitution and the right-wingers who support this measure are in the same ideological boat."

Gardiner Johnson, Ball's Northern California counterpart, who is a conservative Republican who supported Joe Shell for governor in the primary, notes that the amendment is described only as being a measure to control subversive activities: "If that was all it were, it would be fine . . . but it is a carelessly drafted, ill-conceived, intemperate threat to the civil rights of every one of us."

These newspapers have editorialized against Prop. 24, as has the Los Angeles Times. Both Nixon and Brown are against it, as are most of the state constitutional office seekers of both parties.

AND LATELY comes one S. Albert Clark, of San Marino, identifying himself as a member of the Birch Society, the Christian Anti-Communist Movement and a former secretary of an eastern society of the Sons of the American Revolution who reads exception into Prop. 24 provisions, "the rights usually reserved to the courts," and in Section 13 which notes that the article's provisions "shall supersede all provisions of this Constitution and laws enacted thereunder in conflict therewith."

Remark on U.N. Careless, Unthinking

EDITOR:

With regard to your recent photographic layout quoting local figures on the United Nations:

Mayor Wade is partially ignorant, at least, of the facts because the chairman of the military commission must always be, is and has been Russian. No wonder the advance of the U.N. forces was called off in Korea and Gen. MacArthur believed of his command when we had the commies on the run.

To Dr. Orville Cole, may I ask, why we should be obligated to pay one third of the operating cost of the U.N. when we have only one vote out of over one hundred?

To Attorney William White, I would say you are wrong when you minimize the role that Alger Hiss had in the formation of the U.N. charter.

I would say the U.N. was designed to eventually become a world government under Communist control, and I ask those civic leaders if it is fact or fiction that since the U.N. was formed the number of people under Communist control has risen from 250,000,000 to over one billion.

Shame on these people for being so careless and unthinking.

Calls U.N. Spread 'Subtle Distortion'

EDITOR:

The full page U.N. propaganda spread in the society section of the Oct. 21 Independent, Press-Telegram was a masterpiece of subtle distortion to say the least. Let's rebut the rebuttal.

No. 1—Is the U.N. atheistic? It certainly is not religious. Nowhere in the United Nations charter or any of its subsidiaries do you find any reference to a Supreme Being.

No. 2—Is the aim of the U.N. one world government?

That question can be answered with a question. Is the aim of communism one world government? The U.N. is one of the vehicles being used by Communists to bring about a one-world government. A one-world socialist government controlled by Moscow.

No. 3—Was Alger Hiss architect of the U.N. charter?

Alger Hiss was definitely one of the architects of the U.N. charter. He was Secretary General of the International Assembly which created the United Nations.

No. 4—Do Communist nations dominate the U.N.?

Naturally, the Communists dominate the U.N. It's their character to dominate. They dominate the U.N. through deceit and subversion. They have packed the U.N. with Communist-controlled new nations disguised as neutrals or uncommitted nations.

No. 5—Does the U.S. pay all the bills? Indirectly the United States pays most of the bills of the U.N. Officially we pay 32.02 per cent of all the bills.

As a member in the United Nations we have lost our national sovereignty and we are fast losing our free constitutional Republican system of government.

Questions for President Kennedy

EDITOR:

During the 1960 political campaign, candidate Kennedy continually stressed the fact that there was a decided and dangerous missile gap between Russia and the United States. Shortly after assuming office, President Kennedy was able to close this missile gap and we are now far ahead of Russia. Just how did President Kennedy accomplish this miraculous feat?

Also, during the campaign candidate Kennedy repeatedly said, "I want to get this country going again." Has President Kennedy been successful in getting this country going again? Is the economy of our country in a healthier state than it was when he assumed the presidency? Is there more employment, are profits better, is our debt smaller, is business generally in better shape?

I heard candidate Kennedy state that 17 million Americans go to bed hungry every night. Just where are these 17 million Americans who go to bed hungry every night? Just what has President Kennedy done to alleviate the plight of these 17 million Americans who go to bed hungry every night?

Chicken Pie Shop Offers Finest of Foods in New 'Go Shop' on Pacific

It is easy now for Long Beach area housewives to home bake delicious chicken pies in a matter of minutes. And, they may treat the family to fresh-made home baked pie for dessert just as easily with no kitchen mess or work involved.

Phillips Original Chicken Pie Shop has added this home service in a big way with the opening of their "GO SHOP" at 730 Pacific Ave. The Pie Shop which has a restaurant capacity of 225 persons at 737 Pine Ave., has a heritage of 28 years of serving their famed chicken pies to Long Beach patrons.

Since entering the unbaked food field and seeing the demand grow for their products, Don Phillips, owner, decided on the new location for the Go Shop which is accessible to both north and south bound traffic. The Pine Ave. location fronts on a street with southbound traffic only.

Plenty of Parking
A large parking lot is provided for patrons of the Go Shop.

While unbaked fresh chicken pies and fruit pies are available at the Go Shop, the finest in ready-to-go hot dinners also are provided.

"We have set up to serve the fastest, finest, fairest-possible," explained Phillips. In one minute the patron is provided a complete hot-food dinner to take home."

Already, the Phillips Chicken Pie dinners have made big inroads into the frozen TV dinners which have reached high popularity in recent years. Phillips products are the freshest possible to obtain. Fruit or chicken pies are made the day they are sold. Housewives who buy them in quantity for storage in home freezers CAN BE ASSURED they have not been in previous storage for weeks or months.

Their famous chicken pie dinner is offered in a take-out pack for serving a hot meal. It includes a delicious chicken pie, served with whipped potatoes, golden chicken gravy, coleslaw, hot biscuits and butter and a dessert for only ninety-nine cents.

Highest of Quality

Phillips Original Chicken Pie Shop always has been known for high quality products. The chicken pies contain only the best of chicken and rich gravy. No cheap vegetables are used as filler, Phillips explains. The shop provides additional containers of gravy if desired.

Chicken barley soup, either hot or cold, is offered at the Go Shop as well as a wide selection of salads that are hours fresh. "We make up only one bowl of salad at a time, thus it is always fresh," explains Phillips.

In the pie section of the new Go Shop there are fruit pies ready to freeze or ready to bake, all of them made on the day of purchase. There also are freshly baked pies ready to serve.

"It is surprising the number of housewives who have purchased our chicken pies or fruit pies to freeze, saying they are replacing TV dinners in their freezers," continued Phillips.

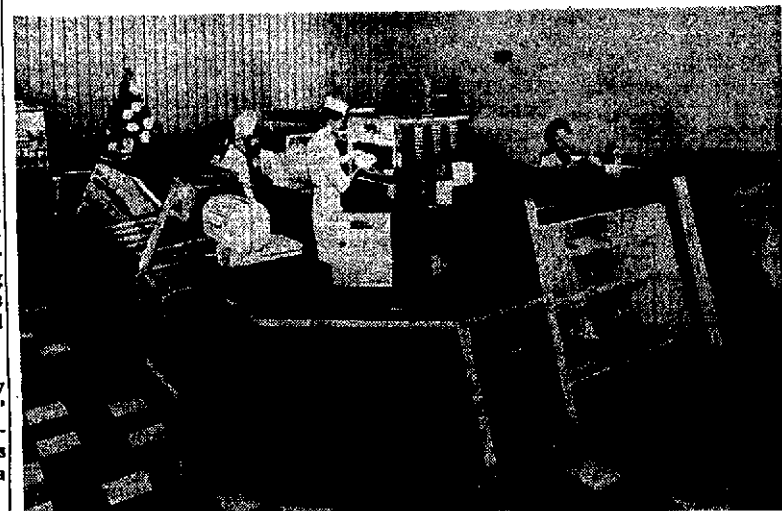

Pies Made Same Day

"We have catered to family business from the beginning," he continued, "with many entire families dining with us regularly once or twice a week."

"Now with our new Go Shop we are prepared to cater to thousands of additional patrons who desire quality and freshly prepared meals in their homes."

NEW GO SHOP for Phillips Original Chicken Pies at 730 Pacific Ave., has parking in the rear for patrons who can purchase hot, ready-to-serve, take-home meals in less than a minute.

INTERIOR OF the new GO SHOP is shown here. The display cases hold both chicken pies and fruit pies, plus a wide assortment of salads. Freshly made pies for home baking and hot freshly made chicken pies or fruit pies also are available.

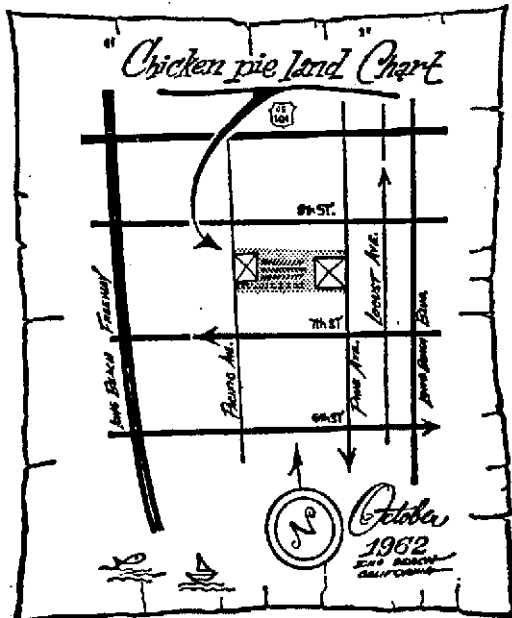

Pie Artists at Work

ROLLING PIES is an art the way it is done at Phillips Original Chicken Pie Shop. And it is done within sight of the patrons. The slogan "Watch Us Make 'Em" is proudly spoken.

CATERING to large church or club meetings is another service provided by the Pie Shop. Here a large carton of freshly rolled chicken pies is being packed for a church chicken pie supper.

MAP SHOWS how to reach both the new GO SHOP and the Phillips Original Chicken Pie Shop. The restaurant at 737 Pine and the GO SHOP at 730 Pacific is separated by ample parking facilities.

WE HAVE COME A LONG WAY!

It has been 28 successful years and literally millions of Chicken Pies since we first opened our doors. Now we have reached a new milestone, the GO SHOP (our new take-out department) where it takes only a minute to pack one of our famous Chicken Pie Dinners.

Planning a Party? a Luncheon? a Dinner? Why take a chance . . . you know you can depend on our delicious Chicken Pies to please your guests. Be the perfect hostess . . . and the smart hostess, too. Let us do the work. Our Chicken Pies are made fresh daily . . . ready to pop into the oven or store in your freezer for that extra special occasion. Why not stock up on our luscious Chicken Pies today?

So hitch up your wagon . . . roll into our roomy parking lot . . . and in almost no time at all you'll be on your way, loaded down with goodies.

Councilmen OK Crosstown (Artesia) Freeway

By GEORGE WEEKS

Long Beach city councilmen are not opposed to a crosstown freeway—if it is far enough north. They proved as much last week when, without a dissenting vote, they approved a formal agreement with the state for the Artesia Freeway.

In effect, the agreement puts the city on record as favoring the adopted route near the north city boundary and as consenting to the closing of certain streets and the construction of interchanges and separations outlined on the official map.

A subset of hearings by the State Highway Commission as early as 1959, the east-west artery drew only scattered opposition even in the early stages. But that was long before the council and the public began bitterly protesting a more southerly crosstown freeway somewhere between 10th Street and Pacific Coast Highway.

According to Edward T. Telford, metropolitan district engineer for the state highway division, the 21.6-mile link from the Santa Ana Freeway near Buena Park to the San Diego Freeway in the Torrance area will cost $85 million. A total of $14 million has already been obligated, primarily for right of way.

Newly approved in the State Highway Commission budget is an additional $7.9 million for right of way, much of it in Long Beach.

Telford said it is expected the whole freeway will be completed or under construction within six years.

In Long Beach the route runs generally along 67th Street, north of Artesia Street, from the east city boundary at Downey Avenue to a point near the Los Angeles River. There it swings south of Artesia to the west city boundary at Gale Avenue.

The agreement with the city provides for complete interchange facilities at Long Beach Boulevard,

Long Beach Freeway, Atlantic Avenue, Cherry Avenue and Paramount Boulevard.

In addition there will be separation structures—meaning underpasses for local streets—at Butler, De Forest, Myrtle, Orange, Walnut, Obispo and Downey avenues.

Pedestrian underpasses are proposed in the projections of Muriel and Orizaba avenues.

While the state will pay all acquisition and construction costs, including reconstruction of city streets, the city accepts responsibility for maintaining relocated or reconstructed streets, pedestrian facilities and frontage roads.

Many Cities Unprepared in Emergency

post for the city and a large surrounding area.

A 10-day supply of food and medical supplies has been stored at the sheriff's station. The city has installed radioactive filters on above-ground water storage tanks to minimize radiation hazards should a nuclear attack occur.

Santa Ana Best Prepared

SANTA ANA — Of all Orange County cities, this one is possibly the best prepared for nuclear attack.

The Civil Defense Director E. J. McCabe said space in public shelter areas for 7,000 persons, but none are stocked with food or water.

There is space for 1,100 persons in the county civic center; 4,500 in the Fashion Square shopping center and the other spaces are in buildings throughout the city.

The County Civil Defense command post is in the basement of the County Health Building at Eighth and Ross Street.

Stanton Without A-Shelters

STANTON—With no buildings in the city capable of defense against nuclear attack, Fire Chief Paul Harrison, city civil defense director, in advising people to take shelter in homes in case of attack.

The city fire and police have supplies for two weeks stockpiled in the fire house.

Hospital Key in Fullerton

FULLERTON — St. Jude Hospital and its new 4,500 square foot basement surgery wing will become a key to survival in any nuclear attack on this city—or Northern Orange County.

The surgery wing and the basement area of the hospital building are the only Civil Defense approved bomb shelters in Orange County.

City Civil Defense Director William Vasvary said the basement of the city hall now under construction may be used as a shelter in any emergency.

No buildings are stocked with food or water for an emergency.

Cypress to Use Track

CYPRESS — The Civil Defense System here is the result of close coordination between Los Alamitos, and Orange County, Civil Defense Coordinator O. C. Foster said. By using Los Alamitos Race Course as a fallout shelter, the cities have hospital facilities that are already established and a space to set up the local command post for fire and police services.

No Shelters in Huntington

HUNTINGTON BEACH — Claude Jones, assistant Civil Defense Director, said "there are no shelters in the city, either adequate or inadequate. We have passed out about 500 of the CD pamphlets, "Home Protection Exercises,"

Grove Defense 'Typical'—Bad

GARDEN GROVE — This city has no fallout shelters, no emergency warning system or emergency plan in case of disaster, but city officials describe the situation as "typical."

City Administrator Garthe Lipskey said, "Frankly, we have depended upon the County Civil Defense Coordinating System to help us but the group hasn't met in four or five months."

Buena Park—No Shelters

BUENA PARK — Civil Defense Coordinator Fire Chief Bill McGill said "There are no adequate shelters in the city—adequate by federal survey standards, that is."

Westminster Has Sirens

WESTMINSTER — Civil Defense Director and Police Chief Conner Collicott said: "We have an excellent communication system and our plan provides for a hospital facility and a city wide warning system by using our police and fire department sirens."

"There are no fallout shelters in the city that meet the federal survey standards."

12 Facilities in Anaheim

ANAHEIM — There are 12 facilities that would provide fallout shelter here for 2,886 persons.

The new police facility now under construction was enlarged to provide for a control center and fallout shelter. Budgets have been expanded to provide for a complete, workable, control and warning system and to solve the problem of coordinating and the updating of present CD plans.

Downey Makes Preparations

DOWNEY—This city has a civil defense plan that automatically places all city employees in CD position.

An auxiliary electric generating plant with a two-week supply of fuel has been installed at the city hall.

The city has more than 40,000 pounds of medical supplies in storage at Downey High School and has a first aid station at that school as well as at Warren High School. Both stations are equipped to serve 500 persons.

Charles Bates is executive officer for the area and maintains his headquarters at 8414 E. Second St.

South Bay Shelters Scarce

Nearly 500,000 residents in the South Bay area would find adequate public shelter scarce in the event of nuclear attack.

Capt. Joseph J. Rochefort, Civil Defense coordinator for Area G—which includes residents from the Palos Verdes Peninsula to El Segundo and Inglewood—says surveys show adequate public shelter space for an estimated 14,100 persons.

TORRANCE CITY officials maintain they are as well organized as any city in the area to cope with the post-attack emergencies.

Wade Peebles, city manager and Civil Defense director for the city, says city employees are trained and on call in any emergency.

Starting Monday local residents are urged to sign up as Civil Defense volunteers at city hall, which will open from 8 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

The Civil Defense commission has scheduled a meeting for 7:30 p.m. Nov. 5 to teach residents how to help themselves in an emergency.

ROLLING HILLS probably has a greater proportion of protected residents than any other community in the area.

Civil Defense officials estimate there probably are a dozen or more shelters completed in Rolling Hills, a high percentage considering the city has a population of about 2,000 residents.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Elementary school classrooms in the nation's larger cities are almost as badly overcrowded now as they were six years ago, the National Education Association (NEA) reported Saturday.

In 1956, the NEA said, there

were 245,328 city children on half-day schedules, and now the total is 244,215. In 1956, the median class size in city elementary schools was 30.9, today it is 30.3.

The NEA research report covered the 2,464 school districts in this country which enroll more than 3,000 pupils each.

IN THESE districts there are 574 class rooms with 56 or more pupils, the report said. Almost half the 16 million children attending elementary schools in these districts are in classes of 31 or more pupils each; 2 1/2 million are in classes of 36 or more; almost 500,000 are in classes of 41 or more, and about 122,000 in classes of 46 or more.

If all city children in elementary school classes of more than 30 could be re-grouped into classes of 30, the NEA said, it would require 35,386 additional classrooms and the same number of additional teachers. Just to get them into classes of 35 would take 6,804 more classrooms and teachers.

Many educators have been saying for years that the ideal to a class."

"And the corollary is equally clear: Many competent teachers are being denied the opportunity to give effective service to small children by the administrative necessity of assigning too many pupils to a class."

Instruments Stolen

Records, a record player and an electric guitar were stolen from the apartment of Jose H. Rosales, 1459 Parade St., police reported Saturday. The loot was valued at $400.

'HAPPIEST JOB I'VE EVER HAD'

Donald Novis, Golden Tenor of the '30s, Now Director of Girl Tour Guides at Disneyland

By VERA WILLIAMS

"This is the happiest job I've ever had."

A stocky, ruddy-faced Irishman is speaking.

You look at him for a minute before you realize who he is—Donald NOVIS, THE Donald Novis, Donald Novis of the golden tenor voice, winner of the Atwater-Kent contest in a field of 63,000 contestants, whose voice in the 1930s was as well known as the voices of Elvis Presley and Chubby Checkers are now.

He cut a hundred records, 300 radio transcriptions, and a half-dozen long-playing records.

HE INTRODUCED the songs "Sweet and Lovely," "Winter Wonderland," "Charmaine," "Trees," "Diane," "Under a Blanket of Blue," "Walking My Baby Back Home," "The Most Beautiful Girl in the World," "My Romance" and "Little Girl Blue."

He sang the theme song, "Love is a Song" in Walt Disney's "Bambi."

He sang "One Hour With You" in the movie of the same name, starring Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald.

Chevalier taught him to sing it in French, so he sang it in French, too.

What is this "happiest job?"

IT ISN'T singing. It's directing guest relations at Disneyland.

Novis directs the tour guides—62 girls in the summer, 26 in the winter, and altogether they speak 11 different languages; he directs the information service in the City Hall at Disneyland; he sets up the red carpet treatment for hot-shots visiting Disneyland.

(Everyone, apparently, but Khrushchev has been there at some time.)

"Handling the visiting dignitaries is easy," grins

Novis. "The bigger they are, the nicer they are likely to be. We've had Eisenhower, the King of Belgium, the Shah of Iran, the head of Thailand, ambassadors, premiers. We had the fellow who is in charge of wild life preserves in Africa. He wanted to know how well our horses are treated. I said 'Mister, they're treated as well as the employees, including Joe Fowler, the vice president of Disneyland!' That seemed to satisfy him."

NOVIS, old time friend of Walt Disney—they received the Legion of Honor of the Order of De Molay together in Hollywood in 1929—has been at Disney since it started July 17, 1955. He produced the show in the Golden Horseshoe at Disneyland and sang in it 10,700 times, finishing that stint last March.

"It was quite a stretch, five shows a day. But Wally Boag, the comedian, has me beat. He began with me and he's still in it—more than 11,000 shows, for him."

The tour guides wear scarlet capes, white shirts, scarlet vests, plaid skirts, red socks, blue riding caps and they carry riding sticks—for pointing out the sights, not whacking visitors.

NOVIS TEACHES them the 11-page script they must memorize to take visitors on a de luxe tour of Disneyland and its five top rides. And they must be prepared to answer all the questions. They have to know, for instance, that Disneyland's biggest day was July 4, 1959, when 59,845 people went through its gates. And they have to know that the Matterhorn (the Disneyland one) is made of enough lumber to build 250 three-bedroom homes.

Among them, the girls speak English, German, Norwegian, Spanish, French, Hungarian, Greek, Danish, Flemish, Japanese and Chinese.

Typical of the guides is Colette Andre, who came here last June from Le Havre, who has doubled for Brigitte Bardot, and who appeared in plays, musicals and TV shows in her native France.

"MUCH French people come to Disneyland," explains Colette, shyly.

Novis lives on the beach at Balboa. He and his wife Dorothy have been married 25 years. They have two daughters, a granddaughter, a grandson—and an English pug dog.

"I haven't sung since last March," admits Novis. "One of our fellows, Ben Harris, in the sound and audio division, is to be married in November in La Canada. He asked me to sing at his wedding. I'll do it, of course—but do you know, I'm scared to death!"

coffee. While wheeling the cart back to the check-out counter, she added five more cans of tuna, an assortment of jams and jellies, and several jars of ice cream topping to her supply.

Driving home, she remembered reading or hearing something about storing the food in a hall closet. She stepped on the gas and wasted no time in getting home.

Half an hour later the boxes and bags of cans and jars and bottled water were piled high in the hall closet of the young housewife's home. She closed the door and breathed a sigh of relief. Her family was protected with an ample supply of food, even if they had to stay in the hall for a week.

In her haste, she had forgotten to add a can opener.

It happened last week. Hundreds of frantic housewives did exactly the same thing, varying only the type of foods they bought. Men, too, raided the markets last week to stock up empty shelves "just in case."

They bought wildly, not wisely.

Civil Defense authorities are practical people. They plan and think ahead. For years they have urged that citizens keep food cupboards sensibly stocked in case any emergency should arise, any emergency, which includes floods, fires, and earthquakes as well as bombs.

HOWEVER, being prepared for an emergency means more than stocking up on large quantities of canned food, purchased at random. Specifically, and this applies to the situation which exists right now, every housewife should take issue of her own family's needs and act accordingly. There are a few general rules and ideas she might follow:

1. A hall closet is an ideal emergency center, mainly because of its location.

2. There should be a two-weeks' food supply based on specific, planned menus. And in the hall closet of the young housewife's home, she closed the door and breathed a sigh of relief. Her family was protected with an ample supply of food, even if they had to stay in the hall for a week.

3. There should be a two-week supply of pet food if the family owns a cat or a dog.

4. "Musts" include an ample water supply (1/2 gallon per day per person, if possible), and a battery radio.

5. Suggested items should include the following: paper towels and toilet tissue; paper plates, cups, and napkins; soap; pencils and paper; games (recommended: Bingo and Parcheesi); flashlight and batteries; small first aid kit; aspirin; medicine for special cases; soft drinks to supplement water supply; large bags, folded flat, for trash.

6. If the closet is large enough, extra blankets and pillows should be stored there.

7. It is an excellent idea to tack a list of the planned menus on the inside of the closet door. That way, food would be used according to plan and last the necessary length of time.

Brown Indorsed for Re-election by Veteran Leader

FRED NESSLER

Mr. Nessler is regarded as one of Long Beach's most prominent figures in veterans affairs. He is Past Commander of Arthur L. Peterson Post of the American Legion and Past Sergeant at Arms, Department of California of the Legion, and for the past three years has been Sergeant at Arms of the County Council. For 10 years he has served as Chairman of Memorial Day Services and has directed the annual Veterans Day Parade for the past 17 years.

Nessler is a strong supporter of Governor Brown and urges all veterans to vote for Brown on Nov. 6.

Said Nessler: "I am convinced the interests of the 2 1/2 million veterans of California can be served best by the re-election of our friend in the state capital. Governor Brown has repeatedly demonstrated his loyalty to our cause and I am confident that his continued support in our behalf can be assured by his retention in office."

Stanford Shatters UCLA Hopes

UCLA's Andy Von Sonn makes flying attempt to block punt by Stanford's Stan Lindskog but fails. Indians won 17-7.

5 Interceptions Stymie Bruins' Offense, 17-7

By DAVE LEWIS

All dreams at UCLA for another big season in which they had hoped to make another strong run for the AAWU title and Rose Bowl bid were blasted to bits Saturday by a bitterly disappointing 17-7 loss to Stanford before 33,415 fans in the Coliseum plus a regional-TV audience.

It was the second consecutive defeat in four games for the Bruins and first in conference play.

The game was a comedy of errors from the outset... one that was highlighted by two freak touchdowns, one by each team, that were almost identical—even to the yardage.

THE GAME started out on a screwball note when the teams swapped the football on three successive plays... with the Indians scoring on an 82-yard run after an "intercepted fumble" on the third exchange of the ball.

And the weird atmosphere continued to persist the rest of the way.

The loosely-played affair included six interceptions, five by the alert Stanford defense; six fumbles, four by Stanford and two by UCLA, all of which were recovered by the opposition, and a pair of bad center snaps that sailed far over the head of Stanford's punter to give UCLA the ball on the Tribe's 35 and 42-yard lines.

However, UCLA, which was held for downs four times, could not take advantage of either break gained by the poor center snaps.

STANFORD was never behind after scoring its freakish touchdown in the first 3 minutes and 36 seconds of play. The Indians boosted their lead to 10-0 on Stan Lindskog's 25-yard field goal midway in the second quarter before giving up the Bruins' lone touchdown on Carl Jones' 81-yard run after he grabbed a fumble in mid-air.

Stanford salted away its first conference victory in three tries with a one-yard plunge by John Paye on the first play of the fourth quarter. The TD capped a crunching 89-yard drive in 15 yards. Biggest disappointment in the Bruins' performance was their inability to sustain an offensive threat. They muffed at least six opportunities to move in for scores.

UCLA registered only eight first downs and completed only three of 17 passes while having five picked off. In fact, Stanford outgained UCLA on its own aerials. The Bruins netted 36 yards while the Indians returned the interceptions a total of 50.

THE BRUINS took the opening kickoff and drove to the Stanford 34 before Dick Ragsdale intercepted Larry Zeno's pass on the eight-yard line to launch the "chain-reaction" leading to the Indians' first score.

On the first play, halfback Jack Lodato fumbled and guard Dave Stout recovered for the Uclans on the 12.

But on the very next play, Kermit Alexander bobbled Zeno's pitchout on the 18 and end Frank Patitucci wrestled it away from the Bruin back.

USC Shakes Off Illini, 28-16

Brown, Bedsole Pace Victory

By JEROME HALL
I, P-T Staff Writer

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — With tied two touchdowns to get me eye on next week's Rose Bowl showdown and the Brown polished off the other eye on their press clip-scrappy, bulky Midwesterners pings, the nationally-ranked USC Trojans played a cross-eyed football game here Saturday.

The fact that they outlasted the oft-thrashed University of Illinois, 28-16, is more a tribute to perseverance than perspicacity.

The Illini worked hard as they churned and chugged for large chunks of yardage, but the Trojans wiped out all the effort with three big plays.

TROY'S all-America candidate, end Hal Bedsole, caught two long touchdown passes and halfback Willie Brown ran 73 yards for another as USC made scoring look easy. But USC's defense made scoring look easy for the Illini, too. The Trojans had given up only two touchdowns in their first four games and the Illini had scored only three times.

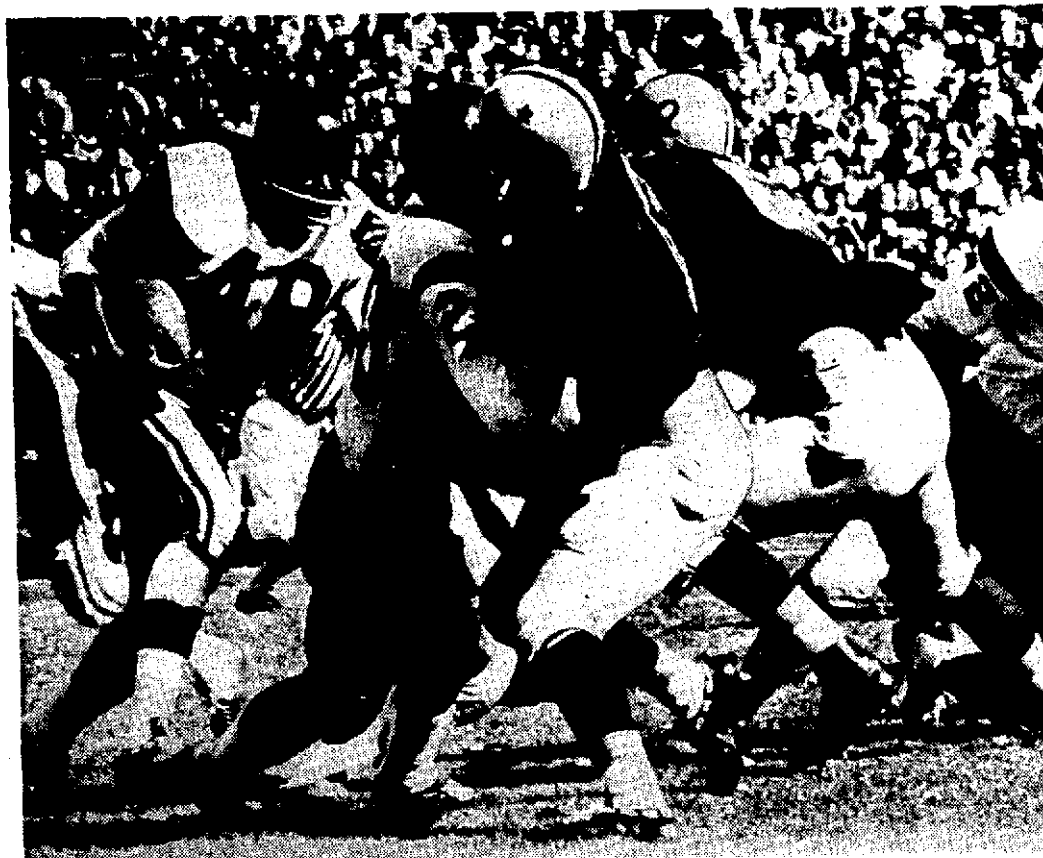

In this game, the 20-point underdogs came up with their highest point total of the season and almost doubled USC's first downs production.

A CROWD of 31,375 turned out at Memorial Stadium in sunny but chilly weather to watch Illinois lose its 15th game in a row. The Trojan performance—win No. 5 in succession—did not convince them that the West is best in the argument with the Big Ten.

However, the triumph means that the Big Six didn't lose a game to the Big Ten in seven meetings this season. Bedsole gained 111 yards on three receptions and tallied two touchdowns.

THE WIND played a large role in keeping the Trojans bottled up in the early part of the game and if it hadn't been for a big break in the opening minutes, the Trojans might never have gotten untracked, so inspired were the Illini.

The break came on the fourth play of the game when USC had been held without

DEE SETS RUSHING MARK, 14-6

State Scores 1st CCAA Win

By AL LARSON

Dee Andrews exploded on an 80-yard touchdown jaunt in the fourth period to lock up Long Beach State's first CCAA victory of the year as the 49ers humbled Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo 14-6 Saturday night before 1,996 fog-shrouded fans at Veterans Stadium.

Andrews, the world's fifth fastest low hurdler last year, stepped off the 80-yards in 10 seconds flat after the 49ers had made their third hard-nosed defensive stand of the night.

Andrews, who gained 131 yards on 16 carries, boomed ahead as Long Beach's all-time single season rushing king. After seven games, Dee has gained 488 yards to surpass Mickey Gouyd's previous high of 450 set in 1957. The Dazzler has three more games left this season.

The victory ended a four-game drought before the home folk and pushed LBSC's season record to 3-4. It was Long Beach's first win in three league starts. For the Mustangs it marked their third successive setback in conference action and fifth defeat against a single win on the season.

The 49ers displayed their finest brand of defense this year as they dug in and repulsed four serious Poly threats. The final occurred when the Mustangs drove to Long Beach's 16. But Dave Shirley intercepted John Ramsey's pass on his own three and ten seconds later the final gun sounded giving the 49ers only their second victory in seven meetings with the SLO boys.

Line heroes were numerous for the victors as time and time again Leo Austin, Johnny Reed, Chuck Seller, Gene Farrell, Don Crosby and Don Montgomery crashed through.

Cal Poly's air game was razor sharp the first half, connecting on 6 of 10 attempts for 141 yards. But the 49ers secondary shut it off after intermission and gave up but 40 more yards the final 30 minutes.

How they scored:
Cal Poly exploded on a 52-yard scoring strike from Ramsey to Wayne West with 7:30 remaining in the first quarter. Bill Crow's point after touchdown sailed low. The sudden tally came on a drop Mustang QB's Ramsey and Stan Reynolds for huge losses on key passing downs. For the night the pair lost 69 yards and as a result Poly's

Last-Gasp Surge Enables Oregon to Tie Washington

SEATTLE (UPI)—Bob Berry passed Oregon to a 21-21 last-gasp tie with Washington Saturday after the powerful Husky running attack apparently had smashed the Webfoots into the ground.

Larry Hill burst through the Washington line for 18 yards and the touchdown with less than two minutes to go, and the Huskies leading, 21-13. Berry, as calm as the eye of a hurricane, then connected with end Dick Imwalle for the all-important two-point conversion.

Mel (The Marvel) Renfro set up Hill's touchdown with a brilliant 17-yard run after apparently being trapped deep behind the line of scrimmage on a pass attempt.

Until that point, Renfro had been held well in check by Washington's defense, but he came to life in the closing minutes. He not only set up Oregon's final touchdown, but another 36-yard run in the last minute of play had the Ducks threatening on the Washington 35.

BERRY HAD a chance to pass for a winning score but it was broken up in the end zone as hundreds of young boys charged onto the field from the bleachers. The Oregon rooting section erupted in a storm of boos, but the gun had sounded.

Washington roared onto the field after the halftime intermission and crunched out a 62-yard touchdown drive that broke a 7-7 deadlock. Nat Whitmyer, Bill Douglas, Bob Monroe, Jim Stiger and Charlie Mitchell ripped off huge chunks of yardage during the march, which ended when Mitchell burst into the end zone from the one for his second touchdown of the day.

Berry limbered up his passing arm and proceeded to hurl the Ducks back into the game. He hit Greg Willener for a 32-yard gainer, then passed to Hill for three, and Imwalle for 10.

That put Oregon on Washington's 14, and then Renfro found Willener in the end zone, and the Ducks scored. But Buck Corey failed to kick the extra point, one of the very few he has missed, and Washington led by one point.

Washington moved into a 21-13 lead after Monroe partially blocked Ron Snidow's punt from the end zone, and the Huskies took over on Oregon's 10.

Vikes Put On Great Show

"Pop, do you think City College can beat the Rams?" a youngster about 12 asked his father Friday night just before the Vikings wrapped up a 38-14 verdict over El Camino.

"Goodness no, son," replied the dad. Then, after a moment's pause, the father reflected: "Come to think of it, maybe they could."

Maybe they could be right! In steamrolling to six straight one-sided victories, Jim Stangeland's City College club has proved to be one of the strongest college teams (including BOTH the two-year and four-year school variety) this corner has ever viewed. Without a doubt, it is the most entertaining... especially to those of us who have yawned our way through things like UCLA's thumping of Colorado State and Sunday's menu of Ram games.

"I'm glad they're not playing Cal this year," sighed Dean O'Hare, a former Golden Bear star who witnessed the methodical slaughter of El Camino. "They've got everything," enthused State College boss Don Reed. "I just hope that some of those kids I'm looking at tonight have the grades and can be induced to go to that other Long Beach college when their two years are up."

"Right now, Long Beach looks like the best West Coast junior college team I've ever seen," commented a Jr. Rose Bowl representative who was taking notes Friday night for his committee's future study.

The praise went like that all Friday night as the Vikings marveled the throng with sensational running, outstanding passing and crunching tackling. Only the over-confidence bug, a deadly insect that has infected other great teams, can halt the Vikings from that December bowl trip to Pasadena.

A GRATIFYING THING about Stangeland's machine is that it wears a "Made in Long Beach" tag. Most of the heroes Friday night were homegrown products:

Tim Russell comes from Lakewood. Then, Duane Nixon is from Downey and six line stars hail from nearby El Rancho (Bill Pace, Frank Mazzotta, Johnny Cuccio, Don Elde, Dave Thornton and Mike Blume).

The only "outsider" amongst Friday night's heroes was Frank Roy, a 235-pound end from St. Albans, W. Va. But, big Frank played on Stangeland's 1960 Rose Bowl club, so really is one of us now.

FOUR VIKES looked strong enough to step right into any senior college's first-string lineup this moment: Giers (236), Smith (250) and Roy, plus the piledriving fullback, Homer Williams (205). All have tremendous futures in football.

Homer accounted for two of the three best offensive plays of the evening: A 55-yard burst off tackle and a 25-yard scoring sprint through guard. Holes were opened for him on both occasions, but Williams utilized both speed and brute strength to shake off El Camino tacklers like they were bugs.

The evening's other dazzling play came when Dunn whipped a scoring pass to Russell, a 9.5 sprinter who's impossible to cover on every play. In the press box, Reed and O'Hare were waiting for this play as Stangeland (calling each play himself) set it up beautifully.

Using Russell as a flanker, the Vikings either flipped to him at the line of scrimmage or ignored him completely... until Stangeland figured the defensive man on Russell was ready to be seduced.

And was he ever! Russell made a half-hearted motion ahead, then stopped. In that flash, the El Camino defender took his eyes off the Lakewood speedster—and Russell took off like a zebra outdistancing an African bush fire.

When Dunn nestled the ball into Russell's arms, the El Camino kid was 10 yards back, scratching his head and wishing he were at the Coliseum.

DO THE VIKINGS have any weaknesses? Yes, one—their pass defense. Until El Camino became frantic and tossed caution and the football to the winds in the last quarter, the visitors repeatedly burned the Vikes with completed passes. Only Charley Williams, with two interceptions, seemed to comprehend pass defense.

But, what the heck, everybody can't be perfect. Even the Rams have trouble every so often with their pass defense. Every so often—like every game!

Saints Hamstrung by Own Mistakes

An alert Cathedral High came in the second period football team took advantage with 9:29 left.

St. Anthony fumbled deep in its own territory and had taken to score an 18-7 Catholic League victory at Serra 41 to set up the other two High Saturday night.

The Phantoms turned a bad in the final quarter. The Saints employed a Shotgun offense in the early going, and though it worked effectively at times, fumbles and interceptions killed off all hope.

S.A. scored with 1:46 left on Mike Curran's pass to Tom Arboit for eight yards. A 32-yarder from Curran to Chuck Merino set up the TD.

The Saints fumbled four times and had three passes intercepted.

CATHEDRAL went only 23 yards for its first score following a four-yard punt. This

Elg, West, Barnett Pace 134-118 Rout

By DON HARDIN

There is no place like Baylor, Rudy LaRusso and home. At least that is the feeling of the L. A. Lakers.

After losing four games in a row in this young National Basketball Assn. season, the Lakers returned home to the Sports Arena Saturday night to a 134-118 victory over the Detroit Pistons.

A record opening-night crowd of 8,449 was in attendance to watch Elgin Baylor, Jerry West and Dick Barnett outclass the Pistons whom they defeated in their opener this season at Madison Square Garden.

BAYLOR, sitting out much of the last period, scored 31 points. West, benched for practically the entire final quarter, still wound up with 27 and set an Arena record for assists with 16. Barnett, the southpaw shooting ace, pushed in six one-handed shots in the final quarter and produced 18 points for the evening.

The Lakers' 6-10 rookies, Leroy Ellis and Gene Wiley, proved their worth as top draft choices. Ellis, in particular, showed his mettle by scoring 15 points and aiding Baylor, Rudy LaRusso and home.

Jim Krebs in commanding the boards. Bailey Howell, although seeing limited action, led Detroit with 21 points. Sharp-shooting guard Don Ohl had 20.

The Lakers are idle now until Wednesday when they play the New York Knicks at the Arena. Saturday they entertain Wilt Chamberlain and the San Francisco Warriors, also at the Arena. Sunday night they play the Knicks again.

The Lakers really exploded in the final four minutes of the first half, as Baylor, West and Barnett were unerring at the basket in pacing Baylor had 17 points in the first half, West 15. Each was spelled for a few moments.

Barnett, replacing starting Laker guard Frank Selvy early in the second period, was fed three sweet attempts by Baylor, West, and Rudy LaRusso in the closing moments. Interspersed with Barnett's layins, Elgin and Jerry and Rudy hit repeatedly.

Four minutes into the second quarter the Lakers forged readily ahead, 44-39, and they continued to up their lead until the half.

49ers Dee-feat Cal Poly

The first play following a 49er punt by Gordy Fitzer. Cal Poly threatened the first time it had possession, driving to the 49ers' nine. But Reynolds' fourth-down pass fell incomplete in the end zone.

CAL POLY was goalward-bound again early in the second period, but LBSC's defenses rose up and on three plays pushed the invaders back from the 49ers' eighty-yard line to their 33. A fourth down swing pass picked up 12, but Long Beach took over.

From here Long Beach's ground machine went to work and 22 plays later Jim White dove over from the one to tie the score. Tom Turrill's PAT forged the 49ers ahead 7-6 with only 57 seconds before intermission.

With Bob Stangel at the controls, the 49ers consumed nine minutes in steamrolling the 79 yards. Henry Edney, Andrews and White were the workhorses on the advance which clicked off six first downs.

KEY PLAYS in the drive were a fourth-and-one gamble on the LBSC 41 when Edney ripped off seven yards, and a four-yard pickup by Andrews when LB needed three yards on fourth down on the Cal Poly 18.

White scored his touchdown on another fourth down by diving over right guard.

Andrews' 80-yard scamper with 9:10 remaining in the game bettered his previous record sprint from scrimmage by two yards, set last week against San Fernando.

After the Mustangs' Jim Ramos had missed a field goal from L.B.'s 32, Andrews broke free behind Seller's crunching block and went the distance with Ramos hot in pursuit. This was one race Dee wasn't about to lose... he didn't.

Cal Soph QB Brilliant, but Penn St. Hangs On, 23-21

BERKELEY (UPI)—Quarterback Pete Liske completed a second of moralized Cal crew and passed for three touchdowns. He completed 20 out of 28 attempts for 274 yards.

Morton, from Campbell, Calif., rushed for 11 yards for a total offense of 285, two more than the school mark set by Jerry Drew against Oregon State in 1954.

But it all went in vain on the accurate aerial arm of Liske, who also got tremendous running performances from Roger Kochman, Al Gursky and Dave Hayes.

Penn State ran up a 10-0 lead in the first 20 minutes of play before Morton came on the scene. Then the 19-year-old, six-foot four-inch, 210-pound youth took over to make a game out of it.

Midway in the fourth quarter, Penn State held a 23-14 lead. But Morton again marched his boys 77 yards in 11 plays to close the gap to two points.

And Morton had the Cal boys on the march with 20 seconds to go when a pass interception ruined the victory chance.

BRODIE

By JERRY WYNN

SAN FRANCISCO—In the 1957 National Football League draft meeting, the Rams passed over John Brodie of Stanford to pick Jon Arnett of USC.

Today, Brodie may be the one to pass over the Rams.

Having survived a battle with Y. A. Tittle and a battalion of shotgunners to become entrenched as quarterback of the San Francisco 49ers, the aerial wizard of Menlo Park will be aiming his best shots at the Rams at Kezar Stadium.

After playing the Packers last week, John, will the 49ers be ripe for a letdown? "No. I admit that such things as letdowns happen, but I think they are unpredictable."

What has been the reaction of the 49er players to the misfortune of the Rams this season?

"Indifference. There were four games the Rams could have won easily, we felt. Looking at movies of the Rams-Colts game, we felt the Rams kicked the heck out of them."

The 49ers have played the Lions, Colts and Bears as well as the Packers. Which defense gave you the most trouble?

"The Vikings," you forgot them. They were the toughest, and the Packers next."

Are the Packers a super team?

"Yes. Let's put it this way. They are as good as any team I have ever seen."

Did you have an idol among quarterbacks when you began your career?

"No, but I've always thought that Tittle and Van Brocklin were great throwers."

Who do you consider the greatest pres-day quarterback?

"I don't know. I don't rate them."

If you could pick two receivers from teams in the league, excluding the 49ers, who would you choose?

"Berry, Shofner, McDonald, Phillips and Moore. They're the best and I couldn't separate them. The same guys don't make all-pro every year, you know. There are also different types of ends. Ditka and Kramer do pretty well as tight ends."

Why did the shotgun formation fizzle last season?

"The loss of Bobby Waters when he got hurt made it impossible to alternate tailbacks. And then the defenses adjusted to it after a few games."

You are the only player who also once was a golf professional. Which is tougher . . . to sink a three-foot putt for $1,000 or to watch Big Daddy Lipscomb blast in at you for a tackle?

"First of all, I never had an opportunity to sink any putt for a thousand bucks. I wish I had. But the pressures involved are entirely different. In the heat of a football game, you don't have time to worry about pressures. You're not greatly conscious of them. But walking from shot to shot in golf, there's plenty of time and you are conscious of the pressure, particularly when you reach the putting green."

Are the 49ers going to whip the Rams today?

"I play the games. I don't predict them."

Northwestern Raps Notre Dame, 35-6

EVANSTON, Ill. (UP)—Unde-feated Northwestern's brilliant Tom Myers-to-Paul Flatley passing combination, clicking twice for touchdowns, swept the nationally third-ranked Wildcats to a record 35-6 triumph over shaky Notre Dame Saturday.

Myers, the nation's No. 3 major college passer, completed 11 of 18 tosses for 168 yards before reserves took over for Northwestern mid-way in the third period.

Flatley snared six Myers

the game's first running play was recovered by Wildcat Larry Benz on the Irish 29. Eight plays later, Murphy dived two yards for a touch-down.

In the game-deciding second period, right after a Wildcat interception, Myers then whipped a 23-yard scoring pass to Flatley, and then—following a blocked Irish punt on Notre Dame's 20—the Wildcats capped a five-play scoring drive on Murphy's plunge from two feet out.

That gave Northwestern a 21-0 halftime lead.

Notre Dame finally scored in the fourth quarter on a 77-yard drive capped by soph fullback Joe Farrell's 3-yard plunge.

STILLWATER, Okla. (UP)—Kansas rallied from a 17-7 first-half deficit to score two touchdowns in the third quarter and two more in the fourth to defeat Oklahoma State 36-17 in a Big Eight Conference football game Saturday.

Gale Sayers, sophomore halfback whose 69-yard run put Kansas in position for its first touchdown in the second quarter, broke loose in the fourth period from his own four-yard line and ran 96 yards for a touchdown.

ROUGHING PENALTY FIRES BUCKS

First Loss for Badgers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Ohio State knocked Wisconsin from the unbeaten ranks Saturday with a fourth period touchdown for a 14-7 Big Ten victory before 82,540 chilled fans.

The Buckeyes, bounding back from last week's loss to Northwestern, broke up a tight defensive battle with a 57-yard scoring drive midway in the fourth period.

Quarterback John Mumney smashed over from inches away to apply the clincher with 7:16 remaining.

The Badgers, who carried a 4-0 record into the game, have not won here since 1918 and in 12 series games, have nine losses and three ties.

A costly 15-yard roughing penalty aided the Buckeyes in their payoff drive, and seemed to light a fire under an offense that had been stalled since the opening period.

The penalty gave Ohio State the ball on the Wisconsin 29 and in six plays the Buckeyes drove over to climax a 57-yard march. It was Ohio State's third victory in five starts and second in three Big Ten games.

The power running of Mumney, the passing of quarterback Joe Sparma and a bruising crew of three fullbacks made the difference on this cold and windy day.

In the opening period, the Buckeyes drove 48 yards for the game's first score, highlighted by a 21-yard scoring pass from Sparma to halfback Paul Warfield, who caught the ball on the 10 and eluded three defenders. The kick made it 7-0, with 1:11 seconds left in the period.

Wisconsin, trying for its third Big Ten win, actually threatened only once as a fired-up Ohio State defense stalled the passing combination of quarterback Ron VanderKelen to all-America end Pat Richter.

The Badgers took advantage of a pass interception for their only score, guard Jim Schenk grabbing a Sparma pass on his own 49. VanderKelen then flipped a pass to halfback Ron Smith, who raced untouched for the score. The conversion deadlocked the score.

The defenses took over after intermission and it looked as if the game might wind up in a tie until the roughing penalty.

Fullbacks Bob Butts, Dave Francis and Dave Katterhenrich provided the power on the winning drive, rotating for the entire yardage except the final yard by Mumney.

The game ended with the Badgers on the ropes, trying to stop an Ohio State drive that ended inches away from the goal line as time ran out.

The Ohio defense held VanderKelen to seven completions in 22 attempts for 111 yards. But the big difference was on the ground, for Ohio State outrushed the Badgers, 213 yards to 106.

Purdue Rolls Up 26-3 Win Over Charitable Hawkeyes

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI)—fumble on the Purdue 25-yard line.

But after that, Iowa was its own worst enemy as the alert Purdue defenders intercepted four passes and picked off three Hawkeye fumbles.

Iowa has lost the ball 13 times on fumbles this season.

Purdue took the lead on the first play of the second quarter when Ron Di Gravio crashed into the end zone from one-yard away to end a 75-yard march. The big blow was a 20-yard pass from Gary Hogan to Dave Ellison.

Omer Ohl missed his first conversion try of the season and Purdue led 6-3.

After the intermission, Iowa fell apart.

In the big third quarter, the Boilermakers counted two touchdowns. Halfback Tom Bloom scored the first on a seven-yard pass from Di Gravio and Hogan sneaked one-yard for the second.

Purdue's Woody Moore going the last three yards and passing to Jim Bailey for the conversion.

The Spartans had to compensate for five lost-ball fumbles. The bobbles came after they had scored twice in the first five minutes on Lincoln's 25-yard dash and a Saines plunge set up by Sherman Lewis' 29-yard run.

Ron Rubick returned a punt 38 yards to the Indiana 17 in the second quarter and Saines went over from the one.

HOOSIERS EXTEND 'STREAK'

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UP)—Michigan State's Spartans sent George Saines across the Indiana goal line three times and Dewey Lincoln once Saturday and beat the Hoosiers, 26-8.

Indiana, losing its 17th successive game to a Big Ten opponent, moved 67 yards for its touchdown in the third quarter, quarter-back Woody Moore going the last three yards and passing to Jim Bailey for the conversion.

Gophers Register Fourth '0' Victory

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UP)—Minnesota balked Michigan with an overwhelming defense and capitalized on a series of opportunities for a 17-0 victory in the traditional battle for the Little Brown Jug Saturday.

The Gophers turned an errant Michigan center snap and a pass interception into 10 points in the second quarter before 65,484 fans in Michigan Stadium to post their fourth shutout in five games.

The Gophers' second touchdown came on a 58-yard pass play from Duane Blaska to Jim Cairns, who hip-faked two Wolverines to the ground en route to the goal line.

Minnesota's first scoring was on a 24-yard field goal by Collin Versich after Michigan yielded the ball at its 18 on a fourth-down punt attempt that misfired. Jim Muir's center snap sailed over Joe O'Donnell's head, giving the Gophers the ball.

Julian Hook's pass interception set up the second Gopher score. He returned the BOULDER, Colo. (UPI)—Unde-feated and untied Nebraska exploded for three touchdowns and a safety during a savage 10-minute attack in the third period Saturday and rolled to a 31-6 victory over Colorado in a Big Eight Conference football game.

The Cornhuskers scored their sixth victory of the season and their third in the Big Eight after Colorado surprised a Homecoming crowd of 35,500 by stopping Nebraska's only two serious first half threats and chalked up a 6-0 halftime lead.

Nebraska's Young 2 run (Tomlinson pass from Tucker) set up the first touchdown.

Quantic Cancels Remaining Games

QUANTICO, Va. (UP)—The Quantico Marines will cancel the remainder of their 1957 football schedule after meeting the University of Tampa this weekend at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Lt. Gen. E. W. Snedeker, Commandant, Marine Corps Schools, said the decision to discontinue football came after East Coast Interservice Conference officials decided to dissolve the league "due to military commitments."

Miami Rides Mira's Arm to Victory Over AF, 21-3

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (UP)—George Mira, Miami's miracle man, mixed passes with the slick running of halfback Nick Ryder Saturday as the Hurricanes smothered Air Force 21-3 in an intersectional football game before 32,787.

The Miami missile man scored one touchdown and passed for another in a display of leadership that baffled the future generals.

A 25-mile an hour wind and the gritty Air Force defense slowed Mira's start. But he got rolling in the second period after the Airmen startled the favored Floridians with a 55-yard field goal by senior John Gavin.

The 182-pound reserve fullback, kicking with the wind at his back, booted from the 45-yard line after the Airmen recovered a Mira fumble at the Hurricane 35.

From that point on, the Falcons penetrated Miami territory only three times in the game—once on a fumble.

Miami generated scoring drives of 57 and 69 yards in the third period, mixing Mira's passes with the stabbing runs of Ryder and Ken Hunt.

Ryder gained 18 yards in two tries during the first drive, which ended on Mira's rollout from the 2. The Miami quarterback completed three of four passes for a total of 32 yards in the final scoring march, in which he found end Bob Werl in the end zone on a fourth-down play at the Air Force 6.

Mira completed 10 of 26 passes but at least three others were dropped by his receivers.

Miami's 3-0, the Hurricanes marched 80 yards with the kickoff as Mira passes accounted for 44 yards. The key thrust was a 15-yard aerial on which end Bill Sparks made a diving catch at the Air Force 5.

SOONERS POST 47-0 VICTORY

NORMAN, Okla. (UP)—The Oklahoma Sooners, displaying a pulverizing ground attack, struck for touchdowns the first four times they got the ball and routed hapless Kansas State 47-0 Saturday in a Big Eight Conference football game.

Oklahoma's powerful one-two punch, fullback Jim Grishman and halfback Joe Don Looney, shot repeatedly through the Kansas State line on the first two drives.

Close Call for Detroit Lion Back
HITTING THE HIGH SPOTS: You may recall that Dodger coach Leo Durocher had a close brush with death when he suffered a reaction from a penicillin shot last summer, and now Detroit Lion defensive back Gary Lowe had a similar experience last Sunday in New York.

He lapsed into semiconsciousness following a pre-game injection to soothe a sore leg muscle. Gary revealed that "for a minute after I got the shot, I thought to myself, 'this is it,' as he discussed the incident which occurred in the locker room just before the Lions took the field against the New York Giants.

The Detroit team physician revived Lowe by applying oxygen and giving him another shot to counteract the reaction as "serum shock" and explained that some people get it from penicillin.

Lowe had received the same injection—not penicillin—on three other occasions without ill effects.

A couple of nights before his fight with Dick Tiger the past week, Gene Fullmer had dinner at a Chinese restaurant in San Francisco and the message he received in his fortune cookie was "present plans will be successful."

Reminded of this after the fight, Gene shook his head and said, "Confucius sayings no longer funny."

As if his size alone doesn't attract attention wherever he goes, Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain is driving around in a new $21,000 silver Bentley convertible that draws all eyes to its sleek lines!

A FEW OF US WERE DISCUSSING famous newspaper leads the other night and it was agreed that perhaps the shortest, but most dramatic and effective was the one about the San Francisco earthquake. "San Francisco waa!"

Well, the conversation finally got around to leads on sports stories and most of the better ones, strangely enough, dealt with offbeat events as compared to the leading spectator events.

Two concerned the Americas Cup yachting race. Damon Runyan wrote that "Watching the American Cup is about as exciting as watching the grass grow."

And Ring Lardner came up with "I suggest that the next Americas Cup race should be staged on the Niagara River with the start preferably just above the falls."

And then there was the lead on a six-day bicycle race: "The six-day bike race would be immeasurably improved if it were conducted on a straightaway."

Runyan had another great lead on the Joe Louis-Jack Roper title bout held in Los Angeles during Joe's "bum-of-the-month" campaign: "Today's bet bet: Roper to place."

One fellow wrote after arriving at the yearling sales in Kentucky from the executive baseball meetings in Florida: "It is nice to be here after the baseball meetings where a man may again see a complete horse!"

IN HIS NEW BOOK, Steeler quarterback Bobby Layne a fun-lover from way back, says "I wanted to start this book by saying: 'I was driving down the avenue one morning, alert and happy, when a parked, swerving street car ran into me head-on.' But who would believe it?"

Joe Schmidt, Detroit's great linebacker, relates an anecdote about Bobby when the latter was still with the Lions.

One night, Bobby, Joe and a couple of others decided to go out on the town. When they arrived at one establishment, Bobby insisted on parking the car on the sidewalk.

After they had been in the bar about five minutes, two policemen came in. Joe and the others tried to hide, but Bobby took charge. "And the next thing we knew," Schmidt says, "we were driving along with Bobby behind a police car with its siren screaming. Layne had talked them into escorting us to the next bar!"

ONE BASEBALL MAN, who happens to be a student of military history on the side, gets a big kick out of taking wars or campaigns and describing them in baseball jargon.

For instance, he says "you know, Napoleon could have beat them Russians, but he didn't have no bench." And "the Confederates were pretty fair, but they couldn't win on the road!"

Last-Minute TD Nets Duke Win Over Wolfpack

DURHAM (UPI)—Quarterback Walt Rappold flipped a touchdown pass to Stan Crismon with 90 seconds to play Saturday to give heavily favored Duke a 21-14 victory over North Carolina State.

The Atlantic Coast Conference win was the fifth in a row for the Blue Devils, who were given several anxious moments by their traditional foe, State, has not beaten Duke for 16 years.

The game-winning TD pass, plunged the final yard into was the second for Rappold, who threw to end Pete Widener for Duke's first touchdown. Fullback Mike Backs in the second half as Curtis ran four yards for the second Blue Devil tally.

The Wolfpack showed its score, meant business from the start and scored a first period touchdown on a nine-yard pass from quarterback Bill Friger to sophomore Jimmy Guin. A seven-yard run by State's Jim Rossi deadlocked the game in the third period and kept it that way until Rappold's pass.

Middies' Soph QB Sinks Pitt

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—Navy's Middies dredged up the ancient sleeper play for a 66-yard touchdown pass the first time they had the ball Saturday and then crushed Pittsburgh, 32-9 before 32,000 fans in the 16th annual Oyster Bowl.

Brilliant sophomore quarterback Roger Staubach passed and ran Navy to its fourth victory of the season and its third in a row.

Staubach's passing set up each of the Navy touchdowns and he capped a brilliant performance with a wiggling 22-yard run for another score.

Staubach, 20, from Cincinnati, who took over the helm earlier in the season and started Navy moving, had a perfect day with eight completions in eight attempts for 192 yards.

Navy's first score was the most sensational. Halfback Jim Stewart limped to the sideline the first time Navy went into a huddle, then streaked down the chalk mark when the Middies put the ball in play on their own 34.

Stewart was all alone and uncovered on the Pitt 30 when Staubach hit him with a perfect pass. Stewart ran for the touchdown without a Pitt defender coming close.

Last-Quarter Pass Produces Standoff

HOUSTON (UPI)—The winless Rice Owls came from behind in the fourth quarter Saturday night to tie top-ranked Texas, 14-14, on Randy Kerbow's 18-yard touchdown pass to tailback Ronnie Graham.

Texas had staged its own comeback earlier, getting second and third-quarter touchdowns after Rice took a 7-0 lead in the first period on Paul Piper's 49-yard scoring run, and Kerbow's first extra-point kick.

TOMMY Ford blasted three yards for Texas' first touchdown and dashed 55 yards to the Rice 9-yard line with a punt return to set up the Longhorns' second score. Second-string tailback Jerry Cook slipped off tackle for the score on the next play. Tony Crosby kicked both extra points for Texas.

Ford stopped two Rice drives with pass interceptions on the Texas 11 and 27.

A capacity crowd of 72,300 watched as Texas' seven-game winning streak, including a Cotton Bowl win over Mississippi, was snapped by the fired-up Owls.

Rice tied Louisiana State, 6-6, to start this season, but then lost its other three games.

WITH 10 minutes left in the game, and Texas looking its strongest of the night, Kerbow rolled out on a third-and-seven and hit Graham in a corner of the end zone with a perfect pass to give Rice the tie. Kerbow converted with his kick barely sailing over outstretched Texas line men.

The tying drive began on the Rice 43 after Ernie Koy recovered a fumble.

Iranian Brings Dreams, Talent to Long Beach; Produces, Stars in Movie on His View of U.S.

By GEORGE ERES

Long Beach bartender Mohammed T. Zarindast mixes a fine martini.

But mostly he mixes fine dreams for "House on the Sand," a motion picture he has written, is co-producing, stars in and directs. Much of the filming is being done now in Long Beach—at the harbor, in the Anaheim Street and California Avenue district; scenes have been shot in the cemetery in Signal Hill and some scenes will be shot on the Pike.

The film has been six months in the shooting and Zarindast hopes to be ready for the music in January.

Meanwhile, he is working toward a degree in cinematic arts at UCLA and at part-time bartending.

FIVE YEARS ago Zarindast knew no English. He arrived from his native Iran "... a tragic territory which cultivates nothing in its heart but dissolution, sadness and dreams."

He left his jobs there—writing, teaching drama, acting and dancing "to find a place where my emotions, youth and talent would be used."

He said what struck him most forcefully here is the Negro question. "In Iran," he said, "we do not have this problem. The idea for the story came to me when I saw a Negro student at UCLA watching a white student and a Negro girl.

"I wanted to picture as broad a cross-section of life in this country as possible—more than a tourist's look at America," he said. "The story grew into a moral and psychological study of a young man, a Mohammedan, who falls in love with a Negro girl. His father opposes the marriage. The girl's father is not opposed but feels the difficulties facing the young couple would not bring happiness."

The story is told through the eyes of a 12-year-old Negro boy.

TO TELL HIS story, Zarindast gathered together a group of players, many of them from the Long Beach Little Theater roster: Clay Foster, who has appeared in "Majority of One" at Off-Broadway and "Third Best Sport" at Community Playhouse; Michele Murphy; Sondra Evans, radio and television actress, the female lead who will appear in Off-Broadway's next production, "Invitation to a March." For the 12-year-old boy, Mike Montgomery of Long Beach was selected.

Zarindast, 28, frankly is concerned with artistic success—a not too generally approved of idea in motion picture production. He is, too, frankly eager for success personally.

"A foreigner is a stranger," says Zarindast. "My experiences on the stage fulfill the emptiness of my heart when I am alone. This is the field I planned on entering since my childhood when it was the only reality that existed for me."

"To have hopes for success, or something to hope for is man's reality. This is how he takes his place in the universe and communicates with the world."

CLOSE UP of Mohammed T. Zarindast as he appears in a scene from "House on the Sand," film he wrote, acts in and directs. Some of the sequences are being shot in Long Beach.

Gleason's Style---Live It Up Big

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (CP)—This is the year they invented Jackie Gleason the actor.

The world long has known Gleason the comedian, Gleason the musician and Gleason the sour mash Diamond Jim Brady.

Gleason the actor, 45, who bills himself as The Great One—something that no shrinking violet could ever dream up—is least surprised of all.

"I've always been an actor," he said discussing Gleason the serious actor in a comic setting. He was wearing polka dot shorts at the time, looking like Smokey the bear in a Bikini.

FEW RECALL that Gleason once had a movie career before he hit comedy's big time on television. His Hollywood stand in those early years of World War II give a remarkable insight into the grandiose style of living that has always been the Gleason trademark.

Patsy D'Amore, owner of the Villa Capri, a hangout for the movie crowd, tells about the $75-a-week actor in those days.

"JACKIE always dined in my restaurant—but never alone. He threw a party every time he came in. No one picked up a check when Jackie was around even though prices were low in those days. Jackie signed them all."

"Before long the tab was $3,000 and Gleason had been dropped by Warners. He came in the night before he left for New York. "I'll take care of you, pal," he said.

"I NEVER dunned him even when he had made it big in television after the war. Then he came in the Villa one night soon after he had signed that $8-million contract with CBS."

"He ordered spaghetti marinara, his favorite, had a few drinks. The tab at most was $10. He asked to pay by check."

"I looked at the check. It was for $3,510. I started to say something but Jackie stopped me."

"I'm just a big tipper, pal," was all he said. WHICH BRINGS UP Jackie's drinking. Is he an alcoholic?

No. Gleason is a social drinker. He never drinks when he is alone. But then, he seldom is alone.

"There is nothing wrong with drinking if you know why you drink," philosophizes Jackie. "I know why I drink. I drink to get bagged."

Then he also adds: "Drinking also removes warts and other skin blemishes. Not from you but from the people you are drinking with."

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

'I'm Naughty,'---Melina

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Yellow-haired Melina Mercouri threw herself down full length on a couch and thundered out the news that she doesn't see any good reason that a working actress should get married—so she's going to get married.

"I'm an anarchist," she said, giving it an amusing "ch" sound, as she rested her chin in her hand and waited for a waiter to bring some vodka.

Seemingly in admiration, Producer Jules Dassin, her husband-to-be, waited for the next bulletin, while sitting nearby.

"I'M A NAUGHTY girl—but only in America and Greece," proclaimed the fascinating Greek who played Ilya, the lovable prostitute, in "Never On Sunday."

"Because my pictures are condemned in both places."

"No," protested Dassin. "Yes—in Greece, too, the little ones couldn't come to see me in 'Never On Sunday' and now they can't come to see me in 'Phaedra'."

I don't think it's right. I want to be seen by the young generation."

IN "PHAEDRA," based on the legend of a king's daughter being in love with her step-son (Tony Perkins), there are some love scenes which disturbed the censors.

Yet, despite her desire that "the little ones" be able to see her emote, Miss Mercouri wants no little one in her own life and is candid enough to say so for publication and perhaps invite criticism.

"I am an adult," she explained. "I can be with a man without marriage."

DASSIN said he didn't agree. "I speak for myself. It's too late for me, anyway," she said. "Why all the men want to make you a little girl again? I don't want to have a child. I have my life arranged without that."

Melina was even more "anarchistic" about marriage. For security, marriage is "hokay," she thought.

"If you can't have a man you love by any other means than marriage, then by God, marry him!" she said.

"IF YOU travel to America and you must take two rooms and you don't have the money, then marry the guy and save the money," she said, "on the other room."

"And buy dresses!" she added. "I don't agree with her," Dassin smiled.

"He's an old-fashioned American boy," she said.

Sign Contract, See L. B. World Trade Growth

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Progress Editor

Added stature for the Long Beach area in world trade circles was seen the past week following signing of a contract for architectural and engineering services on a 25-story World Trade Center structure to be built on Pier J.

Signing the papers in Washington, D.C., were Charles C. Weidlein, president of International Towers, Inc., developers, and Dan A. Kimball, president of Aerojet-General Corporation. The AETRON Division of Aerojet will do the work.

WEIDLEIN said there already was widespread interest in trade circles in the project and estimated that actual construction on the tower building would start in February or March.

JUNE 1, 1964 was set as target date for completion by Weidlein as he signed the contract.

The $30 million complex of high rise buildings will be located on a 13 acre plot south-east of the Harbor Department Administration Building, and near the entrance of the proposed World's Fair.

On his return to Long Beach, Weidlein noted that he and Kimball had discussed the functions of the planned Long Beach Trade Center in connection with the federal government's common market program, and how it would benefit this "International City."

WEIDLEIN said, because of his experience with advanced design and construction methods and because of complex electronics requirements of the World Trade Center, AETRON has engineered many of America's largest rocket production, test and launching facilities.

Features of the new building listed by Weidlein and make the two million square foot trade-center a landmark for ships entering Long Beach Harbor from all over the world. One will house a 600-room hotel; the other will include shipping and international commercial offices.

Linking the towers will be a multi-level center concourse for sales and display.

AETRON was chosen to design International Towers, the residents.

Proposed Port of Long Beach landmark for arriving ships will be the International Towers World Trade Center, with a 600-room hotel on one side, and shipping offices, customs brokers, consular and international banking offices in the other. The multi-level concourse connecting them will be 600 by 200 feet, enclosing a plaza. There will be parking for 1,500 cars.

'RUMP SESSIONS' HIT

C of C Gains, Problems Told

Long Beach Chamber of Commerce is approaching its goal of being the finest one in the state, but it still must overcome a number of "problem areas," including financial and legislative support, Harry Krusz, executive vice president, reported to chamber leaders the past week.

Krusz told board members and committee chairmen at a luncheon in the Lafayette Hotel that the chamber now has more committees working at more projects and holding more meetings than ever before.

However, he admitted in a mid-fiscal-year report on the group's activities that the chamber has only partially realized its expectations.

WE KNOW HOW to run a much better chamber than we now operate," he said. "Our principal limitation is in having the funds it takes to implement our knowledge. Some must continue to give attention to building income."

Krusz said voluntary working time donated by chamber committeemen since April 1 amounts to 2½ years in terms of man hours.

He said this mirrors the fact that "we are beginning to get somewhere near our goal" of being the finest

HARRY KRUSZ
Makes Report

Chamber of Commerce in the state.

"WHEN WE GET to the point where we can budget $200,000 per year," he said, "we will have the kind of a chamber that this community needs. We have budgeted $171,000 this year, so we are not too far away from what we need."

Krusz cited "lack of maturity" among some dis-sidents as a bar to civic progress through chamber efforts.

This has been shown, he said in "rump sessions" of small groups gathering on unofficial occasions like private cocktail parties and dinners to engage in the "age-old pastime of downgrading chamber achievements" and "using it for the convenient whipping boy."

"THIS KIND of criticism is gossip and destructive," he said.

"The chamber has always been ready to take a strong stand on legislative and other measures. But never from the standpoint of selfish interests."

He said a decision is taken "after a thorough study of the facts and a vote on a wholly democratic basis."

He said too many want to withdraw when the majority decides some issue against their personal stand.

Builder Award Spotlighted for Vegas Session

Presentation of the Builder of the Year Award, one of the highest honors bestowed by the Southern California construction industry to one of its members for "distinguished contribution toward the building of his community, his civic participation and philanthropic activities" will be a highlight of the 39th Anniversary Congress of the Building Contractors Association of California Nov. 15-17 at Las Vegas.

Most of the previous recipients of the award along with more than 600 Southland building industry leaders and wives are expected to witness the ninth presentation of the coveted honor in the Cafe Continental of the Stardust Hotel.

CITY COUNCILMAN Lemone Blanchard of Los Angeles will make the presentation and speak on the subject, "Contributions builders can make toward good local government."

About a dozen general contractors from the Harbor in California, Area Chapter, which includes only 381 have Long Beach, are expected to be awarded this title to the chapter.

Delegates from the chapter will be Tom E. Norcross to qualify, and Raymond Scott, with Milkes as G. O. Millie and William Rus-sell as alternates. C. R. Langslet is president of the chapter.

The annual awards lunch of Southern California mortgage banking firm, has moved its program on sales, merchant-banking and building operation which is the statewide accrediting group.

Business Building Opened

COSTA MESA—Grand opening will be held today for what is called the city's newest and most modern commercial building by George M. Holstein & Sons at the new $600,000 "Thrifty Corner," 170 E. 17th St.

The facility will house the 40-year-old home building concern as well as serve as headquarters for the fast growing Southern California Thrift and Loan Co., George M. Holstein III, head of the company, explained.

Southern California Thrift & Loan will occupy more than half the entire ground floor, with the Holstein offices situated in half of the second level.

FULLY AIR CONDITIONED and featuring several new innovations such as "air ceiling" a new "glass bridge" between the upper levels, garden type landscaping, elevator and ceilings of light, the Thrift Corner building was designed by architects Plegler and Zook, AIA of Corona del Mar.

Founded more than 40 years ago in the Beverly Hills area, the building firm is one of Orange County's largest subdividers and is currently developing more than 1,000 homes in the Westmont area, in Fountain Valley, 350 at Del Cerrito, in the Tustin area, and 250 in Orange.

IN NORTHEAST ORANGE COUNTY

See Housing Needs in Industrial Expansion

Tremendous expansion brought to the northeast section of Orange County by manufacturing plants such as the new Anaheim installation for the Autonetics Division of North American Aviation Corporation will create in the next few years a demand for homes which should equal and surpass the housing boom already experienced in the area, studies show.

William Lund of Economics Research Associates estimated "four out of every ten new employees brought into the area represent potential home purchasers."

"When one considers that Autonetics anticipates employing approximately 1,500 new employees in the next 12 to 18 months, it is easily seen that the demand for single family residences generated by this employment increase will be substantial," remarked Lund.

OTHER MAJOR aerospace industries such as Hughes Aircraft Co., Beckman Instruments and Nortronics anticipate employment increases, which will affect the housing situation in Northeast Orange, County, although their increases will not be of the magnitude of Autonetics.

Van Camp Sales Up 15% in Quarter

Van Camp Sea Food Co., of Long Beach, has reported 15 per cent sales gains the first quarter of this fiscal year and a 25 per cent gain in net income.

G. C. Van Camp, chairman of the board, said sales reached $20,238,744 for June, July and August, compared with $17,667,519 last year. And, he added, a healthy volume of sales has been maintained.

Lund reported that Economic Research Associates

He was specially selected for the program when he demonstrated an aptitude for accelerated advanced officer training.

Following completion of the program, he served as assistant operations officer at the Lakewood Plaza and Lakewood Center branches.

Shaffer and his wife, Fay, have two young children: Mark 3, and Elizabeth 1.

ZMUDZINSKI launched his career 11 years ago in Hermosa Beach and later held a variety of positions at the Lakewood Center and Lakewood Plaza branches.

Del Webb's Sun City, Calif. Draws 10,000 Visitors Weekly

SUN CITY, Calif.—Visitors to the newest of California's towns and the latest addition to the Del E. Webb active retirement communities continue to pour across electronic counting devices in record numbers.

Although Sun City, Calif., is but four months old, these traffic counters have recorded an average of more than 10,000 people each week since the formal opening on June 17-18.

Sales records continue to tumble as more and more "Californians" from throughout the nation add to the more than $13.5 million sales volume recorded.

The spread of the Sun City active new way of life for senior Americans, which began just 2½ years ago at Sun City, outside of Phoenix, has grown to include Kern City, Calif., near Bakersfield; Sun City, Fla., near Tampa; and now Sun City, Calif.

WEBB OFFICIALS are confident, with the early sales as a basis, that the California Sun City will surpass even the growth of Sun City, Ariz., where more than 6,300 residents now live.

Nestled in the Menifee Valley 22 miles south of Riverside, the California retirement community encompasses property that once was farm and ranch land. Breezes from the mountains which surround the valley have created a natural phenomenon that places a curtain of air from the San Juan Capistrano area between Sun City and the smog pattern from the Los Angeles Basin, creating a "smog-free" condition.

Winding streets with homes bordering a championship golf course—now being played regularly by new residents, those who are waiting for their homes and the general public—rise and fall gently with the easy slopes that make the Menifee Valley an ideal location for people who want to shed the workaday hustle of a normal community for the relaxed "do what they want, when they want and only if they want" living among people of their own age in Sun City.

RESIDENTS HAVE been moving in a continuous stream of vans and the streets where only construction vehicles were allowed now boast family cars and friendly faces.

JAMES A. BENSON
To Los Altos Branch

Managership Post Filled

James A. Benson has been named manager of the East Long Beach (Los Altos) office of the United States National Bank. The appointment was announced by E. C. Aldrich, regional vice president.

Benson has been in the banking business 17 years. His most recent assignment was manager of U.S. National's Buena Park office.

He is active in Rotary International and the Chamber of Commerce.

U.S. National has three offices in this area, in East Long Beach, North Long Beach and down town.

Bekins Van Into Rental Business

LOS ANGELES — Bekins Van & Storage announced its entry into the rental business with the establishment of a subsidiary, Bekins Rents, Inc. Bekins' president, Daniel P. Bryant, said the new operations would include rental of a wide variety of equipment including hospital and sick room supplies, health and reducing aids, party and banquet supplies and many miscellaneous items.

These residents have already gotten together for several social functions, arranged by themselves with the assistance of professional coordinators provided by the Webb Corp.

A modern shopping center has been built and most of the 11 commercial units are already open for business although the official opening of the center is not until November. A fashionable motor hotel—Del Webb's Kings Inn—welcomes guests for dining, cocktails and overnight visits.

THE SUN CITY concept, pioneered by the Webb Corp. and now widely imitated by other builders, is probably the most-talked about development in retirement in America. Arizona's Sun City alone has attracted more than two million visitors. California's Sun City home buyers come from all parts of California plus 21 other states and two Canadian provinces.

Oregon Deal Offers Hunting and Fishing

A hunting and fishing "paradise" is being offered in 2½-acre parcels of the 3,000-acre Ana River Lake Ranch in South central Oregon, according to Hal Lundeen, insurance executive owner.

"I originally acquired the ranch because of its unique location and features," Lundeen said.

The entire southern boundary of the ranch borders the Summer Lake Game Refuge, where 12 to 18 thousand geese are bagged every season. The western boundary borders the Fremont National Forest where the greater part of 10,000 deer are taken every season.

"WHEN I SAW the beautiful 200-foot deep spring-fed lake stocked with 30,000 trout and more than a mile long for fishing, boating and swimming, that did it," Lundeen said.

"Our friends enjoyed the area so much, they persuaded us to let them buy a part for themselves. This called for a subdivision."

Some 340 acres just 200 yards north of the private lake have been subdivided into 2½-acre parcels. These parcels front county dedicated and maintained roads and are surveyed and staked ready for immediate or future use. Total price $995.00, 10% down and easy no-interest terms on the balance.

State Highway 31 runs through the ranch and the small community of Summer Lake is located at the South-west corner of the ranch property, offering stores, gas station, restaurant and schools.

ELECTRIC POWER, telephone and propane services are available to each ranch site. In addition all property owners will have full use of the Ana Lake with its exclusive beach area now under development.

The balance of the 2½-acre parcels, amounting to some 100 parcels, will be offered for public sale today from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The sale will be held at the new conference room of the new Tower Building at the Disneyland Hotel in Anaheim.

The public is invited to see the pictures, maps and other information on display.

August total was 7,600, compared with 6,560 in July and 6,890 in June.

Residential building in the southern half of the state during 1962 is expected to hit a record of around $2 billions.

Orange County shared in the August upturn, with 3,086 units that month compared with 2,015 in July, 2,815 in June and 2,004 in August of 1961.

Sales in Garden Park Estates Boosted by Two-Story Design

Marked increase in the sale of both one and two-story luxury residences in Garden Park Estates' current unit can be credited to the interest aroused by the community's beautiful, award-winning two-story home which has brought throngs of visitors and buyers to the furnished model display at Knott Ave. and Garden Grove Freeway, officials said.

The new unit in this "walled-city-within-a-city" presents an exciting selection of distinctively diverse dwellings.

One-story elevations have two-bath plans with two bedrooms and convertible den, three and four bedrooms with dining and family rooms, and the magnificent two-story homes have five spacious bedrooms: three on the second floor and two on the first.

ADDED NOTES of luxury in these two-story residences are the two fireplaces: one in the spacious living room and the other in the upstairs master bedroom.

Keyed to individual budgets, the favorable financing offers VA terms of nothing down, except impounds and closing costs, with monthly payments from $98.50, including principal and interest, and choice of 30 or 35-year

FHA loans. Buyers will also find Cal-Vet and good conventional terms available. Full prices are from $17,800 to $25,600.

Soundly constructed with lath and plaster walls and ceilings, forced air heating with thermostat and summer cooling control with roofs of red cedar shingle or crushed rock, Garden Park Estates' homes also include clean, long-lasting concrete driveways to the oversize two-car garages.

Furnished models are reached by driving from Long Beach east on Seventh St., past Long Beach State College, straight to Knott Ave. and Garden Park Estates.

The Board of Directors of Pacific Far East Line, Inc., has announced an increase in the company's quarterly dividend payments from 15c to 25c on outstanding common stock.

This represents the first dividend increase since 1955, save for a 10c extra paid in December, 1957.

In July of this year, the company took delivery of its ninth Mariner vessel, completing its contractual obligations for modernization of its fleet and enabling it now to operate an all Mariner trans-Pacific service.

The dividend is payable Dec. 1, 1962, to stockholders of record as of Nov. 16, 1962. It is the 30th consecutive quarterly payment on the company's common stock.

Mr. R. A. Watt, president, R. A. Watt Construction Co., Gardena, California

"More buyers want Medallion Homes"

"I've built over 11,000 homes and apartments here in Southern California in the last fifteen years," says Mr. Watt. "And in this time there's been a steadily growing number of buyers who want the advantages of electric living. That's why I'm building so many Medallion Homes today."

"As an example," Mr. Watt continues, "our latest development, New Horizons, is an own-your-own apartment community near Santa Barbara. Each of its 360 units is built to all-electric Gold Medallion Home standards."

As Mr. Watt has observed, more and more home buyers are joining the trend to electric living every day. They have discovered the comfort, cleanliness and lasting modernity that only a Medallion Home can offer. If you are planning to buy or build a new home soon, make sure it bears the Medallion Home Award.

Only one new home in four earns this distinction. These are the qualifications:

1. A flameless electric kitchen—cool, clean, modern. It comes equipped with major electric appliances, including automatic flameless electric range and oven.

2. Full "Housepower" wiring—only a home built to rigid Medallion Home standards has the overall electrical capacity necessary for truly modern living.

3. Abundant lighting—planned for comfort, convenience and beauty throughout the home.

A total electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these benefits plus:

4. Flameless electric home and water heating.

Brentwood Gardens Buyers Pay Less Than Apartment Rentals

KITCHEN OF CHARM IN HOME

Spacious kitchen in Brentwood Gardens home is highlighted by built-in range and oven, ceramic tile counters and large eating area. Only $1 cash is needed for moving into a new home.

Brentwood Gardens buyers are finding that their new homes are not only providing an equity investment, but that monthly payments are less than what they had been paying in rent, according to Don Hermanson, sales manager.

"A survey has revealed that most of our buyers," said Hermanson, were paying more in rent for apartments than they now pay on loans to buy homes.

"They also find, according to the survey, that by owning a Brentwood Gardens home they get more room, many modern conveniences, and most treasured of all — privacy," Hermanson said.

"Another advantage," Hermanson added, "is that when and if a homeowner must move, he can realize an appreciation of his property value."

"Some of our buyers realized as much as $1000 a year appreciation in home price, when they sold."

OWNERSHIP at Brentwood Gardens, he said, starts for only $1 total move-in cost, with monthly payments beginning at $89.

Brentwood Gardens is a development of Larwin Co., affiliate of Larwin Group companies, nation's largest builder and developers of homes and shopping centers.

Brentwood Gardens residences are available in four basic floor plans and 20 exterior elevations, including ranch, Hawaiian, provincial, contemporary and traditional.

Floor plans provide three and four bedrooms, or three bedrooms and family room or den two baths and oversized garage.

Other features include built-in gas range and oven, built-in TV antennas, vinyl asbestos tile floor, garbage disposal, double sinks with ceramic tile counter tops, deluxe bathroom Pullmans with marble-grained tops, walk-in bedroom closets, custom wallpaper and aluminum sliding glass doors.

Also included are buttress-wall room dividers, custom lighting fixtures, forced-air heat, termite-proof foundations, acoustical-type ceilings, lath and plaster walls, hardwood doors, weatherstripping and 100-amp electrical service.

To reach Brentwood Gardens, drive the Santa Ana Freeway to Knott Avenue, turnoff in Buena Park, continue south on Knott Avenue to Lincoln Avenue. Model homes are open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Homes by Hunsaker Are Budget Priced

Convenient to employment in Orange County's rapidly expanding industrial areas, Huntington Beach Sunshine Homes, units 2 and 3, have been planned to meet every family need and convenience, yet the residences are offered at prices within the average family's budget, stated S. V. Hunsaker Jr., vice-president of S. V. Hunsaker and Sons, builders and developers.

THE SPOKESMAN said that location at a resort city that has become the fastest-growing community in Southern California has contributed greatly to the overwhelming success experienced by Dutch Haven in the Huntington Beach area.

He added that another important sales factor is the fact that purchase of a Dutch Haven home includes title in land, with property rights fully protected by the Title Insurance and Trust Co. Many other homes being built in the area are being constructed upon leased ground.

The new Dutch Haven units are ideally located for family living. Climate is excellent and just minutes away, California's finest beaches offer boating, surfing, swimming and picnicking. Major department stores will soon be opened, a large shopping center is close by and excellent elementary schools are within or near the developments.

"AMERICAN HOME SERIES" residences are being shown exclusively at the new Dutch Haven communities. There are 16 exterior elevations available, including the popular Dutch Provincial, Ranch House, Colonial and Hawaiian Modern styles which have been best-sellers in other Dutch Haven communities. The Dutch Provincial model has been acclaimed in national magazines for its livability, beauty and low cost.

The homes are three to four bedrooms with family room and up to two full baths. Prices start at $14,950, with $95 move-in cost to veterans on VA terms. Cal-Vet terms and FHA loans at the newly authorized 5 1/4% interest rate are also available.

Community Playhouse

... the house that families built

By MARY ELLIS

Many local males who bring home the bacon—and their spouses who cook it—are among the best part-time hams at Long Beach Community Playhouse.

Here many prominent husband-wife teams, also entire families, devote countless avocational hours to all manner of theater jobs.

With these would-be thespians, representing all walks of life—from housewives turned showgirls to scenery-shuffling executives—the play's the thing.

Behind the play is work, all kinds—on stage, behind scenes, out front.

AT LONG BEACH Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St., dean of little theaters in this city with 33 years continuous production (even during war years), that work is heart-beat of the organization.

No task is too lowly, even for those elevated to administrative ranks.

Members of the board not only supervise and plan; they act, direct workshop productions, busy themselves at budget and clerical jobs, tear down and build sets. They repair fences, cook and serve for parties, even usher.

Often, the star of today's show is found painting scenery or collecting props for the next.

And the juvenile player of yesteryear is often the star of today, who may bring his or her children in tomorrow to make their debuts.

NOW AND THEN, fathers and mothers act with their children. Or they may go in for more menial tasks.

Take the Mathews family. Ruth and Bill were first drivers and chaperones for their talented daughters, who both have played roles of distinction.

Now Bill, by day an executive at Navy Shipyards, has charge of addressing mailers. Ruth is chairman of hostesses, also serves as usher and what-not.

The daughters? Virginia (Ginny), student at Long

LEADING LADY Barbara Crooker is equally at home backstage.

DONNING APRON, Harry J. Moore serves as first assistant to wife Caroline when she utilizes culinary artistry for Community Playhouse party.

IT'S MAKE-UP TIME for theatrically-compatible Connie and Dan Baurac, one of Community Playhouse's most active husband-wife teams.

The Wild Waves Say . . .

By Iola Masterson

I, P-T Women's Editor

WELL, FOR spirits' sakes! Did you know about the bone-rattling good time they had at Naomi and Charles Chandler's and Madeline and Burroughs homes last night?

They entertained at an embalming fluid hour prior to the "Hauls Round Set" Petroleum Club's annual Halloween dinner dance. Guests first were bidden to the Burroughs' "Bone Yard" where the gruesome decor put them in an absolutely ghoularish state of mind. Then in solemn (yeh, I'll bet) procession, complete with props, they walked to the Chandler's "cemetery" for a belt of Old Great Great Granddaddy (he was a great old man).

Among the haute haunt set present were Mirian and Harry Jordan, frankly uninhibited in cavanman outfits, Ann and Kay Walton, who came as Susie Wong and "some" coolie, Ruth and Harry Carrothers, as Peter Pan and Captain Hook, and Walt and Evelyn Scott, who were authentically handsome in Bavarian attire.

If you're a sparerib fan, keep this in mind. The hosts saved, begged and borrowed used ribs. They dried and bleached them, then wrote the invitations on same, mailing them in tiny gunny-bags. On second thought, considering Eddie Day's new postal regulations, you may have to deliver such mail-out goodies in person this time next year or even sooner.

THE WENTWORTHS have went and returned and the went was well worth it, according to Betty and Palmer. They motored in leisure and good vacation spirit through Arizona and New Mexico where autumn scenery is in high gear.

GETTING to know all the cats (Halloween black or otherwise) in their new neighborhood are Virginia and Bill Artman, who moved into their recently purchased duplex on Coronado last weekend. In fact, their move set off a chain reaction, dear to the hearts of all van men. Dorothena and Al Maloney and children immediately moved into the Artman's former home on Manilla (which they had purchased) and Ermyne and John Nimocks moved in the Maloney's former place in Naples (which they had ditto from Dorothena and Al).

This grand scale realignment of citizenry was delayed while the Artmans vacationed in the Canadian Rockies (Banff, Lake Louise, Jasper) and thence home, via Seattle, and finally Coleville, Calif., where they visited Alice and Harold Huffman in their hunter and fisherman's mecca, the Buckhorn Motel.

DON'T KNOW about Ernie, but Beverly Lockwood had the look of a wounded doe the other day. Turns out she was paying the price of the very privileged . . . undergoing the uncomfortable effects of shots required prior to a trip to the Orient. With the girls, they'll fly the Wong way next month. To bid them jet speed, Geneva and Stan Weiss entertained at a bon vol cocktails buffet last Saturday.

TRYING to sound matter of fact (but not quite pulling it off . . . bubbles of enthusiasm kept tickling her vocal chords) was Lone Parkins the other day as she discussed latest word from daughter, Mary McLeod. Mary, senior at U. of Oregon, was one of just 50 outstanding girls tapped as a member of Decoys, senior women's social honorary.

GREMLINS have struck again, the little stinkers! They took charge of the typewriter keys when we did the Women's Architectural League story and wrote Mrs. Robert Lane under a picture of Kit (Mrs. Hector) Tinnaro. Which didn't stop anyone from having a bang-up time at their big benefit party Saturday, thanks in large part to Kit's hard work on the shindig as ways and means chieftain.

EVERY FACE as smiley as glowing pumpkins will be next Wednesday, were the face faces which smiled last Monday when Assistance Leaguers dressed up for annual Founders' Day celebration and luncheon. And if fur, fur, fur is any indication, it's going to be a cold winter. Handsome furs, fur hats and fur trimmed ensembles plus sophisticated autumn decor sparked the day.

Founder Winifred Campbell was present and beaming as were charter members Loraine Miller, Lillian Thomas, Cassiata Walker, Flo Newton, Marion Ten Eyck, Ila Locke, Haldis Herzig and Julia Witz, Norma Trammell and Helen Reagan.

Among the capacity crowd, others spotted were Bea Millie and Dottie Dunlap, sporting fresh from Palm Spring sun tans; Tess Heusel, as Silver Ball chairman, full of enthusiasm for a super holiday affair; Mildred Wing, it was announced, is "It" as 1963 deb ball head; and Polly Chace, as autumn-chic as the decorations she contributed for buffet and mantle.

GAMBLING in gamble town, Las Vegas, have been Dorothy and John Munholland whose gambol-mates were her brother and sister-in-law, Eleanor and Joe Campbell of Los Altos.

C of C to Host Ivy Priest

By MARY ELLIS

The high Priest-ess of politics and pocketbooks during the Eisenhower administration is blond, statuesque and smarter than a whip.

She's Ivy Baker Priest, U.S. treasurer during Ike's reign, who's equally conversant with high finance or high fashion.

Also, as mother and housewife (Mrs. Sidney William Stevens of Beverly Hills), she has some very definite ideas about women's role in the complex world of today.

What's more, she's ready and willing to climb on her soapbox — anytime, anywhere — to express her view.

Which is exactly what she'll do here Tuesday evening as guest speaker for the Women's Division, Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, dinner meeting at the Lafayette Hotel.

This confident, dynamic leader of women—men, too —speaks with the assurance that comes only from experience.

"Nothing replaces experience," says she. And she knows whereof she speaks. Take politics. This woman who climbed to a top job in the nation's exchequer started her political career at the ripe old age of 10.

She not only was drafted by her mother, a Utah precinct worker, to baby sit with six other Baker children when her mother was on party business, but also served as babysitter for other Republican women who had party work to do.

Since then she's had a succession of political jobs—including Republican national committeewoman from Utah and director of women's affairs for the Republican National Committee.

THE NATION'S second woman treasurer grew up in Bingham, Utah, a small mining town.

Her father, a miner, became ill her second week of college, so she quit school to help support the family.

"I'd planned to be a lawyer," was her breezy explanation. "But I couldn't swing that in just two weeks at the university."

So she learned while she earned—as telephone operator, as night school teacher, as merchandising manager for a department store and as fashion model.

And about that experience.

"Being a telephone operator helped," she pointed out. "You learn to do so many things at once. You have to see, hear, think, read, write and operate—all at the same time."

Working in a department store had its valuable lesson, too. "There I learned

the important philosophy that the customer is always right."

And politics—"well, that's the best experience of all." As treasurer she matched signatures with some of the most influential figures here and abroad, she travelled the world, also visited every state—from Alaska to Hawaii, from Maine to Florida.

"You soon learn that all the dollars in the U. S. Treasury, taken together, cannot buy the dedication and devotion of the people in this country to the principles of freedom," she recounted.

Those freedoms, and the importance of preserving them at this crucial time, will be subject of Ivy Baker Priest's talk Tuesday night.

The social hour will begin at 6:30 p. m.; dinner at 7. Ruth Dye, dinner chairman for the C of C women's division, said reservations may be made at the chamber offices, 121 Linden Ave., through Monday.

In addition to the guest speaker, there will be an informed discussion on important ballot issues.

The dinner is open to the general public.

Wed in Denmark

Margaret Louise Mee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Mee, Long Beach, became the bride of Gordon Bruce Nordstrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Nordstrom, Seattle, Wash., at a recent ceremony in Denmark.

The bride wore a floor length dress of white organza over taffeta and carried a bouquet of red roses and white marguerites.

HER ATTENDANT was Lena Hansson from Stockholm, Sweden. Jerry Bridges was best man and George Clark and Gene Powell were ushers.

Following a honeymoon in France, the newlyweds will make their home in London, England, where Nordstrom will represent the organization.

The bride was graduated from USC where she was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha and received a Fullbright grant to Europe. The bridegroom was graduated from the University of Washington. Both are staff members of The Navigators.

House That Families Built

Beach State College, won the first feminine juvenile award in 1959 as "Junior Miss" in the summer play by that name. Sister Joan, a student at UCLA, was nominated as best supporting actress for her role in "Pleasure of His Company," her first major part, and is chairman of Playhouse youth activities.

LEADING the field as husband-wife team are Connie and Dan Baurac. She's executive secretary for a local construction company; he's credit manager for an oil supply company.

Both are leading actors. Dan is on the board, is this year's workshop chairman, can and DOES direct, also whips up costumes or fills in wherever needed.

Retired school administrator Harry J. Moore, executive vice-president of Community Players, and wife Caroline, although relative newcomers, are already deeply immersed in the hypnosis of little theater.

Harry is frequently found serving in the kitchen as first assistant to Caroline, whose talents at cookery and organization give support to Sybil Reed, long-time hospitality chairman.

MOLLY AND BOB BOYD, Ann and Vic Cypher are husband-wife regulars on the stage crew. Molly, well-known in local music circles, also plays numerous roles; Ann is currently playing her first.

Like elsewhere, backstage workers frequently move into the limelight as actors.

Example: Martha Knowles, oft-times stage hand, has long been an actress, is trouble-shooter for the director, has tackled jobs of infinite variety in her long years of Playhouse service.

And sometimes-actor Frank Keith,

local display advertising man, utilizes his artistic experience to turn out theater posters, also serves on stage crews. Charlotte Milan, stenographer by day, is a versatile newcomer of the past year who's trained in all phases of theater (Pasadena Playhouse and college). She's already acted in varied roles, has served in many technical capacities, even taught fencing for a recent stage scene.

And school-boy Steve Dohnert, who has innoculated his entire family with stage fever, is a lad to watch.

Bitten by the acting bug when given a ventriloquist puppet by his parents a few years ago, he won an award for his first juvenile role in 1960, also has been tapped for screen tests by Hollywood.

When not acting, his father Don is frequently stage manager.

WHICH ALL ADDS up to lots of material for paid director Larry Johns, who roars and coos at his big acting and producing crews, can find a job-to-do for all willing hands.

He is at best (and worst) during "hell week," that period before opening night when all ingredients must be brought to a jell.

In that week, sound and light cues go awry, props appear in strange positions, colors of costumes clash, tempers flare, mishaps are strange and unpredictable. Finally calm and order descend.

Once Larry was observed laughing aloud—like mad—in his director's seat at the rear of the theater.

What was so funny?

"Oh, nothing at all," was his reply. "I just want them to become accustomed to sounds of laughter. They will have a good audience only if they make it so."

"They have to learn how to react to success."

Calling All 'Guys and Dolls!'

When the Patrons of Long Beach Civic Light Opera attended a rehearsal in the Concert Hall Tuesday night they saw a hard working cast polishing the bright lines and fast routines of "Guys and Dolls."

The production opens Thursday at 8:30 p.m. to run through Sunday and again Nov. 9, 10 and 11. The story is based on characters created by Damon Runyon, with music and lyrics by Frank Loesser. Jo Swerling and Abe Burrows wrote the book.

HEADING THE cast are Laura Killingsworth as Sarah, James Boyd as Sky Masterson, Elaine Nelson as Adelaide, and Rube Amer as Nathan Detroit.

Director and choreographer Bill Roberts is being assisted by Kathy Davis, who is herself a well-known local actress and dramatic coach. Musical director is Jack Kroesen.

The able supporting cast includes James Doherty as Arvide. He has played many leads in local productions and won the best acting award at Community Playhouse for "A Man Called Peter." Others are Ed Grieve, Kenneth Wahl,

THE SPOTLIGHT will be on dancers Vivian Hoban, Tony Sakowicz, Leah Roberts, Lonnie D. Rhodes, Barbara Kennedy, Ross Lynn Tepper, Georgia Thompson, Rebecca Jackson and Sonia Newberg.

When "Guys and Dolls" opened in 1950 on Broadway—where it ran for three years—it won enthusiastic acclaim from the critics.

Audiences came out of the theater humming the hit tunes:

"Bushel and a Peck," "I've Never Been in Love Before," "Take Back Your Mink," "If I Were a Bell."

THE PLOT sparkles around the efforts of the dedicated Sarah to lure Sky away from his sinful ways and into Save-a-Soul Mission, the hilarious complications of Sky's gambling pals, and Adelaide's conniving to get Nathan to end their 14-year-old engagement with marriage.

For ticket information call Long Beach Civic Light Opera Association, 518 E. Fourth St.

Water Color Exhibit Experimental, Classic

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The California Water Color Society show at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., until Nov. 11 is a handsome collection of 75 works. While water color is the painting medium which requires the most control, it is also the most immediately responsive to the artist's expression. This group exploits and explores its every possible aspect... bright and muted, sharp or misty, representational or abstract.

BESIDES CLASSIC transparent watercolor, there is collage, casein, guache, pastel, and charcoal. In prize-winner Leonard Askin's "Icarian Passage" there is a fast swoosh through space in blues, oranges, reds—emphasized by touches of poison green, and areas neutralized with white chalk. (Interestingly enough, this is the fourth treatment of this theme on view currently in Long Beach.)

Adjoining is an example of wet on wet paper, Paul Sousa's "Interlude," which is classic in composition and a skillful suggestion of landscape, horizon, and sky in tints which, shimmeringly, blend.

MOST OF THE show is displayed in the upstairs galleries. Lucille Brown-Greene's casein "Equals Infinity" is an interesting abstract conception with the canvas divided vertically into halves of light and dark with all kinds of textured patterning.

Fran Soldini is represented by a small, charming "Medieval Pantomime," a pensive composition of interwoven lines around planes of pleasing colors, some pasted on.

Phil Dike's "Harbor Return," in classic watercolor style, is of anchored yachts, beautifully handled with rollicking waves contrasted to an orchestration of vertical masts.

'The Roof' on Film Bill

"The Roof," an Italian import by the maker of "The Bicycle Thief" and "Shoeshine," continues the foreign film series at 5 and 7:30 p.m. today in Long Beach State College Little Theater.

The production, the work of director Vittoria de Sica, is the fourth in the current series of the Long Beach Film Society.

The plot is a simple but dignified account of a young married couple's search for a home in post-World War II Italy.

Major & Minor Notes

MEMORY OF TEACHER

UNDYING INSPIRATION

By RACHEL MORTON
I, P.T. Music Clinic

"Don Giovanni" went on in Cannes, but the Master was not there. It was a fine performance, and as I have listened to that opera in many countries since, I may say it was an extraordinarily fine performance.

A week passed and there were no lessons. My heart was troubled, and although the gardens of the Villa Verger were filled with lovely roses, I could not resist buying a few and sending them with my love. The next day came a note which I believe to be the last writing of Jean de Reszke.

It was his card, and on it was written: "Mille remerciements pour les magnifiques roses and thousand kisses. Bravo pour Donna Anna. Magnifique!"

The second week of anxiety was too much to bear, so I boldly asked to see the Master. His niece Minia told me that the doctor had ordered that no one should see him.

"Only let me look in upon him, and I promise he shall not see me or be disturbed by me—my word of honor, Minia." So it was agreed.

MINIA TIPTOEED in, and I followed. There he sat, huddled in his chair, the little black shawl with its narrow green stripe over his shoulders. He seemed so alone, so disconsolate, so forsaken, sitting there. I stopped from behind and kissed his dear bald head, and a tear must have caressed him too, for he sat up suddenly, exclaiming, "Who kissed me then?"

"I did, dear Uncle," said Minia.

"No, it was not you. Who, then, kissed me?"

"Shall I get you some water?"

"Non, non, laissez-moi tranquille." (Let me be quiet).

HIS HEAD sank again on his breast, and Minia closed the door. Alas! Alas! that my word of honor kept me from a last tribute of love, for which he so hungered. O that I might have lifted up my face, that he might read the devotion, the anguish, the gratitude that was in my heart.

On Good Friday afternoon, April 3, 1925, he died, at a quarter to four. The young men students stood watch until he was taken to the Catholic Church in Nice on Monday, where an immense throng gathered for the simple service. Eight of his devoted ones, including Minia, whom he loved dearly, and myself, went with the body to Paris.

AT THE GRAVE only a few followed our beloved one. Strangely enough, although the magnificent flowers sent from many lands were wilted, the blanket of Parma violets—he loved Parma violets—which covered the casket, the last gift of the pupils to their master, was fresh. One violet fell at my feet as the casket was lowered, and I have it, a last token.

In the Montparnasse cemetery you may see the black granite monument inscribed "De Reszke." A palm wreath in bronze is inscribed: "A notre cher maitre bien aime—ses derniers eleves." (To our Master, well-beloved—His last pupils).

There he rests, and each time I visit Paris I sit with him who lives in my heart, whose teachings are my vocal creed, whose memory is my undying inspiration.

Cornelia Otis Skinner on 'Evenings at Eight'

Author and actress Cornelia Otis Skinner will present a two-part program of "Modern Monologues" and "The Wives of Henry VIII" at 8 p. m. Friday in the Long Beach City College auditorium, Harvey Way near Clark Ave.

General admission tickets will be available at the box office Friday night for those who are not "Evenings at Eight" season subscribers.

Miss Skinner, author of several whimsical books on her theatrical and lecture-circuit experiences, also writes all the material for her character sketches, monologues and "monodramas." Her six-scene study of the women in the life of Henry VIII is the result of intense historical research.

MISS SKINNER re-creates the quite differing personalities of Henry's six wives—Catherine of Aragon, Ann Boleyn, Jane Seymour, Anne of Cleves, Kathryn Howard and Katherine Parr. She also invokes the presence of the willful and self-indulgent monarch who divorced two of his wives and had two of them beheaded.

Next program in the current "Evenings at Eight" season will present Carlos Montoya, flamenco guitarist, on Nov. 28.

Youth Concerts Slated

Organist to Initiate AGO Series

A free Youth Concert will be given at Millikan High School Auditorium Saturday by the Long Beach Symphony. Craig Nies, gifted 13-year-old pianist, will be soloist. Craig completed in the summer auditions for young artists conducted by the Symphony Association and Long Beach Music Teachers' Association. One of the youngest performers ever invited to appear with the 90-piece orchestra, he will play the "Hungarian Fantasy" by Liszt.

Lauris Jones will conduct the orchestra. The program, "Music From Many Lands," includes music from France, Germany, Italy and Russia. Jones will tell something about each piece before it is played.

Peeters is organist at the Metropolitan Cathedral in Mechelen, Belgium, and also director of the Royal Flemish Conservatory in Antwerp. Among his recent achievements was the world premiere of his "Magnificat" for organ and brass dedicated to Roger Wagner and performed by the Roger Wagner Chorale at the National Convention of the American Guild of Organists held in Los Angeles in July.

THERE will be two performances. The first, at 10 a.m. is for fourth, fifth and sixth grade boys and girls. The second, at 11 o'clock is for junior and senior high school students.

Parents and friends of children may bring groups of young people and stay with them for the concert, if they wish to do so. Any adult may attend if accompanied by a child.

The concert is the first in a series sponsored by Long Beach Symphony Association and presented with the cooperation of the Long Beach Unified School District. Funds are provided through the generosity of Local 353 and the Recording Industries Trust Fund of the American Federation of Musicians.

Treasures of Egypt on Tour

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

You may see priceless Egyptian art, never before exhibited outside the Cairo Museum, at Los Angeles County Museum from Wednesday through Dec. 2.

"Tut-Ankh-Amun Treasures" are touring the United States for the first time under auspices of the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service, in cooperation with the minister of culture and national guidance of the United Arab Republic.

Among the 34 pieces on display will be a gold dagger found on the mummy of King Tut-Ankh-Amun, who was buried more than 3,000 years ago; jewelry of the Pharaoh, miniature coffins, gold, alabaster and jeweled ornaments.

The treasures were discovered in the fabled "Valley of the Kings" in 1922 by Lord Carnarvon and Howard Carter.

The tour is designed to spotlight the enormous salvage program sponsored by UNESCO for the Nubian monuments threatened by the Aswan Dam Project.

THIS IS the final day for the exhibit of landscape paintings in Long Beach Art Association Gallery, 800 E. Ocean Blvd.

Frederick Black, director of Long Beach Museum of Art, will judge the Fall Juried Show which will open next Sunday with a reception from 2 to 5 p.m.

The gallery is open daily from 1 to 5 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays from 1 to 7 p.m.

SKETCHES, oils and water colors by Berg Reinhard are on display at Magnolia Theater, where they will remain until mid-November.

Mrs. Tink Strother, who resides at 11262 E. Belcher St., Norwalk, has paintings on exhibit at the Sari Heller Gallery, 11979 San Vicente Blvd., Los Angeles. They may be seen through Nov. 19.

Mrs. Strother, who recently spent a year in Mexico, teaches in the adult division of Excelsior High School.

DURING NOVEMBER, Laguna Art Gallery will show "14 Americans in Paris," an exhibition of 40 paintings and sculptures by American artists working and living in France.

The exhibit is in conjunction with the annual Orange County Art Exhibit, for which Millard Sheets, Brownell McGrew and Milford Zornes are serving as judges.

"14 Americans" was organized by the American Cultural Center in Paris and includes work by Theodore Appleby, Oscar Chelinsky,

Dames Are Drawn to Dance

Once upon a time there was a little girl named Cinderella (Mrs. Jim Gardner) who sat in a dusty corner and depended on a fairy godmother and mouse-power (Mmes. Greg Hoskins, left, and Art Kraft) to get her to the ball. Today's Cinderella (Mrs. Leonard Brock, greeted by Mmes. Milton Cantor, left, and Douglas Benwell) relies on a good couturier and horse power to get where she's going. And that's what Dames Club members suggest you do when they urge you and your prince charming to join them in playing the night away Nov. 10 at Petroleum Club. Dancing to 16-piece orchestra of Gordon Grove will be for fun and to further goals of Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

WHY GROW OLD?

Trick-Treat Diet Helps Maintain Ideal Weight

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Obesity is no longer just a cosmetic problem. It is a number one health problem. Too many pounds are the friends of heart and vascular diseases, high blood pressure, diabetes, hardening of the arteries and other disabilities, especially those so prevalent from middle age on.

There is dependable evidence that it is important for us to remain at our ideal weight all through our lives. This does not mean "average" weight since most folks gain weight as they grow older.

As most of my readers know, I have been offering my Trick and Treat Diet this week. It gives you a loss of about five pounds in seven days. Here are the menus for the final day.

BREAKFAST

One-half grapefruit, one teaspoon sugar
One slice toast, very lightly buttered
Two slices crisp bacon
Coffee, one teaspoon sugar

DINNER

Consomme with parsley
Celery and carrot sticks
One-half medium broiler (one to one-half pound chicken, or, one good slice roasted chicken)
One medium baked potato seasoned with salt and parsley
One-half cup cole slaw
Peaches, two halves, one tablespoon syrup

SUPPER
Egg omelet (with one teaspoon butter)
Eight ounces skim milk
Three saltines

IF YOU would like to have this complete diet in a convenient booklet, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Merilene Fage Is Bride-Elect

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd S. Fage, Lakewood, announce the engagement of their daughter, Merilene Dee, to Lawrence Ben Powell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albin M. Powell, Long Beach.

No date has been set for the wedding.

The bride-elect is an alumna of Lakewood High School. Her fiancé, a graduate of Jordan, attends Long Beach City College.

Honor 'Woman of the Year'

Mrs. Earl Burns Miller Thursday was named "Woman of the Year" by Rick Rackers, Junior Auxiliary of Assistance League, at the annual autumn brunch in the home of Mrs. Eugene R. Kirkpatrick, 1491 Bryant Drive.

The choice had been a closely guarded secret until Mrs. C. Robert Langslet, Rick Racker chairman, awarded the honorary title to Mrs. Miller before an audience of smartly gowned guests.

Slender, blonde, blue-eyed Mrs. Miller is modest about her accomplishments. But as Mrs. Langslet reviewed her activities—reported by friends and co-workers—they comprised a cross-section of philanthropic, cultural, civic, educational and humanitarian work in the community.

★ ★ ★ ANOTHER high light of the brunch was introduction of the 1962-63 edition of the Rick Racker Reporter, edited by Mrs. Ray Green.

This eighth annual publication gives valuable coverage to major women's clubs of the city, listing events, aims, officers, philanthropies and other pertinent facts.

Proceeds from its sale are used for the Assistance League Girls Clubs of Long Beach.

Honored guests for the day included former recipients of the "Woman of the Year" award: Mmes. Everett M. Findlay, Gail C. Hudson, Burton C. Chace, Walter H. Case, A. A. Carrey, Llewellyn Bixby Jr., and Ivah B. Eaton.

Other special guests were Mrs. Don Murphy, Assistance League president, and presidents of philanthropic organizations.

★ ★ ★ RICK RACKERS' newest "Woman of the Year," who resides with her husband at 250 Bennett Ave., is widely-known as a poet, and author of plays and pageants which have been staged frequently in this area. Her "California Saga" has been presented at the Santa Barbara Festival and throughout the state.

Currently, at the request of Long Beach Historical Society, she is working on a series of dramatic episodes about Los Cerritos Rancho. They are slated for future production.

★ ★ ★ IN 1933 SHE collaborated with the composer, Dr. Joseph W. Clokey, writing the words for an Easter cantata, "Adoramus Te." It has been sung by choirs across the nation and last Palm Sunday was performed by Calvary Presbyterian Church here.

Mrs. Miller is a nationally-recognized authority on Wedgwood ware and is an expert on Assistance League's Howard Art Collection.

Former president of Opera Reading Club and of Chapter BD, PEO, she has served on the board of Ebelle Club, was a Gray Lady and assisted in setting up the first local civilian blood bank at Seaside Memorial Hospital.

★ ★ ★ A CHARTER MEMBER of Assistance League and

one of the original sponsors of Rick Rackers, she has served the league in many capacities.

A founder of the Volunteer Auxiliary to Seaside Hospital, she was elected president of the organization in 1960, which now serves Memorial Hospital. In addition to official duties she has donated more than 1,900 working hours in the hospital.

In September she was asked to be a sponsor of the newly-organized Memorial Dames, made up of wives of hospital interns.

Mrs. Miller's interest in young people is demonstrated by her work with Volunteers, an organization of teen-age boys and girls, sponsored by the Volunteer Auxiliary.

Recalls a friend, "Her life has reflected a statement she made many years ago: 'One must give of oneself in service.'"

Voice of the Vikings WOMEN IN SPOTLIGHT WITH TEA, CONFERENCE

Smart Luck Only Kind

North's hand was full of point count, but it really wasn't too good. Doubleton queen-jacks often aren't worth more than two small cards and that is just what happened to his club honors.

West cashed the ace and king of clubs and shifted to the ten of diamonds. East's ace took dummy's queen and the jack was returned.

Dummy won with the king and after trumps were drawn South played his ace of hearts. West's singleton king dropped and South claimed the balance.

There is no question, but that South was lucky. On the other hand, there was nothing dumb about it. It was smart luck.

SOUTH missed the ten-nine-eight of hearts as well as the king and deuce.

If he went over to dummy and led the queen of hearts he would have to lose a heart trick irrespective of who had the king or how many times it was guarded.

There was only one way for South to make his contract and that was to play for a singleton king.

South gave the cards a chance to work for him.

Builds Useful Life Pair to Wed in December

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Some educated people say that society is to blame for our criminals. That poverty, slums, discrimination, poor education, etc. is what produces crime.

I've always been poor. I still am. I always had to work for my living. I drive an old car and live in a poor section of the city. I come from a large family that barely filled our tummies, let alone the cupboard. I never had much schooling and went barefoot most of my younger years.

I have never maimed any man or wanted to kill, rape or conk somebody on the head to rob him. I never resorted to dope to make my existence bearable. And there are millions like me.

So, is society responsible or are the criminals themselves responsible for anti-social behavior?—J.C.R.

DEAR J.C.R.:

You've stated a case for society and against the individual rather well. But which factor is primarily to blame, who can tell. That crime increases per capita is increasingly evident. And

Dear Molly

that society is increasingly more sophisticated we won't question.

Perhaps our conquest of outer space will ease the criminal's claustrophobia. One can hope.—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

What do you think of a wife who sends her husband cards? Cute little ones that say, "Come up and see me some time, I give stamps." Or holiday cards that say, "You're all the celebration I need." Or get-well cards when he's not even sick?

He seems to really love her in spite of this.

—NEIGHBOR.

DEAR NEIGHBOR:

I think she's a perfect doll that can bring any man to life. More wives should care enough to give stamps. Even with the postal price rise.—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

What happens when you lose all feeling for your mate? Yet you don't believe in divorce because it's against your religion, except for adultery? And there are no children involved.

My wife is driving me to becoming frigid. She is frigid and it's catching. She loves to start arguments with me, and who would want to love a shrill-tongued shrew?—NERVOUS WRECK

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My husband says he has lost all feeling for me. I found his letter and I am enclosing it with mine.

There has been much unhappiness. At first he drank. And he has always been rough.

When I tried to divorce him, his sister hit me in court. She dug up everything she could find in the past (I have been married three times) and tried to run me out of town.

I have worked from 10 to 13 hours a day trying to help financially. I have lost all I saved on account of his family. Doctors have said my nervous breakdown was brought on by his family.

—NERVOUS WRECK

DEAR MR. AND MRS.:

Finding some kind of flame when you are both frigid won't come easy. But if each of you would look at this through the other's eyes, you might spark a flicker at least.

You have charge and counter charge. Put yourself in the other's shoes and I think you can find a way to stop the pinch.—M.M.

Mr. and Mrs. Derrall W. Call announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Ann, to Neil Norman Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Meyer.

The wedding will take place Dec. 16 at the home of the bride-to-be's parents in the presence of members of the two families and close friends.

The bridegroom-to-be is a graduate of Millikan High School. He attended Long Beach City College before transferring to Long Beach State College. He is affiliated with Sigma Pi.

Degree of Honor Schedules Events

Degree of Honor Lodge 108 will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at Machinists' Hall, 728 Elm Ave. to honor Velta Hunt and Myrtle Manderson, advancing officers. Fern Wood will be chairman for the evening.

The public is invited to the lodge's annual bazaar and dinner to be held Sat. at Machinists' Hall from 5:30 to 8 p.m. Mary Corrigan is general chairman with Celene Eivers in charge of the dinner and Nellie Lloyd in charge of the dining room.

Indoor Sports Plan Bazaar

Long Beach Chapter of Indoor Sports, a club for physically handicapped, will have its annual bazaar today from 2 to 10 p.m. in Poly Hutch, 2611 Locust Ave. Hand made articles will be sold and there will be a white elephant sale.

FOASBERG'S FABRIC CARE COUNSELOR

HALLOWEEN IS FOR GARAGES

If you're planning a Halloween party for the children, clean out the garage and hold it there. Orange and black crepe paper when damp bleeds the color into carpets and upholstery in the house — and everything is apt to be pretty messy. In fact many party decorations can leave permanent stains including those paper leis given at luaus. Our stain-and-water resistant Soft-Dry treatment helps, but avoiding colored paper is the best idea.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Past Should Be Forgotten

DEAR ABBY: I work in a store and became friendly with a customer who used to confide in me. One day he told me he was in love with a beautiful, wonderful girl and was going to marry her. When he brought her into the store for me to meet, I was dumbfounded. She was beautiful, but far from wonderful. I had known this girl for years and she had a terrible past. Thinking she might have changed, I offered my best wishes and said nothing. He married her and she had not changed. My friend discovered it too late and he took his own life. I feel that I am responsible because had I told him the truth he might not have married her. I failed him, Abby, and my heart is heavy with guilt.—J.

DEAR J.: Perhaps he would have married her anyway. Do you did what you thought was right at the time. Do not blame yourself.

DEAR ABBY: Our son attends College Park High School. His girl friend attends Pleasant Hill. College Park plays Pleasant Hill for their homecoming game. Does our son sit on the girl's side or should she sit on his side?—CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Your son sits with his classmates, and his date sits with him.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 13-year-old stepson whose table manners are revolting! His father yells at me if I correct him or criticize him in any way. The worst part of it is that his father doesn't even notice how dirty the boy's hands are. The boy goes a whole day without washing them. He plays with the dog and then comes right to the dinner table.—MRS. X.

DEAR MRS. X.: It shouldn't matter whether this boy is a stepson or of your own blood and bone. He should be taught cleanliness. Announce that everyone must come to the table with clean hands or he can eat alone. And stick to it... If YOU have to eat by yourself in the kitchen.

DEAR ABBY: I think our postal service is disgusting. My father has ordered several things through the mail and when they arrive they are either bent, broken or cracked. Several people in our neighborhood have the same complaint.—DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: Don't blame the postal system. Packages must be properly WRAPPED in order to be delivered in good condition.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Halloween Ghosts Create Dye Scare

Mom's may get their biggest scare Halloween not from little ghosts and goblins but the damage left in their wake.

Cheaply dyed Halloween costumes and crepe paper decorations can cause permanent stains on rugs and carpets.

According to technicians of the National Institute of Rug Cleaning, the danger is especially great on rainy, autumn evenings.

Fugitive dyes found in these costumes and decorations are almost always indelible after transferred to textiles. They become permanent when allowed to dry.

WHEN A STAIN is discovered, they recommend immediate first-aid action.

Mix a teaspoonful of neutral soapless detergent in one-half pint of lukewarm water. Apply solution directly to stain with an eye dropper a few drops at a time.

Blot the stained area with clean, white unstarched cloth or cleansing tissue, beginning at the outer edge and working toward the center. Repeat, if necessary, remembering to blot rather than rub.

Finish by absorbing moisture completely since poor drying may cause a water stain. Place clean, unstarched towels or a half-inch thickness of cleaning tissues on the area. Weight the blotting material down so it remains in constant contact with dampened area and leave in place until the spot is completely dry.

Schools Should Not Have Fire Hazards

By Richmond Barbour, Ph.D.

Are your children safe from fire while they're at school? We'll have at least 2,000 school fires this year. That's a lot of conflagrations. School fire season is ahead. Will you check the fire precautions at your children's school? Do it soon.

Are fire drills held frequently? There should be at least one drill a month. They should come at unscheduled times, without warning. The drills should be varied by blocking different exits from time to time.

Are the outside doors at your school fitted with "panic bolts?" They're the metal gadgets with a bar across the door which open when pressed hard. Are the panic bolts in working order? Or are they chained shut? Sometimes careless custodians chain doors shut to keep kids from banging in and out.

ARE THE stairways kept clear? Is anything burnable stored on or near them? Are there at least two ways for

Bert's Baked Bass Better Than Bubbling Batter

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I, P.T. Food Editor

He got in on the ground floor at an early age and is tops today in "under-standing" of what goes below. Chef of the Week Burton S. Galleher has been selling hardwood flooring since 1919. He owns the Galleher Hardwood Company.

A Nebraskan by birth, Atkinson, Neb., and then Stuart where he taught school for two years, Galleher decided at the age of 19 that he had outgrown the boundaries of that state—so he left. In South Dakota, his next stop, he had his first taste of the lumber business.

Colorado came next on his itinerary—not, however, before he married a Nebraska girl. That was in 1912, the year her parents came to Chino. A year later the Gallehers followed. Long Beach beckoned them in 1914 and he, quite naturally, joined another lumber company.

Five years later he and a partner, Jim Reid, bought the hardwood flooring department of the Haywood Lumber and Investment Co. That partnership lasted until 1930, when he started his present company.

GALLEHER HAS a profound interest in youth work. With four daughters and 11 grandchildren, (six boys and five girls), he surely has the proper mental stimuli. The Boy Scouts came in for much of his enthusiasm, he being a member of the Boy Scouts 100 Club. Nothing, absolutely nothing, could take precedence over its annual dinner with the boys.

A member of Virginia Country Club, Galleher is also a charter member, 1919 vintage, of the Kiwanis Club of Long Beach.

He makes a practice of touring golf links at least two or three times a week, but has about decided to give-it-all-up in favor of bowling. (He's a member of the now famous Kiwanis Bowling team, you know.) Galleher is an avid gardener, too—especially in the realm of roses and dahlias.

He loves to fish and can hold his own in a game of gin rummy.

While he has been called the "neatest man around the house," his aim at an ash tray is rather remiss. In that respect, he could compete with Winston Churchill.

AND, SPEAKING of fishing, our "chefs" recipe today is his own innovation—Baked Bass for Campers. He and five confirmed buddies are well known at Lake Mead for their fishing from a converted LST named "Dumbo." It's their pride and joy. The LST—not the bass.

Galleher's baked version of bass is rather recent. Formerly he fried it. However, that recipe meant rolling the fish in cornmeal. Well... one time the cornmeal turned out to be White King Soap Powder. That bass simply bubbled all over the campground, so he changed the recipe. The baking procedure is fool-proof, we assure you.

BAKED BASS FOR CAMPERS

Reserve large bass for this overnight cooking.

At night, clean fish and remove head. Season inside and out with salt and pepper and spread with margarine. Roll each fish separately in waxed paper, folding ends in, and wrap in thick wet newspaper.

Dig a trench for each fish just deep enough to allow ONE inch of earth on top. Bury bundles and build campfire over trenches and leave until breakfast time.

TRICK OR TREAT ON BEHALF OF UNICEF

Two Long Beach State groups will be trick-or-treating Wednesday, but their Halloween activities are for the benefit of kids around the world.

One is the group with the catchy name—ACE (Association for Childhood Education) who don costumes for a door-to-door campaign with proceeds to UNICEF.

Also engaged in collecting financial goodies for UNICEF are members of Spurs, women's national sophomore honorary. The gals continue their drive to aid the underprivileged with a three-day sale of UNICEF Christmas cards Nov. 6, 7, and 8. You can obtain these attractive reminders of the holiday season at the LBSC bookstore and five other campus locations.

Delta Gamma news notes: Lynne Davis, DG pledge, is the honorary pledge of this year's Phi Kappa Tau fraternity pledge class... homecoming is past, but the satisfaction still lingers 'cause Queen Connie Sonntag and Princess Judy Krenwinkel are Delta Gammas... sorority members should have even a better idea of what goes on in student government: Phyllis Mouw is now the secretary to AS prexy, Gary Little.

WE NOTE with interest that the recently received newsletters of Wesley Foundation and SAM (Society for the Advancement of Management) both carry out our college's California Gold Rush theme: Wesley's goes by the name "Assayer," and SAM's is "Minershaft." For "Minershaft," it was Volume 1, No. 1, and the wheel organized first issue promises great things for future publications, "Assayer," which came to our desk with regularity last year, is again chock full of information. We salute it, editor Carolyn Jorgenson, and Wesley Foundation for a low key but high efficiency presentation of WF news.

Looks like Alpha Phi sorority is pulling the wool over the eyes of those cotton pickin' judges. Both Long Beach candidates for the state Maid of Cotton title (to be determined in two weeks at Fresno) wear the AP pin: Ralaine Ramer, representing Long Beach State, and Barbara Lundell, representing Port of Long Beach.

PHI BETA (women's speech, drama, and music group) is four members richer after Janet Bates, Yvonne Divans, Gina Hagen, and Marie Roberts were pledged in recent ceremonies. PB is another group active on the Halloween scene: members will take children from a nearby orphanage trick-or-treating.

Quickie Calendar for the LBSC Little Theater: Tonight, 5 and 7:30 p.m.: Foreign Films — "The Roof"; Monday at 8 p.m., Roy Harris, noted American composer, "My Experiences as a Composer"; Tuesday, 8:30 p.m., pianist Johana Harris in concert.

OUR COVER

Men and women whose big interests are money—old coins, that is—will converge on Long Beach Thursday for a four-day, semiannual session of the California State Numismatic Convention. They'll come from practically all points of California and from many cities of the United States and Canada. Cover girl Lois Stevens of Long Beach looks over a layout of valuable old coins—such as the Saint Gaudens Double Eagle or $20 gold piece at top of glass. Among others shown: Spanish milled dollar, Great Britain 1887 dollar, Peru 1 sol, 1795 bust-type silver dollar—a controversial coin, one of which sold in 1960 for $28,000, and the Liberty head $20-gold piece. Coin in center is a 1795 silver dollar, first dollar-size coin minted in the United States. More about coins and collectors on Page 7.

You Ask, We Answer

By Haskin

Q. What is the name of the poison in poisonous mushrooms? What causes it? A. J.

A. There is no one toxic substance common to all poisonous fungi. Closely related species may contain quite different poisons, and a single species may have more than one kind. The poisons are products of the plants' metabolism and may be waste products which have accumulated in their cells. The various poisons affect different parts of the human body—some acting on nerve centers, others affecting the digestive system. The same poison may have different effects on different people, and many animals eat with safety fungi which have toxic effects on mankind.

new bacteria. These in turn, split after a certain time—each forming two new ones. In some types a new generation appears as often as every 15 minutes.

Q. Before the invention of sonar, how many soundings had been taken of ocean depths? R. G.

A. About 15,000, or roughly one for every 6,000 square miles. The first successful sounding of ocean depths was obtained by Sir James Clark Ross in the Pacific Ocean in 1839. Using a heavy hemp line over four miles long, he obtained a sounding of 2,425 fathoms, which he described as "very little short of the elevation of Mont Blanc." Sounding was done by dropping to the bottom a long sounding line marked in fathoms—a long, laborious task. Even when equipment was improved, a sounding required several hours or sometimes an entire day.

Q. In the 1961 national poll of favorite hymns, what were the top 10 favorites? B. S.

A. The National Newspapers Hymn Poll, conducted from July 15 to Oct. 10, 1961, showed the following hymns and gospel songs leading the list: (1) The Old Rugged Cross, (2) How Great Thou Art, (3) What a Friend We Have in Jesus, (4) In the Garden, (5) Amazing Grace, (6) Rock of Ages, (7) Sweet Hour of Prayer, (8) Abide With Me, (9) Beyond the Sunset, (10) Whispering Hope.

A. Each bacterium splits, and in doing so forms two

Q. Please define "poundal." E. L.

The Mayflower on Wheels

By Elsa DeBra

EVERYBODY enjoys a turkey feast at Thanksgiving time — especially if it's outdoors and has a first flavor.

In the shaded plaza of Pilgrim Place at Claremont — home of 280 retired Christian Workers — the celebrated turkey comes on, steaming in king-size baking dishes,

On Sunday and Monday, Nov. 9-10, several thousand visitors will enjoy this luncheon in a turn-back-the-clock New England atmosphere. The occasion is the annual two-day Pilgrim Festival with bazaar, conducted tours, and the presentation of an hour long out-door historical pageant, "Pilgrims Triumphant."

Pilgrim Place, a 28-acre plot of homes, established in 1924, is located at the corner of Harrison and Berkley Avenues in Claremont, 50 miles from Long Beach via Long Beach and San Bernardino Freeways.

VISITORS WILL SEE dozens of elderly citizens, youthful in traditional Pilgrim garb, moving about the bazaar tables, waiting on customers. All wares on display — jams and jellies, cakes and candies, dolls, needlework, Oriental art, — are made by residents of Pilgrim Place. The women — modern Priscillas in colorful costumes — look like May flowers, walking. The John Aldens, in black and gray costumes with buckles and high hats, scout through the crowds to lend a helpful hand. Many chores are involved in carrying out this yearly benefit.

Even as Gov. Bradford in the early Pilgrim colony solved problems as they arose, so this unique community of senior citizens meets its needs. When an alert administrator, a discerning board of directors and generous cash gifts get together every problem gets full attention.

Caring for the physical

Residents of Pilgrim Place, costumed for their yearly festival, bazar and pageant, board modern Mayflower.

needs of the ailing is the simplest problem of all. On the premises are a well-equipped rest home and an infirmary. In the near future, "The Lodge" — a 20-room home, accommodating couples unable to carry the physical burden of housekeeping — will be ready for occupancy.

Needs of the many active trained men and women, desiring to work part-time also demand attention. Administrator Herkelrath says, "One of the greatest problems of stopping of one's lifetime retirement is the abrupt work. It's important to bridge that gap."

AND THE GAP has been bridged. Aside from recreational facilities for fun games and hobbies, the institution encourages its qualified lodgers to perform outside tasks, like part-time teaching in one of the nearby colleges, church and social club work, lectures, crafts and dramatics. Then there is always gardening and yard work to be done. The 130 attractive homes, all differently styled, show good care and upkeep.

As pedestrians, a close-up view of these houses presents a problem, for 28 acres of winding streets means endless walking.

To a few, Pilgrim Place means a safe haven, after turbulent past experiences — jungle mission work in Africa, earthquakes in Turkey, riots in Calcutta, imprisonment in Japan.

To all living there, it spells a contentment, born of gratitude.

Scene of humiliation and moment of discipline: This bit is from "Pilgrims Triumphant," Claremont pageant.

Numismatists open Long Beach
Convention Thursday

Rare Money? Here's All Kinds of It!

Among coin collectors, one of the busiest is William W. Wisslead, Long Beach Coin Club president and co-chairman of a numismatists' convention.

By Charles M. Johnson

A FORTUNE in loose change may be rattling around in your pocket! Not long ago a collection of old coins was sold at public auction in Los Angeles. A 1913 U. S. nickel was knocked down to the highest bidder—for $40,000! An 1804 U. S. dollar brought $29,000 and an 1866 quarter was purchased by a happy collector for $24,500!

If you aren't a numismatist—fancy word for coin collector—you may not know that collectors will pay $150 for a 1909S vdb uncirculated or a 1914D Lincoln cent. (S means it was minted in San Francisco, and vdb are the initials of the designer on the reverse side. D means it was minted in Denver. If a U. S. coin bears no initial, it was minted in Philadelphia.)

A 1939D nickel uncirculated brings $40, and a half-dollar of the same date issued in Philadelphia brings $12.

These figures, of course, presuppose that the coins are in first-class condition. If they are battered, they do not bring so much.

COIN COLLECTORS and dealers from all over California and different sections of the U. S. and Canada will converge on Long Beach Thursday for the four-day 31st semiannual California State Numismatic Convention in the grand ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel, 140 Linden Ave.

Amateur and professional collectors and students of numismatics will bring all kinds of coins, paper money, tokens and medals. In addition to exhibits, the program calls for a coin auction where collectors may bid upon and buy for their collections. Dealers will buy and sell coins. Speakers will talk about coins, and a banquet and entertainment will close the convention. Specimens for sale are described in a large convention catalogue.

All exhibits and activities will be open to the public each day and evening. Hours will be 10 a. m. to 11 p. m. Thursday and Friday; 10 a. m. to 7 p. m. and 9 p. m. to midnight Saturday; 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. Sunday.

SPONSORING CLUB will be the Long Beach Coin Club, of which William Wisslead is president the club, with 200 members, meets at 7:30 p. m. the first Tuesday of each month in the Recreation Department Building, Ocean Boulevard and Elm Way.

The California Numismatic Assn., a nonprofit, hobby organization, holds

This commemorative half dollar was struck in honor of the Oregon Trail and those who traveled it. It is one of most attractive commemoratives.

Not a magician's fake but a Washington "boo-boo." One sheet of these bills with $5 on one side and $10 on the other got out into general circulation.

Even though there is a saying, "Queer as a three-dollar bill," there were such notes, prior to 1862, issued by individual backers, not by government.

Pretty young soprano, winner of opera honors, Carol Todd is pictured at home with her daughters, Kim, 7; Kathy, 3. Carol was raised in Long Beach.

By Bette Tyler

A FEW WEEKS ago a young singer stood on the giant stage in San Francisco's venerable War Memorial House and accepted the ringing plaudits of thousands of spectators who had just witnessed her victory in the national finals of the 1962 San Francisco Opera auditions. For soprano Carol Todd, a 27-year-old performer born and raised in Long Beach, the moment marked the greatest personal triumph of her brief career.

If there was any question as to whether or not Carol Todd had "arrived" it was quickly dispelled when Kurt Herbert Adler, general director of the San Francisco Opera Company, extended to the pretty soprano a contract engaging her services for the 1962 season. The San Francisco Opera Company is easily one of the two finest such organizations in the Western Hemisphere.

Probably the greatest pride in Carol's success was felt in Long Beach. Her father, Otto E. Taylor, of 2468 Linden Ave., who recently retired from the Long Beach Fire Department following 35 years of active service, had particular cause to beam.

"There never has been any doubt in my mind that Carol's voice would some day be appreciated on a large scale," Taylor says. "Carol has always been musical and both her mother and myself always encouraged her. When she was just a little snip of a thing at Burnett Elementary School, she learned to play piano and read music. Later, when she was going to Hamilton Junior High School, she studied cello. She was darn good at it, too. Finally, when she got to Poly High, she decided that she wanted to learn to sing."

THE LATTER decision has proved a happy one for anyone who has ever heard Miss Todd sing. In recent months alone, she has captured two of the highest honors in her field, having appeared on numerous television programs and starred with virtually every major opera company in California. Her dual national awards include the forementioned San Francisco conquest which had been preceded by her capture of the New York Met Special Award in Los Angeles.

Carol's success is particularly gratifying in light of the fact that she also has an important commitment as a wife and mother. In her non-professional moments, she is Mrs. Tod Faulkner of Studio City—wife of a Beverly Hills public relations executive and mother of two daughters, Kim, 7, and Katherine, nearly 3.

"People ask why I use the name 'Carol Todd' as a singer. Actually," claims Carol, "it was my husband's idea. He represents me as agent and personal manager and discovered that it's far easier to represent me if our names are different. This way, he can operate more effectively and avoid giving the impression that he's a biased husband rather than an objective representative."

HOW DOES CAROL'S family feel about their wife and mother trodding the boards?

"We're naturally very proud of her," says Tod. "She manages somehow to meet all her responsibilities head-on without one career encroaching or interfering with the other.

"Although Kathy is really too young to have formed any definite opinions of her mother being a singer, Kim's a big fan and tries to attend every performance in which Carol is involved. For instance, Kim is probably the only 7-year-old around who ever sat through seven straight performances of the New York City Ballet." (Carol vocally supported the ballet company when it recently presented "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Greek Theater.)

Another interesting aspect of Carol's life is that, while not married to a musician, the professions of the two still blend.

"My job of representing television shows and motion picture personalities at a national level also provides me with an opportunity to make an occasional contribution to Carol's ca-

In private life, Carol Todd is wife of publicist Tod Faulkner. Here she receives toast from the San Francisco Opera director, Kurt Herbert Adler.

Monument Valley is a vast land of beauty and mystery, defying man's feeble attempts to describe in the inadequacy of words. This is a view from North Window, showing red sandstone statues casting blue shadows.

Mitten Buttes offer unlimited interest for shutterbugs in a fantastic land.

*Land of Space Enough, Time Enough,
Scenery More Than Enough*

Monument Valley

By E. C. McCrimmon

SIX HUNDRED miles northeast of Long Beach is Monument Valley, one of the most spectacular but least known places in the United States—a land of space enough, time enough and scenery more than enough.

Monument Valley Navajo Tribal Park is a 40x50-mile square in the middle of the Navajo Indian Reservation. Part in southern Utah, part in northern Arizona, the state lines cut it in half.

Brilliantly colored monoliths rise above a high desert plateau. "From broad, vertically scored cliffs to slender needles of rock, a constantly changing spectacle is unfolded. So level is the valley floor that the evening sun casts the shadow of 'The Totem Pole' 35 miles over the desert." Made of harder material than the surrounding ground, wind and weather have carved these gigantic stones into fantastic shapes.

A GOOD ROAD, Highway 47, traverses it. The route from the south is by way of Tuba City, then east to Kayenta, Ariz.; from there north on Navajo Route 18 to the park access road. The season is year around but this country is especially lovely in the fall. Camping is allowed but travelers should bring their own supplies, fuel and water.

A couple of miles west of the main road is Goulding's Trading Post where there are motel accommodations, jeeps and horses, the latter to seek out ancient cave dwellings. During the moving of some tribes this land was thrown open for entry. Harry Goulding and his wife "Mike" homesteaded a section of land, one square mile. They piped their water from five miles away. Since then they provided land for an Indian clinic run by the Seventh-day Adventists.

The first colored outdoor moving picture, "Stagecoach," was filmed here. And descendants of the Navajos that Kit Carson rounded up in Canon du Chelly, made money by acting in a movie about him.

Going from the Grand Canyon to Monument Valley one might see a squaw weaving a blanket on the banks of the Little Colorado, a family group of Indians with an infant on a cradle board, a buck wearing silver and turquoise jewelry, or a woman in a red silk waist and a crimson velvet skirt lying in the shade of a wall.

IN THE VALLEY itself an Indian

girl may tend a flock of sheep mixed with goats.

The first impressive monuments are the Elephant's Feet, so large that a man looks like a fly speck beside them. Further along is the Owl. On the west side are Castle Rock and Setting Hen. The buttes and spires that extend to the east include the Emperor, the Stagecoach, the Bear and the Rabbit, facing each other; the Big Chief and Brigham's Tomb. When viewed from the side or rear these may just look like a pile of rocks.

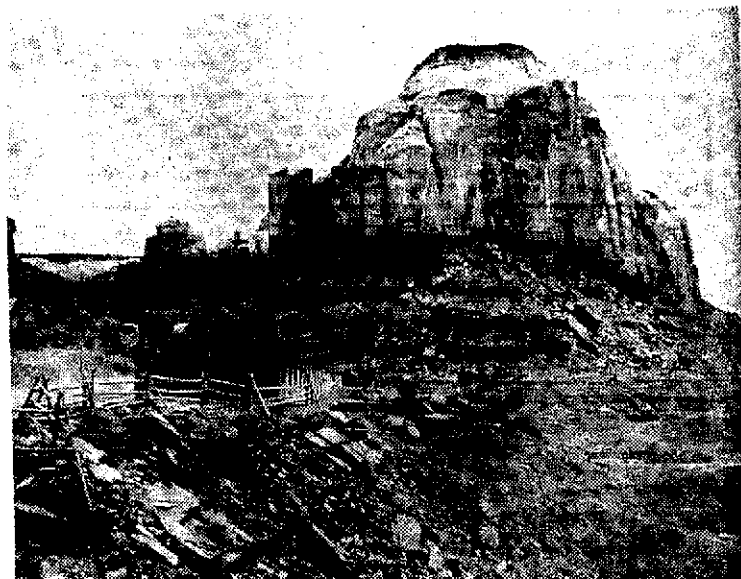

Merrick Butte and Mitchell Butte are visible. These were named for two silver prospectors who lost their lives there.

Four miles to the east the government has built a handsome, modern observatory, staffed by young Navajo college men. Authentic blankets and

Formations, colors of rocks and sky, cloud effects, shadows and vast distances all join in making Monument Valley a paradise for photographers.

Water is piped from five miles away to make possible this homestead set in Monument Valley. A monolith is the backdrop for this far-off dwelling.

Grow Peonies

Peonies are not as widely grown in California as they deserve to be. There are two types—tree peonies and herbaceous peonies and the former do better here than the latter. Check with your nurseryman this month and ask him about peonies for your garden. In planting them, dig the soil deeply and work in plenty of steer manure before setting the plants out. Tree peonies (actually shrubs, not trees) are usually planted from containers which makes the job no more difficult than planting any other ornamental.

Swedish auto license plate of the 1920s is an interesting item in the unusual collection of Dale Holmes.

A Lot of License

By Vera Williams

MOST PERSONS are satisfied with one set of automobile license plates at a time.

Dale Holmes, 6935 Espanita St., has 800 plates! They're from all 50 states of the union, most Mexican provinces, most Western European countries. A few come from the Pacific Islands, some from South America. Oldest is a 1909 New Jersey license; next oldest a 1913 New Hampshire license.

License plates cover the walls of his garage, and now he is beginning to tack them to the rafters.

WHEN HOLMES, a laboratory technician at Garden Park Hospital, Anaheim, was a youngster in Encinitas, he acquired a 1931 New Mexico plate, then a North Dakota 1934, then a 1940 Nebraska plate.

"I got license plates in dribbles for years," he says, "Then a couple of years ago I joined the Auto License Plate Collectors Assn. which has 400 members in the United States, in Central and Western Europe, and one member in Japan. We talk plates and swap plates and help each other get plates."

Holmes has plates used on cars in the 1953 and 1957 inaugural parades, bearing pictures of Eisenhower and Nixon, and the 1961 inaugural parade plate which did not bear Kennedy's picture but could be used in any state of the Union in lieu of that state's own plate through the month of January 1961.

He has a plate issued to U. S. forces in Ethiopia in 1959, a plate issued to U. S. forces in Germany, a plate issued by the West Berlin government after the war, a plate issued by Florida to Seminole Indians, plates from most of the provinces of Bolivia.

HE HAS a special fondness for his Yukon Land of the Midnight Sun plate, bearing a miner shaking a pan of sand, a gold nugget gleaming in the sand. And he likes the Wyoming plate of bucking horse and rider. "Bill Gollings, Western artist, drew that design, I think," he says.

One of his most unusual plates is a Swedish plate of the early 1920s, a large S in an oval, with the number below it.

Several of the oldest plates have detachable numbers.

Some foreign plates are good for the lifetime of the car. Some are good for one ownership—if the car changes hands, the new owner gets a new license plate.

Holmes most would like to have a plate from every state, every year. And from EVERY province in Bolivia. "I already have more different Bolivian plates than any other member of the association," he said. He especially wants Pando and Beni plates from Bolivia.

"And hand-made plates. ANY handsome plates. Particularly California handmade plates, before they were turned out by machinery."

THE BANE of license plate collectors, he says, is stickers—the stickers we get every year in lieu of new plates.

The next bane is freeways. Why freeways?

"They cut through the farms where we used to find old license plates stored in barns, tool sheds, etc. . . . Some of my best plates came from a hog ranch. The owner had stacked them up and forgotten about them until I came along!"

Simple, casual elegance spreads throughout the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll King. Above, a view of living room.

Glass walls also are a feature of the family room which views a screened "tiki hut" facing rear point of the wedge-shaped property.

Careful and skillful design, inside and out, makes for gracious living in this home.

ROOMS THAT complement each other and achieve a continuing interest throughout the house are a feature of the gracious home of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll King, 5400 La Pazada St. The interior design was done by Chris Christensen.

The property is on a pie-shaped lot with the home winding around the wide area leaving the V end for the garden. The theme is contemporary with a slight Oriental accent, greatly emphasized with a separate tea room which overlooks the garden.

An entrance hall with a slate floor which leads to the living room on the right and the family room on the left, three steps up. The long living room, carpeted in white, seems almost a part of the patio and garden with a long glass wall opposite a stone fireplace. A customed, curved white couch is at the far end with a fitted table at the rear on one side. All the walls are paneled in mahogany, with one long beam across the center of the ceiling accentuating the paneling and adding interest to the room.

Gracious Living

Screened hut in the background overlooks a waterfall and the garden, a quiet retreat in a serene dwelling.

The coffee table is mosaic tile. A color note is added with blue, copper and brown pillows on the sofa, touched again with fine paintings on the walls.

PLANTS are King's hobby and they are placed strategically throughout the rooms. They greatly add to the warmth and hominess of the house as well as becoming a decorating theme in themselves.

The dining room is beyond the living room. The set is birch, and the room has television in one corner. A shoji screen behind the buffet separates the room from the kitchen.

The carefully planned kitchen is done in mahogany, blond in tone and rich in appearance. Cupboards include a walk-in pantry with U-shaped shelves which are easy to reach. The beige formica on the work areas is carried up along the walls, lending a streamlined appearance to the kitchen as well as alleviating the problem of soiled walls.

THE DEN is artistically designed and furnished to take full advantage of the garden in the rear of the home. Two glass walls merge and, when drapes are drawn back, the garden is virtually a part of the room. A curved brown and beige silk couch faces the glass walls at the opposite corner.

The guest bedroom is done with turquoise accents in the bedspreads and drapes. The nearby bath is done in orange, with an attractive window treatment carrying out the bright color.

The master bedroom is cool and serene. The bedspread is champagne. A handsome mural is in back of the bed. The headboard is noteworthy: perhaps only a professional decorator such as Christensen would think of having the headboard match the cornice above the window and along the wide mirror in the adjoining bathroom, thus uniting the rooms as a suite.

ALTHOUGH the home is only about a year old, the garden is expertly landscaped. Full grown trees and shrubs were brought in so the garden has the rich appearance which, as a rule, only time will develop.

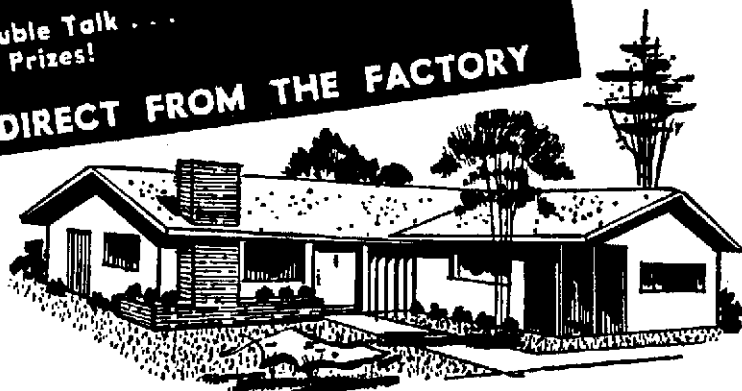

A screened-in tiki hut, elevated three steps the same as the family room, overlooks the garden. Near the hut is a waterfall which is kept running day and night. The quiet, restful atmosphere that prevails makes the visitor feel that he is in a country garden, miles from traffic and population.

This home for two is designed for quiet, gracious living and exemplifies the casual warmth inside and out for which fine homes in Southern California are noted.

Simple Lung Test

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

TRY THIS TEST: Hold a lighted paper match three inches from your mouth. With mouth wide open—no pursed lips—try to blow out the flame.

If you can't do it, your MBC—maximal breathing capacity—is not up to standard and you should have your lungs checked.

Dr. C. Robert Olsen, La Jolla, of Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation, says the test enables the doctor to estimate quickly whether his patient with obstructive pulmonary disease has moderate or severe obstruction of the breathing passages.

The test is described in the American Review of Respiratory Disease.

ROUTINE LOW-FAT DIETS for persons with liver disease are unwarranted, a Syracuse, N. Y., researcher says.

Diets unrestricted in fat offer many advantages to the patient with hepatitis or cirrhosis of the liver, according to a report in the AMA Journal.

With a liberal fat allowance, diets are more palatable, for one thing. Recovery is more rapid in hepatitis (liver inflammation) and there is evidence of healing in patients with cirrhosis, the researcher reports.

DOCTORS ESTIMATE that only 20 per cent of babies born to women who took thalidomide have been afflicted with limb deformities.

A German physician, Dr. Walter J. Hirsch, offers this explanation:

Mothers who give birth to deformed babies after taking thalidomide appear to have a genetic (hereditary) tendency toward limb malformations.

In other words, Dr. Hirsch believes there is an interplay between genetic type and the drug.

Dr. Hirsch is medical director of the Municipal Psychiatric Children's Hospital in West Berlin.

Thalidomide, a sedative drug, is now off the market.

A RINGWORM ailment that bedeviled a patient for 42 years has been cured by the antifungal antibiotic griseofulvin, two physicians in the Philippines report.

The drug was given by mouth for five weeks. Improvement in the condition began six days later. By the ninth day the skin had cleared of eruptions, and itching had disappeared entirely, the doctors report in Archives of Dermatology.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy. For reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Could you give brief genealogy on WYATT—D. W., Paramount.

D. W.: WYATT was adapted by the English in its original form Wyot, from the French name Guyot meaning "little warrior." In remote Wyatt ancestry, Henry Wyot owned land in Cambridge in 1273. Later records list William Wyatt of Devon, 1576. The Wyatts owned Allington Castle, built in 1282 in south English Kent for many generations. The coat-of-arms of this illustrious family has a pair of silver barnacles, instruments used to restrain horses during riding, on a red shield. Epitaphs from Milton, Mass., include "Here Lyes ye Body of Mary Wyat, wife to Edward Wyat aged 92 years died Feb. ye 6, 1705." This lady is mentioned in town records as being "instrumental for the bringing into the world" of 1,100 children in her occupation as midwife.

DEAR MISS RULE: Can you give data on MENDOZA.—J. R., Anaheim.

J. R.: MENDOZA, a widely known Spanish name, is from the Basque provinces of north-west Spain. This name is an extension of the ancient Basque word "Mendi" and means "from the mountains." The family coat-of-arms, held by the Portuguese Mendonca lineage, is a shield divided into four sections by an X-shaped cross. Two sections are gold, bordered with a diagonal red strips over a green background; the other sections have the words Ave Maria in blue on a gold background. Don Antonio de Mendoza was the Viceroy of New Spain (Latin America) in 1542.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you history on GREGORY?—M. L., I. G., Long Beach.

M. L., I. G.: GREGORY is an English version of the ancient Greek baptismal name Gregorios meaning "watchful one." Four saints named Gregory made the name greatly revered in the Middle Ages, especially in England. Elyas, son of Gregor, was an English taxpayer in 1273. The English Gregory coat-of-arms has two blue bars below a blue lion on a gold shield. In Scotland, some members of the ancient Clan MacGregair translated their Gaelic name as Gregory, although most descendants used MacGregor.

DEAR MISS RULE: One of the boys in the VA hospital would like ASPELL.—H. R., Long Beach.

H. R.: ASPELL evolved from the early English words "Asp-leah" meaning "aspen-tree meadow." Development of this name occurred through

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the origin of BLASINGAME. R. A., Long Beach.

R. A.: BLASINGAME was formed from early Saxon English words that gave a clear description of the archetypal ancestor's appearance. The source phrase for this name was "Blaes-inga-ham," translated as "Pale complexioned man's family estate."

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have data on EHRHARD.—W. S., Long Beach.
W. S.: EHRHARD came from an old German hero

name of the same spelling. It was an esteemed appellation for a man known for his sincerity, loyalty and determination, for it meant "honor-strong." The family coat-of-arms from Bavaria has a ring formed from a two-headed serpent crowned with precious stones centered on a blue field.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze Whitney.—M. A., P. W., Long Beach.

M. A., P. W.: WHITNEY, a true English surname, began as a place description used in the 6th Century. "Hwitan-ig," the source phrase, meant "white's river-island." White was a primitive baptismal name for a blond man. A place called Whitney is on the River Wye in Herefordshire, England. Eustachius Whitney of Hereford, recorded in 1086, was a remote ancestor. The Whitney coat-of-arms has a black and gold-checked cross on a blue shield. The most famous American descendant was Eli Whitney, inventor of the cotton gin in 1793.

To Review a Book

By Harry Karns
Educational Research Associates

QUESTION: "Could you offer some plan that will help me write book reports for my literature class?"

ANSWER: A good report is far more than a summary of the events of the book. When reporting on a work of fiction, for example, you should consider:

1. Plot. The plot is the essential story, the skeleton, stripped of details. Here's the plot of a famous novel: A sea captain haunted by the memory of an old foe sails in a mad search; the finds his foe and is destroyed. There's much more to "Moby Dick" than that, of course, but this is the bare plot. When you find the plot, your task of "telling what the story is about" becomes greatly simplified. You need not waste hundreds of words describing material that is purely incidental.

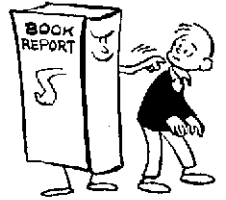

2. Theme. Most books have a single predominant topic or idea. Sometimes this topic or idea—the theme—may be stated in a single word: "Guilt," "Innocence," "Search," "Ambition," "Chase." Sometimes more specific ideas are involved: "War is a terrible experience," "Excessive pride destroys," "Real love survives all." Ask yourself whether the theme is strong and original or weak and banal. Does the author forcefully support his theme, or does he leave you doubting its truth?

3. Characterization. Are the people vivid and real? Do they have many sides to their personalities, with both strength and weakness, good traits and bad? Or are they flat, thin, vague characters?

4. Readability. Is the writer's style clear and crisp, loose and confusing, old-fashioned, modern? Does the story hold you? Do you want to read another of the author's books? Does the story hold you? Do you want to read another of the author's books?

5. Emotional impact. After putting the book down, how do you feel about it? Does it leave you with a sense of hope? Resentful of conditions described? More understanding of other human beings? Discouraged? Satisfied? Amused?

6. Examples. Show what you mean. Select passages and episodes to illustrate your opinions of the book. But make them brief. Your job is to tell about the book, not to rewrite it in twice the number of words used by the author.

New Look
in Beauty

Potent Pastels

Low Key Is
High Style

Pink Cognito, most vibrant of pinks in the Avant Garde collection, are seen here in massed flowers. A touch of brown eye-liner, a dash of violet shadow complete the make-up. Earrings are by Cadoro.

By Beverly Ronson

NOW THERE'S an entirely new look in beauty, created to complement the whole new elegant understated look in fashion.

A recent issue of LOOK magazine describes "the young elegants" . . . a group of socially-prominent, internationally-famous women, who have been the real pace-setters in the trend . . . "they have a distinctive international look, which comes from developing a style all their own and sticking to it . . . They reject fads . . . rely on flawless grooming, individual hair styles, understated make-up and simplicity in clothes to achieve the image that is now the new ideal . . . prefer pale lipstick, reserve more emphatic make-up for the eyes . . . Understatement in make-up and clothes is the new hallmark of beauty . . ."

We couldn't have said it better!

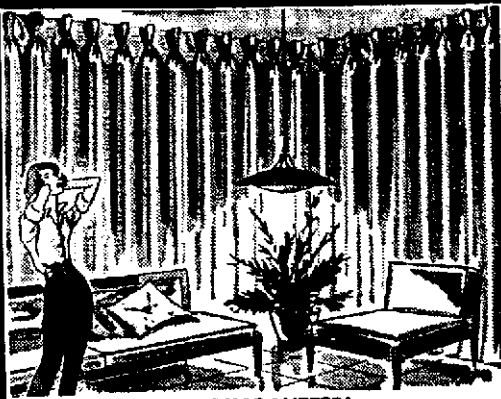

Since a cosmetic look is always part and parcel of the fashion picture, a more subtle, understated approach to beauty is inevitable. The problem in making pastel lipsticks and nail enamels has been in formulation but Revlon has solved that problem with the advent of Colors Avant Garde—low-key, high-fashion shades (ten of them!) that are perfect distillations of deeper tones.

But these pastel lipsticks do not look chalky on the mouth and the nail enamels have not used either silver (as in the "frosted" type) or white to soften the shade. The colors are pure, pale, potent pastels . . . infinitely flattering, indisputable pretty, very Avant Garde.

To illustrate several of these exciting new shades, Revlon photographed actress-model Suzy Parker, who certainly qualifies as one of the "young elegants" of the international set. Suzy, who commutes from New York to Hollywood to Paris, is famous for (1) having been born in Texas (2) her devotion to Chanel and a wardrobe that consists almost exclusively of custom clothes from this great French designer and (3) her own incredible natural beauty—peaches-and-cream complexion, strawberry shoulder-length hair, basically lovely features that need little adornment.

Special flower arrangements for the accompanying picture in tones of Colors Avant Garde were created and executed by Patricia Kroh who is well-known as a teacher and lecturer and whose new book, "Japanese Flower Arrangement Notebook" has just been published by Doubleday and Company.

Get Ready for Santa

Joan Chandler of NBC-TV displays Santa and Elves.

By Steve Ellingson

IT'S GETTING to be that time of year again — the time when merry old Mr. Whiskers takes over the minds of children, the commercials of newspapers, billboards, radio and TV—and the shopping lists of adults.

For those who like to decorate their homes for the happy Christmas season, it's time to get on with plans and properties.

If you have in mind some joyous yard or rooftop decorations for this year's yule season and need a starter, take a look at Santa's little helpers all lined up with old St. Nick himself and pretty NBC-TV actress Joan Chandler (see photo).

The decorations are all printed in full color, are waterproof, they'll stand severe outdoor weather and may be used year after year. Just glue the pictures on plywood, saw them out and they are ready for display. It's easy!

In addition to six-foot Santa and the elves, 3-foot high candy canes and candles are also available. These may be ordered by the dozen.

To obtain one or all of the items, send name and address and check, currency or money order to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif., as follows: No. 189, Santa Claus, $2; No. C-10, Five Elves, $2; No. 292, Candy Canes (per dozen), $1; No. 293, Candles (per dozen), $1; and No. 297, Santa's Helpers sign, 35 cents.

Architect's Sketchbook

WHETHER you build this week's sketchbook project for yourself, or as a present for some friend or relative, it's sure to get plenty of use during the holidays.

Nothing is more handy when guests fill the living room than a set of these hostess helpers—small, folding tray-tables that can be pulled from the closet in a jiffy and set up to make buffet dining a pleasure instead of a juggling act, or to get those ash trays and glasses up off your new carpet.

THE BEST PART is their mobility. They provide a sturdy surface 16 by 22 inches wide anywhere you need it, then can be folded flat to occupy storage space less than 3 inches deep, 27 inches high and 22 inches wide.

SEND 50 CENTS with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for Table Plan S-82.

Other 50-cent Sketchbook plans available from this source and which would make fine Christmas presents for youngsters, include:

Toy wooden Steam Shovel: S-54.

Two-story Colonial Dollhouse: S-31.

Play Kitchen Furniture (Refrigerator, Stove, Cupboard and Sink): S-73.

Indoor-Outdoor Playhouse: S-35.

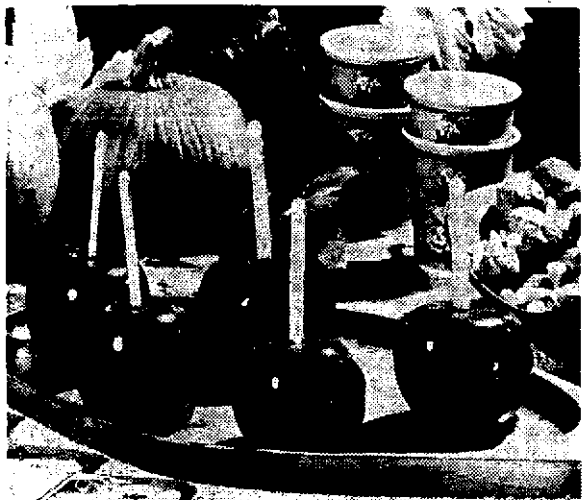

Boy's Workbench: S-47.

Recipe of the Week

DOUGHNUTS always "hit the spot" and a variation of this popular item wins the $5 recipe contest this week for Mrs. Margaret Johnston, 343½ E. 5th St., Long Beach 12. The recipe:

Drop Orange Doughnuts

- | | |
|----------------------------|---------------------------|
| 4 egg yolks beaten | 3 tsp. grated orange rind |
| ¼ cups sugar | 1 cup milk |
| 2 tblsp. melted shortening | 3 cups flour sifted with |
| 1 tsp. vanilla | 4 tsp. baking powder |
| | ½ tsp. salt |

Beat egg yolks and add the sugar. Then add the melted shortening, vanilla, orange rind, milk. Sift the baking powder, flour and salt together and mix with other ingredients. Fix batter day before using and place in refrigerator. Use a teaspoonful and drop into hot fat. After frying, dip in plain sugar.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address, to: Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

proved treats well ahead of time, and why not plan to invite the young-ones in to show-off their costumes and have caramel apples around a buffet table laden with jugs of cider, tangerine punch or hot chocolate, nuts and candies.

Caramel apples are easy to make when you melt handy caramel candies for the dipping sauce. Just insert a stick in each apple — the sticks come with the bag of candies — dip and swirl in the warm caramel sauce and place the completed caramel apples on waxed paper. Chill for a short time and serve; there's nothing more to it, and my how good they are! Better make plenty or you'll find yourself running short because of the "tricks" of a few family ghosts who got hungry.

If you like, make faces or decorate the caramel apples with candies, life savers or raisins before cooling them in the refrigerator.

Caramel Apples

- 1 bag vanilla caramels (49 caramels)
- 2 tablespoons water
- 4 or 5 medium size apples, washed and dried
- Wooden sticks

Place the caramels and water in the top of a double boiler. Heat, stirring frequently, until the caramels are melted and the sauce is smooth. Insert a wooden stick into the stem end of each apple. Dip them into the hot caramel sauce and turn until the surface is completely coated. Scrape off caramel sauce from the bottom of the apples. Put on waxed paper and place in the refrigerator until firm. Remove and serve.

Popcorn Balls

Mix in saucepan 1 cup sugar, ¼ cup water, ¼ cup light corn syrup, 1 tsp. salt and ¼ cup butter. Cook to 250° or until a few drops form a hard ball when dropped into cold water. Remove from heat. Stir in 1 tsp. vanilla. Pour in thin stream over 7 cups popped corn in large bowl, stirring constantly to mix well. Shape, with buttered hands, into balls or any other shapes. Makes 12 to 15 large balls.

Halloween Tangerine Punch

- 1 package tangerine instant soft drink mix
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- ¾ quarts water
- 1 can (6 ounces) quick-frozen concentrated lemonade
- 1 can (6 ounces) quick-frozen concentrated orange juice
- 1 can (18 ounces) pineapple juice
- 1 large bottle (28 or 29 ounces) chilled ginger ale

Dissolve instant soft drink mix and sugar in water. Add concentrates and pineapple juice. Chill. Add ginger ale. Serve with slices of orange. Makes 1½ gallons, or about 50 servings, about 4 oz. each.

OUTSIDE HOUSE PAINTING NOW ELIMINATED

Textured Coatings of America has developed a remarkable product for exterior walls that virtually eliminates outside painting for many years to come. This product, called TEX-COTE, combines the long lasting properties of fibreglas asbestos, mica, and perlite to make a wall surface that resists all climatic extremes.

Throughout the country School Boards have found textured coatings so economical and lasting over the past several years that they are now specifying this type of material for a large amount of new construction and renovation work.

Many thousands of textured coating applications have been made on home, commercial and industrial buildings throughout the world, and these buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years' exposure in all weather extremes.

The United States government and most of the large companies have used textured coatings for many years. This remarkable exterior surfacing provides waterproofing, insulation and beauty, far outlasting any ordinary paint.

Comes in Colors

TEX-COTE comes in 12 beautiful decorator colors—and does not change the structural lines of the building. Actually it adds beauty to any home or structure and increases its value.

Waterproofs, Insulates, Fire Retardant

In addition to beauty, TEX-COTE has the additional advantages of waterproofing and insulation. Through the use of silicoflex, a modern day scientific advance, a water repellent "blanket" envelops the entire building so that no moisture can penetrate and damage the interior of the home. Through the use of fibreglas and perlite, highly efficient insulating material, the building becomes cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter. TEX-COTE incorporates long fiber asbestos in its formula thus reducing the possibility of a fire hazard.

Applied With a Gun

TEX-COTE is applied with heavy duty spray equipment under high pressure. It fuses itself to the wall surface to a thickness 15 to 20 times that of normal paint. It remains flexible and withstands cracking and normal surface expansion and contraction.

Factory Guaranteed

Every TEX-COTE job is registered and factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking or peeling.

No Obligation

Applications of TEX-COTE are being made in this area by Newport Construction, licensed and approved applicators. Free information on how easily you may have TEX-COTE applied at low bank terms may be obtained by calling collect LE 9-8648 or by mailing coupon below.

PET PARADE

A Week to Upgrade Kitty

By Eleanor Avery Price

NATIONAL Cat Week is observed the first week in November, which is a well-timed period to elevate kitty, since the harvest season, including the observance of Halloween, never has done much for cats. In fact, it has downgraded felines since the Middle Ages.

Cats during this time were supposedly allied with evil and therefore, along with witches (who were usually persons who owned cats) were held responsible for any misfortune including autumn crop failures. And it was considered useless to eliminate only one cat at a time since a witch was capable of taking on the guises of nine different cats in succession (a story that gave rise to the nonsense that a cat has nine lives).

The cat's position was eventually restored to one of dignity, although not of idolatry as in the days of early Egypt. But isolated incidences of kitty being a figure of bad luck, foul weather, and penury continued to exist. In some European countries cats, representing cornsprites, were garlanded then sacrificed. Others were superstitiously offered to various deities to ensure good fortune or to protect against storms, earthquakes, and the like. As late as the early 1900s, a witch was presumed to be alive in Lancashire, England.

But now let us consider the good, normal things about cats. Cats do not cling. After kittenhood they become independent and sublimely content. Of course, they need assistance in matters concerning health and hygiene. Cats are fastidiously clean but need help with their coats, however.

Cats can amuse themselves but appreciate entertainment. Kittens enjoy anything they can pounce upon. Painted toys should be avoided.

Cats have no guilt complexes, and no amount of rebuke will change them. Your kitty can steal food, stalk birds, catch mice and see no reason for your being sentimental.

And now, a plea on behalf of pets:

"PLEASE, will owners keep their pets under lock and key during hours children are going to and returning from school. And parents, please teach your children not to coax along nor to pick up puppies and kitties they see on streets. And teach them not to open gates to pet other people's animals.

The Willbanks Story

The Willbanks Carpet Co. is a departure from the usual carpet specialty shop. It was founded on the premise that quality carpet, backed by expert installation, could be sold at a minimum mark up, in sufficient volume to be profitable.

The extension of this premise was to operate without frills and costly fixtures from a low rent and thus low overhead location in a factory warehouse on a side street in Signal Hill.

By eliminating high rent and other cost raising features, the company decided it could afford to pass on to its customers the substantial savings by giving more carpet value at less cost.

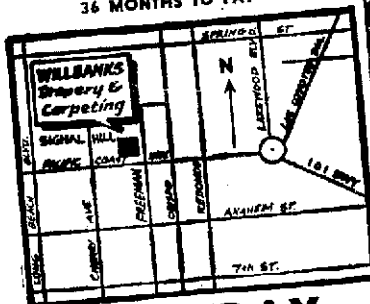

Here is Our Realistic Pricing Policy. Our expert installation is $1.25 per yd., and the finest 50-oz. rubberized felt pad is 75c yd. The red Cushionaire pad is $1.75 per yd.

RICHARD WALLMEYER and Clyde Winslow, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram artists are considered among the best cartoonists in the United States and Canada.

They and their work rate double-page spreads in "TODAY'S CARTOON" including the work of 140 outstanding cartoonists, brought out by Hauser Press of New Orleans, $10.

The title page explains that the book is "by John Chase and 139 other cartoonists who drew 'them damn pictures!'"

William M. Tweed, political boss of New York, enraged by a front page cartoon by Thomas Nast in Harper's Weekly in August 1871, is supposed to have thundered "Let's stop them damn pictures! . . . I don't care what they write about me, my constituents can't read, but damn it, they can see pictures."

All cartoons by Winslow and Wallmeyer included in "Today's Cartoon" appeared in the Independent and Press-Telegram.

Wallmeyer, 31, a staff member for a year, is one of the youngest cartoonists in the book. His chosen cartoons include "Why Can't Grandma Come for the Holidays, Papa?" with Grandma waving to son and small grandson through the East-West German gate; a Castro cartoon and a thundering race around the globe by the Peace Corps, the Arms Race and the Human Race.

Americana and human interest are the favorite subjects of Clyde Winslow whose cartoons have been featured by the Independent and Press-

Telegram since 1941. Altogether, Clyde estimates he has been a cartoonist for 40 years. He has won a number of national prizes. Included in "Today's Cartoon" are his famed Liberty bell cartoon, "It Tolls for Thee" and "Number 4," a nostalgic picture and verse of barefooted youngsters waving at a speeding train.

William H. Crawford and Vaughn Shoemaker whose cartoons occasionally appear in the I, P-T, also are included. So, for the record, is Bill Mauldin, considered the outstanding cartoonist of World War II.

Alphabetically the 140 cartoonists range from Franklin Alexander of the Philadelphia Bulletin to Robert York of the Louisville, Ky. Times. John Chase, who compiled the volume is cartoonist on the New Orleans States-Item.

Inside the cover of "Today's Cartoon" are 76 caricatures of President Kennedy drawn by members of the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists, bound in a book and presented to JFK at the White House.

A COMPREHENSIVE report of the opening by American ingenuity of aerial communications across the Frozen North in World War II is most timely—and significant geographically—as the Cold War, too, becomes ever more frigid.

William S. Carlson, Toledo University president, blends newly declassified information, plus his experience as an

Air Force officer and scientist on the strategic wartime project, with recent research into "LIFELINES THROUGH THE ARTIC" (Duell, Sloan, Pearce, $5.95).

Here is exciting true adventure—the building of bases on Greenland, Labrador and Alaska; early perils and daring in flying through snow and ice; survival or death in forced landings on ice fields; life at remote air bases.

Two "lifelines" helped destroy Hitler. One ferried to England the planes which shattered Germany and defeated the Luftwaffe; the second carried to Siberia the planes and supplies which helped Russia repulse the Wehrmacht. On the third lifeline may hinge our security: the radar defense DEW line across Canada and the BMEWS missile-detection bases of Greenland, Alaska and England.

"THE TRIAL of Harry Thaw, six months after he murdered Stanford White, can still be described as the most sensational trial ever held in an American court," writes Gerald Langford in "THE MURDER OF STANFORD WHITE" (Bobbs-Merrill, $5).

On the night of June 25, 1906 Thaw, a wealthy Pittsburgh playboy, shot the famous architect before a crowd in the roof garden of the old Madison Square Garden, a building designed by White. The architect, of high social position and supposedly blameless reputation, had taken a great interest in Thaw's wife, the gorgeous former Floradora girl, Evelyn Nesbit. By using actual testimony from both trials, Langford creates the atmosphere of high tension courtroom drama.

Disneyland's Own John Glenn

By Aubrey B. Haines

WHEN 6-foot, 9-inch, 240-pound John Glenn of Pomona ducked his head through the Disneyland employment office door, interviewers believed that they had outdone themselves with perfect casting. From his height to his name, Glenn fitted into a "spaceman" role as smoothly as a radio wave that bounces off the moon. There remained the problem, however, of getting people to believe it.

Too show that it was not a publicity stunt, Disneyland made photostat copies of John Glenn's selective-service card and his driver's license, available for any skeptics.

Strangely, John, the oldest of four children, was the smallest when born. In August 1941, the baby weighed slightly more than eight pounds—at least two pounds lighter than his brother and two sisters. The Glenns moved to California in 1952. John is the son of a facility engineer at North American Aircraft Co. His height soon outdistanced the rest of the family in a "race for space." His sister Page, 18, and his brother Kenneth, 13, are both five feet, seven inches tall. "You can almost see Ken grow," John says. The height of his sister Patty, 11, is normal for her age.

AT POMONA High School, where he graduated, John played basketball, but his hobbies ran to riding a surfboard and to track. He attends Mount San Antonio Junior College in Walnut, where he majors in business administration.

Garbed in a silver space-jumper suit and globe headgear, Glenn has been working the past several months meeting children who visit Tomorrowland. "The job has its amusing moments," he says. "One afternoon, enchanted by an attractive little blonde girl, I leaned down and whispered to her, 'You're a cute little blonde. Do you know it?'"

Tall in any crowd, John Glenn, 6-foot-9 "spaceman," is official greeter at Disneyland's "Tomorrowland."

"I know it," she smiled coyly. "I just got over the measles." Then he took a second look at her and got out of the way.

Shaking hands with children is Glenn's principal job, but he must be careful. "Some children have sticky suckers in their hands," he says. "I don't usually notice this until I've shaken a sticky hand and start getting frowns from the children who follow them when I pass the stickiness on."

GLENN IS so tall that when tiny children pass by, all they see are his silver knees. He tells of one little girl whose mother kept telling her, "Look at the spaceman." The child kept looking everywhere but was so short that she could not see him. Finally her mother lifted her head up. The girl was so startled that she jumped back several feet.

Smiling down from his lofty height, Glenn says that his plans for the future are like everything else about him — "all up in the air."

two conventions each year, alternating between Northern and Southern California. This will be the third time for Long Beach. More than 3,000 coin enthusiasts are expected.

The hobby of collecting and studying old coins and paper money has increased rapidly locally and over the nation in the past 40 years. Within 40 miles of Long Beach are 60 different coin clubs. Besides the Long Beach Coin Club, local area clubs include the Douglas Numismatic Society and the Lakewood Coin Club.

COIN COLLECTING in the United States is considered to be a $170 million business for dealers, suppliers, manufacturers of accessories and publishers.

What is the history of coins? Numismatists say the first coins were made in ancient Greece 700 years before Christ. Since then many nations and civilizations have appeared and perished, but their coins frequently are found buried in the ruins and dust of the ages.

On these coins appear the portraits of Alexander the Great, Julius Caesar, Charlemagne and such recent arrivals on the scene as Napoleon and Hitler.

The distinction of being the first coin issued by authority of the United States goes to the "Fugio Cent," dated 1787 and designed by Benjamin Franklin. On one side were 13 linked circles representing the 13 colonies and the words "United States, We Are One." On the reverse, a sun dial, the word "Fugio" meaning "time flies" and an additional slogan, "Mind Your Business."

THE FUGIO cent was privately coined, but in 1793 the half-dime appeared, the first coin struck by the government. President George Washington gave some of his private silver plate to furnish the metal and the coin bore the portrait of his wife, Martha Washington.

In 1690, Massachusetts issued the first paper money in the Western Hemisphere.

The design of a U. S. coin may be changed no oftener than once in 25 years, so the average person is aware of only a few changes in his lifetime.

When a gardener needs color in a hurry, he can always turn to pot-grown chrysanthemums. Thanks to hot-house culture, these full bloom beauties are available through C.A.N. nurseries for 12 months of the year. They are always most welcome in fall. Their autumn-like colors, the rich bronzes and yellows, are excellent either for spot color outdoors, or for decoration indoors.

A Piano of Bygone Days

By Helen L. Gillum

A RARE old piano, owned by Mrs. J. K. Thomas of Cooper Arms Apartments, is exceptionally beautiful. The rosewood cabinet is dated 1839, but it was handcrafted in the elegant Louis XV style, and no effort was spared by the maker to follow the elaborate features for which this French period is known (1723-1774). Graceful curves, bronze ormolu mounts, and incredibly skillful marquetry are harmoniously incorporated into the piano, so that it is a magnificent showpiece as well as a fine musical instrument.

Ormolu (an alloy of copper, tin, and zinc) was used extensively in 18th and 19th century France for ornamentation and furniture mounts. The rich golden tones and clear outlines of the ormolu trim on the piano reveal a high quality of workmanship; such examples as this are highly valued. Ormolu caryatids 10 inches high embellish the two front upper corners, and ormolu handles at each end of the case are firmly anchored for easy moving. The gold-effect metal is used lavishly in other decorative spots, such as outlining inlaid panelings and in moldings.

MARQUETRY, a remarkably ingenious method of using extensive inlays of colored woods to ornament furniture, was also generously applied. Garlands, scrolls and leaves in superb artistry entwined across the upper panel of the piano, while others decorate the two gracefully curved doors beneath the keyboard. These doors swing open for easy access to the strings when necessary for tuning or repair.

Spinets, virginals, and harpsichords, all ancestors of the piano, were brought to America as long ago as the mid-17th century. The true piano (or pianoforte, as it was known) was invented about 1720. (One Bartolommeo Cristofori of Florence is generally accredited with the invention.) The difference between the older instruments and the newer piano exists principally in the manner in which the music is produced—the piano being an instrument using a "hammer" action, while the more ancient ones emitted music by the "plucking" of the strings with a "quill" arrangement.

MRS. THOMAS acquired her

piano some years ago from a dealer. It is 42 inches high and measures 22 inches across at the widest point. The keyboard cover opens and folds back in such a manner that this label can be seen: "Médaille d'or 1839. Glusman 23. Rue Cadet."

Attempts to trace former owners have been unsuccessful, but that it once graced a sumptuous home or grand palace of France long ago, there can be no doubt. An interesting sidelight here is an old advertisement in 1792 by the Messrs. Dodd & Claus, musical instrument manufacturers of New York City, who claimed that "... the forte piano is becoming so fashionable in Europe that few polite families are without it."

Pass the Pepper, Please!

"PASS the pepper, please."

Such a remark is commonplace at our tables today. The pepper, black and fragrant, is passed and sprinkled on food. No one has given a thought to the role this black spice has played in the history of the world. And, in the western hemisphere, especially. For without it, or the demand for it, Columbus would not have been granted the ships and the money to make his discovery voyages when he did. We might have waited a much longer time to be found.

We do not know exactly when pepper was first used. But we do know that historians mention it almost as far back as there is history. In those far-off days it was considered equal in value to gold or silver. In some cases when it was in low supply, it was held to be of more worth than any metal or jewel. We are told that when, in the Fifth Century, Alric besieged Rome he demanded 3,000 pounds of pepper as part of the ransom. No amount of gold or jewels would do. He must have pepper. Taxes and tributes were paid with pepper. In many years in Europe, as well as in the East, the use of this spice was restricted to royalty and high-ranking nobles.

PEPPER IS native to the East Indies, to parts of tropical India, Indonesia and the Island of Sumatra. It grows on a vine as peppercorns. Picked before it is fully ripe, the entire kernel is ground to make black pepper. White pepper is made from the inside of the fully-ripened berry.

When once this pepper had invaded Europe there was nothing, it seems, the people would not do to procure it. The desire for it more than for any other eastern product led the Portuguese to seek an all-sea route to the Orient. This resulted in Vasco da Gama sailing around the Cape of Good Hope. And of more importance to those of the New World, it also influenced Queen Isabella in her fitting out of Columbus in his search for the spice islands of the east. That he discovered America was beside the point and a big disappointment to the people who were hoping to find pepper.

England came late into the pepper trade. Sir Francis Drake's voyages around the world drew British attention to the possibilities of transporting and selling the shriveled black berries. To get them in quantity and as inexpensively as possible England acquired India, Ceylon, Singapore — all pepper growing countries.

AMERICA entered the pepper commerce later still, in 1788, when the 100-ton brig Cadet slipped out of Massachusetts harbor. More than three years later when she returned she was loaded with pepper from Sumatra.

This successful trip of the Cadet marked the beginning of the New England monopoly of the pepper traffic which was called "The China Trade." And the China Trade resulted in the rise of our Merchant Marine. This was because pirates were still active on the seas and a cargo of pepper was a choice prize. But the pirates were not the only enemy to the men and ships. Even the Malaysians, who did not want the pepper and had no way of transporting it, attacked the ships as they lay in port, swarming onto them and overwhelming the crews by the weight of numbers. The Merchant Marine with armed fighters on every ship was the answer to attack.

Today, although we use more pepper than we ever did, 90,000,000 pounds a year, procuring and transporting the spice are taken as much for granted as the careless request, "Pass the pepper, please."

The Changing Motel

By Fred Taylor Kraft
 Travel Editor

ARE YOU old enough to remember—it was not so long ago, at that—when you traveled by car and would stop nights at a "tourist cabin?"

Looking back, it didn't seem to be a cabin at all, but a jiffy-built, one-room frame cottage.

Usually, mosquitoes had taken squatter's right to it by the time you arrived.

If the weather happened to be cold, you were directed to a woodpile behind the "office" where you could get fuel for the crude stove in one corner of the room.

Other features of the cabin were air conditioning by nature, a long trek out behind the trees to the bathroom and (sometimes) a community shower house.

THIS SETUP offered one more important thing—service by the owner, and often the owner's wife. They told you where to get breakfast, where to get your pants pressed (but who worried about pressed pants in those days?), and how to get back on Hwy. 99.

Thanks to 20th Century progress, there have been a good many changes in motels.

They're permanent structures, of modern construction, tastefully furnished and, more often than not, beautifully landscaped.

In place of the community shower house, swimming pools are routine. Some of the fancier stops have rooftop pools, or pools on the "second level" or "third level."

How about radios? Sure. And television? Naturally. Color television. At some motels, you can even check in by television.

THEY HAVE smart cafes where breakfast, lunch and dinner are served; or, if you prefer, breakfast dinner and supper.

Many serve wake-up coffee, and it's on the house.

As a rule, they have room service. Ice is free.

Nowadays, a good many travelers stop at motels associated with a recognized chain.

There are advantages in doing so. Travelers find most chain motels uniformly excellent. And tonight, when you stop at a chain motel, you can reserve your room for the next night and it will be waiting for you; no fretting about finding a place to stay if you arrive a little late.

THIS IS attested to by M. K. Guertin, the Long Beach secretary of Best Western Motels, a coast-to-coast outfit with more than 26,000 rooms in all.

"Motels are constantly improving their service that it's hard to tell what they'll come up with 10 years from now," says Guertin. "But you can bet the motor traveler will like it."

BEST WESTERN chain includes some of the finer motels in the entire country—Ascot in downtown Chicago, the Desert Saharan in Spokane, Las Vegas Motor Hotel in Houston, Glenwood Manor Motor Hotel in Mission, Kan., and Georgetown Inn in Washington, D.C.

Georgetown Inn undoubtedly is the ultimate in motels. Among other things, it features butlers on each floor, bidets, and a different decor on each of its six floors.

In ultramodern motels like these, says Guertin, practically all rooms have phones, and some have a second phone in the bathroom. (What kind of emergency would necessitate a second phone in the bathroom?) Most of them have direct dialing, and you can call almost any place in the country without going through the motel's switchboard.

Or, you can dial directly from your room for various services: valet, laundry, travel accommodations, tickets for the theater or a football game, stock quotations, the weather, or for car repairs.

USUALLY THERE is no charge to use an iron, ironing board, hair dryer, electric blanket, non-allergic pillow, or even a bottle warmer.

Your car can be serviced while you sleep. Simply leave instructions for washing, greasing and fueling and it will be done before you have your wake-up coffee and your morning dip in the topside pool.

Babysitters are available.

Survey showed 80 per cent of guests at Georgetown Inn, Washington, D. C., were enamored of phone in bathroom.

Your credit cards will be honored.

Stationery and postcards, shoeshine cloths, plastic bags for damp clothes, and shower caps are routine. And in the soft drinks (often hard drinks, too, on the premises), books and periodicals, cigarettes, candy, combs, lipstick, tooth brush, or aspirin tablets.

But tell me, Claudia, who needs aspirin in spots like these?

"We would like to go to a warm place for Christmas about one week. Would Tahiti be out of the way? Not many tourists?"

THE RAINS are starting in Tahiti and a week of them gets to be too much. But Mexico has a lot of warm places with few tourists.

Out of Merida in Yucatan, you fly to the island of Cozumel. Next door to it, Islas de las Mujeres. A lot of Caribbean beach and the hotels are okay.

Zihuatenejo (by air only from Mexico City) has one very good hotel. It's on the Pacific side.

Puerto Vallarta (by air only from Guadalajara) is on the Pacific. Getting more popular. But a whole series of little bays and beaches are open to a rented boat.

All of these being in Mexico, you probably do best to make your reservations in Mexico. Guadalajara for Puerto Vallarta. And Mexico City travel agent for the others.

"How do you get your shoes polished if, as you said, there are no bootblacks in London?"

YOU DO IT yourself. (I found a couple of polishers in Piccadilly Circus, but I think they are ornamental. The shine isn't too good.)

For women, I got something called Shu-Mak-Up and tried it out on some English girls. They thought it was the greatest thing since frozen Yorkshire pudding.

You clean the shoe and paint it a new color and wax it—keep changing colors if you like. They make this at 3317 E. 50th St., Los Angeles.

Well, I hear the Free Day has gone up to $15. The idea was to let you off at Shannon Airport—any airline will do this. Ireland took you on an afternoon tour of County Clare. Dinner at Bunratty Castle. Night in a hotel and a tour in the morning.

Going Places

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

FOR THE PRICE, there's hardly a better tour going than the 70-cent ride on the chunky, canvas-topped harbor ferry Triton from Hamilton Harbor, Bermuda, to Watford Bridge, Cavello Bay, Somerset Bridge and back. It's a 90-minute voyage and never leaves the Great Sound.

Bikes, motorbikes and tourists are taken aboard, the makeshift gangplank is landed and the Triton chugs out into the harbor.

The great clutter that surrounds the Great Sound is soon apparent—yachts, sailboats and cruisers fill the basins; the shocking-pink of the Bermudiana Hotel and the peeling-pink of the soon-to-be-demolished old wing of the Princess Hotel float past to starboard. And to port the equally pink Inverurie and Belmont Manor Hotels dominate the scene. In Bermuda, the best of all possible colors is pink.

The island is one long coral rock of vista-rich hills covered with flaming foliage, scrubby woods and mile after mile of pink stone homes. There are few towns and villages as such, but there is scarcely any break in the urban string.

Coves and inlets, beaches and islets speckle the scene. Somehow roads lead to all of them; the most typical of all Bermuda sights is a couple on a lonely strand, their bicycles parked on the path above.

SUMMERY white clouds, charmed at their assigned altitude, float idly as the reefs spin out under the Triton. The water turns from shallow green to deep blue, and Hamilton Harbour widens into the Great Sound.

It is calm today, but sometimes 50-knot winds whip the waters.

We slow for a landing at

Watford Bridge alongside a coral rock, striped in colors of the rainbow at the water line. Women in Bermuda shorts carrying shopping bags clamber aboard, their off-spring scurrying wildly ahead of them.

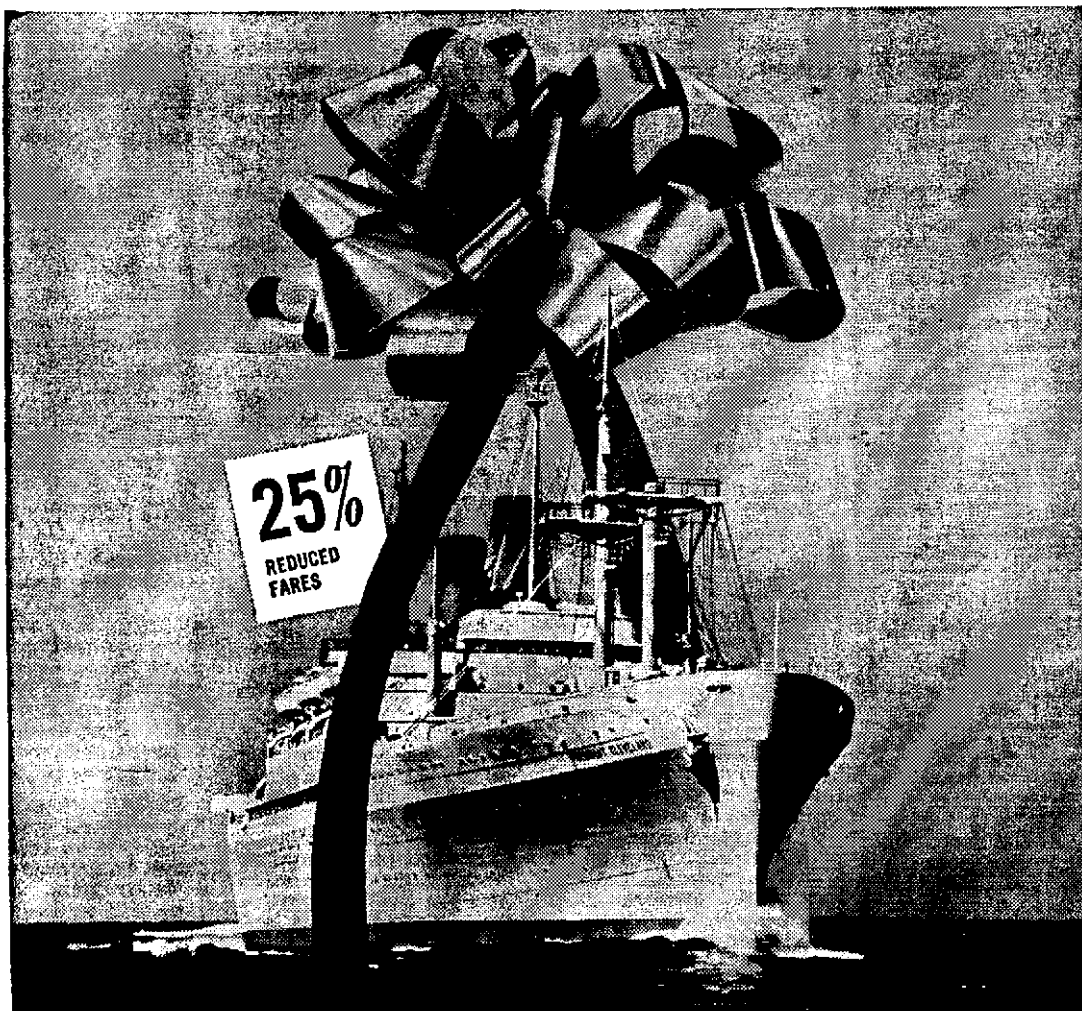

The Triton turns west along the shore towards Cavello Bay. After a repeat of the Watford landing, we chug past Fort Scaur to Somerset Bridge, the curious little span across Ely's Bay that is known as the world's smallest drawbridge. Only a few feet long, its opening is but 18 inches—enough for the mast of a sailboat. The crew must debark to open it, and passers-by usually stop to assist in this whimsical nautical maneuver.

Somerset itself is a picturesque, remote village, with the curious tranquility that is so much a part of Bermuda despite the island's congestion and surface bustle.

WE TURN on the home leg of our trip here, back to Hamilton Harbour. Along the south rim of Bermuda this time, past the yacht harbors and discreet homes sheltered by hibiscus and oleander, and into Two Rock Passage, the only entry to the harbour.

The Queen herself must pass this way. With more than 400 shipwrecks charged to them, Bermuda's shoals have never been respecters of individuals.

SETTING plants in hanging baskets and letting their blooms tumble down from on high is a trick with which every gardener should be familiar. Few methods of growing plants are more effective.

Anyone who doubts this should visit one of California's begonia-growing centers this summer and be convinced. The flowing beauty of countless begonia blooms is a breath-taking sight that all but defies description.

Begonias are not the only flowers which lend themselves to hanging basket culture, but they provide a good starting point for a beginner. Use a large terra cotta or redwood container and plant two, three or four of the young plants which members of the California Association of Nurserymen offer in plant bands now. Just be sure they are the hanging or pendulous type.

THE IDEA with basket tuberos begonias is to promote as many trailing arms as possible. This requires some pinching if growth is being concentrated on too few shoots. If you keep the basket down where you can reach it until growth is well on its way, the pinching process can be done much more easily. Food and water are the primary requirements, as they are with any begonia.

Trailing fuchsias are also excellent plants for the inexperienced gardener, provided he remembers that basket-grown plants dry out faster than those in the ground.

Water is all-important when growing hanging fuchsias, as the slightest drought will inhibit growth and detract from the lushness of the planting.

Here again you want to be sure that it's the hanging or trailing type of plant which you buy from your nurseryman. Use two or three small fuchsias to the average hanging basket and start pinching them right off to keep the container brimful of new shoots. Pinch out upright growth especially so that all of the plant's energy will be concentrated in producing a pendulous habit.

Like begonias, fuchsias need food as well as water to push growth along.

FOR BASKETS in the sun, the ivy geraniums are a good bet. Try mixing them with the annual trailing lobelia, another sun lover for special effect. The clear blue of the lobelia offsets the various colors in the ivy geranium and gives beauty that neither of the pair could match on its own.

There are some unusually attractive overhead plants which gardeners often fail to use to advantage. One of these is the trailing Bertheloti lotus, not to be confused with the water-lily lotuses. Bertheloti lotus is a silvery-gray trailer from the pea family which stands limited neglect and would be attractive even without the maroon-red blooms. These latter grace the plant from early season to mid-summer.

There is also the trailing

Cascaded blooms of fuchsias in hanging baskets are a decorative feature. Begonias also may be thus grown.

asparagus fern which produces an abundance of crisp green foliage. Grown in an overhead basket, its cascade of green is cooling to look at, either indoors or out. Its pink summer flowers are followed by red berries in late fall.

Finally, the list of neglected hanging plants includes the star-like white Italian bellflower. Such beauty deserves a better break, especially since it is so easily grown. This bellflower is relatively resistant to drought and will grow in either part sun or shade. Feeding helps but is less important than with fuchsias and begonias. The plants should be pinched, however, to encourage bushiness and to restrain rampant shoots which often develop.

As a general rule, it can be stated that all basket-grown plants need more than the normal amount of water to counteract the drying influence of air. They also need more food than when grown under normal conditions to replace that which constant watering washes out of the soil. Liquid and soluble fertilizers are ideally suited for basket-grown plants, since they are easily applied and serve to water the plants and feed them at the same time.

Perk Up the Lawn the Easy Way

By Joe Littlefield

all winter! It's that easy.

TO AVOID possible infestation from cow manure or inferior steer manure, and to obtain almost twice the food value, be sure to use the best grade of lawn steer manure possible.

Dichondra lawns fed now stay richer, greener during the winter, than one not so fed.

Any dichondra lawn planted now, or throughout the winter season, should have some grass seed sown into it. The grass serves as a protection to the dichondra during the cold winter months.

MANY thin, seedy looking grass lawns are going to be refurbished this fall and winter. And many gardeners are going to make a major project of the renovation. In years past, we'd have the lawn churned up, raked, seeded, then top dressed with manure. Yet, the following summer we'd have a worse infestation of crab grass and other foreign weeds than we thought ever existed.

Later, we discontinued churning up the lawn. Instead we hand raked it briskly, mowed it closely, sowed the seed and top dressed with steer manure.

Now, we've finally gotten wise to ourselves, finding it unnecessary to work so hard redoing the lawn. The easiest, and smartest way is simply to mow closely, sow fresh grass seed, and top dress with good grade of lawn manure. Presto! the lawn perks up with a rich green color for Winter renovation of lawns need not be a major project. Many gardeners find that there is an easier way.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week... Uproot faded annuals and replace them with new plants for winter bloom. Calendulas, violas, fairy primrose, cycla-

By Dorothy Jonson

THIS is the time to mulch your avocado trees, and your fruit trees in general. I wish that you and I could get the old-fashioned dairy manure because I don't think that anything else is quite so good for the purpose. However, that is impossible for most of us so we must use the commercial steer manure.

Used now, steer manure will have the rainy season in which to be washed into the soil, and this is of great value to both the trees and the soil itself. Spread the manure heaviest out at the drip line, where the feeder roots are, being careful not to get it too close to the base of the trees.

Pruning your deciduous fruit trees comes later, during the winter; however, this is exactly the right time to prune your berry bushes. Cut back the old canes on those and begin stringing the new ones to get them started where you want them to grow next year.

men are four to try.

Early blooming sasanqua camellias will start blooming this month. Select them from plants in bloom so that you can see the exact colors and flower types.

Tuberous begonias that are still in bloom should be fed with liquid fish. As these summer bulbs go out of bloom, replace them with cyclamen.

Be sure chrysanthemums are staked to prevent their toppling from the weight of their bloom.

Start culling out poor performers in the rose garden and getting ready to plant new varieties in December.

Plant ranunculus and anemones along with other spring-blooming bulbs. Ranunculus are also available in seedling form.

Cool season vegetables such as peas, lettuce, cauliflower, cabbage and broccoli may be set out. Many are available as flat-grown seedlings in nurseries.

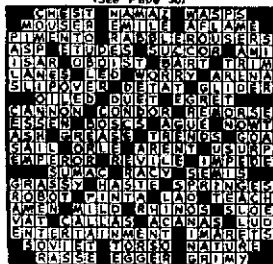

Plant cineraria for early spring color. The best time is now through November.

Many gardeners rush out and get their bulb planting done in a hurry in October. This is not necessarily the best practice, however. According to the California Association of Nurserymen, tulips, especially, are better when not planted until later in the fall. And when you do plant them bury them deeper than is normal for colder climates—eight inches is none too deep.

Lakewood Garden Club members will attend a Harvest Roll Call dinner at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in San Martin Park clubhouse, 5231 N. Ocana Ave., Lakewood.

various clients. I'm pretty impressed with the client list I help represent, so you can imagine how I feel when I see these people, most of whom have made it pretty well themselves as entertainers, being thoroughly entertained by Carol's voice." Tod's clients include Fred MacMurray, Laraine Day, Lorne Greene, Walter Brennan and Richard Egan.

CAROL'S development as a singer has not been easy. In addition to running her home and family, she is constantly learning new and difficult roles. She cites language as among her biggest problems and attacks them with something less than relish.

In any case, she has built a solid foundation for her career. Jack Metz, her vocal coach, who also coaches Kathryn Grayson, sums it up: "There's really no way of telling how far Carol can go. She has a wonderful combination of visual and vocal beauty, in addition to her natural talent. It seems to be just a matter of time before her singing is universally appreciated."

Carol's immediate plans call for several national television appearances and singing engagements with opera companies in New York, Philadelphia and Mexico. She was recently offered a number of opera roles and concert engagements in Europe, but declined. "I wouldn't want to go without my family. But, both Tod and Dad would never think of leaving—at least not as long as the Dodgers and Rams are in town."

Perhaps Telstar will furnish the solution to this dilemma—in time.

N. L. (LEN) HILL
Luncheon in the Sky

AND HERE'S why the waiters and kitchen staff at the Breakers International Hotel are scurrying around so cheerfully these days.

Luncheons in the sky with spectacular views of Long Beach, are once again one of the features of dining at this famed, luxurious hostelry. And the guests are delighted with the whole interesting arrangement. N. L. (Len) Hill, assistant manager in charge of the hotel's food service, spent many weeks preparing the redecorated Skyroom's new menus, utilizing his background as former director of cuisine at the Cliff House in San Francisco and the Indian Room in Montreal. As a result, Skyroom luncheon-goers are treated to the following, served from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.:

Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays are "Blackboard Menu" days, with the items listed on a 5-by-4-foot blackboard. Available are complete luncheons including soup du jour or salad, potato, vegetable, bread, beverage and such entrees as sirloin tips ($1.45), chicken pie and roast lamb.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays the setup is quite different, offering all-you-can-eat hot and cold buffet luncheons, for $1.50, with the hot meats carved before the guests' eyes by skilled chefs. Also available daily are special sandwiches and fancy salads, including shrimp, crab and lobster Louies.

Splendid new dinners are offered in the Skyroom nightly, except Monday, from 6 to 10 p.m. Included are table d'hote complete dinners with dessert or after-dinner drinks and a la carte dinners which offer tossed green salads and beverage with the entree. Priced from $2.95, the dinners include grilled file of halibut, capon, lobster thermidor, beef Stroganoff, chicken cooked in wine, prime rib au jus, lobster-and-steak combination, and a 16-ounce charcoal broiled New York cut steak. Also featured is a top sirloin steak sandwich.

TELEVISION LOG OF THE SUNDAY NEWS AND THE INDEPENDENT-PRESS-TELEGRAM

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

She was at the second-floor window of her home as I started climbing the steps.

"I see you," trilled Spring Byington. "I'll be right down."

In the flesh she is just as effervescent as she was when she was "December Bride's" Lily Rushkin and as she currently TV is as "Laramie's" Daisy Cooper on Tuesdays, channel 4.

She opened the door, welcomed me and said:

"I'm going to get—let's see, what was I going to get you? Oh, yes."

She was off and running.

She came back the same way and found me admiring one of the pictures framed on her livingroom wall.

"Do you like it?" she asked. "$2.95 at Sears."

With that she pressed upon my wrist a damp face-cloth. It was very cooling, having been moistened in some kind of scented camphor preparation.

"This is the thing they do in tropical countries," said Spring. "Sit down, please."

I sat.

"I bought this house 15 years ago on a Wednesday and had it completely furnished the next day," she said.

"This is the same furniture—re-covered."

SHE AFFECTIONATELY patted her chair.

"I'm not satisfied with the chairs they make today," she said. "The cushions pick you up and say it's time to go."

How does she like "Laramie"?

"I love doing 'Laramie,' she replied. "I go out and have a good time."

"Look, westerns are westerns. They're marked 'Let's Pretend for Grownups.'"

"The only trouble with the quiz shows is that they weren't marked 'Let's Pretend.'"

Spring doesn't feel a person has to apologize for not having strength of character if he watches a western.

"Don't confuse 'escape from reality' with 'release into make-believe,'" she said. "If you like westerns, you're just releasing yourself into make-believe—you're not escaping anything."

I tried that on a couple of times for size, then found the elucidation in Spring's next statement.

"I love westerns," she said.

It was as simple as that.

ADDING THE ROLE of Daisy Cooper to "Laramie" last season gave that particular western something it needed.

"I added—it could have been someone else in the same role—just enough reality so that the boys are not merely cardboard figures who jump on a horse and go bang-bang," said Spring.

She, personally, is not about to jump on any horse.

"Horses and I don't get on socially."

"We don't understand each other. I talk to them and get cold looks back. There's no response."

"Dogs are different. When I talk to them, they cock their ears and say, 'What did you say?'"

What Spring has to say about "staying young" might not interest dogs, but could possibly influence the activities of other "middle-aged" ladies.

"Keep busy," said Spring. "Find something to do—something with a future in it."

"Always look ahead. You don't have time to look back."

SPRING, LOOKING FAR AHEAD into the future when her "Laramie" days as Daisy Cooper are over, definitely is interested in another TV series.

"I don't care what it is so long as I play a pretty real person with a good deal of intestinal fortitude about living," she said.

"I don't want to play complainers. They're depressing—unless the author is trying to make them funny."

"And depressed persons, even in what's supposed to be a comedy, rarely seem funny to me."

"I want to play comedy that you laugh with, not at."

She paused, quite an accomplishment.

"I was a very lucky person when I was born," she con-

The new television season is a month old. What do the television critics think of the new - model programming? Opinions range from "most disappointing" ever to "the good things are there if you look for them."

UPI asked a panel of critics from coast to coast to assess the fall network offerings. Here are their opinions:

Terry Turner, "Chicago Daily News" — "This season is the most bland and unimaginative I can recall, but I wouldn't call it the worst because of the continued emphasis on news, news specials and documentaries which help viewers maintain their sanity."

Red O'Donnel, "Nashville Banner" — "I don't think it is any better or any worse. There are good shows and bad shows. The big town critics get jaded at watching things. I think this year the networks are trying much harder."

Jack Lloyd, "Atlanta Journal" — "Not much different from previous year. Same number of outstanding, mediocre and bad programs. 'Beverly Hills' probably the funniest. Loretta Young a flop so far. Return of Gleason refreshing."

Fairfax Nisbet, "Dallas Morning News" — "This season is no more or less disappointing than ever. It is marked by return of oldies like Lucy Ball, humorous and serious war stories and more situation comedies."

Terence O'Flaherty, "San Francisco Chronicle" — "I see

no reason for discouragement with the 1962 season — provided you don't watch too often. Hollywood has decided the West has been won and we can now turn our attention to the more civilized savagery of bronco busting, psychiatry, World War II and the servant problem.

"Surgery has replaced cattle rustling — and this is in the nature of an improvement provided you aren't contemplating an operation. But most encouraging of all, TV continues to excel in its specialty—documentaries, sports and special events. The good things are there if the viewer wishes to seek them out."

Bill Kennedy, WXYZ-TV (Detroit), host and former movie star — "In my opinion, this fall's television programs tend to be on the spotty side. One bright note is the Gene Kelly show, 'Going My Way.' All the standards like 'Ben Casey,' and 'The Garry Moore Show' have lost their original emphasis. I'm happy with Red Skelton."

Minow Comments

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Communications Commission Chairman Newton N. Minow's comments on new TV programming:

"There are some bright moments."

"New children's programs to stretch a child's imagination and mind are on the air. Unfortunately, some of these are offered at conflicting and inconvenient times for youngsters."

CATHOLIC HOUR—American premiere of "The Sign of Fire," drama by the contemporary Italian playwright Diego Fabbrì, is aired at 2 p.m., ch. 4, without interruption, as show expands to full hour for the occasion. Set in West Berlin, play concerns a secret meeting of Jesuit priests, and stars Eric Berry, Carlos Montalban, Ossie Davis and Romney Brent.

ADLAI STEVENSON REPORTS—The U.N. ambassador, who had to cancel his Greek Theatre appearance today because of the Cuban crisis, answers letters and telegrams he has received since his Tuesday address before the special session of the security council. Also, during his 2:30 p.m. telecast on ch. 7, he talks with Venezuelan ambassador Dr. Carlos Sosa-Rodriguez, who in a speech Wed. supported U.S. action in its quarantine.

CAMPAIGN & CANDIDATES—Filmed report covers the campaign techniques of Pat Brown and Richard Nixon during the past two weeks, with John Chancellor as anchor man. Coverage includes their San Diego telethons, rallies, dinners and activities of their wives at coffee hours. It's the 7th in series' 8 programs, at 5 p.m. on channel 4.

20TH CENTURY—6th season premiere. "I Remember: Dag Hammarskjöld" a portrait of the early years of the late Secretary General of the U.N., is narrated by Walter Cronkite at 6 p.m., ch. 2. Filmed entirely in Sweden in places significant to Hammarskjöld's early life, the story is told by his friends.

THE RIVER NILE—James Mason narrates a special hour-long color biography of the 4,000-mile river, tracing its historic path, at 10 p.m., ch. 4. Peabody-and-Emmy-winning producer Lou Hazam (Van Gogh) wrote the script detailing the history that lines its banks from a stone pyramid 6,000 ft. above sea level to the Nile's mouth in the Mediterranean.

Spring 'No Complainer'

tinued. "What I mean is that I was born with good health. 'I've always been healthy. It colors your life.'"

As I was leaving, Spring stopped me for another moment.

Woman Tortured by Agonizing ITCH

"I nearly itched to death 7 1/2 years. Then I found a new wonder cream. Now I'm happy," writes Mrs. P. Ramsay of L.A. Calif. Here's blessed relief from tortures of vaginal itch, rectal itch, chafing, rash and eczema with an amazing new scientific formula called LANACANE. This fast-acting medicated cream kills harmful bacteria germs while it soothes raw, irritated and inflamed tissue. Stops scratching—in speedy healing. Don't suffer! Get LANACANE at druggists.

"Talking about the future," she twinkled, "I know what I'd really like to do.

"I'd like to start arithmetic all over again.

"I was a dumbbell, so scared of it.

"To me, a quotient was a bug-eyed monster."

Quotient. Smotient.

The sum total of Spring's career can be equaled by only a few.

Some of the commercials get on my nerves.

The woman with the delicate skin—I would like to send her some sandpaper.

And the various soaps who have women claiming, "I have never been so clean."

I always considered myself clean. Of course, I started washing myself as a baby. I didn't have to wait until I grew up.

I wouldn't like to eat at the home of those ladies with the lovely hands. Don't they ever rinse after washing all those soapy dishes?

One more. Would those lovely girls, when advertising hair shampoo, etc., show their teeth slightly and not where you can see down to their stomachs?

Anne Baird, Long Beach

If they show their teeth, even slightly, they're liable to swallow some of the shampoo.

I have sampled a few of the new TV shows. They are for the birds.

Evelyn Quipp, Long Beach

What makes you think the birds want them?

Could you please answer two of our weekly questions as we watch and listen to Lawrence Welk?

The saxophonist, Don Bonnee, does he have an artificial right eye?

Does the lady cello player, Charlotte Harris, wear contact lenses? If she does, then we will know why it is so hard for her to open her eyes when the big light is on her.

W. A. Phillips, Long Beach

Charlotte does wear contact lenses but please don't involve me in an argument with an optometrist as to whether that's the reason it's hard for her to face the lights.

Don's eyes, both of them, are the pair he was born with.

GARTERS' LITTLE FLIVER PILLS

I was young but worn out, tired and smoked too much. After trying Little Fliver Pills things just got worse. Luckily, my owner found out about Long Beach Engine Rebuilders at 3525 Long Beach Blvd. After a complete examination and one terrific ring & valve job at only 49.95 I feel great and oil doesn't upset my motor. For that new car feeling have your owner call GA 4-0407 (and lay off those pills)

PERSONALITY PARADE

Want the facts? Want to spike rumors? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Write Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Sorry, the volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

Q. How old is President Kennedy's father, and will he ever regain his full faculties? — Henry Ostermann, Winchester, Va.

A. Joseph P. Kennedy is 74. Doctors do not expect him to recover completely.

Q. What lies behind all the attempts to assassinate President de Gaulle of France? — Claire Stewart, Easton, Md.

A. A thirst for vengeance by his political enemies, a desperate hope that the death of de Gaulle will throw France into a panic, bring on a nationalism which would drive France to recover an Algeria in turmoil.

Q. Is it true that Darlene Hard cries when she loses a tennis match? — Nina Wallace, Rye, N.Y.

A. Not generally. She did cry, however, in her losing match against Margaret Smith last month at the women's nationals in Forest Hills, N.Y.

Q. Is Pablo Picasso responsible for modern art? — B. Klein, Winnetka, Ill.

A. Picasso is generally regarded as the most original and inventive painter of the century. He originated many of the basics of modern art and for the past 50 years has greatly influenced all styles.

Q. Almost two years ago Tony Accardo, the Chicago ganglord, was convicted and sentenced to prison for deducting phony auto expenses from his income tax. How come he is not yet in jail? — Dennis Coughlan, Tucson, Ariz.

A. Janet Leigh's current marriage to Bob Brandt is her fourth, his third.

Q. I would like to know who has made the most money to date from a film, The Guns of Navarone. — Dresser Howard, Ithaca, N.Y.

A. Edith Sitwell says, "No one need ever grow old except in body. The trick, of course, is to think of other persons and things besides yourself. The people who grow old are those who are completely self-centered. You grow old if you fret about ridiculous things."

Q. Who is Fernanda Pignatari, and what is her relationship with actor Louis Jourdan? — G.Y., El Paso, Texas.

A. Fernanda Pignatari is the multi-millionaire sister of playboy Baby Pignatari. She lives on Majorca where she has entertained Jourdan and others.

A. More than 300 reporters usually attend. Approximately 20 questions are asked. The President plays no favorites.

Q. Who provided the $100,000 bail which the late Dr. Robert Soblen jumped? — Janice Lemert, Tucson, Ariz.

A. His wife put up $40,000. The other $60,000 was put up by Mrs. Helen Bittenweiser, a member of the law firm handling Soblen's appeals, and George G. Kirstein, publisher of The Nation. Eight private bondsmen had previously been approached and declined to accept the business.

A. Mary Anderson, 90, is a pioneer for women's rights in the field of labor. She helped pioneer collective bargaining and was largely responsible for the provision in the federal Wage and Hour Law that there be no discrimination by employers on the basis of sex or age in paying the legal minimum wage.

The story is told of the inebriated motorist who started his car while it was in gear and went crashing into a ladies' dress shop. Looking around at the mannequins in the window, he said: "I knew it—women drivers."

An aspiring young actress went to audition for a role in a Broadway play. She read one part and then another. When she was through, she turned to the director and asked: "What shall I do now?"

"Find yourself a husband," replied the director, "and get married."

An optimist is a guy who keeps his motor running while his wife pops in to buy a new hat.

A man took his dog into a bar. "Don't bother making me a drink," he told the bartender. "My dog will make it for me."

With this, the dog ran behind the bar, got a bottle of gin and a bottle of dry vermouth, mixed them in a mixing glass with ice cubes, poured them into a martini glass and then added a twist of lemon. When he finished making the martini, the dog took a dollar bill from his master, ran to the cash register, came back with the exact change and dropped it on the bar.

The amazed bartender said: "Say, I could make a fortune with that dog! How much will you sell him for?"

"You wouldn't want him," replied the owner. "He always forgets to take out for the sales tax."

A young doctor queried a veteran physician: "Why do you always ask your patients what they have for dinner?"

"It's a most important question," said the elder, "because I make out my bills according to their menus."

A henpecked husband finally put his foot down. He ordered his kids not to bother him while he was washing the dishes.

A rich Texan was called to school because his son wasn't getting along with his teachers.

The Texan walked into the principal's office and said: "I can't understand why the teachers don't get along with my Billy; all the servants do!"

Three old ladies in a home for the mentally disturbed were sitting on their rockers and chatting. "Know what I wish?" said one. "I wish a big, handsome man would come here and take me away."

To which the second lady turned to the third and said: "Sara ain't going to be with us long. She's beginning to talk sense."

A recent survey revealed that most crimes are committed by single men. It just proves what can happen when a man doesn't have anyone to scold him!

A man at a party told his host: "No more for me, thanks. My wife might insist on driving home, and you know how dangerous that is!"

A socially-conscious matron visited a real estate agency and inquired about a home in Beverly Hills. "I have the perfect place for you," the agent told her. "It's spacious, it has three fireplaces, separate servant quarters and is in excellent condition."

"Is it in an exclusive neighborhood?" asked the matron.

"Are you joking?" replied the agent. "This neighborhood is so exclusive that it has an unlisted postal zone number!"

A college professor passed a restaurant and saw a sign for "Lam Stew." He entered the restaurant and told the owner about the error.

The next time the professor passed the eatery he looked for the sign. This time it read: "Clamb Chowder."

A wife had too much to drink at a party. As her husband drove her home, she suddenly screamed: "Look! There's a snake crawling up the window."

"Boy—you're really drunk!" the husband replied. "That's not a snake—it's the windshield wiper."

Scott Carpenter, 37, second American to orbit the earth, flashes famous grin as he addresses message to U.S. youth. Carpenter's advice: Don't be fooled by the glory of being an astronaut; pick the field best suited to your own special talents and interests.

AMERICA'S FIRST TWO MEN-IN-ORBIT TELL HOW TO GET READY

by ED KIESTER

HOUSTON, TEX.

"WHILE I CERTAINLY am interested in seeing that we get fine astronauts in the future, I'm certainly not advising everyone to be an astronaut. There is going to be a lot of living to be done and a lot of progress to be made outside the space field. We also are going to need great statesmen, great lawyers, great doctors and great farmers.

"But I can tell you this: those who contribute the most, in the space field or any other field, are going to be the same types of youngsters. They will be those who are willing to assess their capabilities, set high but realistic goals, and then work hard to attain these goals."

The man speaking was an authority on what it takes to succeed in space — America's first man-in-orbit, Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn, Jr. Along with the nation's second man-in-orbit, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Scott Carpenter, he was addressing himself to this question posed by PARADE:

"The generation in school today is the generation that will go to the moon—and perhaps to the planets as well. What can you advise them that would help some of them to qualify as astronauts—and all of them to live in the Space Age?"

Because they are frequently asked this question by parents, both men had agreed to take time out from their duties on upcoming U.S. space projects—the two-men-in-space Project Gemini and the men-on-the-moon Project Apollo—to answer. Seated at a conference table on "Astronaut Row" in the new Manned Spacecraft Center here, they chose their words carefully.

"I'm not sure anyone should try to influence an impressionable kid too much too early," said Glenn at one point. Yet obviously both men had given much thought to counseling young people. And essentially they agreed that the following recipe has some of the ingredients for life in the Space Age:

▲ A solid, basic education, heavy in math and science but with emphasis on the humanities: "The world still will be run by people," Glenn says.

▲ A personal physical training program, based on simple, vigorous, regular exercise, or plain hard labor, which can be an equally good body conditioner.

▲ Setting yourself specific goals and competing against yourself to attain them, thus sharpening such qualities as industry, diligence, persistence, idealism and self-reliance.

▲ Military service, both for its lessons in discipline and (for astronauts) the opportunity for flight training.

▲ A refusal to be counted out. Even though only physically fit young men and women will go to the moon, even people who cannot physically qualify for flight may contribute in some other very important ways.

"It's difficult," says Carpenter, "to say precisely today what the astronauts will need tomorrow, or what the average citizen will need to live in an age of space flight. After all, no one could have told us 10 years ago exactly how to prepare ourselves. Yet I cannot conceive that education will not be even more critical in the future than it is today.

"Scholastically, I think it's apparent that an engi-

John Glenn, 40, nation's orbital-flight trail-blazer, gives studied thought to needs of future astronauts. Ohio-born Marine colonel thinks religion may be of importance to astronaut—"at least," Glenn says, "it was to this particular astronaut."

YOUNG PEOPLE AND THEIR PARENTS: FOR THE SPACE AGE

neering-scientific background will continue to be a requisite for astronauts. Subjects to stress in high school would be primarily physics, math, chemistry and biology. Other scientific talents may be needed in the future. For instance, geology could be very important in the follow-on programs that will land on the moon and planets.

Humanities go along with science

"In college, I would think aeronautical engineering would be best, maybe followed by a master's degree in physics. Nuclear physics is bound to be important for future astronauts."

For non-astronauts, too, both Carpenter and Glenn agree, an understanding of science will be essential in an age of astronautics. However, the astronauts add that science should not be overemphasized.

"The humanities go right along with the sciences," Glenn says. "We have found from our own experience the need to write, speak and think clearly. A person can have the finest ideas in the world and it does no good just to keep them in his head. He must be able to express his good ideas clearly."

"The humanities are not out by any means, not at all."

Both Carpenter, who is of medium height, wiry and slim, and Glenn, who is taller and broader, follow their own personal programs to keep in trim. Carpenter, who began lifting weights when he was in high school, works out on the trampoline and still lifts weights daily. Glenn runs two miles every day. Before his flight he increased the distance to five miles.

"For young people, I don't think an elaborate program or elaborate equipment is necessary," Carpenter says. "You don't need any equipment to run, swim or do calisthenics, for instance. I do think, though, that it should be strenuous exercise."

"I think young people need to work at not getting soft," Glenn adds. "The main equipment necessary is a sincere desire to be physically fit. If that will be there, a way will be found to get a daily workout."

Glenn, who is not a trampoline buff—"Look what it did for you," he kids Carpenter—advocates exercise which uses all the muscles and tones all parts of the body. He favors swimming as well as running. However, Glenn says, the approach to exercise may be more important than the exercise itself. "You have to set goals and strive for them against yourself," he says. "Those old body-building courses which pitted one muscle against another may well have had the right idea because you certainly can't find better competition anywhere than yourself."

Glenn is a self-confessed "bug" on the subject of establishing objectives and striving to reach them.

"None of us ought to just drift around and around," he says. "I remember some years ago I went to the State Fair in Ohio and I saw what was billed as the world's most powerful tractor. It was running in a big circle, pulling a big load. They had the steering wheel cranked over, and round and round it went. Here you had this powerful tractor accomplishing absolutely nothing. Yet this tractor guided or having a proper objective could accomplish a great deal. And the same thing applies to people."

Military life teaches valuable lessons

The two spacemen are agreed that military service can be of value not only to future astronauts, but to other young Americans as well.

"Aviation training in high-performance aircraft may well aid tomorrow's astronauts," says Carpenter. "That is, astronauts who want to contribute in a command position. The only place this training is now available is through the military. This also applies to test-pilot training, which up to now has been a requisite. We have some astronauts now who are civilians, but you'll find that even they have had aviation and test-pilot training."

Carpenter, who enlisted as a naval cadet in World War II, was discharged after the Japanese surrender and then re-entered in 1949, thinks the military teaches other lessons as well. It conditions young people to follow orders, shows them how to be independent and self-reliant in critical situations. Carpenter thinks these are basic attributes that will prove invaluable whether young people are in space or on earth.

He also believes that mechanical aptitude is of value to men in space. As boys, both Carpenter and Glenn were tinkerers who bought and tore apart automobiles and then rebuilt them to their own specifications. Carpenter as a schoolboy had a 1934 Ford coupe which he worked on continually. Both men feel that mechanical skills can be learned but the ability to understand things mechanical probably stems from innate aptitudes.

Carpenter is also convinced of the value of hard work. He thinks that every young boy should spend some of his summers at something vigorous and physical—chopping wood, digging ditches, carrying hod, working in the fields. Although he weighs only 155 pounds, Carpenter has extraordinary strength and endurance.

The three main areas of needed improvement

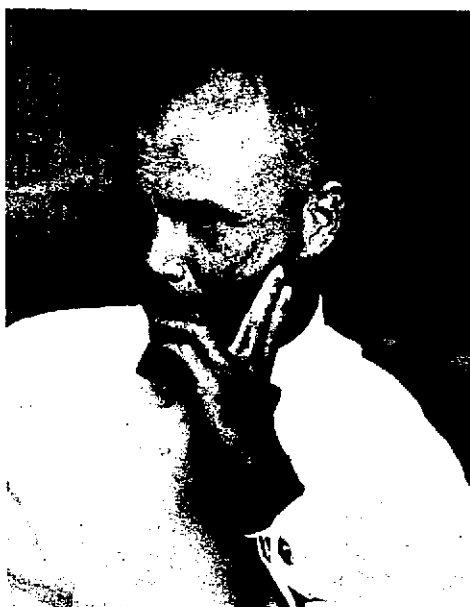

"I grew up in the outdoors," says Carpenter, who was raised around Boulder, Colo., "and I worked hard as a high school boy, and I guess I was lucky in that respect. I didn't have this kind of future in mind, but my background certainly helped me when it came along. I can't think of much I did as a boy that wasn't valuable to me as an astronaut. Every day added a little bit. It wasn't just the physical expenditure that was good. It was the habits it taught you, the willingness to work."

Glenn, who grew up in New Concord, Ohio, recalls his boyhood, too, and specifically remembers training he got as a member of the Hi-Y, the high school affiliate of the YMCA, which he thinks is the type of training and thinking that will be valuable to everyone in the Space Age.

"We used to talk," says the nation's first man-in-orbit, "about the individual's three general areas—body, mind and spirit. We all have different capabilities in each of these areas. Some children grow up particularly strong in one, some grow up particularly strong in another. The thing is to find out where your talents lie, in whatever field they may be. Then you are probably going to make your greatest contribution in that field. However, you are still going to be made up of body, mind and spirit so it behooves any young person or any of us to improve ourselves, to set up objectives in each of these areas.

"Not everyone is going to be qualified to be an astronaut. Some are not going to be physically qualified, some not educationally qualified. On the other hand, a boy may assess himself and find that he is not going to be an astronaut but he may be a tremendous nuclear physicist and do more than astronauts ever do.

"I don't think parents, or other grownups, should push their kids too hard in one particular direction. When parents ask me to autograph a picture: 'To the world's greatest future astronaut,' I never do it, because I don't think a kid should grow up thinking he's a disappointment because he's not become the astronaut his dad wanted him to be at the age of two.

Glenn: 'The man who succeeds is the man of balance.'

Carpenter: 'You can do wonders with industry.'

Personally I almost became a chemist—I even took chemical engineering in college—just because a man I greatly admired tried to steer me that way. I feel now that I would have been a poor chemist.

"To my children, who are 15 and 16," Glenn continues, "I say, 'Don't make up your mind too early. There's plenty of time to make up your mind in late high school or early college about what you want to be.' And I just try to give them as many varied experiences as I can possibly give them, that's all.

"But I do want them to set goals, realistic goals, work toward them, and attain them. To me, when there are goals there's no delinquency, and fewer problems. And it's the beauty of this country that you can attain realistic goals. All you must do is assess your capabilities, set your objective and you can make it.

"Gee, to me, that's America. It's the only place on this earth where that's true."

EISENHOWER'S FORTUNE. Ex-President Eisenhower, who earned $750,000 from his first book Crusade in Europe, has another one in the works -- his so-called memoirs, which publishers say should be good for a cool million. Ike is rare among military men in American history in that he started out as a poor farm boy and will finish a multi-millionaire. During his two terms in the White House, Eisenhower had his financial portfolio managed by a group of shrewd Texas oil men, among them the late Alton Jones. Reportedly these experts quadrupled in value the Eisenhower investments. Ike and Mamie will leave in a few months for Palm Desert, Calif., where they rent for a nominal sum the $175,000 golf cottage built for them by motor magnate Bob McCulloch. In much the same way that President Kennedy gravitates towards newspapermen and politicians, Ike seeks out the society of golfers and businessmen.

DOCTORS' CHOICE. If you were a young doctor, where would you like best to practice? According to the placement service run by the American Medical Association, the doctors' number one choice is California. Other favorite locations for a pleasant and profitable practice: Florida, Arizona, Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, Oregon and Washington.

CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS. In this forthcoming election, will you contribute a single dollar to the candidate of your choice? Have you ever contributed a single dollar to either political party? Most of us have not. Where then do politicians get the money to run for office? Largely from industrialists, labor unions, corporations and other business firms. Do these contributions compromise them? Honest men say no. But even so incorruptible a senator as Paul Douglas points out that this method of campaign financing is "corrupting in a subconscious way...The candidate turns to his friends and supporters as flowers turn toward the sun." Suggested solutions to the problem: (1) Allow income tax deductions for campaign contributions; (2) Have the federal government defray all campaign costs; (3) Educate the citizenry to contribute willingly; (4) As in Great Britain, pass a law requiring the radio and TV networks to contribute free time to candidates since TV time has lately become one of the heaviest of all campaign expenses.

LINDA'S HANDICAP. Linda Christian, ex-wife of Tyrone Power who recently finished her autobiography, reveals her virtue cost her stardom in Hollywood. "If I'd played ball with the Hollywood producers," she said recently, "I'd be a big star today. Whenever I walked into one of their offices, they started chasing me around the desk, but I just wouldn't play that way." Hollywood reaction to Linda's claim: "Baloney."

TROUBLE FINDERS. How do we keep track of what the Soviets are doing in space? Supposedly it's top secret but since our surveillance system is already known to the Soviets, it can now be revealed. It consists of Spasur and Spacetrack, two series of radars run by the Navy and the Air Force on the North American continent. These are controlled by the North American Air Defense Command with headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo. In addition we have the BMEWS (Ballistic Missile Early Warning System) with high-powered radar setups at Thule, Greenland; Clear, Alaska; and Flyingdales, Great Britain. A third arm of the surveillance system is our special electronics and radar center on the Turkish border which monitors Soviet missile launchings. A fourth consists of our Midas and Samos spy satellites which pass over the Soviet Union. We have further electronic espionage devices but of these the Defense Department will reveal nothing. Suffice it to say that we know darn well whereof we speak when we announce flatly that the Russians have failed five times to launch a spacecraft to Venus. More important yet, the Russians know we know.

SUPERMARKET CHANGE. Ten years ago the average supermarket in this country carried 1,500 items. Today it carries 7,500. Any wonder about the tremendous competition among merchandisers for available shelf space?

DECONGESTANT COLD TABLETS

ALL ABOUT EVE ARDEN

by LLOYD SHEARER

Eve Arden at Las Vegas does a turn from her new act, a smash hit in which she sings, dances, and tells jokes—a big change from old role in Our Miss Brooks.

LAS VEGAS, NEV.

LAST MONTH when Eve Arden was booked into the Sahara Hotel here to make her night club debut at $20,000 per week, people asked: "What can she do?"

These same fans had seen Eve in motion pictures, had heard her on radio, had watched her for years on TV in Our Miss Brooks. Yet when it came to night clubs they wondered, justifiably enough, whether she would cut the mustard or whether she would fail, as so many of her motion picture colleagues have failed.

This is to report that, at 50, Eve Arden is a show business phenomenon. She can do just about everything and do it well.

In her supper club stint, which she plans to take around the country, she sings, she dances, she tells jokes, she reminisces about her lengthy career, she performs a series of hilarious impersonations, lampooning Bette Davis, Marlene Dietrich, Nikita Khrushchev, Jackie Kennedy and Loretta Young.

Aided by four talented young men, her act is a wow, featuring mostly a gentle and good-natured humor.

The key to Eve Arden's personality is this same gentility, warmth and kindness of spirit; which is precisely why everyone in show business loves the woman.

You cannot find any actress in Hollywood, for example, where Eve has lived and worked since 1938, who will say a harsh word about her—this, despite the fact that Eve is happily married, has four children (three of them adopted), a tall, dark, handsome actor-husband named Brooks West, and a tidy little nest-egg worth at least two million.

Success Breeds Envy

In Hollywood, more than anywhere else, success arouses envy and resentment, especially in females. In the case of Eve Arden, it has aroused nothing but admiration.

One reason for this is that on her way up, Eve Arden never climbed the ladder of success lad by lad. She never knifed a fellow actress, never took advantage of subordinates, never spoke harshly of her peers, never broke into tantrums. Always she generated the feeling that she was pleasant, easy-going, non-competitive.

The great beauties like Joan Crawford, Irene Dunne and Loretta Young never regarded her as more than a fine character actress. Her stock in trade was playing the cool, crisp, caustic career-dame who wore brass knuckles on her tongue when she wasn't dipping it in sulphuric acid.

The truth, of course, is that Eve Arden is completely unlike the typed character she enacts in films. She's a home-loving softie who supports a flock of foreign kids in addition to her own brood. She lives on a farm with all sorts of animals: a cow named Elizabeth Taylor, a rooster named Tommy Manville, a heifer named Jane Russell, a Jersey named Anna Magnani, a colt named Perry Como, and a flock of other similarly-named stock.

Unfortunately, she's been acting since childhood and has a compulsion not only to perform but to earn money for so doing.

"I just can't sit around," she explains, "and grow broad in the beam. I tried that."

I took up painting after we finished Our Miss Brooks. But I paint sitting down, and I could feel myself beginning to spread, so a few months ago I decided I'd do something I'd never before done—entertain in night clubs. It's really much easier than doing a TV series week after week. You get more money for doing less work. And it gives you more time to spend with your family.

"I don't want to put off living, which so many people in show biz do when the right part or series comes along. I want to travel with my children, grow with my children, enjoy my children. I've got dozens of family projects I want to get underway."

"If I've learned anything in life," she goes on, "it's to live now, to enjoy nowness. I don't want to mention any names, but so many people in this business have never learned to enjoy themselves. They're too busy getting ahead."

"I've learned to enjoy the goodness in myself, in my family, and in other people, and that's made life a very sweet and bountiful thing to me. Believe me, I haven't always felt this way. I learned the hard way to look for the goodness and happiness in life and to bring out the best in those you love and work with."

Frustrated Domesticity

In 1939 when Eve was married to her first husband, Edward Bergen, an author's agent, she became mildly obsessed with the domestic life. But her obsession resulted in frustration, because Bergen worked in New York and she worked in Hollywood, and there was no togetherness, never much domesticity. Then World War II came along, and she lost her husband to the Army. Following the war, they were divorced and for years Eve was so miserable she went into analysis.

"I discovered," she says, "that in this world there are two kinds of neurotics—those who take their frustrations out on the world and those who take them out on themselves. I used to take them out on me." But if Eve shed tears, she shed them in private and never projected her troubles or transferred them to anyone.

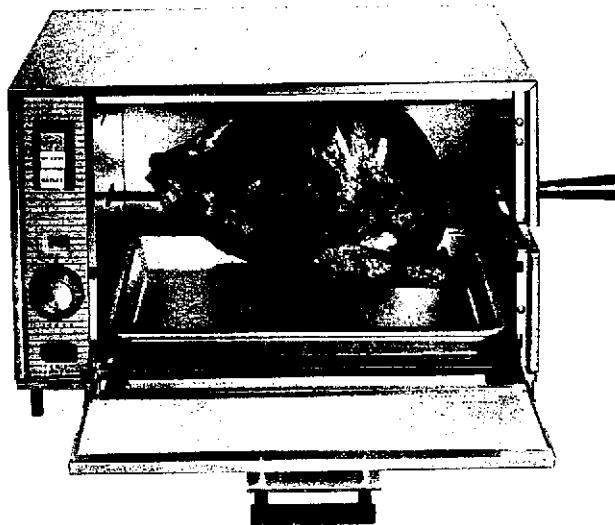

In 1948 Bill Paley, president of CBS, suggested she portray a schoolteacher on radio, and a few years later Our Miss Brooks was moved to television. In this period Eve Arden not only became a professional success but also a domestic one. She met actor Brooks West, who played opposite her in summer stock, and in 1951 after constantly being urged by her two daughters, married him.

Today, Eve Arden, originally from Mill Valley, Calif., with the name Eunice Quedens, is the classic example of the complete, fulfilled woman who has managed to turn the neat trick of combining career and marriage and making a rousing success of both.

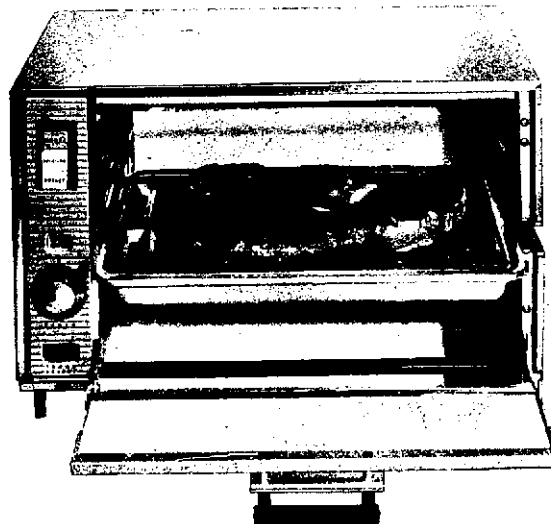

Her latest triumph, of course, is in night clubs. But it may be turned into a $300,000 TV special, so that you can all see how truly versatile Our Miss Brooks really is.

Happy Hollywood brood consists of Eve and husband, actor Brooks West, whom she married in 1951; and children Liza, 17, Connie, 14, Duncan, 9, and Douglas, 8. All but Douglas are adopted.

Why is General Electric's Rotisserie so unusual?

It's an "open-air" broiler, too!

General Electric's Rotisserie-Broiler gives you true open-air broiling. It provides a constant flow of cool, fresh, dry air you need for true broiling. (Not moisture-laden air that "steam roasts," instead.) And direct infrared heat crisply browns the outside of steaks, hamburgers, franks, poultry and seafood, sealing in the natural juices. You've never tasted such flavor and succulence!

Big rotisserie, too. Handles two chickens, a big roast or leg of lamb. The automatic timer turns off the heat and rotisserie when cooking's done. There's a handy timed-appliance outlet, too, that lets you plug in your coffee maker or other appliances.

Inside or out, you'll enjoy that big outdoor flavor of true broiling with General Electric's Rotisserie-Broiler. At your dealer's.

Why do you blush?

Is it innate modesty or is it because of guilt feelings? Or does the color rise because you hate to be the center of attention? Many new and unknown aspects of blushing now are coming to light. They are based on 40-year studies of blushing made by Dr. Sandor S. Feldman, Clinical Professor of Psychiatry, the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry, a man who may be called the world's foremost authority on red faces. In the quiz below, circle or underline the answers you believe are correct, then check your results against those of the expert. If you score nine right, consider yourself a connoisseur of the blush.

ANSWERS

- 1 False. People blush even when alone. "Solitary blushing" occurs when a person visualizes himself in a situation where he did blush or where he probably would blush.
- 2 True. Blushing does not occur until a child has learned to be ashamed of certain feelings and to deny or conceal them to avoid disapproval. It may appear in two- or three-year-olds. Usually, it comes after a child is old enough to laugh at jokes.
- 3 False. Blushing can occur when a person visualizes himself in the sort of situation which ordinarily would cause him to blush.
- 4 False. Men and women blush with equal ease.
- 5 False. Blushing is common to all races and occurs regardless of skin pigment. Blushing has been observed in albinos, Negroes, Orientals, Polynesians, and Brazilian aborigines, among others. When dark-complexioned people blush their skin becomes darker.
- 6 True. Blushing occurs most frequently from puberty until the age of 30, then tends to diminish. It can persist in old age, however, and has been observed in oldsters in their 80s.
- 7 True. In Victorian days, women were expected to blush as an indication of innocence. However, woman's role in society has changed; she is no longer expected to blush at a faux pas, a four-letter word or an off-color story. Generally, today's woman doesn't.

8 False. A member of a group can be ashamed for what another member has done—and blush.

9 False. Blushing can be caused by any kind of public attention, whether it brings praise or punishment. "Even such routine acts as entering a store or being introduced may cause such a person to blush," Dr. Feldman says.

10 True. If A sees B blush, A may assume that this is a response to the same sort of situation that would cause A to blush. A thereupon identifies with B—and promptly blushes!

11 False. Blushing may occur on the face, ears, neck, and upper part of the chest. In tribes whose members habitually go naked, the blush may also be seen on the abdomen and arms.

12 False. Once a feeling of shame or embarrassment has been produced, there is no way in which a person can keep from blushing.

Is your face red?

If your cheeks are tingling over your score on today's quiz, you might want to brush up on the little-known subject of blushing. Here are some of Dr. Feldman's more interesting findings in his 40-year study.

"Blushing is caused by our repression of the normal, universal desire to be the focus of attention.

"At an early age, we are taught that it's wrong to want to draw attention to ourselves. As a result, we pretend to be humble—we don the mask of hypocrisy so that others (initially our parents; later, members of our social group or society in general) will think well of us.

"But the truth will out: repressing our desire for attention brings redness to our skin—particularly to the face—and draws the attention we wanted in the first place!

"People don't blush until they are old enough to be made ashamed of their desire for attention; thus, blushing starts when the child is old enough to try to hide his craving for attention as a means of adjusting to his environment.

"Theoretically, if a person could be completely and constantly aware of his own inner drives (including the drive to attract attention) and would admit these drives under reasonable circumstances, he would never blush."

Most of us never achieve this advanced state of self-awareness. Result: practically all of us blush—at least, occasionally!

14,124 RESERVISTS CALLED UP

WASHINGTON—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, acting after U.S. reconnaissance aircraft were fired upon over Cuba, Saturday night ordered 14,124 Air Force reservists to active duty to man 24 troop carrier squadrons.

The announcement was made by Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester, who read a McNamara statement saying the Cuban situation "requires we be prepared for any eventuality."

Asked if the new troop action signified that an invasion of Cuba was imminent, a Defense Department spokesman declined comment.

Sylvester made public McNamara's decision after the White House had announced the contents of a letter sent by President Kennedy to Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev saying he was willing to negotiate on the Cuban crisis if Soviet missile bases are withdrawn from Cuba.

The Defense Department already had announced that a reconnaissance plane was missing after a sortie over Cuba.

The pilot, listed as "missing," was identified as Maj. Rudolph Anderson Jr., 35, of Greenville, S.C. His father said Anderson had been training as a U2 pilot.

The Defense Department did not say his plane was shot down, although it did say that reconnaissance planes were fired upon.

The announcement said Anderson is an Air Force officer, but had no mention of the type of plane that he was flying. A spokesman refused to give any further details about the plane or the area in which it was lost.

Anderson's next of kin were listed as Mrs. Frances Jane Anderson and his sons, Rudolf Anderson III, 5, and James B. Anderson, 3.

McNamara's troop order announcement said that "today, U.S. unarmed reconnaissance aircraft, conducting surveillance of the buildup of the offensive weapons secretly introduced into Cuba by the Soviet Union, were fired upon."

McNamara's statement added:

"To insure that the nations of the Western Hemisphere continue to be informed of the status of the threat to their security, it is essential that such reconnaissance flights continue. The possibility of further attack on our aircraft and the continued buildup of offensive weapons in Cuba require that we be prepared for any eventuality."

"Therefore, tonight, acting under the authority granted to me by Executive Order 11058, dated Oct. 23, 1962, I have instructed the secretary of the Air Force to order to active duty 24 troop carrier squadrons of the Air Force Reserve with the associated support units."

Quite obviously troop carriers could be used to transport military units for a strike against Cuba itself if this were to be ordered.

In announcing that one aircraft conducting surveillance operations over Cuba was missing, the Defense Department said that these missions will continue. The statement also said that "appropriate measures will be taken" to protect the planes and insure their effectiveness.

The Cubans themselves had said during the day that anti-aircraft batteries "drove off unidentified warplanes"

JFK WILLING TO TALK

Defuse Rockets First, K Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy told Premier Khrushchev Saturday night he was ready to negotiate an immediate end to the Cuban crisis, provided that Khrushchev stops work on nuclear-missile bases in Cuba and defuses the missiles.

Climaxing 24 hours of hectic summit-level exchanges between the two leaders, Kennedy laid out a two-point program of agreement built upon what he called "the key elements" of a letter which Khrushchev had sent him Friday night. The two points are:

1. Khrushchev would agree to remove the nuclear missiles from Cuba "under appropriate United Nations observation and supervision" and to halt any further installation of such weapons in the island.
2. Kennedy would agree, upon establishment of "adequate arrangements" through the U.N. both to lift the U.S. Navy's arms blockade around Cuba and to give assurances "against an invasion of Cuba."

While the President said that he saw no reason why these arrangements could not be completed and announced "within a couple of days" he concluded his letter to Khrushchev with a grim note of warning on the need for speed.

"The continuation of this threat, or a prolonging of this discussion concerning Cuba by linking these problems to the broader questions of European and world security, would surely lead to an intensification of the Cuban crisis and a grave risk to the peace of the world."

In his letter, Kennedy summed up Khrushchev's previous suggestions as requiring Russia to remove offensive weapons from Cuba under U.N. observation and stop sending weapons to the Castro regime, while the United States would—with U.N. safeguards—halt its weapons blockade of Cuba and pledge not to invade Cuba.

But Kennedy insisted that Russia must first stop work on missile sites in Cuba and render offensive weapons there incapable of operation "under effective international guarantees."

In a message Saturday night to U.N. Acting Secretary General U Thant, Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro offered to stop construction of major military facilities in his country if the United States lifted its blockade.

Khrushchev's letter of Friday did not contain any reference to the deal the Soviet premier proposed in a separate message broadcast Saturday morning by Radio Moscow under which Russia said it would take offensive weapons out of Cuba if the United States pulled missiles out of Turkey. Kennedy rejected that proposal earlier Saturday.

AROUND THE WORLD Saturday, there were these other developments in the Cuban crisis:

Venezuela Alerted

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI)—President Romulo Betancourt Saturday night ordered the mobilization of Venezuela's armed forces.

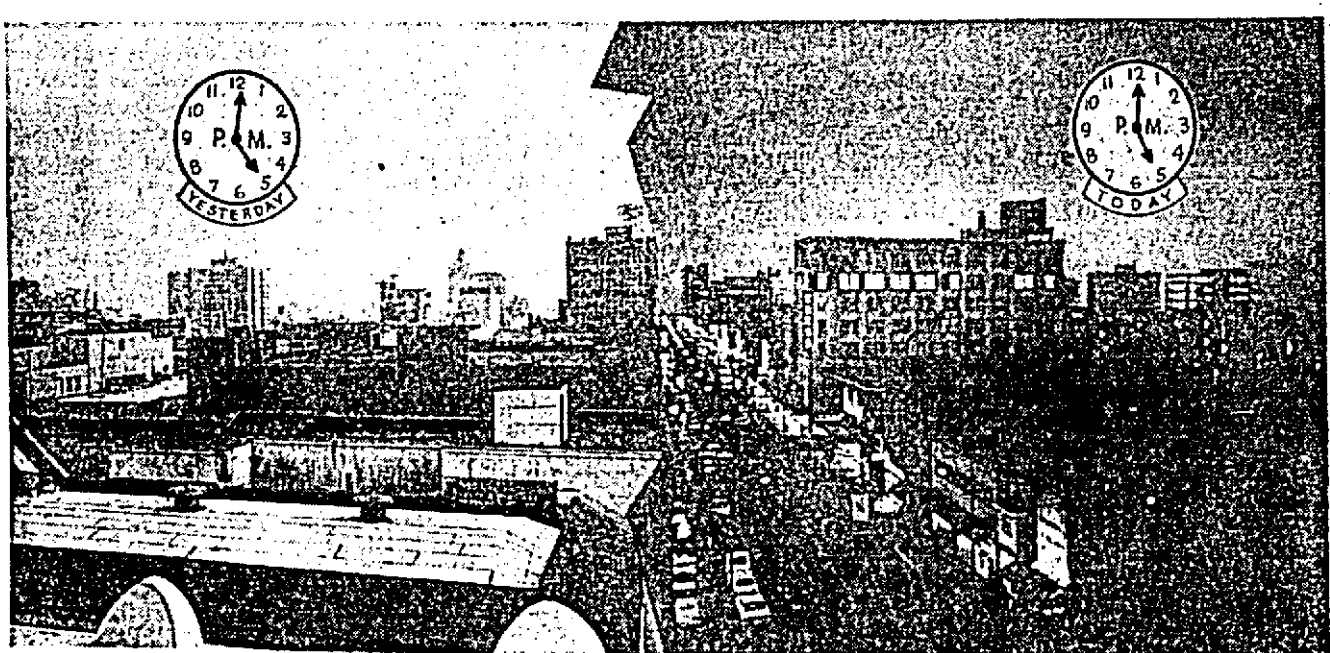

It was understood that Venezuela, in addition to holding its troops and planes in readiness, would supply warships for the blockade of Cuba.

Venezuela has a 15,000-man army and a small but well-equipped air force with about 75 first-line aircraft and an equal number of support and training planes.

NIGHT CREEPS FORWARD ON 25-HOUR DAY

Split scene of downtown Long Beach, divided, roughly, just east of Pine Avenue, shows how much darker it will be today at 5 p.m. than it was Saturday because California is back on Pacific Standard Time. You should have turned your clocks and watches back one hour before you went to bed if you didn't want to get up an hour late this morning. Officially, the state switched from daylight-saving time back to standard time at 2 a.m. today, making this a 25-hour day.

AF Reservists Await Orders

There is an excellent chance 200 Air Force reservists from Long Beach will be involved in the activation of 24 reserve troop-carrier squadrons, the operations officer of the 452nd Wing said Saturday night.

Maj. Richard Leebrick, formerly of Long Beach, told The Independent, Press-Telegram by telephone from his Riverside home that the four squadrons of the 452nd may be called up.

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara revealed the summoning of the 24 squadrons Saturday.

EX-LUXURY RESORT GIVEN STATE Corona Center for Drug Addicts to Be Ready Soon

By GEORGE FLOWERS

Bats, skunks and foxes have been chased out of an abandoned resort hotel at Norco. Broken glass and roofs of a long-vacant Navy hospital are being repaired.

In all, $25 million worth of deserted buildings are being rehabilitated in that tiny town 40 miles from Long Beach, to pave the way for the State of California's greatest rehabilitation effort upon its men and women.

IF ALL THE dust and dirt is cleared out of the abandoned Corona Naval Hospital in time, California will open its first and only rehabilitation center designed exclusively for narcotics addicts on Jan. 7, 1963. Indications are the project is on schedule.

When the rehabilitation center for narcotics addicts opens, it will be filled to capacity in a matter of months. Superintendent Ronald W. Wood, a native of Long Beach, predicts. The former naval hospital facilities, and the rehabilitated Norconian Hotel, will accommodate 1,500 men and women, plus administrative, medical and training facilities.

THE SITE, a few miles from the city of Corona, was abandoned by the Navy five years ago and fell into a melancholy tangle of dust, weeds and jungle.

Two years ago, with whopping support by both parties in the state legislature, the California Rehabilitation Center was established—on paper.

The State's Department of Corrections obtained the Corona Naval Hospital, and with it the ancient (1925) resort hotel as surplus property, without cost.

Refurbishing the buildings will cost $3,260,000. Complete rehabilitation programming will be possible at the center by June 1, 1963.

Meanwhile, glaziers and carpenters, dusters and roofers, plumbers and painters are putting the Corona Naval Hospital—as it may always be known to tens of thousands of sailors and Marines, back in condition.

SUPERINTENDENT Wood, who recently attended a White House conference on the narcotics problem, believes that California will jump immediately into

CD Has Rough Week but Situation Improves

By BOB SANDERS

It was what is known as a "rough week" around the Long Beach Office of Civil Defense but, according to Assistant CD Director Evar P. Peterson, things are "looking up all the way around."

On the heels of President Kennedy's Cuban quarantine announcement Monday the office was deluged with calls at the rate of five a minute, most from people wanting to know what to do in case of an attack.

AT THE SAME time, housewives began a run on markets to lay in the two-week food supply the Civil Defense authorities have advised all along, and depleted stores' supplies of canned goods.

Water department officials reported increased consumption as households apparently attempted to put in the two-week supply in containers.

Air-raid warning-siren tests regularly scheduled throughout Los Angeles County for Friday morning were canceled because officials finally decided "no many people might think it was the 'real thing' and panic."

In the wake of intensified public interest, the Civil Defense office ordered full speed ahead on preparations already being made for the protection of civilians in case of attack.

Thousands of pieces of literature, including booklets and pamphlets on building, equipping and living in family air-raid shelters, (Continued Pg. B-1, Col. 4)

'SURVIVAL-RATION CRACKERS' are carried by Public Service Department employee to basement fallout shelter in Lafayette Hotel. Box was part of three truckloads placed in the shelter Saturday.

Sabin Oral Sunday Crowds Predicted

By BEN ZINSER

A turnout double that of last week has been predicted for today's oral polio vaccine clinics.

Dr. Sam S. Woolington, clinics chairman, made the prediction. He called last week's Long Beach area turnout of 126,000 persons "remarkable."

Dr. Woolington urged parents to take their children to the clinics even though the youngsters have had a full series of Salk injections.

"Those who take Sabin oral vaccine now will not need a Salk booster shot next spring," he said.

TYPE I SABIN vaccine will be administered today. Individuals who took the vaccine last Sunday should not attend today's clinics, Dr. Woolington said. Those who have already had Type I will be given a chance to obtain Type II on Dec. 2 and 9. Type III will be offered Feb. 3 and 10.

"Today will be the last chance to obtain Type I vaccine at a mass immunization clinic," Dr. Woolington said. The vaccine is administered on a cube of sugar. No needles are used. A 25-cent donation is asked.

Architects for Towers Contracted

Contract has just been signed for architect and engineering services for the proposed 25-story, $30-million World Trade Center structure on Pier J, Long Beach.

Signing the agreement were Charles C. Weidlein, president of International Towers, Inc., developers, and Dan A. Kimball, president of Aerojet-General Corporation.

June 1, 1964, has been set as completion date for the building.

Details will be found on Page 1 of the Southland Progress Section of today's Independent, Press-Telegram.

the lead over other cities in rehabilitating its addicts.

His assistant, Bruce T. Dyer, goes a little further:

"We will have the foremost and best program in the nation—including that of the federal government, he says.

The rehabilitation center was established by legislature to become effective Sept. 15, 1961. When the center came into being, it began to exist on borrowed facilities.

At the Chino Institution for Men, a facility was acquired that could house 760 men. The first man committed (by Superior Court) was received last July 16.

A smaller facility was obtained at the California Department of Corrections at Tehachapi, and facilities for women were made available at the California Institution for Women.

NARCOTICS addicts now being committed are sent to these places for the time being. When the center at Norco is completed, 600 men will be housed in one building once the central building of the Corona Naval Hospital; 600 men will be housed in one group of barracks and 600 more in another, and 400 women in the former hospital nurses' quarters.

Under California's new narcotics control laws, the commitments — already in the hundreds — will come from three principal sources. One group, whose narcotic addiction has included commission of a crime, will be arbitrary court commitments. Another will be voluntary commitments by the addicts themselves, and a third will be commitment of addicts by members of their families.

All commitments, however, must be processed through Superior Court, and a division in Los Angeles will attack this problem.

"Our first problem will be control," Dyer says.

"Many addicts say cure is impossible. We will first attempt to help the addict control his craving."

"Some people say there is no such thing as an alcoholic. They say there are merely alcoholics who have quit drinking. Many people say the narcotics habit is the same."

"After we have worked with control, we will work with rehabilitation."

IT IS A matter of melancholy to Dyer that the center likely will be filled to capacity as rapidly as it is rebuilt. He gazes about the 63 buildings of the Norco facility and comments:

"We have some space to build here, but it may rob us of recreation area."

Recreation area was the total purpose of the site when, in 1927, the lavish Norconian Club was opened by investors seeking the lush Hollywood trade.

It faced a man-made lake (now owned by the Navy and used in its armament training program), was fronted by a private golf course, contained four pools (two indoors) and a lush, marble-floored ballroom.

Vestiges of the luxury remain. The pools are empty (the Navy filled in one indoor pool) and the golf course is gone. But the ballroom still is checker-boarded in black and white marble.

This building will be converted to medical clinic purposes, administrative offices and training programs for state workers.

Wood is somewhat sad about those two big outdoor pools.

"People have become quite angry at the thought of them," he says.

"They have asked us: 'How come dope fiends can have swimming pools when our children can not?'"

"Well, we haven't any plans to use those pools at this time, what with our narrow budget and all. But it might be nice, in the future, to use them in our rehabilitation work — if the public will let us."

THE CALIFORNIA Rehabilitation Center will be a minimum-security type of institution, but is being heavily fenced by civilian contractors now. It will be double fenced around the women's dormitories.

Men and women will be strictly segregated, Dyer says, and possibly will not see each other except at rehabilitation lectures and classes.

One exception:

"We have had man-and-wife couples commit themselves voluntarily, when both have become addicted. I suppose we will have to let them see each other occasionally."

Dyer recalls that the state took over the ex-Navy hospital facilities on March 30, 1962.

"The first day," he says, "an officer ran up the flag—upside down."

"That's a distress signal. And that's what this place is for—people in distress."

Oceanside Dead as Marines Go

OCEANSIDE (UPI)—"This dying battle-ready Marines town is the deadliest it's been since the 1st Marine Division went to Korea 10 years ago."

That was the reaction Saturday of City Councilman Jerome K. Jones to the sudden exodus of Marines from nearby Camp Pendleton in the face of the Cuban crisis.

The daily late afternoon flurry of activity was missing in the downtown district due to the absence of Marines, this military city's biggest customer. Marines who have not moved out are busy on the base.

A restaurant favored by Marines reported only four Leathernecks from 3 to 6 p.m. one afternoon instead of the usual "full house."

At Oceanside-Carlsbad College, night enrollment dropped 50 per cent or about 550 students. Marines were recalled from classes to rejoin their units.

Signs of international tension were clearly evident. Snorting truck convoys car-

ELECTION COVERAGE

I, P-T Set Up for Fast Vote Tally

The Independent, Press-Telegram is set up for fast and thorough election night coverage on Nov. 6, with telephone and radio coverage prepared for spot inquiries.

Radio Station KGER (1390) will set up a microphone at the newspaper office and election bulletins covering local and regional voting will be carried as rapidly as returns develop. The station will broadcast national and state returns from its studio between local broadcast periods.

The League of Women Voters, as a public service project will provide a crew to answer telephones at the newspaper office. The telephone number for election inquiries is HEMlock 2-5959.

RICHARD BEACH, who has supervised the newspapers' compilation of local returns for many years, will again be in charge of the tabulation crews working at the county building and at other points in the district.

The I, P-T "nearby" staff will collect information on local races in southern, southeastern Los Angeles County and Orange County for publication and answer to inquiry.

Because of the length of the ballot, counting may be slow on election night, but returns will be obtained as rapidly as feasible.

BETTS' TRANSACTION ATTACKED

Conflict of Interest Boils Up in State Treasurer Campaign

By JAMES McCAULEY
 Independent, Press-Telegram Sacramento Bureau
 SACRAMENTO—A hot conflict-of-interest issue has boiled up in a second major California election race. It involves the incumbent treasurer, Democrat Bert A. Betts.

Betts has confirmed a 1960 deal in which he borrowed money from a bank holding state funds and used the loan to buy $6,400 stock in the same bank. Though Betts says there is nothing wrong or illegal about the transaction, his Republican opponent Assemblyman John A. Buserud, brands it as highly unethical.

AND BUSERUD, though not mentioning Nixon or Hughes by name, has raised the question as to whether the deal isn't in the same moral category as a loan from a government contractor.

This was an obvious reference to the $205,000 Hughes Tool Co. loan to Donald Nixon, brother of Richard Nixon, during Richard Nixon's vice presidency. The propriety of Nixon's loan has been sharply questioned by the press and Nixon's critics.

And Buserud injected the issue deeper into the campaign Saturday by wiring Gov. Brown to ask for further comments on questions put to Brown and Nixon by Herman H. Ridder, publisher of the Independent, Press-Telegram.

IN ANSWERING the Ridder question on "whether you believe loans by government contractors to public officials or members of the family are in the public interest," Brown replied:

"Elected officials are not only policy makers for government, they are trustees for the highly ethical standards which are vital to a life of a democracy. As such their actions must not only be above reproach, but beyond question."

In a wire to Brown, Buserud pointed out that a bank holding a state deposit is a state government contractor. Buserud called on Brown either to publicly condemn Betts' transaction or to repudiate his statement to Ridder.

IN ANSWER to an earlier Buserud request for a state investigation on Betts' transaction, Brown had said he had no intention of being drawn into an argument "between candidates for other state offices."

A Buserud spokesman has pointed out that national banks are forbidden by law to make loans for the purchase of the bank's capital stock where that stock is used as collateral for the loan.

Buserud did not charge, however, that the Betts stock was used for collateral. "If not illegal," said Buserud, "the state treasurer's actions are highly unethical."

The San Francisco Examiner, a newspaper that has endorsed Brown, has criticized Betts for "plain, bad judgment" in the loan stock purchase deal. The Examiner announced today it would support Buserud for treasurer.

Deputy Treasurer Richard C. Munden, denied any wrong doing by Betts, though confirmed that Betts made $697 profit in eight months on the bank stock transaction.

Betts borrowed the money from Central Valley National Bank of Oakland to buy 200 shares of stock on July 20, 1960. The stock, purchased for $6,400, was sold eight months later for the profit. The state had $3,800,000 deposit in the bank in 1960.

As to Buserud's conflict of interest charge, Munden replied that the state's deposit in the bank remained the same during the period of the loan.

"IN FACT, there was a reduction in state deposit three months before he bought the stock," Munden said. Munden also declared that Betts' stock was only five one hundredths of one per cent of the bank stock. The law allows a state officer this for up to 3 per cent invested in a firm without conflict of interest.

The Oakland loan and stock purchase deal stirred up the hottest controversy in the treasurer campaign.

EARLIER, HOWEVER, Buserud had charged that some of Betts' campaign contributions were from officers and directors of banks with state deposits. Munden replied that bank officials also had contributed to Buserud's campaign and asserted: "That works both ways."

Previously Buserud blasted Betts for the actions of two past lieutenants. He charged that former Assistant Treasurer Lee Feidrich and present Assistant Treasurer Santino D. Meo owned promotional stock in Growth, Inc., an investment firm that has holdings in three banks.

Betts replied that two of the three banks have no state investments. The third, the Bank of Trade, was the first locally owned bank to open in San Francisco in 33 years.

"FOR THAT REASON we deposited $100,000 in the Bank of Trade. That amount represents only five one hundredths of one per cent of the amount above for deposit in banks," Betts said.

Munden accused Buserud of telling half truths about Growth, Inc. He asserted that Buserud failed to point out that most of the Growth, Inc. holdings are in real estate, not banks.

"All are matters of public record. If anything were wrong that would be a strange place to hide it," Munden declared.

Mosk Tells Trainmen He Feels Certain of Victory

By BOB HOUSER
 Political Editor

Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk told a union group here Saturday night a total turnout at the polls "would dramatically show the world that our system of government is truly by, for and of the people."

Mosk's appearance at a dinner meeting of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen in the Lafayette Hotel was a prelude to a special "Mosk Day in Long Beach" Monday.

The attorney general told the trainmen that whatever the size of the turnout, he is confident that Gov. Brown "and a host of other Democrats will be re-elected and elected" because Democrats "have given the state the type of government that serves the state best because it serves no group to the detriment of any other."

William A. Williams, area chairman of Mosk's campaign, said Mosk will make a major political address Monday noon in the California Room of the Breakers International. Tickets will be available at the door for a $5 contribution.

NELLIE FOR GEORGE

Mrs. Nellie Combella has announced her support for George Deukmejian, Republican nominee for Assembly in the East Long Beach Signal Hill 39th District. She ascribed her endorsement to conviction that Deukmejian has qualifications to deal with state problems, as opposed to handling local affairs and to his close legislative contact with retiring Assemblyman Bill Grant, who also has endorsed him.

JOHOVICH PLAN

Democratic nominee for Congress in the Long Beach area 32nd District, announced Saturday a "town hall representation" plan he would implement if elected.

He said he would establish a citizens' advisory committee to give every precinct in the district a direct line of communication with their congressman, through a precinct leader, representatives of major areas of interest and industry would be chosen by citizens in each area.

He said business, shipping, industry, Navy installations, teachers, civil service workers and labor organizations, all would have an advisory voice in congressional representation. Precinct leaders would poll their areas on important issues, he said.

Brown Plays GOP for 'Near-Treason'

By BILL SUMNER
 I, P.T. Capital Bureau
 WASHINGTON—Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California chastised the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee Saturday for a statement he said "borders on treason."

The committee had described President Kennedy's action in the Cuban crisis as a political gesture aimed at winning votes next month on a situation that "had been known for months" — the presence of Soviet offensive missiles in Cuba.

Brown, here for a meeting of the Governors' Conference Committee on Civil Defense, said, "The President did the right thing and at the right time."

HE CALLED the Republican statement shocking, "the most irresponsible statement I have ever heard in my political life . . . If you had heard the briefing today by John McCone."

McCone, CIA head, and others briefed the governors' committee on the Cuban situation and they also had a half-hour conference with the President on civil-defense matters.

But if Brown found the Republican statement shocking, he was not about to forget the California campaign he is waging and his opponent, former Vice President Richard Nixon.

"I think," he said, "you'd all be shocked by the kind of campaign" he is conducting.

HE SAID Nixon had carried on a campaign of accusing Brown of being a Communist but "in the very clever Nixon way. They are trying to prove I'm a very dangerous American."

Brown said he had heard Nixon on television and that he had "called me a Red appeaser. The other pieces are more subtle, on the Murray Chotiner form. But just as vile."

Brown said he had reduced the extent of his California campaign and had asked Nixon to do the same, to no

De Gaulle Faces Test in Stay-or Quit Vote

PARIS (AP)—President De Gaulle faces his stiffest test yet in a national referendum today when the French people will say, in effect, whether they want him to serve out his term.

About 25 million French voters will give their verdict on his administration with ballots on De Gaulle's proposed constitutional amendment for direct election of his successors.

De Gaulle himself has altered the issue by proclaiming he will resign if the proposal is beaten, or if it wins only by what he calls a "vague and doubtful" majority.

'Interception' Defined for K

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Saturday defined the "interception area" for the Cuban blockade as covering waters from northern Florida to the northern tip of South America and from the center of the Gulf of Mexico to the eastern tip of Puerto Rico.

The information was given to acting U.N. Secretary General U. Thant by Ambassador Adlai Stevenson for possible relay to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Khrushchev, responding to an appeal from Thant, has stated that for a temporary period Soviet vessels will stay out of the blockade area in order to avoid any clash with U.S. warships.

PRESIDENT Kennedy has also told Thant the United States would not seek any confrontation if Soviet ships stayed clear of the blockade.

The note which Stevenson gave to Thant, according to the State Department, said:

"My government has instructed me to inform you that 'interception area' referred to in your letter of Oct. 25 to the President of the United States and in his reply of Oct. 26 comprises (A) the area included within a circle with its center at Havana and a radius of 500 nautical miles and (B) the area included within a circle with its center at Cape Maysi, located at the eastern tip of the island of Cuba, and a radius of 500 nautical miles.

County in Maryland Leads U.S. in Income per Family

WASHINGTON (AP)—Montgomery County, Maryland, leads the nation's 3,072 counties in median family income in figures released Saturday by the U.S. Census Bureau.

The bureau's county and family income—$7,305. Following it were Connecticut, $6,887; New Jersey, $6,786; Nevada, $6,736; and California, $6,726.

SECOND highest was Los Alamos, New Mexico, site of government nuclear bomb testing, with a median family income of $9,269. Third and fourth were Arlington and Fairfax counties, Virginia, $8,670; 4—Fairfax, Virginia, $8,607; 5—Du Page, Montgomery County, the Illinois, $8,570; 6—Nassau, New York, $8,515; 7—John, son, Kansas, $8,161; 8—Marin, Arlington's median family in-

Richardson Issues Cry of 'Smear'

SANTA BARBARA (AP)—Dr. Ralph Richardson Saturday accused his opponent for state superintendent of public instruction, Dr. Max Rafferty, of running a campaign "of scurrility and smears unequalled in California history."

Richardson called Rafferty "the Mickey Spillane of education."

He asked the sixth annual leadership conference of the Affiliated Teachers Organizations of Los Angeles:

"Do the people of California wish to place in Sacramento a man with a willingness to have textbook selection influenced by groups like the John Birch Society?"

HE SAID well-financed right-wing forces are spreading distortions "about my candidacy which would be ludicrous if they weren't so scurrilous."

Richardson said some literature put out by Rafferty supporters "even goes so far as to question my loyalty . . . because I voted with the majority of the Los Angeles City School Board against an Americanism desk."

He said this would have been an office "solely to snoop into the loyalty and integrity of teachers" and that the board rejected it as smacking of a police state.

NO HANGOVER AT SEATTLE

World's Fair Not Only Money Maker, Buildings to Remain

By BETTY HOPPER
SEATTLE (AP) — The hideous mornings after of an almost unbroken line of world's fairs seemingly would cause any sane promoter to take the pledge: never again.

Generally there are tons of litter to clean up, financial disaster to be faced and a lot of weird-shaped buildings for which no one has any use now that the ball is over, buildings of tomorrow that are torn down before tomorrow ever comes.

But the Seattle World's Fair vowed from the start it would be different. And, by golly now that it has closed, it was.

For one, it was a financial success. That alone is enough to insure it a corner in history but there's more. Its buildings are going to stay upright, giving Seattle a legacy that includes:

A $30 MILLION civic center with an opera house acclaimed for its acoustical excellence and beauty and an 18,000-seat coliseum.

A $10 million, six-building complex that will become a science center.

The country's first commercial-sized monorail that could be the forerunner of a system to alleviate urban traffic.

The Space Needle, a 607-foot steel-legged tripod crowned with a revolving restaurant.

THERE ARE less visible but equally admirable results:

The fair, keyed to the 21st century, created a reservoir of goodwill and understanding between the 55 visiting nations and the 9 million fairgoers. Representatives of the foreign countries were unanimous in their description of the fair's success as "beyond all expectations."

The Pacific northwest, Alaska and western Canada reaped a harvest of additional tourist dollars. Washington expected to collect $20-$25 million in taxes alone. Tourism in Alaska rose 20 per cent over 1961 and British Columbia anticipated a $50 million tourist haul.

NO PROJECT of such scope finishes with only hits in the boxscore and the fair had its share of errors.

The biggest mistake and one that had wide-reaching consequences concerned housing. A pre-fair survey estimated attendance at 9.2 million — a figure that started fair officials campaigning for housing facilities. Rumors of a housing shortage spread.

The shortage didn't materialize.

The pre-fair attendance estimate was remarkably accurate but many visitors stayed with friends or relatives or were repeats.

THE miscalculation on housing led indirectly to the collapse of a fair-encouraged motel-trailer operation and the fair spent $105,000 to refund advance payments and to provide places for visitors en route when the enterprise folded.

Of three cruise ships brought here to serve as floating hotels, two lost money on the venture.

The need for parking, too, was overestimated. Owners, who started charging $2.50 per day, soon dropped their prices to $1.50 and by September the fee was lowered to 75 cents at many lots.

THE SUCCESS of the monorail was partially responsible for the parking surplus. The two elevated trains whisked more than six million passengers over the one-half mile route to the city's center in 106 seconds.

On the fairgrounds itself, the biggest surprise was the failure of Show Street, the fair's "nice but nude" show. The closure of one girlie show by fair officials, who decided it was too much girl and too little show, brought unfavorable publicity. Show Street wasn't a flop because science outdrew sex, one entrepreneur insisted, but because:

"This was a family fair and if you've got the family tagging along you don't go to Show Street."

SOME privately financed foreign shops did less business than they had expected and a few concessionaires said they would be lucky to break even.

But the hits far outweighed the misses.

The fair had a whopping 3.9 million advance ticket sale and sold the nine millionth admission in early September.

The 550 underwriters, who pledged $5 million in the early days to give the fair a sound financial start, were repaid three months ahead of schedule.

On Sept. 17 the fair paid Alwac International $4.5 million for the monorail which the Swedish company had installed at its own risk.

ATTENDANCE at the exhibits was much higher than anticipated. Seventy per cent of the fairgoers toured the U. S. Science Pavilion. The British exhibit attracted nearly half the visitors.

More than two million saw Washington state's "World of Tomorrow" theme exhibit. Huge lines formed outside the National Aeronautics and Space Administration building as fairgoers waited to see films of the flights made by America's astronauts or to inspect the Friendship VII capsule flown by John Glenn. Culture was a big hit, drawing 2 million persons to see performing arts.

That the effort was worth the price is evidenced by the hundreds of letters received from fairgoers.

Students March for 1-A Monday

Thousands of college students will ring Southland doorbells Monday in a campaign for passage of Proposition 1-A, the higher education bond issue on the Nov. 6 ballot.

Students at both Long Beach and Orange County state colleges will participate in campus rallies before marching through the areas distributing information on the ballot measure.

Junior colleges have been invited to join the statewide "Students' March for Proposition 1-A."

Nancy Ohara, chairman of the LBSC Students for 1-A, said that the door-to-door drive will follow a noon rally. A faculty and staff organization will donate a trophy to the student group most effective in publicizing the measure.

IN PREPARATION for the campaign, LBSC fraternities have distributed 7,000 bumper strips and have manned information booths on campus.

Dr. Carl W. McIntosh, college president, issued a proclamation designating Monday as "1-A Day" at LBSC. The passage of Proposition 1-A would enable the college to continue development as projected in the campus master plan," the presidential proclamation said.

Twenty-five Long Beach State student groups have endorsed the proposal in formal resolutions. The student body also has conducted a campaign to obtain endorsements from community organizations.

AT ORANGE State College, 14 groups will compete in contacting voters. Theme of the drive, which will start after a noon rally, is "Keep College Doors Open by Voting Yes."

UCLA, Los Angeles State and other colleges will stage marches in their campus communities and adjacent areas.

Three major buildings at LBSC would be financed by the passage of the proposition. More than $10 million in construction at Orange State College awaits its approval.

JFK Wins First Round in Test of Wills

By HARRY SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy engaged Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in a world-shaking test of wills last week and won—temporarily, at least.

He tossed down the gauge of nuclear war with a naval blockade of Communist puppet Fidel Castro's Cuba where 5,000 Khrushchev "technicians" had built at least 10 nuclear missile bases which could lay to waste much of North and South America.

U.S. reconnaissance planes provided indisputable photographic proof that the bases were "on the ready" and that others were being built. At least 30 missiles, some on launchers, were observed.

The President told Khrushchev for all the world to hear that America's full nuclear might would be dumped on Russia if a single missile were rocketed from Cuba. And he gave Khrushchev and Castro only a limited time to dismantle the bases which he said would not be tolerated in this hemisphere. This hinted strongly at a U.S. invasion or decimation of the bases with bombs if there was any stalling.

At a late hour Friday, the White House said Moscow had ignored Kennedy's warning, was rushing work "at a fast pace" on the bases and was trying desperately to camouflage some of them.

The State Department made it crystal clear that the blockade was only one part of the over-all U.S. blueprint. A spokesman recalled a presidential warning that should offensive preparations continue in Cuba, "further action will be justified."

KHRUSHCHEV, who is used to pushing nations around, replied with angry retaliatory threats. But he also declared somewhat conciliatorily that Russia would not be "provoked" into war and said it was time for a summit meeting. Kennedy, however, made clear that this was a dead issue until the bases vanished from Cuban soil.

The blockade was highly effective. Twelve Soviet ships which Khrushchev had ordered to run it, even at the risk of sinking, suddenly changed course. A tanker carrying oil was allowed to proceed unmolested as was another Soviet-chartered vessel flying the Lebanese flag. Americans, though anxious of the outcome, were glad that someone had finally called Khrushchev's hand. Many areas began laying in food stocks and pin-pointing atomic fallout shelters.

U.S. and Allied armed forces everywhere were alerted for "any eventuality." Khrushchev and the Iron Curtain bloc took like precautions. A mighty U.S. military force was building up in Key West, Fla., 90 miles from Cuba. Castro also issued a call to arms. Alarmed members of the United Nations pleaded for peace. Secretary General U Thant offered mediation, suggesting Kennedy end the blockade and Khrushchev cease sending weapons to Castro while they negotiate.

Khrushchev quickly agreed. But the Presidents implacable price was swift dismantling of the bases. He accepted Thant's proposal for talks, and directed U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson to represent him. But the White House said with finality that the blockade cordon would encircle Cuba as long as Soviet ships headed for the island.

These were only a smattering of highlights in a turn of events that hit the world like a gigantic thunderclap.

It was a march to the brink of war much more realistic than Khrushchev had contrived in the past. The President did not shun it. He said the welfare of all humanity was at stake. The essence of his words was that the presence of Soviet missiles in Cuba—the first installed outside Russian territory—was equivalent to Hitler's unimpeded march into the Rhineland 23 years ago. But this time the threat was met, even at the risk of war. The President's ultimatum apparently disrupted a shrewd Khrushchev timetable for forcing the Allies from Berlin. Allied sources said he was playing for a lull in East-West tensions that would keep the West guessing on Berlin while Cuba was turned into an offensive nuclear base. Once this was achieved, he would demand a summit meeting and use the bases as a bargaining weapon to compel the West to accept Moscow's terms on Berlin.

Kennedy took note of this in a sombre nationwide radio television address on Khrushchev's perfidy. In it he warned the Russians that any overt Soviet action in Berlin also would bring swift retaliation. But the presence in Cuba of Soviet missiles zeroed in on American cities remained the heart of the crisis.

The President stayed at his desk for long hours, keeping in close touch with developments and conferring with a special executive committee of his National Security Council. British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan branded the missile buildup "a deliberate Soviet adventure designed to test the ability and determination of the U.S." He warned that there must be firm solidarity of purpose among the Allies.

Ambassador Stevenson submitted to the U.N. Security Council a U.S. resolution demanding immediate removal of the Cuban bases. There followed a dramatic exchange, freezes over for your answer. Minister Valerian Zorin in which Stevenson four times demanded a yes or no answer on whether Russia had installed bases in Cuba. Zorin's only response was a raucous laugh. And he turned his back when Stevenson set up, for all the council to see, enlarged pictures of the actual bases.

"I am prepared," Stevenson snapped, "to wait until hell freezes over for your answer."

Zorin, parroting Khrushchev and Gromyko, charged the pictures were fakes. Stevenson offered to accompany him to Cuba to prove otherwise.

In submitting the resolution, Stevenson had said: "The crucial fact is that Cuba has given the Soviet union a bridgehead and staging area in this hemisphere—that it has invited an extra-continental, anti-democratic and expansionist power into the bosom of the American family—that it has made itself an accomplice in the Communist enterprise of world dominion. It isn't a private struggle; it's a world civil war—a contest between the pluralistic world and the monolithic world."

In Havana, Castro who betrayed his anti-Batista revolution into Moscow's hands, warned that any U.N. inspection team coming to Cuba must be prepared to fight. He also denied existence of the bases.

Kennedy asked congressional leaders of both parties to remain on instant call.

Chinese Press on in India

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A 10,000-man Chinese invasion force was reported driving down a jeep trail from Towang Saturday in a possible effort to break through the eastern Himalayas into India's thickly populated plains of Assam.

Outnumbered and outgunned Indian troops were putting up stiffer resistance after a week of heavy fighting, a Defense Ministry spokesman said, but two more Indian positions were overwhelmed.

PRIME MINISTER Nehru, whose government has proclaimed a state of national emergency, told a delegation of 48 members of his Congress Party, India is making arrangements to match Communist firepower with arms from abroad.

He said he had written to all nations, except South Africa and Portugal, with whom India has no diplomatic relations, explaining his refusal to enter cease-fire negotiations with the Red Chinese unless they pull back to their positions of Sept. 8.

14,124 Reservists Called Up in Crisis

over western Cuba. This is the section where the Russian missile bases are located.

Cuban Premier Fidel Castro then declared that his country's guns would open up on any plane that violated Cuban air space.

The Defense Department said, however, that "any interference with surveillance of the Caribbean Island will meet counter-action and surveillance will be enforced."

The United States said in effect that it had a right to conduct these aerial inspections.

MCMANARA'S STATEMENT said that "such surveillance operations were in accordance with the resolution adopted on Oct. 23, 1962 (last Monday) by the Organ of Consultation of the Inter-American System under the provisions of the Rio Treaty of 1947."

This was the decision taken by the Organization of American States last Tuesday when it approved the U.S. blockade.

Sylvester said the reservists would come from 20 states but he gave no details of the specific units to be ordered to active duty.

He said the states involved were Massachusetts, Utah, Ohio, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, New York, California, Oregon, Michigan, Oklahoma, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Washington, New Jersey, South Carolina, North Carolina and Texas.

The callup which applied to reserves only and not to National Guard units, was issued on the authority of an executive order by President Kennedy Tuesday. The order implemented the "fight if we must" Congressional resolution of Oct. 3. This authorized the President until next Feb. 28 to order persons of the ready reserve to active duty for up to 12 months.

The resolution carried a clause which prohibits calling members of the armed services who were involuntarily ordered to active duty or whose active duty period was extended in August, 1961, during the Berlin crisis.

tivated in a new crisis. Since there are about 45 such squadrons in the U.S., according to Maj. Leebrock, and "about 20" were pulled in then, it's the 452nd's turn.

Besides the 452nd, the only other reserve squadrons in California are in the 349th Wing at Hamilton Air Force Base, which also has four squadrons.

MAJ. LEEBROCK said there are about 3,000 men in the 452nd, of whom approximately 200 live in Long Beach.

The 452nd used to be stationed in Long Beach. It was the first wing to be called up at the outbreak of the Korean War. Then, it was a bomb wing (light).

K's Turkey Offer Rapped by Nixon

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Richard M. Nixon Saturday night fully endorsed President Kennedy's "strong action" in Cuba, and urged rejection of a Soviet proposal to dismantle Cuban missiles if the United States gave up its bases in Turkey.

To give up bases in Turkey would mean destroying the "anchor of NATO," said Nixon in a televised speech. He seconded the President's announced decision to turn down the Russian offer, which he likened to a "horse for a rabbit" trade that would severely hamper the United States and free world.

Nixon, the Republican candidate for governor, delivered what he termed a major non-political speech to stress that he was speaking "as an American citizen speaking out in support of the President."

HE SAID that in declaring the quarantine of Cuba because of offensive missile bases there, the President took the "only action possible in the interest of the United States and the cause of freedom."

Not to act, said the former vice president, could have led to a "greater risk—war or surrender or both."

Nixon, describing Soviet Premier Khrushchev as a "coldly objective" man who would weigh all the risks "before he presses the button," said the United States in Cuba had to consider the possibility the offensive missiles might fall under the control of Fidel Castro.

CASTRO is a "hot-blooded maniac" who might take a chance in a moment of impulse of touching off a war. He said he was confident "Mr. Khrushchev is not going to risk Moscow to save Havana."

In the instance of Turkey, Nixon said there was no analogy with Cuba in the current situation. Cuba is a Communist satellite controlled by Moscow and the missile bases provide the basis of a bridgehead into the Americas, he said.

"If we should abandon Turkey, our friends in the Near East and our allies in the free world would feel let down and would feel they would go on the bargaining table whenever America is threatened," said Nixon.

HE CALLED for the support of the President by all Americans, and urged Americans not to panic or show fear.

"I believe the action in Cuba was necessary," said Nixon. "That action is reducing the possibility of war, rather than increasing it."

Although his speech was billed as non-political, he recalled that two instances during the Eisenhower administration—regarding Lebanon and the Quemoy-Matsu Islands—where his former chief took "action similar" to that of Kennedy.

"By standing firm against aggression, there was no war and no surrender," said Nixon.

Cuba Guards Coasts

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's regime continued to temper this nation for an invasion Saturday by stringing army and militia units along Cuba's 2,500 miles of coastline. Women with colorful knitted sweaters over their militia uniforms stood guard in a brisk wind in Havana.

Heavy movements were reported on the nation's main highways. In most provinces gasoline sales were limited to armed forces personnel, government officials and doctors, travelers reported. In Havana, two gallons of gasoline were allotted to a customer.

3,000 Picket JFK

WASHINGTON — While the President kept himself occupied Saturday with conferences and decisions of a life-and-death nature, 3,000 people paraded up and down in front of the White House offering advice.

Their counsel differed. Eggs were thrown at one point to further heighten the difference of opinion.

From colleges throughout the East and Midwest, young people offered such advice as: "Peace is the only shelter."

They marched up and down the wide sidewalk in front of the White House, bearing signs and passing out information. With the temperature in the mid-30s, cheeks were pink, breath came out in steam. The pickets were dressed for winter and if you had seen them in any other circumstance you might think they were filling into one of the great football stadiums for less serious pursuits.

Crowd at U.N.

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than 2,000 shouting demonstrators paraded in front of the United Nations Saturday in an outpouring of feeling over the Cuban crisis that was so disorganized that it was difficult to tell who was protesting what.

Despite the differing political views

represented — from one end of the spectrum to the other—police reported there had been no incidents in the five-block-long milling crowd.

Scuffle in S.F.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A brief scuffle broke out at Civic Center Plaza Saturday as opposing groups demonstrated over the U.S. quarantine of Cuba.

About 1,200 persons heard actor Sterling Hayden and other speakers denounce the quarantine, while at the other end of the plaza 500 persons listened to other speakers voice support of President Kennedy's action.

Several of the anti-quarantine demonstrations, carrying signs, moved into the opposing rally. They were pushed back, but no blows were struck.

Muscovites Ired

MOSCOW (UPI)—More than 3,000 shouting, whistling Russians demonstrated for 3½ hours outside the U.S. Embassy here Saturday protesting the blockade of Cuba. The demonstrators hurled ink bottles and rocks that smashed three windows of the 10-story embassy.

"Give us the ambassador, give us the ambassador," shouted the throng in a demand to speak to the new U.S. envoy to Moscow, Foy D. Kohler. But Kohler, who was out on a call at the time, returned to his residence instead of the embassy.

An embassy source said that apart from the broken windows, the only other damage was "one or two ink spots on the building and a few scratches on cars parked in front of the embassy."

Britons Arrested

LONDON (UPI) — Police arrested hundreds of Britons demonstrating against the U.S. blockade of Cuba in half a dozen British cities Saturday. Police on foot and horseback battled pacifists in London, where one small demonstration also occurred outside the Soviet Embassy.

The London demonstrators tried to battle their way through heavily reinforced police to demonstrate in front of the prime minister's official residence and in front of the U.S. Embassy in Grosvenor Square but police beat them back in repeated charges.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Sea Captains, Diplomats Now Are Barometers

By DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Business judgments suddenly depend less on statistics and economic indicators than they do on diplomats and sea captains.

The naval blockade around Cuba and the international tensions it brought now stand as the prime factors in trying to determine which way business is going.

Talk of inflation or deflation, tax cut or tax hike, boom or bust—all pivoted on the possibility of military encounters.

With the crisis still fresh, businessmen have had little time to act outwardly on it, however. Few even cared to guess as to what it will mean.

Only the stock market, which must try to anticipate important changes, reacted immediately. And the market's see-saw action indicated that even Wall Streeters had trouble agreeing on what's coming.

In this climate of international complexities, some important business happenings were only partially digested. These included excellent earnings reports by auto firms and continued zooming car sales, a dividend cut by Bethlehem Steel and a variety of general business indices that seemed to point on balance to a continued economic plateau.

THE CUBAN situation seemed to raise several possibilities:

1. A Korea-like, limited conflict somewhere in the world.

2. No U. S. fighting, but unrest and upheavals that could disrupt raw material supplies and world transportation communication lines in general.

3. Little overt change, but a general heating-up of the cold war and a long period of nerves continuing taut.

4. A summit, or other, agreement markedly reducing tension.

The possibility of all-out war is generally ignored if only because few businessmen see any way to base plans on such a catastrophe.

The stock market seemed to bet heavily at one point on some combination of a Korea-type conflict and disruption of international communications.

Such defense issues as rails, aerospace, and steels shot upward while "peace stocks" like retail stores went down sharply. International oils, especially those with Near East links, also suffered at one point.

OTHER MARKETS, during the high tension Tuesday, reflected a similar mood. Foreign stock exchanges went lower. Commodity exchanges here and abroad vaulted on guesses that prices of food and materials would increase in the future. Gold bullion was in heavy demand from people preferring to hold it rather than paper money or securities.

When tension eased, all these extreme positions began moderating.

Businessmen generally declined guesses what might happen internationally. But they were less hesitant to talk about what would happen in a given circumstance—a Korea-like conflict, for instance.

They seemed agreed that business would and could perk up. There is ample productive capacity and work force to expand output in most fields quickly, they said.

A new inflationary spiral might begin, tax-cut talk and recession talk could quickly give way to plans for tax boosts and government controls.

But what if the whole crisis blows over? What would this mean to the economy?

Many analysts say the final effect on business might still be beneficial. A strong stand on Cuba, they say, gave the people a psychological boost that could translate itself into a more positive economy.

Many members of the National Association of Business Economists said that, the Cuban situation aside, they expect a mild and brief recession next year. But their president, William Butler, of New York's Chase Manhattan Bank, said Cuba might well cancel that recession even though the situation does not become more acute.

WORLD WAR II—TWENTY YEARS AFTER

Leyte Gulf, Where Jap Sea Power Was Scuttled

Editor's Note: This is the last in the series of articles recalling people and places, campaign victories and catastrophes in World War II.

By GEORGE C. FLOWERS

The greatest sea battle in the history of mankind opened on the murky morning of Oct. 23, 1944, in the Palawan Passage—a stretch of water in the South China sea that flanks the western side of the Philippine Islands. Two United States submarines, the Dace and Darter, were making a routine patrol of this Philippine flank when they chanced upon a Japanese fleet.

It was the armada of Admiral Kurita, northbound from Borneo and carrying the one-warhead of a four-pronged attack upon the invaders of Leyte.

The battle that ensued stretched 700 miles in one direction, nearly 500 miles in another. It was filled with chance and blunder, but when it ended the American fleets had emasculated the Japanese, who were never able to attack by sea again.

THE JAPANESE were gambling with the strength they had summoned from their naval base in Singapore, and the last muscles of their home fleet.

Admiral Kurita's north-bound fleet planned to slice halfway through the Philippines when it had cleared the Palawan passage. On a southward course, and nearly parallel to the coast, an attack force under Admiral Nishimura steamed toward the Gulf of Leyte. From the north Admiral Ozawa led a third force toward the covering forces of the American navy.

FLUSHED OUT by the prowling submarines, Kurita's forces ran into heavy trouble when they were still 400 miles from Leyte.

The Dace and the Darter were sharpshooters. The Darter put five torpedoes in Kurita's flagship, the heavy cruiser Atago, at a range of 1,000 yards; it sank in 10 minutes as Kurita and his staff scrambled aboard the destroyer Kishinami.

The Dace hit the cruiser Maya with four torpedoes; it blew up and sank in four minutes. The Darter scored on the cruiser Takao; aflame and low in the water, it turned heel and lumbered back to base in Borneo.

THESE WERE heavy losses, but Kurita had his orders—conquer or die. He nailed his flag to the battleship Yamato and sailed on toward San Bernardino Strait, between Luzon and Sumatra. Now he crossed paths with Admiral Shima, southbound from the Pescadores and heading, on a long and looping course, into Leyte Bay to destroy the American fleet.

Under Admiral Bull Halsey, the great American Third fleet lay on the east side of the Philippines, fanned out as a protective covering for the forces invading Leyte.

RADIO alerts from the Dace and the Darter, supplemented by the submarine Guitaro which also got a glimpse of Kurita's attackers, alerted Halsey on the sunshiny morning of Oct. 24.

It was bad timing for Halsey. He had just dispatched Vice-Admiral John McCain's huge task force back to Ulithi for rest and supplies. But he had lots of muscle left, including three task forces strewn over a 300-mile front.

AT 7:46 A.M. Lt. (J.G.) Max Adams, flying a Helldiver, spotted Kurita's fleet. Halsey sounded an alert that was heard all the way back in Washington, D. C.

McCain, 600 miles in the wrong direction, was wheeled about 160 degrees. The Third Fleet's task forces were pulled in tight toward San Bernardino Strait, to meet and destroy Kurita.

AMID THE TENSION Halsey was caught by surprise. Admiral Nishimura's task force was sighted at 8:20 a.m. by planes from the carrier Enterprise.

They flew to the attack, damaging the battleships Fuso and Yamashiro. But this arm of the Jap attack was undaunted, steaming steadily eastward for Leyte. The third and fourth arms of the Jap attack were yet to be discovered.

AS THE JAP task forces drove toward Leyte, they came within the covering range of their land-bound air forces. These Jap aircraft launched a deadly attack on the American ships. The carrier Princeton was set afire. Fighting off these Jap air assaults, the American task forces continued to full-steam for San Bernardino Straits.

ADMIRAL KURITA'S force, doggedly moving east through the middle of the Philippines, was put under vicious attack by American planes at 10:25 a.m.

American pilots couldn't believe their eyes. Before them were the two largest battleships of the world—the Yamato and the Musashi. These 69,500 monsters, almost mythical creatures to the western world, headed an armada of five battleships, 12 cruisers and 15 destroyers.

The mighty Musashi was an early casualty, bleeding oil from a torpedo hit, but she kept her 27-knot speed. Two more bombs, another torpedo, and she began to trail the fleet. Four bombs and three torpedo hits later her bow was knifing under the water, her speed down to 10 knots. At 3 p.m. Kurita ordered her out of the fight.

AS THE MUSASHI turned to leave, 10 more bombs and four torpedoes struck her and she was a dying ship. The Yamato was hit, too, but not as hard or as often. But Kurita had enough. At 3:30 p.m. he reversed his course.

ABOARD the New Jersey, Bull Halsey pondered the facts at his hand. Where were the Jap carriers?

He fanned out search planes. At 4:40 p.m. they found Admiral Ozawa's task force, to the north. Ozawa's secret orders were to decoy Halsey away from Leyte. At 7:50 p.m. Halsey took the bait. He ordered three task groups northward to attack Ozawa in the morning.

SO CONVINCED was Halsey that the Jap strength was north, he left San Bernardino Straits unguarded—not even by submarine patrols. But, with the third fleet gone north to chase a will-o-the-wisp, Admiral Kincaid's Seventh Fleet still lay in the Gulf of Leyte, protecting the American invaders.

Admiral Nishimura's task force, which had paralleled Kurita but run south of him, and Admiral Shima's force (on the long, looping course) sailed close to the gulf of Leyte as the night fell.

AT 11 P.M. American PT boats picked up these new assaulters on radar. They engaged the new Jap force just long enough to identify it, then ran for cover.

Nishimura, close now to his goal, pressed on. Next he ran into a wave of American destroyers, and they turned the wrath of war on him in full measure.

When his flagship, the Tashimiro, was hit by a torpedo, Nishimura vanished with her—but not before he ordered the rest of his force onward. The battleship Fuso now led the way.

PEARL HARBOR WAS avenged in the next hour. While Halsey's modern greyhounds were off baying at the moon, six old battleships of the American fleet—every one raised from the mud of Pearl Harbor—lay in wait for the Japs.

Under their vengeful broadsides, the Jap battleships Fuso and Mogami burst into fire, reeled about helplessly and died in the dawn.

STEAMING full blast behind Nishimura came Admiral Shima. He encountered the destroyer Shigure, last surviving ship of Nishimura's armada, but her only signal was that "I have rudder trouble."

Shima drove straight into the graveyard of Nishimura's fleet. All about him were dead and dying Japanese ships.

Abruptly, Shima reversed his course, heading for the Sulu Sea and escape.

NORTHWARD, Halsey had a field day. Admiral Ozawa—commanding carriers without planes—saw his forces decimated. He lost four carriers, a cruiser and two destroyers. That was the price the Japs paid to pull the Americans away.

Kurita, who fled the scene earlier, now returned. Off Samar he struck a weakened

Auto Output at New Year's High

DETROIT (AP)—Auto production soared to another high for the year last week and came within 500 units of being the industry's best since March, 1960, Automotive News said.

The passenger car output for the week will total 164,525 units, best since the 164,967 built in the week ended last Dec. 2. In the comparable week of 1961 the total was 159,282 and last week it was 162,207.

The trade paper said October is certain to set a production record of more than 720,000 units. The best October so far was in 1950 when 659,371 cars were built. Last year strikes slowed output to 557,808.

Truck production this week was estimated at 28,834 against 27,428 last week and 25,479 in the similar week last year.

Chest Massage Brings Life Back

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

CLEVELAND (AP)—The dead are being brought back to life in growing numbers by a simple method of pushing on the chest. Their hearts had stopped, and to a doctor this is clinical death.

In four more minutes, the brain can be damaged irreversibly from lack of oxygen. Healthy life can be restored if the heart is restarted within those precious moments.

Massaging the chest is proving an effective way of restarting hearts, and under ideal conditions in hospitals up to 40 per cent of persons dead from certain causes have been revived, Dr. Maurice Chassin of Maspeth, N.Y., reported Saturday.

THE CHANCES for second life can depend upon when and where you die—whether trained aid is available.

Chest massage has revived men keeling over from heart attacks, patients dying on the operating table, and victims of drowning and electrocution.

But medical, legal and even moral problems are involved. Dr. Chassin and other speakers told sessions of the American Heart Association.

Not just anyone can do the chest massage, Dr. Chassin warned. It must be carried out by well-trained doctors, nurses, or first-aid teams applying rhythmic pressure at the proper area of the chest.

FAULTY METHODS have fractured ribs, punctured the lungs and lacerated the heart or liver, Dr. Chassin said. The person who is seemingly dead may be only in a deep faint, and massage could be harmful, so there is a legal question, said Miss Helen Connors of the American Nurses Association, New York City. Nurses are not licensed to make diagnoses, she pointed out, and the nurse who undertook chest massage might be held legally liable for any complications.

Rocket Puts Ionized-Belt Probe Aloft

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Explorer XV satellite rocketed into apparently successful orbit Saturday night to survey an artificial radiation belt created by a U.S. high-altitude nuclear explosion last summer.

The payload was shot aloft by a Thor-Delta rocket at 6:15 p.m. EST. More than an hour later, a project official told newsmen, "I see no reason why the satellite would not be in orbit."

The official, Robert Gray of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, reported that preliminary information indicated all three stages of the rocket performed as planned.

But he was reluctant to claim complete success until the satellite had completed one orbit of the globe. Because of the elliptic orbit that was sought, one circuit would take about 5 hours.

The 98-pound payload was aimed on a wide-looping course, ranging from 170 to 10,360 miles above the earth.

THEY BACK KENNEDY

Prospective Citizens Firm

By GEORGE ROBESON

The members of a "little United Nations" in Long Beach are backing President Kennedy to the hilt in the current Cuban crisis. They are backing him with a studied optimism born of personal experience with war and communism, and an acute awareness of history.

They are 25 members of an American citizenship class, taught by Vito Romans, executive director of Downtown Long Beach Associates. The class at the West Adult Center, Pacific Coast Highway at Cedar Avenue, is part of the Long Beach School District's adult education program. Its members represent 16 countries.

the bluff safely may be called. President Kennedy, in the past, has been poorly informed on developments in Cuba. Once informed, he acted wisely. Khrushchev must back down, but he must find a way to save face. The Monroe Doctrine is as important and meaningful now as in the 1820s, and should be enforced.

Kremles, the Hungarian refugee, believes the stand-up to the Communist threat may have come late.

"AMERICA should have stopped them in Hungary in 1956, but she did not. Then we allowed them to build up in Cuba. How is it possible to see everything and do nothing?"

An Italian student disagrees. The blockade was thrown up in time, he says. He believes Cuba has no nuclear warheads for its missiles. The Cuban dog, he maintains, can bark loudly, but cannot bite.

The rest of the free world now stands with the United States, the students agreed. If the world becomes a battleground, Russia and her satellites will stand alone—and she is not willing to force the issue alone.

VALERIE NORMAN, of London, said her homeland has suffered through a war that rained from the skies, and does not want another one — but England will fight beside the United States if war with the Soviet Union should explode.

"The people in England will gripe about war scares, of course," she said. "But they are on the U.S. side in any dispute with Russia."

THE MAJORITY of the students were under bombardment in World War II. They are not afraid today. But their optimism is not blind. They have reasons.

Here is 83-year-old Joseph C. Kremles, who was a bank director in Budapest. He left Hungary after the abortive anti-Communist revolt of 1956. "Khrushchev will not start war over Cuba," he said. "He has Cuba to think about — but he must also think about Laos, Berlin, Viet Nam, India... he will not think of any one of these alone."

"The Communist tactic is to create much trouble — and then reap what you can."

Ecumenical Council Leans Toward Flexible Liturgy

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Support seemed to be mounting in the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council Saturday for steps to allow greater flexibility in church methods around the earth. The new approach would mark a historic transition in ecclesiastical policy.

No vote on any aspect of the change has yet been taken at this worldwide assembly of the episcopate and preliminaries have dragged slowly. After a week of profuse floor discussions, the presiding admonished council fathers to talk less in order to do more.

Despite the snail's pace, there are many indications that adjustments are in the making.

THE CHURCH is moving into a new historical period, said Archbishop Karl J. Alter of Cincinnati.

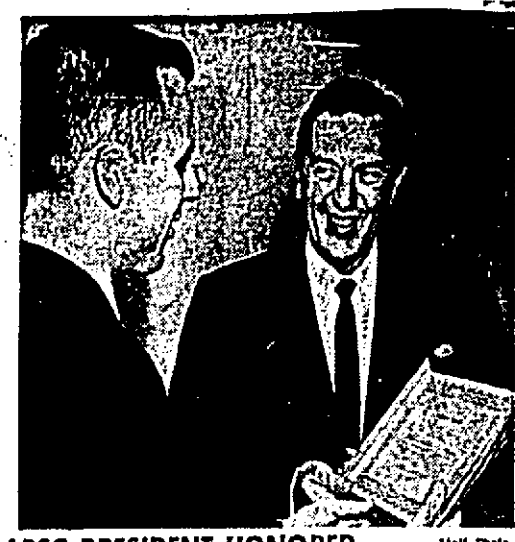

The council still faces more work on its "schema" for revamping rules of ritual.

Communiqués, as well as other information gleaned about the closed sessions, suggested powerful backing for at least some relaxation in the presently fixed practices of the church.

The Rev. Frederick R. Manus of Washington, D.C., special council consultant on liturgy, told reporters current church thinking is to ease the system of "inflexible uniformity."

This strict uniformity, he noted, arose in the 16th Century to guard against the inroads of Protestantism. Previously, the ancient church had left more room for regional diversity.

Now, as many council fathers see it, the circumstances call for a swing back to more latitude to cope with particular local and contemporary needs. It would mean a major turning point in the annals of the church.

L.B. System Keeps Students in Buildings

By ROBERT WILCOX
Education Editor

Southland school systems were still split today on the question of keeping the pupils or sending them home in a civil defense emergency.

W. Odie Wright, superintendent of the Long Beach Unified District, restated the system's policy of keeping kindergarten through ninth grade pupils "within the buildings."

"They will be released only to parents, guardians or older members of the immediate family," Wright said.

HOWEVER the Los Angeles City Board of Education announced two plans in case of alert.

If the alert is followed by a "take cover" signal, indicating imminent attack, children will be kept at school to take cover under desks. If the alert indicates an hour or more of warning, children will be sent home.

Wright said that in the current crisis, Long Beach teachers have been asked to review civil defense procedure with pupils in all classes. The district's program is being re-evaluated completely and drills are being stepped up at individual schools.

UNDER THE Long Beach program, in the event of an air raid signal at the school (three long rings of the bell), students will march to a place of maximum shelter within the buildings. These include hallways, auditoriums, bookrooms and other locations.

Each of the shelter areas is located near a first-aid station with emergency supplies which include first aid kits, stretchers, blankets, water jugs and pans. A first aid station is provided for each 600 pupils.

Although some of the staff members have been given other responsibilities, the majority of the teachers will remain with their pupils. In any event, proper supervision must be provided.

"WE MUST be ready to occupy the minds of the children and control their actions in order to assure discipline and avoid panic," says the district's instructions to personnel.

"During the emergency period, the Red Cross or other civil defense authorities will be in touch with the principal for the purpose of giving direction or assistance," the instructions state. "Every effort shall be made to keep the pupils and personnel within the buildings until civil authorities are available to assist in the complex procedures of contacting parents."

IN THE EVENT of a no-warning attack, pupils are instructed to drop immediately to the floor at the sight of "a brilliant flash," shielding their faces and other exposed areas. The procedure has been practiced in all schools.

Each school has at least two AM/FM radio receivers, one to be tuned to a CONELRAD station and other to be tuned to the school's radio station KRON for local civil defense information.

Except for the question of keeping the children or sending them home, a policy which varies among the many Southland school districts, their civil defense precautions are nearly identical.

Shop Wisely, Not Wildly, in Buying Food for Civil Defense Emergency

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Stella George, writer of the following article, has been a teacher of Civil Defense with the Long Beach Board of Education.)

By STELLA GEORGE

It happened last week.

A young housewife, mother of two, was ironing and listening to the radio. Suddenly, the announcer said something about having a two-weeks' supply of food on hand in case of emergency.

Quickly, the woman unplugged the iron, turned off the radio, grabbed her handbag, and dashed to the bank.

"I'm in a hurry," she told the cashier, as she withdrew $50 from a small savings account. "The news, you know. They said to buy groceries right away."

SHE DROVE to the supermarket. There she pushed a shopping cart up one aisle and down the other, filling it with every kind of canned food she found within easy reach.

The canned tuna counter was nearly bare. The woman picked up canned crab and lobster and several cans of anchovies.

When she finally stood in line to check out, she noticed the cart of the woman in back of her. Bottled water!

The other woman saw her look of dismay. "They're all out of water. I got the last five bottles they had. Isn't it awful?"

THE YOUNG housewife paid the clerk, piled the groceries in her car, and headed for another market.

They, too, were out of bottled water, but while there she filled a cart with more canned goods picked at random as she hurried up and down the aisles. Not only was there plenty of tuna, but it was on sale. She put 20 cans in the cart.

She checked out, piled the groceries in her car, and sat for a moment, thinking. What had she forgotten?

Coffee! That was it.

SHE LOCKED the car and went back into the store. She bought eight cans of were passed out to frantic citizens.

The campaign to locate, mark and stock community fallout shelters was speeded up. Although many of the shelters remained unmarked over the weekend, Peterson said he expected all to be marked by the end of this week. So far, only four downtown locations have been supplied with food, he added, but the rest will be supplied as soon as the shipments arrive from the federal office.

EQUIPMENT for a 200-bed emergency hospital was shipped to the Veterans' Administration for storage until needed.

Twenty-two more pieces of radiological detection equipment were distributed among the various fire departments in the city.

Although all Civil Defense classes in medical self-help are filled now, applications are being taken for classes to begin in 30 days.

At a meeting Friday with the city's department heads, who are the bulwark of the city's Civil Defense organization, City Manager John Mansell expressed satisfaction with the progress made during the week.

"WE HAVE increased ability to meet the situation tremendously," Mansell said. "For the most part, our citizens have reacted in a calm and deliberate way that speaks well for the city and its CD organization."

One of the problems of Civil Defense that frequently is misunderstood, according to Peterson, is the extent to which the government considers itself responsible for the welfare of its citizens in case of attack.

"It should be remembered," he said, "that, in the final analysis, the ultimate responsibility for the safety of the citizen and his family lies with the citizen himself."

"THE GOVERNMENT, city, county, state and federal, only intend to make it as easy as possible for the citizen to save himself. But he must do it himself."

"We have had calls from a few people who expect this office to make their preparations for them. This we cannot do. We can only advise them what they should do and hope they remember."

Below is a rundown of civil defense status of area cities as surveyed by Independent, Press-Telegram correspondents:

Artesia CD in High Gear

ARTESIA — This community of 11,000 population moved its civil defense organization into high gear late last week.

Already established through earlier planning were such matters as availability of hospital and medicinal facilities.

The city is policed by the Lakewood Sheriff's Station which has a 10-day storage of foodstuffs and large amounts of medicinal supplies.

Compton Ready for Emergency

COMPTON — A well-tailored basic civil defense program is ready for any emergency, according to Assistant CD Director R. T. Graham.

The city's 300 employees all have been assigned duties in event of an emergency. Many employees in state offices here also have civil defense assignments.

All schools are ready to serve either as medical centers or for mass feeding.

Compton City College would serve as an emergency medical center. Dominguez Hospital, only such large facility in the area, also is in readiness.

Lynwood Speeds CD Activity

LYNWOOD — Civilian defense activity here accelerated swiftly last week, local CD Director Jim Riley said.

One hundred municipal employees, previously drilled in civil defense measures, have been put on a standby basis.

Civil defense radio equipment, augmenting that privately owned by ham operators, has been out of order but repair work is being rushed, according to the Rev. Bert Reeder, CD radio chief here.

Lakewood's CD Program Set

Lakewood's three-year-old civil defense program needed little revamping during the past week.

City Administrator Marshall Julian, who also serves as CD director, said the civil defense plan calls for full use of professional workers in the police and fire departments or those in public utilities, public works, communications and transportation.

The Lakewood Sheriff's station is ready to operate as a fully-equipped command

Hospital, MD List Prepared

1. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

A master list of Los Angeles County doctors and major hospitals was distributed Saturday to all law enforcement and civil defense offices of the county.

The list includes the name, address, telephone number and specialty of all members of the Los Angeles County Medical Association.

It also includes hospitals, homes and related facilities with 100 beds or more licensed by the State Bureau of Hospitals with the name, address, licensed beds and type of facility.

Locations of 200-bed emergency hospitals in the county are in another section.

THE MASTER list was prepared by the Los Angeles County civil defense coordinator, Roy C. Hoover, with the cooperation of the medical association.

Dr. Frank F. Schade, chairman of the medical association's committee of disaster medical care, said the list would be "of inestimable value in the medical and health management of a major disaster."

Doctors are listed alphabetically by cities, which in turn are divided into seven civil defense areas. About 8,000 doctors are listed.

ALTHOUGH autumn has been officially with us for more than a month, its presence really strikes home with the change from DST to standard time. (You have adjusted to the clock, I hope.)

The seasons blend so easily in our region that I've always welcomed the time change as a sort of cut-off point, and for that reason unimportant reason disagree with some of my readers who advocate DST all-year.

There's something sort of nice about coming home in the twilight or after dark and seeing the welcoming lights (especially those in the kitchen.)

In some ways, autumn rates as the best season of the year—though its assets are not so apparent here as they were in the high country where I lived for a long time. Up there, the ducks as well as footballs begin flying in the fall of the year. The aspens turn to gold and the vine maple to brilliant red. There's a feel of excitement in the air as deer hunters go to their camps or return with the antlered game on fenders or trailers. There's busy pre-dawn traffic and breakfast rendezvous downtown as bird hunters head for the swamplands and the stubble fields. There's the harvest with its connotations of bounty and well-being. To an old-time high country man, all of this is warm nostalgia.

There are some fine things about autumn here, too. Haze that is not smog lies over the land and the fogs and occasional rains bring change from the old weather routine. The night scene is adorned with the lights at football fields and kids are busy everywhere, morning and evening. It's a pretty pleasant season, and it's nice to be in the middle of it.

PASSING by: Herb Klock-alem, veteran Long Beach public servant. For the first time in many years, there's an election coming up and Herb isn't in the thick of things as a candidate. I think he feels sort of lost. He's ready and willing, with a strong sense of community service, and he'd do a conscientious and thorough job in some responsible appointive or volunteer spot.

Herb served a long time before he finally lost an election in an Assembly race. As is natural in such cases, he probably feels that because of what happened, his efforts are not appreciated.

It's true, the public easily forgets, but I'm sure there are many who do remember with warmth the service of Herb Klockalem. In particular, I remember the day in the Assembly at Sacramento when we came to the crucial point in the fight against the Allen Bill—the fight to save our tidelands money. Herb made a fine, spontaneous speech for Long Beach that day and with the other good L.B. Assemblyman, Bill Grant, worked hard on the floor to bring over the last needed votes to win for our side.

These are things worth recalling, and I'm glad Herb came by and my memories stirred.

ODD report: Feminine readers says that somebody in Rossmoor was flying a U.S. Flag upside down a morn or two ago. The Flag was on a house and the householder, asked about it, said it was done to signify the nation is at a critical time.

Flying the Flag at this period seems like a good idea to this dept., but that upside-down business sounds a little screwball.

HEADLINE in a weekly paper reads: COORDINATION OF JUVENILE ATTACKS URGED. And that inspired Municipal Judge Chuck Smith to remark that if they get the juvenile attacks coordinated we'd better arm the elderly citizens. (The story under the head urged that efforts to control juvenile delinquency be coordinated.)

Send Deukmejian to Sacramento With Joe Kennick

AN INCUMBENT OFFICIAL who has done a good job deserves re-election. That is a generally sound precept for political choices, and we are proud to apply it once again by supporting Joseph M. Kennick, Democrat, for re-election as 44th District Assemblyman.

Because of the experience and seniority of a good incumbent, only some unusual and persuasive reason should dictate his removal. No such reason exists in the case of Assemblyman Kennick. His opponent, Republican Wilbur R. (Bill) Richardson, is a good citizen and a pleasant person, but that fact just doesn't tip the scale.

Kennick has served two terms in the Assembly and proved an apt and effective student of the legislative art. He has established a solid record of legislative effort and legislative votes in behalf of Long Beach and Southern California. He has, moreover, ascended to the chairmanship of the powerful Manufacturing, Oil, and Mining Committee, a committee where Long Beach oil problems are frequently heard and where fair, impartial treatment is essential to local interests.

Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick is a valuable and outstanding legislator who deserves to be returned to Sacramento. We urge his re-election Nov. 6.

IN THE 39TH ASSEMBLY DISTRICT, voters must select a successor to Republican William S. Grant, who has retired. The Republican candidate, George Deukmejian, gets our support.

Deukmejian is a young lawyer with an extensive record of community service activities. He has always been closely identified with constructive activities in behalf of the area covered by the 39th District, and he is thoroughly familiar with problems and issues involving the state-community relationship. Because of this background he has received the endorsement of Grant, who enjoyed strong bi-partisan support throughout his long career as Assemblyman.

In supporting Deukmejian, we do not imply anything derogatory about his opponent, Councilman Bert Bond, a Democrat. Both are good men; by sending Mr. Deukmejian to Sacramento, and retaining Mr. Bond as Councilman, the public will receive the able services of both. We feel that for the Assembly position, Mr. Deukmejian has the edge in qualifications.

This being the case, another factor may be mentioned as important: The re-election of Democrat Joe Kennick and the election of Republican Deukmejian would preserve a bi-partisan balance which has proven most helpful to the entire community in the state Legislature.

We are most happy that Deukmejian happens to be a well-qualified candidate, worthy of being selected to round out such a bi-partisan delegation. We urge his election.

Rep. Gallagher Updates Record

By The I. P. T. Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Have you ever asked yourself why you said something foolish? And you'd give anything if the words could be taken back? And would you like to change all of that? Well, join the Congress. On Sept. 26, Rep. Neil Gallagher (D.N.J.) said, in debate: "The Monroe Doctrine has been amended by President Kennedy . . . It is no longer appropriate today." Gallagher, however, decided those weren't the right kind of words to go down in history. So, using the Congressional privilege of revising remarks, he made a slight change. As printed in the record, it now says that President Kennedy was "not retreating" and is firmly upholding the Monroe Doctrine.

IF YOU ARE WONDERING about a possible price and wage freeze to go along with the present crisis, the President has no authority without the approval of Congress. A blueprint for such action is ready, but the consensus is that it will not be required as yet.

VIOLIN VIRTUOSO ISAAC STERN performed Monday night before a sellout crowd at the State Department auditorium. But the hall was half empty when he started. Such was the feeling of crisis that ticket holders either stayed at home to watch the President on TV or, as in the case of a platoon of ambassadors who came in late, took part in the briefings of the evening.

WHILE THE CUBAN CRISIS deepened this past week, Washington society managed to keep a stiff upper lip. They had to be particularly stiff at a party held at the Russian embassy Tuesday night where one Lt. Gen. Vladimir A. Dubovik, in what was described later as an attempt at humor, loudly declared:

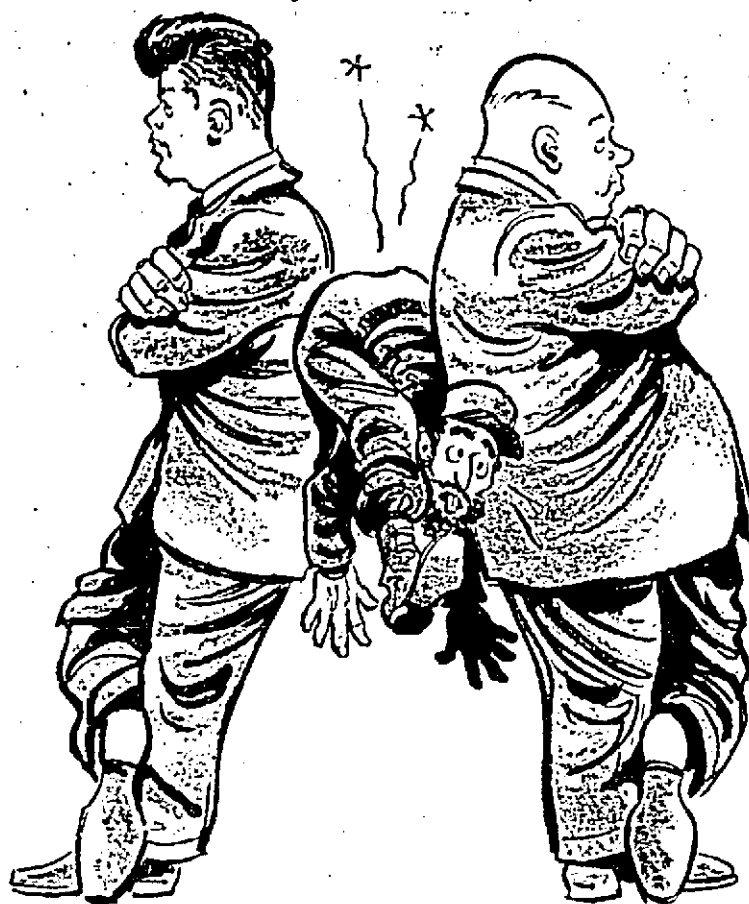

"I fought in three wars already and I am looking forward to fighting in the next."

This life of the party went on to boast: "I joined the revolution as a boy of 16. I was an officer at 18. I fought at Stalingrad and I was wounded two times. I await my orders. If I am to fight, then I fight. If my government says 'stay yourself,' then I will obey."

He refused to be shushed, then treated his outburst as a jest.

AN AMERICAN AMBASSADOR to an African country was in town recently and talking about some of the difficulties of plying his trade in that area of the world. All of his difficulties, he pointed out, are by no means created by the Africans. Some of them come from age-old budget problems. For instance, the State Department has run out of money for travel of its officials. Hence no one goes anywhere anymore. The ambassador said he had never met the U. S. ambassadors to the two countries immediately adjacent to his. "Can you imagine," he remarked, "an American firm having representatives over there and never having a regional sales managers' meeting?"

Blockade Decision Was Least Risky of Three Alternates

WASHINGTON—When Pentagon and State Department advisers sat down with President Kennedy to decide strategy on the Cuban missile buildup, they had three alternatives before them, all prepared at Kennedy's request by Joint Chiefs of Staff.

They were:

1. An invasion of Cuba. This had the advantage of surprise, and the fact that it could be accomplished, like the Berlin wall, before anyone had time to argue about it. But it also meant the risk of killing Russian personnel, and the President wanted to avoid such a provocation at all costs. The plan was rejected.

2. A bombing of the missile sites. This also had the advantage of surprise. It was argued that the missile sites could be put out of commission in a few hours. But again, Russian personnel manning the missiles would be killed. Also, world reaction would have been bad. The plan was rejected.

3. A naval blockade of Soviet arms. This lacked the advantage of surprise and gave the Russians time to prepare retaliation. However the effect on world opinion was considered much better, and also President Kennedy wanted to give the Russians time to consider the consequences. He decided on this alternative as least risky.

The only difficulty in regard to all three alternatives was they did not give Khrushchev any way to retreat yet save face. Knowing that he had problems with his own Red army and the diehard Stalinists, some kind of face-saver was considered. None could be devised.

There was only one disgruntled voice at the private meeting of congressional leaders with President Kennedy on the Cuban crisis.

House Republican Leader Charlie Halleck grumbled loudly over the inconvenience the White House summons had caused him, only to find that he had been called in to be notified, not consulted, about the Cuban decision.

"I was rushed out of Indiana by jet. I just came down from 35,000 feet. My ears are hurting," he complained. "What for? Only to find the decision already made."

He added a few purple words that can't be repeated here.

Other Republican leaders, however, raised only routine questions. The strongest suggestions were made by two Democratic senators: Armed Services Chairman Dick Russell of Georgia and Foreign Relations Chairman Bill Fulbright of Arkansas.

RUSSELL agreed with the President that it was time to stop Communist encroachment upon the West, but suggested that a weapons blockade of Cuba may not be drastic enough.

He asked whether it would be more effective and less risky to invade Cuba and present Russia with an accomplished fact, as the Kremlin did when it sent Soviet troops and tanks to crush the Hungarian uprising.

"If the situation is as bad as those aerial photographs indicate," he asked, "do you think a quarantine is enough?"

He noted that the whole United States, particularly the South, was endangered, and that it might be better to eliminate the menace by an invasion.

Sen. Fulbright agreed that stopping Russian ships would be an irritant that might get us into war, whereas eradicating offensive missile bases would be more justifiable yet no greater risk.

Llewellyn Thompson, former ambassador to Moscow who is now advising the President on Soviet affairs, warned that Premier Khrushchev is an impulsive person who might react precipitously to any sudden, violent action such as an attack upon Russian personnel in Cuba.

The President explained tersely that he had already made the decision to impose an arms blockade but that it didn't preclude an invasion later if it should become necessary.

DAVID LAWRENCE

Nikita Won't Take Supreme Risk to Help Fidel Save Face

WASHINGTON—A war scare isn't always easy to deflate, but it isn't necessary to succumb to fears when indubitable facts point the other way.

For if there is one thing that is plain about the world situation today in contrast to any period in history, it is that a nuclear stalemate exists now which restrains the two major powers from destroying one another.

The two world wars of this century came about because there was no balance of power such as prevails today. One side—the Kaiser in 1914 and Hitler in 1939—was really in each instance stronger militarily than the other side. Also, the assumption in Berlin on both occasions was that the United States either wouldn't enter the war at all, or that its help would come too late to affect the result.

Today there is a balance of terror, and what has happened in respect to Cuba doesn't alter the overall situation in any way. For Nikita Khrushchev isn't going to risk the lives of millions in the Soviet Union in order to help Castro save face. The people of the Soviet Union still remember their battle casualties in the Second World War—amounting to at least 7,500,000. The surviving relatives are numerous. If there's any one thing certain, it is that the Soviet people will not wish Mr. Khrushchev to start a war, and he will not throw any bombs unless they are thrown at his people. It is equally certain that the United States will not start a war or throw any bombs at the Soviet people unless this country has been attacked or there is a certainty that it will be.

For all practical purposes, the stalemate will continue for a long, long time. What confuses many people, and understandably, too, is the fact that bluffing in international policy has not become outmoded. The dangers of miscalculation are always theoretically present. It is often asked: "but supposing somebody pulls the trigger by mistake?"

The answer is that it takes more than one man to make a decision of such importance either in Moscow or in Washington, and the people who surround any commander-in-chief now a days know the consequences to them and their families if a mistake is not prevented.

Bluffing is, of course, a risky business. But the man who is doing the bluffing—Premier Khrushchev in this case—knows the limits of such tactics. Once the other side shows resoluteness, the bluffing tends to become less significant.

Thus, it may well be that President Kennedy's vacillation on the Cuban issue in recent months wrongly gave the Soviets an impression of irresoluteness in the White House. But whatever inferences were drawn from this unfortunate period, the President has exhibited a positiveness and a firmness beginning with his speech last Monday night that now can hardly be misconstrued anywhere.

The waiting period in itself could be regarded as constructive, except for one thing—the missile bases in Cuba already functioning which a reckless Castro could use. That's the real danger to this country and

BOB HOUSER

Prop. 24 Called 'Intemperate Threat' to Our Civil Rights

THE SUBTLE witchcraft of Proposition 24, the Francis Amendment to the State Constitution (subversive activities), may give it victory Nov. 6, especially in view of a 66 per cent stamp of approval it received in the statewide Field Poll. But its ghost may return to haunt the state, the courts and its advocates.

Since the hurrah title looked simply anti Communist, the poll result is easily explained. But the concern now must reside in students of the proposition who agree with the State Chamber of Commerce conclusion that its passage "would tend to destroy the very thing it purports to protect, namely, the fundamental rights of citizens of this State and Nation. . . . Enactment of this ill-conceived measure would, in the long run, only defeat its own purpose."

"The American form of government and the American system are strong enough and so well founded in justice and in right that they can withstand the attack of Communists, from within or without, without resorting to measures which would destroy the very foundations of a free society. . . . The measure could easily result in widespread witch-hunting by inexperienced and uninformed persons under a definition of the term 'subversive organizations' which can mean all things to all people."

Long Beach Atty. Joseph A. Ball, former president of the State Bar Assn., and Southern California chairman of the Statewide Citizens Committee against Prop. 24, uses even stronger language:

"EVERY RESPONSIBLE lawyer I know in the state says it is unconstitutional; does not provide for due process before blackening reputations and depriving important rights."

"Those who are outrageously advocating this measure now seem to agree it is 'probably unconstitutional but let's have a court test.' We shouldn't do this. The courts are a last protection. The desire to have constitutional government must come from the people. Those who say let's enact unconstitutional legislation are just as much subversive as those who stand on a street corner and try to overthrow the government."

"HITLER CAME to power through the ballot box—he was elected. There is just as big a danger here if we permit unconstitutional provisions to be injected into the state constitution. Those who protest a love for our form of government actually have no concern about it if they advocate this outrageous measure; they are absorbed in their petty fears that we'll be overthrown by an unknown group. The left-wingers who despise our Constitution and the right-wingers who support this measure are in the same ideological boat."

Gardiner Johnson, Ball's Northern California counterpart, who is a conservative Republican who supported Joe Shell for governor in the primary, notes that the amendment is described only as being a measure to control subversive activities: "If that was all it were, it would be fine . . . but it is a carelessly drafted, ill-conceived, intemperate threat to the civil rights of every one of us."

These newspapers have editorialized against Prop. 24, as has the Los Angeles Times. Both Nixon and Brown are against it, as are most of the state constitutional office seekers of both parties.

AND LATELY comes one S. Albert Clark, of San Marino, identifying himself as a member of the Birch Society, the Christian Anti-Communist Movement and a former secretary of an eastern society of the Sons of the American Revolution who reads exception into Prop. 24 provisions, "the rights usually reserved to the courts," and in Section 13 which notes that the article's provisions "shall supersede all provisions of this Constitution and laws enacted thereunder in conflict therewith."

With regard to your recent photographic layout quoting local figures on the United Nations:

Mayor Wade is partially ignorant, at least, of the facts because the chairman of the military commission must always be, and has been Russian. No wonder the advance of the U.N. forces was called off in Korea and Gen. MacArthur believed of his command when we had the commies on the run.

To Dr. Orville Cole, may I ask, why we should be obligated to pay one third of the operating cost of the U.N. when we have only one vote out of over one hundred?

To Attorney William White, I would say you are wrong when you minimize the role that Alger Hiss had in the formation of the U.N. charter.

I would say the U.N. was designed to eventually become a world government under Communist control, and I ask those civic leaders if it is fact or fiction that since the U.N. was formed the number of people under Communist control has risen from 250,000,000 to over one billion.

Shame on these people for being so careless and unthinking.

Calls U.N. Spread 'Subtle Distortion'

EDITOR:

The full page U.N. propaganda spread in the society section of the Oct. 21 Independent Press-Telegram was a masterpiece of subtle distortion to say the least. Let's rebut the rebuttal.

No. 1—Is the U.N. atheistic? It certainly is not religious. Nowhere in the United Nations charter or any of its subsidiaries do you find any reference to a Supreme Being.

No. 2—Is the aim of the U.N. one world government?

That question can be answered with a question. Is the aim of communism one world government? The U.N. is one of the vehicles being used by Communists to bring about a one-world government. A one-world socialist government controlled by Moscow.

No. 3—Was Alger Hiss architect of the U.N. charter?

Alger Hiss was definitely one of the architects of the U.N. charter. He was Secretary General of the International Assembly which created the United Nations.

No. 4—Do Communist nations dominate the U.N.?

Naturally, the Communists dominate the U.N. It's their character to dominate. They dominate the U.N. through deceit and subversion. They have packed the U.N. with Communist-controlled new nations disguised as neutrals or uncommitted nations.

No. 5—Does the U.S. pay all the bills?

Indirectly the United States pays most of the bills of the U.N. Officially we pay 32.02 per cent of all the bills.

As a member in the United Nations we have lost our national sovereignty and we are fast losing our free constitutional Republican system of government.

Questions for President Kennedy

EDITOR:

During the 1960 political campaign, candidate Kennedy continually stressed the fact that there was a decided and dangerous missile gap between Russia and the United States. Shortly after assuming office, President Kennedy was able to close this missile gap and we are now far ahead of Russia. Just how did President Kennedy accomplish this miraculous feat?

Also, during the campaign candidate Kennedy repeatedly said, "I want to get this country going again." Has President Kennedy been successful in getting this country going again? Is the economy of our country in a healthier state than it was when he assumed the presidency? Is there more employment, are profits better, is our debt smaller, is business generally in better shape?

I heard candidate Kennedy state that 17 million Americans go to bed hungry every night. Just where are these 17 million Americans who go to bed hungry every night? Just what has President Kennedy done to alleviate the plight of these 17 million Americans who go to bed hungry every night?

Chicken Pie Shop Offers Finest of Foods in New 'Go Shop' on Pacific

It is easy now for Long Beach area housewives to home bake delicious chicken pies in a matter of minutes. And, they may treat the family to fresh-made home baked pie for dessert just as easily with no kitchen mess or work involved.

Phillips Original Chicken Pie Shop has added this home service in a big way with the opening of their "GO SHOP" at 730 Pacific Ave. The Pie Shop which has a restaurant capacity of 225 persons at 737 Pine Ave., has a heritage of 28 years of serving their famed chicken pies to Long Beach patrons.

Since entering the unbaked food field and seeing the demand grow for their products, Phillips Original Chicken Pie Shop, owner, decided on the new location for the Go Shop which is accessible to both north and south bound traffic. The Pine Ave. location fronts on a street with southbound traffic only.

Plenty of Parking
A large parking lot is provided patrons of the Go Shop. While unbaked fresh chicken pies and fruit pies are available at the Go Shop, the finest in ready-to-go hot dinners also are provided.

"We have set up to serve the fastest, finest, fairestpriced take-out dinner possible," explained Phillips. In one minute the patron is provided a complete hot-food dinner to take home.

Already, the Phillips Chicken Pie dinners have made big inroads into the frozen TV dinners which have reached high popularity in recent years. Phillips products are the freshest possible to obtain. Fruit or chicken pies are made the day they are sold. Housewives who buy them in quantity for storage in home freezers CAN BE ASSURED they have not been in previous storage for weeks or months. Their famous chicken pie dinner is offered in a take-out pack for serving a hot meal. It includes a delicious chicken pie, served with whipped potatoes, golden chicken gravy, coleslaw, hot biscuits and butter and a dessert for only ninety-nine cents.

Highest of Quality
Phillips Original Chicken Pie Shop always has been known for high quality products. The chicken pies contain only the best of chicken and rich gravy. No cheap vegetables are used as filler, Phillips explains. The shop provides additional containers of gravy if desired.

Chicken barley soup, either hot or cold, is offered at the Go Shop as well as a wide selection of salads that are hours fresh. "We make up only one bowl of salad at a time, thus it is always fresh," explains Phillips.

In the pie section of the new Go Shop there are fruit pies ready to freeze or ready to bake, all of them made on the day of purchase. There also are freshly baked pies ready to serve.

"It is surprising the number of housewives who have purchased our chicken pies or fruit pies to freeze, saying they are replacing TV dinners in their freezers," continued Phillips.

Pies Made Same Day
"We have catered to family business from the beginning," he continued, "with many entire families dining with us regularly once or twice a week."

"Now with our new Go Shop we are prepared to cater to thousands of additional patrons who desire quality and freshly prepared meals in their homes."

NEW GO SHOP for Phillips Original Chicken Pies at 730 Pacific Ave., has parking in the rear for patrons who can purchase hot, ready-to-serve, take-home meals in less than a minute.

INTERIOR OF the new GO SHOP is shown here. The display cases hold both chicken pies and fruit pies, plus a wide assortment of salads. Freshly made pies for home baking and hot freshly made chicken pies or fruit pies also are available.

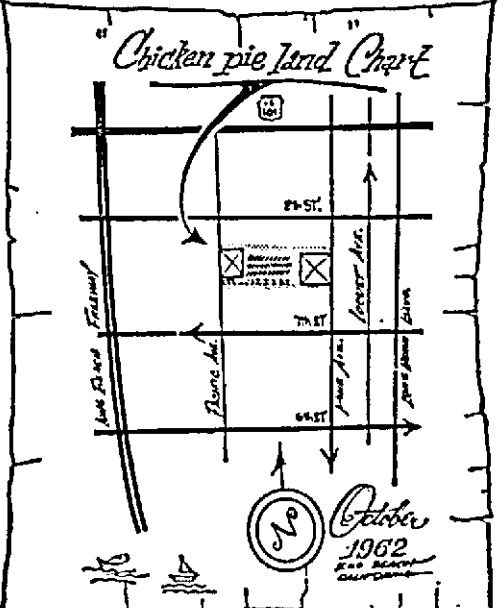

Pie Artists at Work

ROLLING PIES is an art the way it is done at Phillips Original Chicken Pie Shop. And it is done within sight of the patrons. The slogan "Watch Us Make 'Em" is proudly spoken.

CATERING to large church or club meetings is another service provided by the Pie Shop. Here a large carton of freshly rolled chicken pies is being packed for a church chicken pie supper.

MAP SHOWS how to reach both the new GO SHOP and the Phillips Original Chicken Pie Shop. The restaurant at 737 Pine and the GO SHOP at 730 Pacific is separated by ample parking facilities.

WE HAVE COME A LONG WAY!

It has been 28 successful years and literally millions of Chicken Pies since we first opened our doors. Now we have reached a new milestone, the GO-SHOP (our new take-out department) where it takes only a minute to pack one of our famous Chicken Pie Dinners.

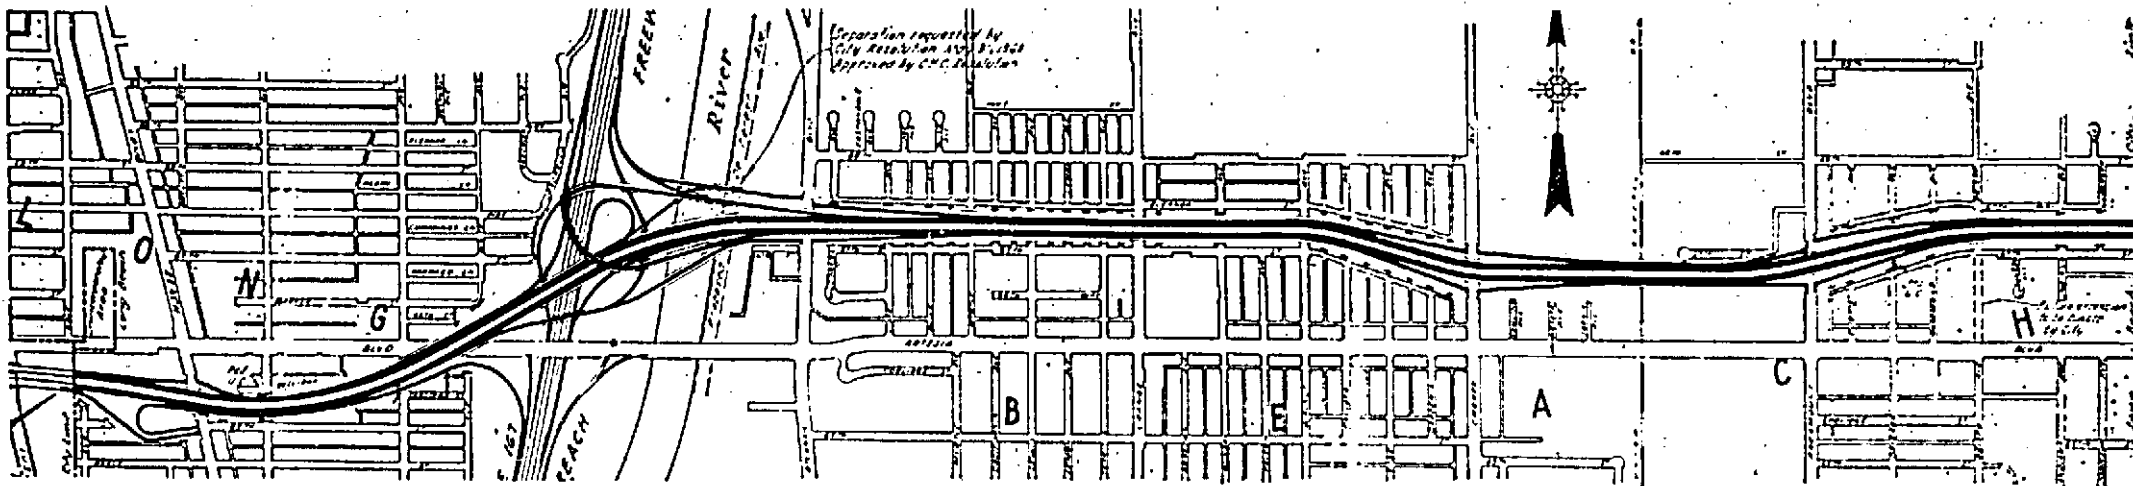

Planning a Party? a Luncheon? a Dinner? Why take a chance . . . you know you can depend on our delicious Chicken Pies to please your guests. Be the perfect hostess . . . and the smart hostess, too. Let us do the work. Our Chicken Pies are made fresh daily . . . ready to pop into the oven or store in your freezer for that extra special occasion. Why not stock up on our luscious Chicken Pies today?

So hitch up your wagon . . . roll into our roomy parking lot . . . and in almost no time at all, you'll be on your way, loaded down with goodies.

Councilmen OK Crosstown (Artesia) Freeway

By GEORGE WEEKS

Long Beach city councilmen are not opposed to a crosstown freeway—if it is far enough north. They proved as much last week when, without a dissenting vote, they approved a formal agreement with the state for the Artesia Freeway.

In effect, the agreement puts the city on record as favoring the adopted route near the north city boundary and as consenting to the closing of certain streets and the construction of interchanges and separations outlined on the official map.

A subset of hearings by the State Highway Commission as early as 1959, the east-west artery drew only scattered opposition even in the early stages. But that was long before the council and the public began bitterly protesting a more southerly crosstown freeway somewhere between 10th Street and Pacific Coast Highway.

According to Edward T. Telford, metropolitan district engineer for the state highway division, the 21.6-mile link from the Santa Ana Freeway near Buena Park to the San Diego Freeway in the Torrance area will cost $85 million. A total of $14 million has already been obligated, primarily for right of way.

Newly approved in the State Highway Commission budget is an additional $7.9 million for right of way, much of it in Long Beach.

Telford said it is expected the whole freeway will be completed or under construction within six years.

In Long Beach the route runs generally along 67th Street, north of Artesia Street, from the east city boundary at Downey Avenue to a point near the Los Angeles River. There it swings south of Artesia to the west city boundary at Gale Avenue.

The agreement with the city provides for complete interchange facilities at Long Beach Boulevard,

Long Beach Freeway, Atlantic Avenue, Cherry Avenue and Paramount Boulevard.

In addition there will be separation structures—meaning underpasses for local streets—at Butler, De Forest, Myrtle, Orange, Walnut, Obispo and Downey avenues.

Pedestrian underpasses are proposed in the projections of Muriel and Orizaba avenues.

While the state will pay all acquisition and construction costs, including reconstruction of city streets, the city accepts responsibility for maintaining relocated or reconstructed streets, pedestrian facilities and frontage roads.

Many Cities Unprepared in Emergency

post for the city and a large surrounding area.

A 10-day supply of food and medical supplies has been stored at the sheriff's station. The city has installed radioactive filters on above-ground water storage tanks to minimize radiation hazards should a nuclear attack occur.

Santa Ana Best Prepared

SANTA ANA — Of all Orange County cities, this one is possibly the best prepared for nuclear attack.

The Civil Defense Director E. J. McCabe said space in public shelter areas for 7,000 persons, but none are stocked with food or water.

There is space for 1,100 persons in the county civic center; 4,500 in the Fashion Square shopping center and the other spaces are in buildings throughout the city.

The County Civil Defense command post is in the basement of the County Health Building at Eighth and Ross Street.

Stanton Without A-Shelters

STANTON—With no buildings in the city capable of defense against nuclear attack, Fire Chief Paul Harrison, city civil defense director, in advising people to take shelter in homes in case of attack.

The city fire and police have supplies for two weeks stockpiled in the fire house.

Hospital Key in Fullerton

FULLERTON — St. Jude Hospital and its new 4,500 square foot basement surgery wing will become a key to survival in any nuclear attack on this city—or Northern Orange County.

The surgery wing and the basement area of the hospital building are the only Civil Defense approved bomb shelters in Orange County.

City Civil Defense Director William Vasvary said the basement of the city hall now under construction may be used as a shelter in any emergency.

No buildings are stocked with food or water for an emergency.

Cypress to Use Track

CYPRESS — The Civil Defense System here is the result of close coordination between Los Alamitos, and Orange County, Civil Defense Coordinator O. C. Foster said.

By using Los Alamitos Race Course as a fallout shelter, the cities have hospital facilities that are already established and a space to set up the local command post for fire and police services.

No Shelters in Huntington

HUNTINGTON BEACH — Claude Jones, assistant Civil Defense Director, said "there are no shelters in the city, either adequate or inadequate. We have passed out about 500 of the CD pamphlets. 'Home Protection Exercises.'

Grove Defense 'Typical'—Bad

GARDEN GROVE — This city has no fallout shelters, no emergency warning system, no emergency plan in case of disaster, but city officials describe the situation as "typical."

City Administrator Garthe Lipskey said, "Frankly, we have depended upon the County Civil Defense Coordinating System to help us but the group hasn't met in four or five months."

Buena Park—No Shelters

BUENA PARK — Civil Defense Coordinator Fire Chief Bill McGill said "There are no adequate shelters in the city—adequate by federal survey standards, that is."

Westminster Has Sirens

WESTMINSTER — Civil Defense Director and Police Chief Conner Collocott said:

"We have an excellent communication system and our plan provides for a hospital facility and a city wide warning system by using our police and fire department sirens.

"There are no fallout shelters in the city that meet the federal survey standards."

12 Facilities in Anaheim

ANAHEIM—There are 12 facilities that would provide fallout shelter here for 2,886 persons.

Downey Makes Preparations

DOWNEY—This city has a civil defense plan that automatically places all city employees in CD position.

An auxiliary electric generating plant with a two-week supply of fuel has been installed at the city hall.

The city has more than 40,000 pounds of medical supplies in storage at Downey High School and has a first aid station at that school as well as at Warren High School. Both stations are equipped to serve 500 persons.

Charles Bates is executive officer for the area and maintains his headquarters at 8414 E. Second St.

South Bay Shelters Scarce

Nearly 500,000 residents in the South Bay area would find adequate public shelter scarce in the event of nuclear attack.

Capt. Joseph J. Rochefort, Civil Defense coordinator for Area G—which includes residents from the Palos Verdes Peninsula to El Segundo and Inglewood — says surveys show adequate public shelter space for an estimated 14,100 persons.

TORRANCE CITY officials maintain they are as well organized as any city in the area to cope with the post-attack emergencies.

Wade Peebles, city manager and Civil Defense director for the city, says city employees are trained and on call in any emergency.

Starting Monday local residents are urged to sign up as Civil Defense volunteers at city hall, which will open from 8 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

The Civil Defense commission has scheduled a meeting for 7:30 p.m. Nov. 5 to teach residents how to help themselves in an emergency.

ROLLING HILLS probably has a greater proportion of protected residents than any other community in the area.

Civil Defense officials estimate there probably are a dozen or more shelters completed in Rolling Hills, a high percentage considering the city has a population of about 2,000 residents.

Elementary Schools Badly Crowded

WASHINGTON (AP)—Elementary school classrooms in the nation's larger cities are almost as badly overcrowded now as they were six years ago, the National Education Association (NEA) reported Saturday.

In 1956, the NEA said, there were 245,328 city children in half-day schedules, and now the total is 244,215. In 1956, the median class size in city elementary schools was 30.9, today it is 30.3.

Grant Speaker

Assemblyman W. S. Grant will address the covered dish luncheon of Townsend Club No. 10 on Nov. 2 in Linden Hall, Broadway and Linden Avenue.

IN THESE districts there are 574 class rooms with 56 or more pupils, the report said. Almost half the 16 million children attending elementary schools in these districts are in classes of 31 or more pupils each; 2 1/2 million are in classes of 36 or more; almost 500,000 are in classes of 41 or more, and about 122,000 in classes of 46 or more.

If all city children in elementary school classes of more than 30 could be re-grouped into classes of 30, the NEA said, it would require 35,386 additional classrooms and the same number of additional teachers. Just to get them into classes of 35 would take 6,804 more classrooms and teachers.

Many educators have been saying for years that the ideal class size in the elementary school is 25. To meet this goal, the NEA said, it would require 114,967 more teachers and classrooms.

Instruments Stolen

Records, a record player and an electric guitar were stolen from the apartment of Jose H. Rosales, 1459 Parade St., police reported Saturday. The loot was valued at $400.

'HAPPIEST JOB I'VE EVER HAD'

Donald Novis, Golden Tenor of the '30s, Now Director of Girl Tour Guides at Disneyland

By VERA WILLIAMS
"This is the happiest job I've ever had."

A stocky, ruddy-faced Irishman is speaking. You look at him for a minute before you realize who he is—Donald NOVIS, THE Donald Novis, Donald Novis of the golden tenor voice, winner of the Atwater-Kent contest in a field of 63,000 contestants, whose voice in the 1930s was as well known as the voices of Elvis Presley and Chubby Checkers are now.

He cut a hundred records, 300 radio transcriptions, and a half-dozen long-playing records.

HE INTRODUCED the songs "Sweet and Lovely," "Winter Wonderland," "Charmaine," "Trees," "Diane," "Under a Blanket of Blue," "Walking My Baby Back Home," "The Most Beautiful Girl in the World," "My Romance" and "Little Girl Blue."

He sang the theme song, "Love is a Song" in Walt Disney's "Bambi."

He sang "One Hour With You" in the movie of the same name, starring Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald. Chevalier taught him to sing it in French, so he sang it in French, too.

What is this "happiest job?"

IT ISN'T singing. It's directing guest relations at Disneyland.

Novis directs the tour guides—62 girls in the summer, 26 in the winter, and altogether they speak 11 different languages; he directs the information service in the City Hall at Disneyland; he sets up the red carpet treatment for hot-shots visiting Disneyland. (Everyone, apparently, but Khrushchev has been there at some time.)

"Handling the visiting dignitaries is easy," grins

Novis, "... The bigger they are, the nicer they are likely to be. We've had Eisenhower, the King of Belgium, the Shah of Iran, the head of Thailand, ambassadors, premiers. We had the fellow who is in charge of wild life preserves in Africa. He wanted to know how well our horses are treated. I said 'Mister, they're treated as well as the employees, including Joe Fowler, the vice president of Disneyland! That seemed to satisfy him.'"

NOVIS, old time friend of Walt Disney—they received the Legion of Honor of the Order of De Molay together in Hollywood in 1929—has been at Disney since it started July 17, 1955. He produced the show in the Golden Horseshoe at Disneyland and sang in it 10,700 times, finishing that stint last March.

"It was quite a stretch, five shows a day. But Wally Boag, the comedian, has me beat. He began with me and he's still in it—more than 11,000 shows, for him."

The tour guides wear scarlet capes, white shirts, red socks, blue riding caps and they carry riding sticks—for pointing out the sights, not whacking visitors.

NOVIS TEACHES them the 11-page script they must memorize to take visitors on a de luxe tour of Disneyland and its five top rides. And they must be prepared to answer all the questions. They have to know, for instance, that Disneyland's biggest day was July 4, 1959, when 59,845 people went through its gates. And they have to know that the Matterhorn (the Disneyland one) is made of enough lumber to build 250 three-bedroom homes.

Among them, the girls speak English, German, Norwegian, Spanish, French, Hungarian, Greek, Danish, Flemish, Japanese and Chinese.

Typical of the guides is Colette Andre, who came here last June from Le Havre, who has doubled for Brigitte Bardot, and who appeared in plays, musicals and TV shows in her native France.

"MUCH French people come to Disneyland," explains Colette, shyly.

Novis lives on the beach at Balboa. He and his wife Dorothy have been married 25 years. They have two daughters, a granddaughter, a grandson—and an English pug dog.

"I haven't sung since last March," admits Novis. "One of our fellows, Ben Harris, in the sound and audio division, is to be married in November in La Canada. He asked me to sing at his wedding. I'll do it, of course—but do you know, I'm scared to death!"

Plan Menus for Emergency, Then Buy Food to Fit Program

(Continued From Page B-1) coffee. While wheeling the cart back to the check-out counter, she added five more cans of tuna, an assortment of jams and jellies, and several jars of ice cream topping to her supply.

Driving home, she remembered reading or hearing something about storing the food in a hall closet. She stepped on the gas and wasted no time in getting home.

Half an hour later the boxes and bags of cans and jars and bottled water were piled high in the hall closet of the young housewife's home. She closed the door and breathed a sigh of relief. Her family was protected with an ample supply of food, even if they had to stay in the hall for a week.

In her haste, she had forgotten to add a can opener.

It happened last week. Hundreds of frantic housewives did exactly the same thing, varying only the type of foods they bought. Men, too, raided the markets last week to stock up empty shelves "just in case."

They bought wildly, not wisely.

Civil Defense authorities are practical people. They plan and think ahead. For years they have urged that citizens keep food cupboards sensibly stocked in case any emergency should arise, any emergency, which includes floods, fires, and earthquakes as well as bombs.

HOWEVER, being prepared for an emergency means more than stocking up on large quantities of canned food, purchased at random. Specifically, and this applies to the situation which exists right now, every housewife should take issue of her own family's needs and act accordingly. There are a few general rules and ideas she might follow:

1. A hall closet is an ideal emergency center, mainly because of its location.

2. There should be a two-weeks' food supply based on specific, planned menus. And

3. There should be a two-week supply of pet food if the family owns a cat or a dog.

4. "Musts" include an ample water supply (½ gallon per day per person, if possible), and a battery radio.

5. Suggested items should include the following: paper towels and toilet tissue; paper plates, cups, and napkins; soap; pencils and paper; games (recommended: Bingo and Parcheesi); flashlight and batteries; small first aid kit; aspirin; medicine for special cases; soft drinks to supplement water supply; large bags, folded flat, for trash.

6. If the closet is large enough, extra blankets and pillows should be stored there.

7. It is an excellent idea to tack a list of the planned menus on the inside of the closet door. That way, food would be used according to plan and last the necessary length of time.

Brown Indorsed for Re-election by Veteran Leader

FRED NESSLER

Mr. Nessler is regarded as one of Long Beach's most prominent figures in veterans affairs. He is Past Commander of Arthur L. Peterson Post of the American Legion and Past Sergeant at Arms, Department of California of the Legion, and for the past three years has been Sergeant at Arms of the County Council. For 10 years he has served as Chairman of Memorial Day Services and has directed the annual Veterans Day Parade for the past 17 years. Nessler is a strong supporter of Governor Brown and urges all veterans to vote for Brown on Nov. 6.

Said Nessler: "I am convinced the interests of the 2½ million veterans of California can be served best by the re-election of our friend in the state capital. Governor Brown has repeatedly demonstrated his loyalty to our cause and I am confident that his continued support in our behalf can be assured by his retention in office."

STANFORD was never behind after scoring its freakish touchdown in the first 3 minutes and 36 seconds of play. The Indians boosted their lead to 10-0 on Stan Lindskog's 25-yard field goal midway in the second quarter before giving up the Bruins' lone touchdown on Carl Jones' 81-yard run after he grabbed a fumble in mid-air.

Man to Man

BRODIE

By JERRY WYNN

SAN FRANCISCO—In the 1957 National Football League draft meeting, the Rams passed over John Brodie of Stanford to pick Jon Arnett of USC.

Today, Brodie may be the one to pass over the Rams.

Having survived a battle with Y. A. Tittle and a battalion of shotgunners to become entrenched as quarterback of the San Francisco 49ers, the aerial wizard of Menlo Park will be aiming his best shots at the Rams at Kezar Stadium.

After playing the Packers last week, John, will the 49ers be ripe for a letdown? "No. I admit that such things as letdowns happen, but I think they are unpredictable."

What has been the reaction of the 49er players to the misfortune of the Rams this season?

"Indifference. There were four games the Rams could have won easily, we felt. Looking at movies of the Rams-Colts game, we felt the Rams kicked the heck out of them."

The 49ers have played the Lions, Colts and Bears as well as the Packers. Which defense gave you the most trouble?

"The Vikings; you forgot them. They were the toughest, and the Packers next. Are the Packers a super team?"

"Yes. Let's put it this way. They are as good as any team I have ever seen."

Did you have an idol among quarterbacks when you began your career?

"No, but I've always thought that Tittle and Van Brocklin were great throwers."

Who do you consider the greatest present-day quarterback?

"I don't know. I don't rate them."

If you could pick two receivers from teams in the league, excluding the 49ers, who would you choose?

"Berry, Shofner, McDonald, Phillips and Moore. They're the best and I couldn't separate them. The same guys don't make all-pro every year, you know. There are also different types of ends, Ditka and Kramer do pretty well as tight ends."

Why did the shotgun formation fizzle last season?

"The loss of Bobby Waters when he got hurt made it impossible to alternate tailbacks. And then the defenses adjusted to it after a few games."

You are the only player who also once was a golf professional. Which is tougher... to sink a three-foot putt for $1,000 or to watch Big Daddy Lipscomb blast in at you for a tackle?

"First of all, I never had an opportunity to sink any putt for a thousand bucks. I wish I had. But the pressures involved are entirely different. In the heat of a football game, you don't have time to worry about pressures. You're not greatly conscious of them. But walking from shot to shot in golf, there's plenty of time and you are conscious of the pressure, particularly when you reach the putting green."

Are the 49ers going to whip the Rams today?

"I play the games. I don't predict them."

ROUGHING PENALTY FIRES BUCKS

First Loss for Badgers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Ohio State knocked Wisconsin from the unbeaten ranks Saturday with a fourth period touchdown for a 14-7 Big Ten victory before 82,540 chilled fans.

The Buckeyes, bounding back from last week's loss to Northwestern, broke up a tight defensive battle with a 57-yard scoring drive midway in the fourth period.

Quarterback John Mummey smashed over from inches away to apply the clincher with 7:16 remaining.

The Badgers, who carried a 4-0 record into the game, have not won here since 1918 and in 12 series games, have nine losses and three ties.

A costly 15-yard roughing penalty aided the Buckeyes in their payoff drive, and seemed to light a fire under an offense that had been stalled since the opening period.

The penalty gave Ohio State the ball on the Wisconsin 29 and in six plays the Buckeyes drove over to climax a 57-yard march. It was Ohio State's third victory in five starts and second in three Big Ten games.

The power running of Mummey, the passing of quarterback Joe Sparma and a bruising crew of three fullbacks made the difference on this cold and windy day.

In the opening period, the Buckeyes drove 48 yards for the game's first score, highlighted by a 21-yard scoring pass from Sparma to halfback Paul Warfield, who caught the ball on the Wisconsin, trying for its third Big Ten win, actually threatened only once as a fired-up Ohio State defense stalled the passing combination of quarterback Ron VanderKelen to all-America end Pat Richter.

The Badgers took advantage of a pass interception for their only score, guard Jim Schenk grabbing a Sparma pass on his own 49. VanderKelen then flipped a pass to halfback Ron Smith, who raced untouched for the score. The conversion deadlocked the score.

The defenses took over after intermission and it looked as if the game might wind up in a tie until the roughing penalty.

Fullbacks Bob Butts, Dave Francis and Dave Katterhenrich provided the power on the winning drive, rotating for the entire yardage except the final yard by Mummey.

The game ended with the Badgers on the ropes, trying to stop an Ohio State drive that ended inches away from the goal line as time ran out.

The Ohio defense held VanderKelen to seven completions in 22 attempts for 111 yards. But the big difference was on the ground, for Ohio State outrushed the Badgers, 213 yards to 106.

Northwestern Raps Notre Dame, 35-6

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Undeclared Northwestern's brilliant Tom Myers-to-Paul Flatley passing combination, clicking twice for touchdowns, swept the nationally third-ranked Wildcats to a record 35-6 triumph over shaky Notre Dame Saturday.

Myers, the nation's No. 3 major college passer, completed 11 of 18 tosses for 163 yards before reserves took over for Northwestern midway in the third period.

Flatley snared six Myers

the game's first running play was recovered by Wildcat Larry Benz on the Irish 29. Eight plays later, Murphy dived two yards for a touchdown.

In the game-deciding second period, right after a Wildcat interception, Myers then whipped a 23-yard scoring pass to Flatley, and then—following a blocked Irish punt on Notre Dame's 20—the Wildcats capped a five-play scoring drive on Murphy's plunge from two feet out.

That gave Northwestern a 21-0 halftime lead.

Notre Dame finally scored in the fourth quarter on a 77-yard drive capped by sophomore fullback Joe Farrell's 3-yard plunge.

Purdue Rolls Up 26-3 Win Over Charitable Hawkeyes

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI)—Ball-hawking Purdue capitalized on Iowa's season-long habit of giving the ball away Saturday and handed the Hawkeyes a 26-3 defeat before 60,000 disappointed homecoming fans.

Purdue, notching its second Big Ten win without a loss, broke open a close game in the third quarter and scored on drives set up by an intercepted pass and a personal foul penalty.

Iowa, suffering its third loss in five starts, scored its only points on a 17-yard field goal by Jay Roberts midway through the first quarter after recovering a fumble on the Purdue 25-yard line.

But after that, Iowa was its own worst enemy as the alert Purdue defenders intercepted four passes and picked

Indiana, losing its 17th successive game to a Big Ten opponent, moved 67 yards for its touchdown in the third quarter, quarter-

Close Call for Detroit Lion Back

HITTING THE HIGH SPOTS: You may recall that Dodger coach Leo Durocher had a close brush with death when he suffered a reaction from a penicillin shot last summer, and now Detroit Lion defensive back Gary Lowe had a similar experience last Sunday in New York.

He lapsed into semiconsciousness following a pre-game injection to soothe a sore leg muscle.

Lowe revealed that "for a minute after I got the shot, I thought to myself, 'this is it,' as he discussed the incident which occurred in the locker room just before the Lions took the field against the New York Giants.

The Detroit team physician revived Lowe by applying oxygen and giving him another shot to counteract the first. He described the reaction as "serum shock" and explained that some people get it from penicillin.

Lowe had received the same injection—not penicillin—on three other occasions without ill effects.

A couple of nights before his fight with Dick Tiger the past week, Gene Fullmer had dinner at a Chinese restaurant in San Francisco and the message he received in his fortune cookie was "present plans will be successful."

Reminded of this after the fight, Gene shook his head and said, "Confucius says no longer funny."

As if his size alone doesn't attract attention wherever he goes, Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain is driving around in a new $21,000 silver Bentley convertible that draws all eyes to its sleek lines!

A FEW OF US WERE DISCUSSING famous newspaper leads the other night and it was agreed that perhaps the shortest, but most dramatic and effective was the one about the San Francisco earthquake . . . "San Francisco was!"

Well, the conversation finally got around to leads on sports stories and most of the better ones, strangely enough, dealt with offbeat events as compared to the leading spectator events.

Two concerned the Americas Cup yachting race. Damon Runyan wrote that "Watching the American Cup is about as exciting as watching the grass grow."

And Ring Lardner came up with "I suggest that the next Americas Cup race should be staged on the Niagara River with the start preferably just above the falls."

And then there was the lead on a six-day bicycle race: "The six-day bike race would be immeasurably improved if it were conducted on a straightaway."

Runyan had another great lead on the Joe Louis-Jack Roper title bout held in Los Angeles during Joe's "bum-of-the-month" campaign: "Today's bet bet: Roper to place."

One fellow wrote after arriving at the yearling sales in Kentucky from the executive baseball meetings in Florida: "It is nice to be here after the baseball meetings where a man may again see a complete horse!"

IN HIS NEW BOOK, Steel, quarterback Bobby Layne a fun-lover from way back, says "I wanted to start this book by saying: 'I was driving down the avenue one morning, alert and happy, when a parked, swerving street car ran into me head-on.' But who would believe it?"

Joe Schmidt, Detroit's great linebacker, relates an anecdote about Bobby when the latter was still with the Lions.

One night, Bobby, Joe and a couple of others decided to go out on the town. When they arrived at one establishment, Bobby insisted on parking the car on the sidewalk.

After they had been in the bar about five minutes, two policemen came in. Joe and the others tried to hide, but Bobby took charge . . . "and the next thing we knew," Schmidt says, "we were driving along with Bobby behind a police car with its siren screaming. Layne had talked them into escorting us to the next bar!"

ONE BASEBALL MAN, who happens to be a student of military history on the side, gets a big kick out of taking wars or campaigns and describing them in baseball jargon.

For instance, he says "you know, Napoleon could have beat them Russians, but he didn't have no bench." And "the Confederates were pretty fair, but they couldn't win on the road!"

Last-Minute TD Nets Duke Win Over Wolfpack

DURHAM (UPI)—Quarterback Walt Rappold flipped a touchdown pass to Stan Crismon with 90 seconds to play Saturday to give heavily favored Duke a 21-14 victory over North Carolina State.

The Atlantic Coast Conference win was the fifth in a row for the Blue Devils, who for 47 years in seven tries were given several anxious during a drive of 58 yards for moments by their traditional score. But it was George Pappas, carrying for the second time in the game, who threw to end Pete Seymour shared the ball.

The Wolfpack showed its mean business from the start and scored a first period touchdown on a nine-yard pass from quarterback Bill Friger to sophomore Jimmy Guin. A seven-yard run by State's Jim Rossi deadlocked the game in the third period, and kept it that way until Rappold's pass.

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI)—Army, led by the armored-tank plunges of John Seymour, showed its preference for ground warfare Saturday and defeated George Washington, 14-0, at District of Columbia Stadium.

Middies' Soph QB Sinks Pitt

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—Navy's Middies dredged up the ancient sleeper play for a 66-yard touchdown pass the first time they had the ball Saturday and then crushed Pittsburgh, 32-9 before 32,000 fans in the 16th annual Oyster Bowl.

Brilliant sophomore quarterback Roger Staubach passed and ran Navy to its fourth victory of the season and its third in a row.

Staubach's passing set up each of the Navy touchdowns and he capped a brilliant performance with a wiggling 22-yard run for another score.

Engineers Rout Wave

ATLANTA (UPI)—Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets, with triple-threat Billy Lothridge a whiz as usual, crushed Tulane 42-12 here Saturday in their finest offensive display in a decade.

Lothridge, delighting a homecoming crowd of 46,370 with his running, passing and kicking, gained 183 yards in less than three periods and then retired to the sidelines to watch his teammates run up the score on the hapless Green Wave, which suffered its sixth consecutive loss of the season.

TUSCALOOSA (UPI)—Unbeaten Alabama knocked the wind out of the Tulsa Golden Hurricanes with a 21-point first half Saturday and cruised easily to a 35-6 victory.

The third-ranked Crimson Tide, sharpening its offense for the November stretch drive, substituted liberally throughout the contest but the Alabama defensive grip on the hapless visitors held tight until the closing minutes of the game.

Only the booming punts of the Hurricanes' Stuart McBirnie and the defensive play of the Crimson Tide kept the score from going higher.

Cotton Clark, the Southeastern Conference's leading scorer, tallied two touchdowns on runs of two and 91 yards to run his season total to 62 points.

Quarterbacks Joe Namath and Jack Hurlbut scored on runs of one yard each and Gary Martin added the fifth touchdown on an eight yard run.

Last-Quarter Pass Produces Standoff

HOUSTON (UPI)—The winless Rice Owls came from behind in the fourth quarter Saturday night to tie top-ranked Texas, 14-14, on Randy Kerbow's 18-yard touchdown pass to tailback Ronnie Graham.

Texas had staged its own comeback earlier, getting second and third-quarter touchdowns after Rice took a 7-0 lead in the first period on Paul Piper's 49-yard scoring run, and Kerbow's first extra-point kick.

TOMMY Ford blasted three yards for Texas' first touchdown and dashed 55 yards to the Rice 9-yard line with a punt return to set up the Longhorns' second score. Second-string tailback Jerry Cook slipped off tackle for the score on the next play. Tony Crosby kicked both extra points for Texas.

Ford stopped two Rice drives with pass interceptions on the Texas 11 and 27.

A capacity crowd of 72,300 watched as Texas' seven-game winning streak, including a Cotton Bowl win over Mississippi, was snapped by the fired-up Owls.

Rice tied Louisiana State, 6-6, to start this season, but then lost its other three games.

WITH 10 minutes left in the game, and Texas looking its strongest of the night, Kerbow rolled out on a third-and-seven and hit Graham in a corner of the end zone with a perfect pass to give Rice the tie. Kerbow converted, with his kick barely sailing over outstretched Texas line-men.

The tying drive began on the Rice 43 after Ernie Koy, recovered a fumble.

Rams for Birds? 49ers Strong Favorites Today

By JERRY WYNN
L. P. Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO — A couple of seagulls were intercepted cutting the fog over Kezar Stadium this morning.

"Who's playing here today?" one asked.

"The 49ers must be playing a team from Southern California," the other replied. "They've been watering down the field all week."

"But don't those fellows have a Waterfield of their own?"

"Yes, I think he's their coach. But I read in the Chronicle the other day where he may not be coach for long. They ran such a big headline, you'd think the World Series was back in town."

"What did the story say?"

"It told how badly all San Francisco is feeling about the collapse of the Rams. Everybody's all broken up just the way they were about the Dodgers. Especially Red Hickey. They say he really is crushed that his old team hasn't won a game."

"Have they got a chance to win today?"

"The scuttlebutt over at

S. F. SPOTTER

"Are you kidding. The 49ers are favored by 13 1/2 points, and nobody is taking the Rams. They got bombed by some kid team from Minnesota last week. And they've got plenty of injuries, too. That big tackle with the Frisco name, Varichione. And Marlin McKeever may not play either. You remember him from that game we took in a couple of years ago at Berkeley."

"What's the matter with the Rams?"

"The scuttlebutt over at The Wharf is that they don't have a good quarterback and good pass patterns. It would be like our trying to fly with our wings clipped."

"Are the 49ers good?"

"At times they look great, other times lousy. They lost their first two games this season, and then won their next three. Last week, they gave Green Bay a real fight for one half, and then folded."

"Who've the 49ers got?"

"They got some good running backs and fast ends and a quarterback from that farm down the Peninsula, John Brodie. He's good, but I still miss Y. A. Tittle. I used to beacon in on his bald top."

"Maybe, the Rams better not show up today, eh?"

"Could be. They proba-ably would be better off to scram across the Bay and look for that Oakland team.

Those bums haven't won yet either."

"Are you going to stick around for the game?"

"Might as well. You never can tell where dead fish will come from."

and rambled 82 yards to pay dirt. Lindsog's kick made it 7-0.

The Bruins bounced back with two threats, both ending on the Stanford 29—the first on a fumble and the second on downs.

The Tribe then mounted a 52-yard drive that carried to the Bruin six early in the second quarter, but after a holding penalty sent the Indians reeling back to the 21, they settled for a field goal by Lindsog from the 15 at 3:11 of that stanza.

Stanford was on the verge of blowing the Uclans clear out of the game moments later when the Bruins suddenly turned the tables and bounced back into contention on a play very similar to the one on which the Indians had scored earlier.

After Zeno's pass was intercepted on the Stanford 34 and returned 27 yards to the UCLA 39 by Tom Hansel, the Indians rolled to a first down on the 14.

Quarterback Steve Thurlow then pitched out to Allen Curr on the 19, but the latter fumbled when hit by Alexander. Jones then grabbed the ball in mid-air and set sail for the goal line 81 yards away. Zeno's kick closed the gap to 10-7 at the 6:44 mark.

MOMENTS later, the Bruins had another chance when they intercepted a pass at midfield, but on their first play, Zeno had another aerial picked off by Ragsdale.

UCLA was right back in "business" when Lodato fumbled the second-half kickoff and the Bruins' Dick Allen recovered on the Stanford 36. However, the Uclans were held for downs on the 23.

Ezell Singleton's 25-yard return of a punt to the Stanford 41 four plays later again boosted hopes of Bruin fans, but they lost six yards in three plays and finally punted to the Stanford 11.

From that point, the Indians marched to their insurance TD with Lindsog kicking the extra point that made the final margin, 17-7.

ANOTHER interception by Patitucci on the UCLA 36 two plays after the kickoff threatened to give Stanford an added score, but the Bruins got the ball back on the 15 when end Bob Howard fumbled a completed pass and Mitch Dimick recovered.

From there, the Bruins moved to midfield in a desperate bid to pull the game out of the fire, but were held for downs at that point.

They were still threatening to come back with six minutes left when Stanford's second bad center-snap on fourth down enabled the Bruins to gain possession on the Tribe 42.

Stanford's fifth interception after the Bruins had reached the 24 wrapped it up with four minutes showing on the clock.

Stanford ... 7 3 0 7-17
UCLA ... 0 7 0 0-7

The biggest man in sports is scheduled for a Long Beach appearance this week. He's pro wrestler Haystack Calhoun, who weighs 601 (yes, 601) pounds.

That Great American Whitebill

A great portion of the publicity handouts that come to my desk get the round-file treatment. There are times when such mimeographed sheets aren't even pulled from the envelopes, simply because I know in advance what to expect.

How happy I am that I didn't dump this one from the publicist of the San Diego Utilities Department. I'm sure you will agree with me. Here is the message:

"The crisp twang of husky fall air and the thunderous southward rush of the mallard and wild goose backdrops the onset of the migratory waterfowl season in San Diego. Translated from the prosaic pen of ye olde nature lover, duck hunting is really for the birds this year. This is apt to be the greatest season yet for that magnificent American Whitebill (commonly referred to as a coot or mudhen).

"Both Morena and Barrett Lakes hosted capacity crowds on opening day. Eleven nimbros at Barrett downed 19 birds (12 ruddies, 5 teal, 1 widgeon and 1 bluebill).

"Fifteen hunters at Barrett dropped a total of 44 birds (32 ruddies, 6 teal, 1 widgeon and—let's all stand and cheer—5 whitebills). Some of the hunters complained about mudhens coming into their homemade blinds and pecking at their shoelaces.

"AS TIME PROGRESSES, you may detect our lack of enthusiasm for that 'shoot-the-coot' program this season. Just between you and me, my heart really isn't in it. When those cute little black rascals with the white bills waddle up the bank, crawl up on your lap and look at you with those big blue eyes, who, with even the smallest streak of goodness, can possibly pull the trigger? Old, good-hearted sentimental me, I just couldn't get a bang out of it!"

As you can well see from the foregoing, the San Diego publicist doesn't give a hang whether or not anybody patronizes those lakes. Offhand, I must agree with him, particularly when I see dead coots left on shores after being killed just for the heck of it.

Another lake—Henshaw—not connected with the San Diego Utilities Department, fared better that first week with some sprig, widgeon and teal.

Sutherland and Lower Otay Lakes, also part of the San Diego system, continue to host fishermen on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays; El Capitan on Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays. El Capitan is producing bass ranging up to five pounds. Sutherland has plenty of bluegill and some bass. Crappie and bullheads are providing the excitement at Lower Otay. A bass limit there is a rarity.

WERE YOU A LUCKY ONE? The Department of Fish and Game says that Southern California anglers landed 201,087 albacore this year, surpassing the previous high record of 187,267 longfins in 1952. The 1962 figures are not complete inasmuch as all Southland landings haven't completed their books.

Also, that figure doesn't take into account the many thousands of fish that go unreported. I'm thinking about the great numbers of private craft that leave private or public marinas, cruise far out to sea and return with limit catches, even more. DFG men never see those fish or even hear about 'em.

Here's a tip for trout fishermen if they have more than a day or two to spend. The season is ending Wednesday at sunset in the Sierra Nevada, but the Owens River below Pleasant Valley Dam is open the year 'round.

Mrs. Lois C. Cleman, executive secretary of the Bishop Chamber of Commerce, says that the area currently is enjoying Indian summer, with temperatures ranging from 30 degrees to as much as 80 in Owens Valley. She mentions that fall colors are at their best and some of the finest fishing of the year is taking place in the lakes.

Topaz, for instance, on the California-Nevada line, is red-hot for rainbow trout. It is open the year 'round, with a limit of 10 trout, or 10 pounds and one trout. Fish there range from 1 to 5 pounds.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—If you have any thought of shooting a golden eagle, perish it right now! President Kennedy has signed the bill protecting the great American bird except in rare instances where permits may be granted to ranchers if the eagles prey on small livestock. The big eagles migrate between Canada and Mexico and concentrate in the Southwest through winter periods.

Mrs. Myrtle A. Mehan, 40, of Whittier, hunting last week with a party of 11 other persons from Whittier and Stockton in the Koosharem, Utah, sector, was caught in a crossfire and killed instantly. She was hit by several bullets aimed at a deer which ran past her.

It marked the third shooting death in Utah to date, and five other persons have died of heart attacks. In Colorado, two deer hunters have been killed by bullets, one has died of a heart attack and two others have died of cerebral hemorrhages.

All of which points up two warnings: Be certain of your target and don't underestimate your own capability in the field. That ticker may be older than you think.

Collier Books has three new paperbacks on the market. "A Family Guide to Salt-Water Fishing," by Dan Morris, is an original publication. "Rifle Shooting" and "Pheasants Afield," by Burdard Allen, are reprints from expensive Stackpole books of previous years.

BRUIN FROSH IN 22-12 WIN OVER-TRIBE

The passing combination of Rod Sherman to Bob Richardson led the UCLA frosh to a convincing 22-12 win over the Stanford yearlings Saturday morning at the Coliseum.

Sherman completed 8 of 15 passes for 157 yards. Richardson caught seven of them for 12 yards, one a 21-yarder for the first score.

Stanford scored twice in the last period, once on a 21-yard pass to former Long Beach Wilson end George Lawson.

7-Under 64 Brings Lema Two-Stroke Orange Lead

By JIM McCORMACK
Young Tony Lema turned a three-horse race into the beginning of a runaway Saturday, and leads 61 pros and 10 amateurs into the final round of the $22,500 Orange County Open today at the Mesa Verde Country Club.

Lema's three round total is 198, only one shot shy of the best 54-hole card this year. Bob Rosburg has a 200, and George Bayer a 202.

Going into Saturday's action, the San Leandro pro trailed Bayer and Rosburg by one shot. Bayer and Rosburg had 133s, Lema a 134.

Lema traveled his "problem course" in a near-record 33-31—64 to gain a two stroke lead over Rosburg and a four-shot margin over Bayer.

Rosburg, who set a course record in the first round Thursday with a 63, has watched a three-stroke lead dwindle to a two stroke deficit despite some fine golf. The Portland pro came home with a four-under par 67.

Bayer also continued to play steady golf, but his 69 was not nearly enough to stave off Lema's blitz.

Lema finished the day with eight birdies and one bogey, but the turning point of the match and his best hole was a par on the ninth. Tony drove into a weedy ditch, recovered with a sensational 80-yard wedge shot to the fairway, chipped to within three feet of the pin and dropped his putt, for a par.

Tony related after the match that this series saved him much mental pressure and was the key to his match.

Pinky Stevenson, of Long Beach, finished the day with a 73 and a three round mark of 215.

As in the past, the I, P-T will select a back and line-man of the year. Each will receive a trophy.

HERE ARE THE FACTS
The used cars we have at our huge plant are the cleanest and best in the world. We say this without fear of contradiction. Here is the procedure for our cars at:

1. Wash Motor and Chassis.
2. Inspect by 10 men.
3. Motor compression test for rings and valves.
4. Transmission and clutch checked and tested.
5. New tires, bearings, ball joints, shock absorbers, replaced as needed.
6. Carburetor, distributor for checked and tested.
7. The car is road tested.
8. Oil changed and filter replaced.
9. All parts properly lubricated to factory specifications.
10. Wheels pulled to check the brake lining.
11. Front and rear end necessary corrections made.
12. Necessary burning done to metal seat.
13. Polish and clean up.
14. Upholstery completely renewed.
15. Tires checked, made to meet our specifications which should be good for approximately 25,000 miles.
16. Front end aligned and (4) wheels balanced.
17. 1-day Trial Exchange.

Iranian Brings Dreams, Talent to Long Beach; Produces, Stars in Movie on His View of U.S.

By GEORGE ERES

Long Beach bartender Mohammed T. Zarindast mixes a fine martini.

But mostly he mixes fine dreams for "House on the Sand," a motion picture he has written, is co-producing, stars in and directs. Much of the filming is being done now in Long Beach—at the harbor, in the Anaheim Street and California Avenue district; scenes have been shot in the cemetery in Signal Hill and some scenes will be shot on the Pike.

The film has been six months in the shooting and Zarindast hopes to be ready for the music in January.

Meanwhile, he is working toward a degree in cinematic arts at UCLA and at part-time bartending.

FIVE YEARS ago Zarindast knew no English. He arrived from his native Iran . . . a tragic territory which cultivates nothing in its heart but dissolution, sadness and dreams.

He left his jobs there—writing, teaching drama, acting and dancing "to find a place where my emotions, youth and talent would be used."

He said what struck him most forcefully here is the Negro question. "In Iran," he said, "we do not have this problem. The idea for the story came to me when I saw a Negro student at UCLA watching a white student and a Negro girl.

"I wanted to picture as broad a cross-section of life in this country as possible—more than a tourist's look at America," he said. "The story grew into a moral and psychological study of a young man, a Mohammedan, who falls in love with a Negro girl. His father opposes the marriage. The girl's father is not opposed but feels the difficulties facing the young couple would not bring happiness." The story is told through the eyes of a 12-year-old Negro boy.

TO TELL HIS story, Zarindast gathered together a group of players, many of them from the Long Beach Little Theater roster: Clay Foster, who has appeared in "Majority of One" at Off-Broadway and "Third Best Sport" at Community Playhouse; Michele Murphy; Sondra Evans, radio and television actress, the female lead who will appear in Off-Broadway's next production, "Invitation to a March." For the 12-year-old boy, Mike Montgomery of Long Beach was selected.

Zarindast, 28, frankly is concerned with artistic success—a not too generally approved of idea in motion picture production. He is, too, frankly eager for success personally.

"A foreigner is a stranger," says Zarindast. "My experiences on the stage fulfill the emptiness of my heart when I am alone. This is the field I planned on entering since my childhood when it was the only reality that existed for me."

"To have hopes for success, or something to hope for is man's reality. This is how he takes his place in the universe and communicates with the world."

CLOSE UP of Mohammed T. Zarindast as he appears in a scene from "House on the Sand," film he wrote, acts in and directs. Some of the sequences are being shot in Long Beach.

The world long has known Gleason the comedian, Gleason the musician and Gleason the sour mash Diamond Jim Brady.

Gleason the actor, 45, who bills himself as The Great One—something that no shrinking violet could ever dream up—is least surprised of all.

"I've always been an actor," he said discussing Gleason the serious actor in a comic setting. He was wearing polka dot shorts at the time, looking like Smokey the bear in a Bikini.

FEW RECALL that Gleason once had a movie career before he hit comedy's big time on television. His Hollywood stand in those early years of World War II give a remarkable insight into the grandiose style of living that has always been the Gleason trademark.

Patsy d'Amore, owner of the Villa Capri, a hangout for the movie crowd, tells about the $75-a-week actor in those days.

"JACKIE always dined in my restaurant—but never alone. He threw a party every time he came in. No one picked up a check when Jackie was around even though prices were low in those days. Jackie signed them all."

"Before long the tab was $3,000 and Gleason had been dropped by Warners. He came in the night before he left for New York. "I'll take care of you, pal," he said.

"I NEVER dunned him even when he had made it big in television after the war. Then he came in the Villa one night soon after he had signed that $8-million contract with CBS."

"He ordered spaghetti marinara, his favorite, had a few drinks. The tab at most was $10. He asked to pay by check."

"I looked at the check. It was for $3,510. I started to say something but Jackie stopped me."

"I'm just a big tipper, pal," was all he said.

WHICH BRINGS up Jackie's drinking. Is he an alcoholic?

"GARDEN OF EDEN"

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

'I'm Naughty,'---Melina

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Yellow-haired Melina Mercouri threw herself down full length on a couch and thundered out the news that she doesn't see any good reason that a working actress should get married—so she's going to get married.

"I'm an anarchist," she said, giving it an amusing "ch" sound, as she rested her chin in her hand and waited for a waiter to bring some vodka.

Seemingly in admiration, Producer Jules Dassin, her husband-to-be, waited for the next bulletin, while sitting nearby.

"I'M A NAUGHTY girl—but only in America and Greece," proclaimed the fascinating Greek who played Ilya, the lovable prostitute, in "Never On Sunday."

"Because my pictures are condemned in both places,"

"No," protested Dassin.

"Yes—in Greece, too, the little ones couldn't come to see me in 'Never On Sunday' and now they can't come too, to see me in 'Phaedra'."

I don't think it's right. I want to be seen by the young generation."

IN "PHAEDRA," based on the legend of a king's daughter being in love with her step-son (Tony Perkins), there are some love scenes which disturbed the censors.

Yet, despite her desire that "the little ones" be able to see her emote, Miss Mercouri wants no little one in her own life and is candid enough to say so for publication and perhaps invite criticism.

"I am an adult," she explained. "I can be with a man without marriage."

DASSIN said he didn't agree.

"I speak for myself. It's too late for me, anyway," she said. "Why all the men want to make you a little girl again? I don't want to have a child. I have my life arranged without that."

Melina was even more "anarchistic" about marriage. For security, marriage is "hokay," she thought.

"If you can't have a man you love by any other means than marriage, then by God, marry him!" she said.

"IF YOU travel to America and you must take two rooms and you don't have the money, then marry the guy and save the money," she said, "on the other room."

"And buy dresses!" she added. "I don't agree with her," Dassin smiled. "He's an old-fashioned American boy," she said.

Sign Contract, See L. B. World Trade Growth

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Progress Editor

Added stature for the Long Beach area in world trade circles was seen the past week following signing of a contract for architectural and engineering services on a 25-story World Trade Center structure to be built on Pier J.

Signing the papers in Washington, D.C., were Charles C. Weidlein, president of International Towers, Inc., developers, and Dan A. Kimball, president of Aerojet-General Corporation. The AETRON Division of Aerojet will do the work.

HE SAID there already was widespread interest in trade circles in the project and estimated that actual construction on the tower buildings would start in February or March.

JUNE 1, 1964 was set as target date for completion by Weidlein as he signed the contract.

The $30 million complex of high rise buildings will be located on a 13 acre plot south-east of the Harbor Department Administration Building and near the entrance of the proposed World's Fair.

On his return to Long Beach, Weidlein noted that he and Kimball had discussed the functions of the planned Long Beach Trade Center in connection with the federal government's common market program, and how it would benefit this "International City."

AETRON has engineered many of America's largest rocket production, test and launching facilities.

Features of the new building listed by Weidlein and B. F. Ross, Jr., Aerojet vice president and AETRON manager, include:

Closed circuit TV for registering hotel guests and inter-office use;

A communications center geared for global transmissions by satellite;

A new-type glass exterior which will illuminate the towers without interfering with the view or privacy of the residents.

AETRON was chosen to design International Towers, the residents.

'RUMP SESSIONS' HIT

C of C Gains, Problems Told

Long Beach Chamber of Commerce is approaching its goal of being the finest one in the state, but it still must overcome a number of "problem areas," including financial and legislative support, Harry Krusz, executive vice president, reported to chamber leaders the past week.

Krusz told board members and committee chairmen at a luncheon in the Lafayette Hotel that the chamber now has more committees working at more projects and holding more meetings than ever before.

However, he admitted in a mid-fiscal-year report on the group's activities that the chamber has only partially realized its expectations.

WE KNOW HOW to run a much better chamber than we now operate," he said. "Our principal limitation is in having the funds it takes to implement our knowledge. Some must continue to give attention to building income."

Krusz said voluntary working time donated by chamber committeemen since April 1 amounts to 2 1/2 years in terms of man hours.

He said this mirrors the fact that "we are beginning to get somewhere near our goal" of being the finest

Chamber of Commerce in the state.

"WHEN WE GET to the point where we can budget $200,000 per year," he said, "we will have the kind of a chamber that this community needs. We have budgeted $171,000 this year, so we are not too far away from what we need."

Krusz cited "lack of maturity" among some dissidents as a bar to civic progress through chamber efforts.

This has been shown, he said in "rump sessions" of small groups gathering on unofficial occasions like private cocktail parties and dinners to engage in the "age-old pastime of downgrading chamber achievements" and "using it for the convenient whipping boy."

"THIS KIND of criticism is gossipy and destructive," he said.

"The chamber has always been ready to take a strong stand on legislative and other measures. But never from the standpoint of selfish interests."

He said a decision is taken "after a thorough study of the facts and a vote on a wholly democratic basis."

He said too many want to withdraw when the majority decides some issue against their personal stand.

IN NORTHEAST ORANGE COUNTY

See Housing Needs in Industrial Expansion

Tremendous expansion brought to the northeast section of Orange County by manufacturing plants such as the new Anaheim installation for the Autonetics Division of North American Aviation Corporation will create in the next few years a demand for homes which should equal and surpass the housing boom already experienced in the area, studies show.

William Lund of Economics Research Associates estimated "four out of every ten new employees brought into the area represent potential home purchasers."

"When one considers that Autonetics anticipates employing approximately 1,500 new employees in the next 12 to 18 months, it is easily seen that the demand for single family residences generated by this employment increase will be substantial," remarked Lund.

OTHER MAJOR aerospace industries such as Hughes Aircraft Co., Beckman Instruments and Nortronics anticipate employment increases which will affect the housing situation in Northeast Orange

Van Camp Sales Up 15% in Quarter

Van Camp Sea Food Co., of Long Beach, has reported 15 per cent sales gains the first quarter of this fiscal year and a 25 per cent gain in net income.

G. C. Van Camp, chairman of the board, said sales reached $20,238,744 for June, July and August, compared with $17,667,519 last year. And, he added, a healthy volume of sales has been maintained.

Del Webb's Sun City, Calif. Draws 10,000 Visitors Weekly

SUN CITY, Calif.—Visitors to the newest of California's towns and the latest addition to the Del E. Webb active retirement communities continue to pour across electronic counting devices in record numbers.

Although Sun City, Calif., is but four months old, these traffic counters have recorded an average of more than 16,000 people each week since the formal opening on June 17-18.

Sales records continue to tumble as more and more "Californians" from throughout the nation add to the more than $13.5 million sales volume recorded.

The spread of the Sun City active new way of life for senior Americans, which began just 2½ years ago at Sun City, outside of Phoenix, has grown to include Kern City, Calif., near Bakersfield; Sun City, Fla., near Tampa; and now Sun City, Calif.

WEBB OFFICIALS are confident, with the early sales as a basis, that the California Sun City will surpass even the growth of Sun City, Ariz., where more than 6,300 residents now live.

Nestled in the Meniffee Valley 22 miles south of Riverside, the California retirement community encompasses property that once was farm and ranch land. Breezes from the mountains which surround the valley have created a natural phenomenon that places a curtain of air from the San Juan Capistrano area between Sun City and the smog pattern from the Los Angeles Basin, creating a "smog-free" condition.

Winding streets with homes bordering a championship golf course—now being played regularly by new residents, those who are waiting for their homes and the general public—rise and fall gently with the easy slopes that make the Meniffee Valley an ideal location for people who want to shed the workaday hustle of a normal community for the relaxed "do what they want, when they want and only if they want" living among people of their own age in Sun City.

RESIDENTS HAVE been moving in a continuous stream of vans and the streets where only construction vehicles were allowed now boast family cars and friendly faces.

JAMES A. BENSON
To Los Altos Branch

Managership Post Filled

James A. Benson has been named manager of the East Long Beach (Los Altos) office of the United States National Bank. The appointment was announced by E. C. Aldrich, regional vice president.

Benson has been in the banking business 17 years. His most recent assignment was manager of U.S. National's Buena Park office.

He is active in Rotary International and the Chamber of Commerce.

U.S. National has three offices in this area, in East Long Beach, North Long Beach and downtown.

Bekins Van Into Rental Business

LOS ANGELES — Bekins Van & Storage announced its entry into the rental business with the establishment of a subsidiary, Bekins Rentals, Inc.

Bekins' president, Daniel P. Bryant, said the new operations would include rental of a wide variety of equipment including hospital and sick room supplies, health and reducing aids, party and banquet supplies and many miscellaneous items.

These residents have already gotten together for visits, several social functions, arranged by themselves with the assistance of professional coordinators provided by the Webb Corp.

A modern shopping center has been built and most of the 11 commercial units are already open for business although the official opening of the center is not until November. A fashionable motor hotel—Del Webb's Kings Inn—welcomes guests for dining, cocktails and overnight visits.

THE SUN CITY concept, pioneered by the Webb Corp. and now widely imitated by other builders, is probably the most-talked about development in retirement in America. Arizona's Sun City alone has attracted more than two million visitors. California's Sun City home buyers come from all parts of California plus 21 other states and two Canadian provinces.

Oregon Deal Offers Hunting and Fishing

A hunting and fishing "paradise" is being offered in 2½-acre parcels of the 3,000-acre Ana River Lake Ranch in South central Oregon, according to Hal Lundeen, insurance executive owner.

"I originally acquired the ranch because of its unique location and features," Lundeen said. "When I saw the beautiful 200-foot deep spring-fed lake stocked with 30,000 trout and more than a mile long for fishing, boating and swimming, that did it," Lundeen said.

"Our friends enjoyed the area so much, they persuaded us to let them buy a part for themselves. This called for a subdivision." Some 340 acres just 200 yards north of the private lake have been subdivided into 2½-acre parcels. These parcels front county dedicated and maintained roads and are surveyed and staked ready for immediate or future use. Total price $995.00, 10% down and easy no-interest terms on the balance.

State Highway 31 runs through the ranch and the small community of Summer Lake is located at the southwest corner of the ranch property, offering stores, gas station, restaurant and schools.

phone and propane services are available to each ranch site. In addition all property owners will have full use of the Ana Lake with its exclusive beach area now under development. The balance of the 2½-acre parcels, amounting to some 100 parcels, will be offered for public sale today from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. The sale will be held at the conference room of the new Tower Building at the Disneyland Hotel in Anaheim. The public is invited to see the pictures, maps and other information on display.

Building Firm Moves Offices

ORANGE — The firm of Thornhill and Bruce, Inc., developers, has opened offices at a new location, 432 N. Tustin Ave.

Formerly established at 9951 Belfast Drive, Garden Grove, the company has relocated in order to be closer to the center of its operation, according to John Bruce, one of the owners.

BUILDING REMODELED, WITH MODERN LOOK

Pacific Ave. Building Made Over for Offices

Complete remodeling of the Pacific Building, 2360 Pacific Ave., into an office building, has been announced by Booth and Kroesens, Inc., investment firm.

The building was a successful furniture store for many years, and more recently was a restaurant supply wholesale outlet. With the development of the street into a professional and service district, it was felt to be in the best interests of the area to convert it into an office building.

It is a one-story building on the northeast corner of Pacific Avenue and Eagle Street, with a mezzanine floor. The total square footage is 12,000 feet.

IT IS now air-conditioned and presents a modern appearance with huge courses of cement block framed in white stucco, relieved by an ocean-blue background above the glass and aluminum entry to the lobby.

One of the first tenants is Blue Cross of Southern California, which held an open house and reception recently to dedicate its suite.

Other tenants will include a firm of attorneys, a life insurance company office, and a doctor's office.

The Board of Directors of Pacific Far East Line, Inc., has announced an increase in the company's quarterly dividend payments from 15c to 25c on outstanding common stock.

This represents the first dividend increase since 1955, save for a 10c extra paid in December, 1957.

Mr. R. A. Watt, president, R. A. Watt Construction Co., Gardena, California

"More buyers want Medallion Homes"

"I've built over 11,000 homes and apartments here in Southern California in the last fifteen years," says Mr. Watt. "And in this time there's been a steadily growing number of buyers who want the advantages of electric living. That's why I'm building so many Medallion Homes today."

"As an example," Mr. Watt continues, "our latest development, New Horizons, is an own-your-own apartment community near Santa Barbara. Each of its 360 units is built to all-electric Gold Medallion Home standards."

As Mr. Watt has observed, more and more home buyers are joining the trend to electric living every day. They have discovered the comfort, cleanliness and lasting modernity that only a Medallion Home can offer. If you are planning to buy or build a new home soon, make sure it bears the Medallion Home Award.

Only one new home in four earns this distinction. These are the qualifications:

1. A flameless electric kitchen—cool, clean, modern. It comes equipped with major electric appliances, including automatic flameless electric range and oven.

2. Full "Housepower" wiring—only a home built to rigid Medallion Home standards has the overall electrical capacity necessary for truly modern living.

3. Abundant lighting—planned for comfort, convenience and beauty throughout the home.

A total electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these benefits plus:

4. Flameless electric home and water heating.

Brentwood Gardens Buyers Pay Less Than Apartment Rentals

KITCHEN OF CHARM IN HOME

Spacious kitchen in Brentwood Gardens home is highlighted by built-in range and oven, ceramic tile counters and large eating area. Only $1 cash is needed for moving into a new home.

Brentwood Gardens buyers are finding that their new homes are not only providing an equity investment, but that monthly payments are less than what they had been paying in rent, according to Don Hermanson, sales manager.

"A survey has revealed that most of our buyers," said Hermanson, were paying more in rent for apartments than they now pay on loans to buy homes.

"They also find, according to the survey, that by owning a Brentwood Gardens home they get more room, many modern conveniences, and most treasured of all — privacy," Hermanson said.

"Another advantage," Hermanson added, "is that when and if a homeowner must move, he can realize an appreciation of his property value."

"Some of our buyers realized as much as $1000 a year appreciation in home price when they sold."

OWNERSHIP at Brentwood Gardens, he said, starts for only $1 total move-in cost, with monthly payments beginning at $69.

Brentwood Gardens is a development of Larwin Co., affiliate of Larwin Group companies, nation's largest builders and developers of homes and shopping centers.

Brentwood Gardens residences are available in four basic floor plans and 20 exterior elevations, including ranch, Hawaiian, provincial, contemporary and traditional.

Floor plans provide three and four bedrooms, or three bedrooms and family room or den two baths and oversized garage.

Grand Opening of Dutch Haven Two Newest Units Is Extended

Grand opening of two new Dutch Haven communities, unit 21 and Unit 22 at Huntington Beach, is being continued through this weekend to accommodate the large numbers of buyers visiting model homes at the developments. Unit 21 is on Beach Blvd. and unit 22 is on Edinger Ave. near Bolsa Chica.

According to an official of Luxury Homes, Inc., creators of Dutch Haven communities, sales are climbing sharply, promising an early sellout for both developments.

THE SPOKESMAN said that location at a resort city that has become the fastest-growing community in Southern California has contributed greatly to the overwhelming success experienced by Dutch Haven in the Huntington Beach area.

He added that another important sales factor is the fact that purchase of a Dutch Haven home includes title to land, with property rights fully protected by the Title Insurance and Trust Co. Many other homes being built in the area are being constructed upon leased ground.

The new Dutch Haven units are ideally located for family living. Climate is excellent and just minutes away, California's finest beaches offer boating, surfing, swimming and picnicking. Major department stores will soon be opened, a large shopping center is close by and excellent elementary schools are within or near the developments.

"AMERICAN HOME SERIES" residences are being shown exclusively at the new Dutch Haven communities. There are 16 exterior elevations available, including the popular Dutch Provincial, Ranch House, Colonial and Hawaiian Modern styles which have been best-sellers in other Dutch Haven communities. The Dutch Provincial model has been acclaimed in national magazines for its livability, beauty and low cost.

The homes are three to four bedrooms with family room and up to two full baths. Prices start at $14,950, with $95 move-in cost to veterans on VA terms. Cal-Vet terms and FHA loans at the newly authorized 5 1/4% interest rate are also available.

Stanton Will Have More Apartments

STANTON — Permits for multiple family dwellings totaling $493,745 have been issued by the Stanton Building Department.

The multi-family development will be constructed in the 10200 and 10300 blocks of Sentry Drive, 7795 Second St. and 7740 and 7750 E. Cody St. by Strickler and Kasha, 8575 Katella Ave., Anaheim.

The development includes five triplexes, $147,500; one duplex, $22,600; two triplexes, $39,260; two triplexes, $66,680; one five-unit apartment, $48,045 and four four-unit apartment buildings, $15,600.

Seven other building permits for construction totaling $6,749 were also issued during the week.

Permits were issued to Theodor Tobias of Monterey for additions at 1350 Monterey St., 1330 Foster and Kleiser of Los Angeles, 10111 Katella Ave., $450; Humber O. Co., 12929 Beach Blvd., a 1/2 lot, $1,200.

John C. Raser, 13541 Fern St., adds 100 sq. ft. Currier Ice Cream, 10270 Main St., $1,000; Eugene E. Fitch, 11111 College Ave., Garden Grove, block wall at 1141-151 Beach Blvd., $341; and Warner Kavel, 12530 Magnolia Ave., two lots, $721.

Los Alamitos Man Honored by Firm

LOS ALAMITOS—John K. Berger, of 4271 Howard Ave., has been nationally honored in being named a member of the President's Club for New Organization among the country-wide field force of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company.

In recognition of his work he was invited to attend a three-day educational conference at the company's home office in Philadelphia.

While in Philadelphia he was honored in a special ceremony by Charles R. Tyson, company president.

Berger is a member of the Robert A. Reason Agency, 3633 Long Beach Blvd., Long Beach.

V. Hunsaker Jr., vice-president of S. V. Hunsaker and Sons, builders and developers.

Offering the home buyer a choice of three or four bedrooms, two full baths, family room, and large two-car garage, unit 2 homes may be purchased with $95 down and

Community Playhouse

... the house that families built

By MARY ELLIS

Many local males who bring home the bacon—and their spouses who cook it—are among the best part-time hams at Long Beach Community Playhouse.

Here many prominent husband-wife teams, also entire families, devote countless avocational hours to all manner of theater jobs.

With these would-be thespians, representing all walks of life—from housewives turned showgirls to scenery-shuffling executives—the play's the thing.

Behind the play is work, all kinds—on stage, behind scenes, out front.

AT LONG BEACH Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St., dean of little theaters in this city with 33 years continuous production (even during war years), that work is heart-beat of the organization.

No task is too lowly, even for those elevated to administrative ranks.

Members of the board not only supervise and plan; they act, direct workshop productions, busy themselves at budget and clerical jobs, tear down and build sets. They repair fences, cook and serve for parties, even usher.

Often, the star of today's show is found painting scenery or collecting props for the next.

And the juvenile player of yesteryear is often the star of today, who may bring his or her children in tomorrow to make their debuts.

NOW AND THEN, fathers and mothers act with their children. Or they may go in for more menial tasks.

Take the Mathews family. Ruth and Bill were first drivers and chaperones for their talented daughters, who both have played roles of distinction.

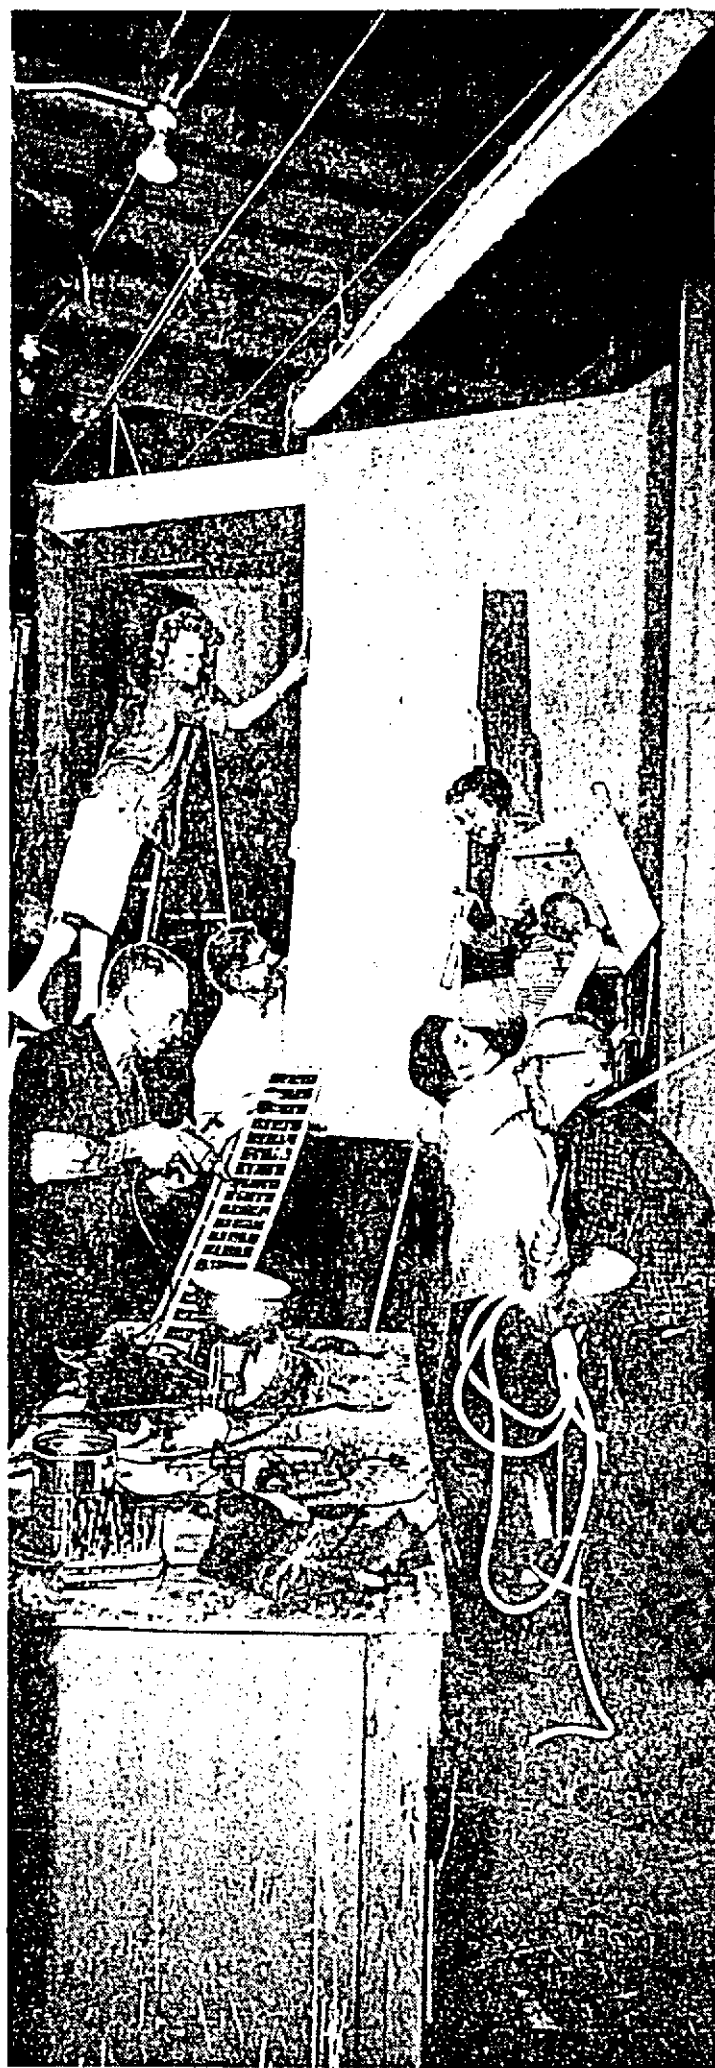

Now Bill, by day an executive at Navy Shipyards, has charge of addressing mailers, Ruth is chairman of hostesses, also serves as usher and what-not. The daughters?

Virginia (Ginny), student at Long

LEADING LADY Barbara Crooker is equally at home backstage.

BLOCKING A PLAY (initial step in production) are Larry Johns, director, and Norma Aagaard (foreground); Alice Coil, stage managing (at card table); actors (left to right) Steve Dohnert (on floor), Don Kroll, Kathryn Offill, Nila Williams and Bill Clements. Play is current production, "Critic's Choice," running through Nov. 3.

DONNING APRON, Harry J. Moore serves as first assistant to wife Caroline when she utilizes culinary artistry for Community Playhouse party.

IT'S MAKE-UP TIME for theatrically-compatible Connie and Dan Baurac, one of Community Playhouse's most active husband-wife teams.

The Wild Waves Say . . .

By Iola Masterson • I, P-T Women's Editor

WELL, FOR spirits' sakes! Did you know about the bone-rattling good time they had at Naomi and Charles Chandler's and Madeline and Burroughs homes last night?

They entertained at an embalming fluid hour prior to the "Waltz Round Set" Petroleum Club's annual Halloween dinner dance. Guests first were bidden to the Burroughs' "Bone Yard" where the gruesome decor put them in an absolutely ghoularish state of mind. Then in solemn (yeh, I'll bet) procession, complete with props, they walked to the Chandler's "cemetery" for a belt of Old Great Great Granddaddy (he was a grand old man).

Among the haute haunt set present were Mirian and Harry Jordan, frankly uninhibited in caveman outfits, Ann and Kay Walton, who came as Susie Wong and "some" coolie, Ruth and Harry Carrothers, as Peter Pan and Captain Hook, and Walt and Evelyn Scott, who were authentically handsome in Bavarian attire.

If you're a sparerib fan, keep this in mind. The hosts paved, begged and borrowed used ribs. They dried and bleached them, then wrote the invitations on same, mailing them in tiny gunny-sacks. On second thought, considering Eddie Day's new postal regulations, you may have to deliver such mail-out goodies in person this time next year or even sooner.

THE WENTWORTHS have went and returned and the wentling was well worth it, according to Betty and Palmer. They motored in leisure and good vacation spirit through Arizona and New Mexico where autumn scenery is in high gear.

GETTING TO know all the cats (Halloween black or otherwise) in their new neighborhood are Virginia and Bill Artman, who moved into their recently purchased duplex on Coronado last weekend. In fact, their move set off a chain reaction, dear to the hearts of all van men. Dorothea and Al Maloney and children immediately moved into the Artman's former home on Manilla (which they had purchased) and Ermyne and John Nimocks moved in the Maloney's former place in Naples (which they had ditto from Dorothea and Al).

This grand scale realignment of citizenry was delayed while the Artmans vacationed in the Canadian Rockies (Banff, Lake Louise, Jasper) and thence home, via Seattle, and finally Colville, Calif., where they visited Alice and Harold Huffman in their hunter and fisherman's mecca, the Buckhorn Motel.

DON'T KNOW about Ernie, but Beverly Lockwood had the look of a wounded doe the other day. Turns out she was paying the price of the very privileged . . . undergoing the uncomfortable effects of shots required prior to a trip to the Orient. With the girls, they'll fly the Wong way next month. To bid them jet speed, Geneva and Stan Weiss entertained at a bon vol cocktails buffet last Saturday.

TRYING TO sound matter of fact (but not quite pulling it off . . . bubbles of enthusiasm kept tickling her vocal chords) was Ione Parkins the other day as she discussed latest word from daughter, Mary McLeod. Mary, senior at U. of Oregon, was one of just 50 outstanding girls tapped as a member of Decoys, senior women's social honorary.

GREMLINS have struck again, the little stinkers! They took charge of the typewriter keys when we did the Women's Architectural League story and wrote Mrs. Robert Lane under a picture of Kit (Mrs. Hector) Tinnaro. Which didn't stop anyone from having a bang-up time at their big benefit party Saturday, thanks in large part to Kit's hard work on the shindig as ways and means chieftain.

EVERY FACE as smiley as glowing pumpkins will be next Wednesday, were the face faces which smiled last Monday when Assistants Leaguers dressed up for annual Founders' Day celebration and luncheon. And if fur, fur, fur is any indication, it's going to be a cold winter. Handsome furs, fur hats and fur trimmed ensembles plus sophisticated autumn decor sparked the day.

Founder Winifred Campbell was present and beaming as were charter members Loraine Miller, Lillian Thomas, Cassiata Walker, Flo Newton, Marion Ten Eyck, Ma Locke, Haldis Herzig and Julia Witz, Norma Trammell and Helen Reagan.

Among the capacity crowd, others spotted were Bea Millie and Dottie Dunlap, sporting fresh-from-Palm Spring sun tans; Tess Heusel, as Silver Ball chairwoman, full of enthusiasm for a super holiday affair; Mildred Wing, it was announced, is "It" as 1963 deb ball head; and Polly Chace, as autumn-chic as the decorations she contributed for buffet and mantle.

GAMBOLING in gamble town, Las Vegas, have been Dorothy and John Munholand whose gambol-mates were her brother and sister-in-law, Eleanor and Joe Campbell of Los Altos.

C of C to Host Ivy Priest

By MARY ELLIS

The high Priest-ess of politics and pocketbooks during the Eisenhower administration is blond, statuesque and smarter than a whip. She's Ivy Baker Priest, U.S. treasurer during Ike's reign, who's equally conversant with high finance or high fashion.

Also, as mother and housewife (Mrs. Sidney William Stevens of Beverly Hills), she has some very definite ideas about women's role in the complex world of today.

What's more, she's ready and willing to climb on her soapbox — anytime, anywhere — to express her view. Which is exactly what she'll do here Tuesday evening as guest speaker for the Women's Division, Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, dinner meeting at the Lafayette Hotel.

This confident, dynamic leader of women—men, too —speaks with the assurance that comes only from experience.

"Nothing replaces experience," says she. And she knows whereof she speaks. Take politics. This woman who climbed to a top job in the nation's exchequer started her political career at the ripe old age of 10.

She not only was drafted by her mother, a Utah precinct worker, to baby sit with six other Baker children when her mother was on party business, but also served as babysitter for other Republican women who had party work to do.

Since then she's had a succession of political jobs—including Republican national committee woman from Utah and director of women's affairs for the Republican National Committee.

THE NATION'S second woman treasurer grew up in Bingham, Utah, a small mining town.

Her father, a miner, became ill her second week of college, so she quit school to help support the family.

"I'd planned to be a lawyer," was her breezy explanation. "But I couldn't swing that in just two weeks at the university."

So she learned while she earned—as telephone operator, as night school teacher, as merchandising manager for a department store and as fashion model.

And about that experience.

"Being a telephone operator helped," she pointed out. "You learn to do so many things at once. You have to see, hear, think, read, write and operate—all at the same time."

Working in a department store had its valuable lesson, too. "There I learned

the important philosophy that the customer is always right."

And politics—"well, that's the best experience of all." As treasurer she matched signatures with some of the most influential figures here and abroad, she travelled the world, also visited every state—from Alaska to Hawaii, from Maine to Florida.

"You soon learn that all the dollars in the U. S. Treasury, taken together, cannot buy the dedication and devotion of the people in this country to the principles of freedom," she recounted.

Those freedoms, and the importance of preserving them at this crucial time, will be subject of Ivy Baker Priest's talk Tuesday night.

The social hour will begin at 6:30 p. m.; dinner at 7.

Ruth Dye, dinner chairman for the C of C women's division, said reservations may be made at the chamber offices, 121 Linden Ave., through Monday.

In addition to the guest speaker, there will be an informed discussion on important ballot issues.

The dinner is open to the general public.

House That Families Built

Beach State College, won the first feminine juvenile award in 1959 as "Junior Miss" in the summer play by that name.

Sister Joan, a student at UCLA, was nominated as best supporting actress for her role in "Pleasure of His Company," her first major part, and is chairman of Playhouse youth activities.

LEADING the field as husband-wife team are Connie and Dan Baurac. She's executive secretary for a local construction company; he's credit manager for an oil supply company.

Both are leading actors. Dan is on the board, is this year's workshop chairman, can and DOES direct, also whips up costumes or fills in wherever needed.

Retired school administrator Harry J. Moore, executive vice-president of Community Players, and wife Caroline, although relative newcomers, are already deeply immersed in the hypnosis of little theater.

Harry is frequently found serving in the kitchen as first assistant to Caroline, whose talents at cookery and organization give support to Sybil Reed, long-time hospitality chairman.

MOLLY AND BOB BOYD, Ann and Vic Cypher are husband-wife regulars on the stage crew. Molly, well-known in local music circles, also plays numerous roles; Ann is currently playing her first.

Like elsewhere, backstage workers frequently move into the limelight as actors.

Example: Martha Knowles, oft-times stage hand, has long been an actress, is trouble-shooter for the director, has tackled jobs of infinite variety in her long years of Playhouse service.

And sometimes-actor Frank Keith,

local display advertising man, utilizes his artistic experience to turn out theater posters, also serves on stage crews.

Charlotte Milan, stenographer by day, is a versatile newcomer of the past year who's trained in all phases of theater (Pasadena Playhouse and college). She's already acted in varied roles, has served in many technical capacities, even taught fencing for a recent stage scene.

And school-boy Steve Dohnert, who has innoculated his entire family with stage fever, is a lad to watch.

Bitten by the acting bug when given a ventriloquist puppet by his parents a few years ago, he won an award for his first juvenile role in 1960, also has been tapped for screen tests by Hollywood.

When not acting, his father Don is frequently stage manager.

WHICH ALL ADDS up to lots of material for paid director Larry Johns, who roars and coos at his big acting and producing crews, can find a job-to-do for all willing hands.

He is at best (and worst) during "hell week," that period before opening night when all ingredients must be brought to a jell.

In that week, sound and light cues go awry, props appear in strange positions, colors of costumes clash, tempers flare, mishaps are strange and unpredictable. Finally calm and order descend.

Once Larry was observed laughing aloud—like mad—in his director's seat at the rear of the theater.

What was so funny?

"Oh, nothing at all," was his reply. "I just want them to become accustomed to sounds of laughter. They will have a good audience only if they make it so."

"They have to learn how to react to success."

Calling All 'Guys and Dolls!'

When the Patrons of Long Beach Civic Light Opera attended a rehearsal in the Concert Hall Tuesday night they saw a hard working cast polishing the bright lines and fast routines of "Guys and Dolls."

The production opens Thursday at 8:30 p.m. to run through Sunday and again Nov. 9, 10 and 11. The story is based on characters created by Damon Runyon, with music and lyrics by Frank Loesser. Jo Swerling and Abe Burrows wrote the book.

★ ★ ★
HEADING THE cast are Laura Killingsworth as Sarah, James Boyd as Sky Masterson, Elaine Nelson as Adelaide, and Rube Amer as Nathan Detroit.

Director and choreographer Bill Roberts is being assisted by Kathy Davis, who is herself a well-known local actress and dramatic coach. Musical director is Jack Kroesen.

The able supporting cast includes James Doherty as Arvide. He has played many leads in local productions and won the best acting award at Community Playhouse for "A Man Called Peter." Others are Ed Grieve, Kenneth Wahl, Kent Johnson, Jimmy Adams, Hugh Craven, Howard Blevins and Joan Davis.

THE SPOTLIGHT will be on dancers Vivian Hoban, Tony Sakowicz, Leah Roberts, Lonnie D. Rhodes, Barbara Kennedy, Ross Lynn Tepper, Georgia Thompson, Rebecca Jackson and Sonia Newberg.

When "Guys and Dolls" opened in 1950 on Broadway—where it ran for three years—it won enthusiastic acclaim from the critics.

Audiences came out of the theater humming the hit tunes:

"Bushel and a Peck," "I've Never Been in Love Before," "Take Back Your Mink," "If I Were a Bell."

★ ★ ★
THE PLOT sparkles around the efforts of the dedicated Sarah to lure Sky away from his sinful ways and into Save-a-Soul Mission, the hilarious complications of Sky's gambling pals, and Adelaide's conniving to get Nathan to end their 14-year-old engagement with marriage.

For ticket information call Long Beach Civic Light Opera Association, 518 E. Fourth St.

and some of the dolls (at top left and right), who enliven the show. Principals, shown at lower left, are Laura Killingsworth, James Boyd, Elaine Nelson, and Rube Amer.

At right, the cast comes forward to listen to director Bill Roberts.

Water Color Exhibit Experimental, Classic

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The California Water Color Society show at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., until Nov. 11 is a handsome collection of 75 works. While water color is the painting medium which requires the most control, it is also the most immediately responsive to the artist's expression. This group exploits and explores its every possible aspect... bright and muted, sharp or misty, representational or abstract.

BESIDES CLASSIC transparent watercolor, there is collage, casein, gouache, pastel, and charcoal. In prize-winner Leonard Askin's "Icarian Passage" there is a fast swoosh through space in blues, oranges, reds—emphasized by touches of poison green, and areas neutralized with white chalk. (Interestingly enough, this is the fourth treatment of this theme on view currently in Long Beach.)

Adjoining is an example of wet on wet paper, Paul Sousa's "Interlude," which is classic in composition and a skillful suggestion of landscape, horizon, and sky in tints which shimmeringly blend.

MOST OF THE show is displayed in the upstairs galleries. Lucille Brown-Greene's casein "Equals Infinity" is an interesting abstract conception with the canvas divided vertically into halves of light and dark with all kinds of textured patterning.

Fran Soldini is represented by a small, charming "Medieval Pantomime," a pensive composition of interwoven lines around planes of pleasing colors, some pasted on.

Phil Dike's "Harbor Return," in classic watercolor style, is of anchored yachts, beautifully handled with rollicking waves contrasted to an orchestration of vertical masts.

TARO YAMIMA'S "Study of a Child" is a brisk rendering of a sturdy little individual, whereas Italo D'Andree's "Dream" is a painstaking surrealist treatment of a child immersed in a haunting vision of ambiguous adult figures.

'The Roof' on Film Bill

"The Roof," an Italian import by the maker of "The Bicycle Thief" and "Shoeshine," continues the foreign film series at 5 and 7:30 p.m. today in Long Beach State College Little Theater.

The production, the work of director Vittorio de Sica, is the fourth in the current series of the Long Beach Film Society.

The plot is a simple but dignified account of a young married couple's search for a home in post-World War II Italy.

Major & Minor Notes

MEMORY OF TEACHER

UNDYING INSPIRATION

By RACHEL MORTON
L. P. T. Music Critic

"Don Giovanni" went on in Cannes, but the Master was not there. It was a fine performance, and as I have listened to that opera in many countries since, I may say it was an extraordinarily fine performance.

A week passed and there were no lessons. My heart was troubled, and although the gardens of the Villa Vergemere were filled with lovely roses, I could not resist buying a few and sending them with my love. The next day came a note which I believe to be the last writing of Jean de Reszke.

It was his card, and on it was written: "Mille remerciements pour les magnifiques roses and thousand kisses. Bravo pour Donna Anna. Magnifique!"

The second week of anxiety was too much to bear, so I boldly asked to see the Master. His niece Minia told me that the doctor had ordered that no one should see him.

"Only let me look in upon him, and I promise he shall not see me or be disturbed by me—my word of honor, Minia." So it was agreed.

MINIA TIPTOED in, and I followed. There he sat, huddled in his chair, the little black shawl with its narrow green stripe over his shoulders. He seemed so alone, so disconsolate, so forsaken, sitting there. I stopped from behind and kissed his dear bald head, and a tear must have caressed him too, for he sat up suddenly, exclaiming, "Who kissed me then?"

"I did, dear Uncle," said Minia.
"No, it was not you. Who, then, kissed me?"
"Shall I get you some water?"

Cornelia Otis Skinner on 'Evenings at Eight'

Author and actress Cornelia Otis Skinner will present a two-part program of "Modern Monologues" and "The Wives of Henry VIII" at 8 p. m. Friday in the Long Beach City College auditorium, Harvey Way near Clark Ave.

General admission tickets will be available at the box office Friday night for those who are not "Evenings at Eight" season subscribers.

Miss Skinner, author of several whimsical books on her theatrical and lecture-circuit experiences, also writes all the material for her character sketches, monologues and "monodramas." Her six-scene study of the women in the life of Henry VIII is the result of intense historical research.

MISS SKINNER re-creates the quite differing personalities of Henry's six wives—Catherine of Aragon, Ann Boleyn, Jane Seymour, Anne of Cleves, Kathryn Howard and Katherine Parr. She also invokes the presence of the willful and self-indulgent monarch who divorced two of his wives and had two of them beheaded.

Next program in the current "Evenings at Eight" season will present Carlos Montoya, flamenco guitarist, on Nov. 28.

Youth Concerts Slated

Organist to Initiate AGO Series

A free Youth Concert will be given at Millikan High School Auditorium Saturday by the Long Beach Symphony. Craig Nies, gifted 13-year-old pianist, will be soloist. Craig completed in the summer auditions for young artists conducted by the Symphony Association and Long Beach Music Teachers' Association. One of the youngest performers ever invited to appear with the 90-piece orchestra, he will play the "Hungarian Fantasy" by Liszt.

Lauris Jones will conduct the orchestra. The program, "Music From Many Lands," includes music from France, Germany, Italy and Russia. Jones will tell something about each piece before it is played.

THERE will be two performances. The first, at 10 a. m. is for fourth, fifth and sixth grade boys and girls. The second, at 11 o'clock is for junior and senior high school students.

Parents and friends of children may bring groups of young people and stay with them for the concert. If they wish to do so, any adult may attend if accompanied by a child.

The concert is the first in a series sponsored by Long Beach Symphony Association and presented with the cooperation of the Long Beach Unified School District. Funds are provided through the generosity of Local 353 and the Recording Industries Trust Fund of the American Federation of Musicians.

Peeters is organist at the Metropolitan Cathedral in Mechelen, Belgium, and also director of the Royal Flemish Conservatory in Antwerp. Among his recent achievements was the world premiere of his "Magnificat" for organ and brass dedicated to Roger Wagner and performed by the Roger Wagner Chorale at the National Convention of the American Guild of Organists held in Los Angeles in July.

Peeters won the Grand Prix for interpretation and composition from the Lemmens Institute at Malines at the age of 20. His prominence in church music led to his being featured organist at such occasions as the dedication of the new four-manual organ in the Metropolitan Cathedral of Manila where he performed his own "Mass of St. Joseph."

AT LBSC
American composer Roy Harris will speak Monday at 8 p. m. in Long Beach State College Little Theater. His wife, concert pianist Johana Harris, will play Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. There is no charge for either program, first events in the college's Evenings on Campus series.

Among the 34 pieces on display will be a gold dagger found on the mummy of King Tut-Ankh-Amun, who was buried more than 3,000 years ago; jewelry of the Pharaoh, miniature coffins, gold, alabaster and jeweled ornaments.

The treasures were discovered in the fabled "Valley of the Kings" in 1922 by Lord Carnarvon and Howard Carter.

The tour is designed to spotlight the enormous salvage program sponsored by UNESCO for the Nubian monuments threatened by the Aswan Dam Project.

Dames Are Drawn to Dance

Once upon a time there was a little girl named Cinderella (Mrs. Jim Gardner) who sat in a dusty corner and depended on a fairy godmother and mouse-power (Mmes. Milton Cantor, left, and Douglas Benwell) relies on a good couturier and horse power to get where she's going. And that's what Dames Club members suggest you do when they urge you and your prince charming to join them in playing the night away Nov. 10 at Petroleum Club. WHY GROW OLD?

Trick-Treat Diet Helps Maintain Ideal Weight

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Obesity is no longer just a cosmetic problem. It is a number one health problem. Too many pounds are the friends of heart and vascular diseases, high blood pressure, diabetes, hardening of the arteries and other disabilities, especially those so prevalent from middle age on.

There is dependable evidence that it is important for us to remain at our ideal weight all through our lives. This does not mean "average" weight since most folks gain weight as they grow older.

As most of my readers know, I have been offering my Trick and Treat Diet this week. It gives you a loss of about five pounds in seven days. Here are the menus for the final day.

BREAKFAST

One-half grapefruit, one teaspoon sugar
One slice toast, very lightly buttered
Two slices crisp bacon
Coffee, one teaspoon sugar

DINNER

Consomme with parsley
Celery and carrot sticks
One-half medium broiler (one to one-half pound chicken, or one, good slice roasted chicken)
One medium baked potato seasoned with salt and parsley
One-half cup cole slaw
Peaches, two halves, one tablespoon syrup

SUPPER
Egg omelet (with one teaspoon butter)
Eight ounces skim milk
Three salines

IF YOU would like to have this complete diet in a convenient booklet, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Merlene Fage Is Bride-Elect

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd S. Fage, Lakewood, announce the engagement of their daughter, Merlene Dee, to Lawrence Ben Powell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albin M. Powell, Long Beach.

No date has been set for the wedding.

The bride-elect is an alumna of Lakewood High School. Her fiancé, a graduate of Jordan, attends Long Beach City College.

Honor 'Woman of the Year'

Mrs. Earl Burns Miller Thursday was named "Woman of the Year" by Rick Rackers, Junior Auxiliary of Assistance League, at the annual autumn brunch in the home of Mrs. Eugene R. Kirkpatrick, 1491 Bryant Drive.

The choice had been a closely guarded secret until Mrs. C. Robert Langslet, Rick Racker chairman, awarded the honorary title to Mrs. Miller before an audience of smartly gowned guests.

Slender, blonde, blue-eyed Mrs. Miller is modest about her accomplishments. But as Mrs. Langslet reviewed her activities—reported by friends and co-workers—they comprised a cross-section of philanthropic, cultural, civic, educational and humanitarian work in the community.

★ ★ ★
ANOTHER high light of the brunch was introduction of the 1962-63 edition of the Rick Racker Reporter, edited by Mrs. Ray Green.

This eighth annual publication gives valuable coverage to major women's clubs of the city, listing events, aims, officers, philanthropies and other pertinent facts.

Proceeds from its sale are used for the Assistance League Girls Clubs of Long Beach.

Honored guests for the day included former recipients of the "Woman of the Year" award: Mmes. Everett M. Findlay, Gail C. Hudson, Burton C. Chace, Walter H. Case, A. A. Carrey, Llewellyn Bixby Jr., and Ivah B. Eaton.

Other special guests were Mrs. Don Murphy, Assistance League president, and presidents of philanthropic organizations.

RICK RACKERS' newest "Woman of the Year," who resides with her husband at 250 Bennett Ave., is widely-known as a poet, and author of plays and pageants which have been staged frequently in this area. Her "California Saga" has been presented at the Santa Barbara Festival and throughout the state.

Currently, at the request of Long Beach Historical Society, she is working on a series of dramatic episodes about Los Cerritos Rancho. They are slated for future production.

★ ★ ★
IN 1933 SHE collaborated with the composer, Dr. Joseph W. Clokey, writing the words for an Easter cantata, "Adoramus Te." It has been sung by choirs across the nation and last Palm Sunday was performed by Calvary Presbyterian Church here.

Mrs. Miller is a nationally-recognized authority on Wedgwood ware and is an expert on Assistance League's Howard Art Collection.

Former president of Opera Reading Club and of Chapter BD, PEO, she has served on the board of Ebell Club, was a Gray Lady and assisted in setting up the first local civilian blood bank at Seaside Memorial Hospital.

A CHARTER MEMBER of Assistance League and

one of the original sponsors of Rick Rackers, she has served the league in many capacities.

A founder of the Volunteer Auxiliary to Seaside Hospital, she was elected president of the organization in 1960, which now serves Memorial Hospital. In addition to official duties she has donated more than 1,900 working hours in the hospital.

In September she was asked to be a sponsor of the newly-organized Memorial Dames, made up of wives of hospital interns.

Mrs. Miller's interest in young people is demonstrated by her work with Volunteers, an organization of teen-age boys and girls, sponsored by the Volunteer Auxiliary.

Recalls a friend, "Her life has reflected a statement she made many years ago: 'One must give of oneself in service.'"

Smart Luck Only Kind

North's hand was full of point count, but it really wasn't too good. Doubleton queen-jacks often aren't worth more than two small cards and that is just what happened to his club honors.

West cashed the ace and king of clubs and shifted to the ten of diamonds. East's ace took dummy's queen and the jack was returned.

Dummy won with the king and after trumps were drawn South played his ace of hearts. West's singleton king dropped and South claimed the balance.

There is no question, but that South was lucky. On the other hand, there was nothing dumb about it. It was smart luck.

SOUTH missed the ten-nine-eight of hearts as well as the king and deuce.

If he went over to dummy and led the queen of hearts he would have to lose a heart trick irrespective of who had the king or how many times it was guarded.

There was only one way for South to make his contract and that was to play for a singleton king.

South gave the cards a chance to work for him.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

What happens when you lose all feeling for your mate? Yet you don't believe in divorce because it's against your religion, except for adultery? And there are no children involved.

My wife is driving me to becoming frigid. She is frigid and it's catching. She loves to start arguments with me, and who would want to love a shrill-tongued shrew?—NERVOUS WRECK

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My husband says he has lost all feeling for me. I found his letter and I am enclosing it with mine.

There has been much unhappiness. At first he drank. And he has always been rough.

When I tried to divorce him, his sister hit me in court. She dug up everything she could find in the past (I have been married three times) and tried to run me out of town.

I have worked from 10 to 18 hours a day trying to help financially. I have lost all I saved on account of his family. Doctors have said my nervous breakdown was brought on by his family. —NERVOUS WRECK

DEAR MR. AND MRS.:

Finding some kind of flame when you are both frigid won't come easy. But if each of you would look at this through the other's eyes, you might spark a flicker at least.

You have charge and counter charge. Put yourself in the other's shoes and I think you can find a way to stop the pinch.—M.M.

Mr. and Mrs. Derrall W. Call announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Ann, to Neil Norman Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Meyer.

The wedding will take place Dec. 16 at the home of the bride-to-be's parents in the presence of members of the two families and close friends.

The bridegroom-to-be is a graduate of Millikan High School. He attended Long Beach City College before transferring to Long Beach State College. He is affiliated with Sigma Pi.

Degree of Honor Schedules Events

SUNDAY

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Some educated people say that society is to blame for our criminals. That poverty, slums, discrimination, poor education, etc. is what produces crime.

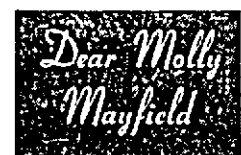

I've always been poor. I still am. I always had to work for my living. I drive an old car and live in a poor section of the city. I come from a large family that barely filled our tummies, let alone the cupboard. I never had much schooling and went barefoot most of my younger years.

I have never maimed any man or wanted to kill, rape or conk somebody on the head to rob him. I never resorted to dope to make my existence bearable. And there are millions like me.

So, is society responsible or are the criminals themselves responsible for anti-social behavior?—J.C.R.

DEAR J.C.R.:

You've stated a case for society and against the individual rather well. But which factor is primarily to blame, who can tell. That crime increases per capita is increasingly evident. And that society is increasingly more sophisticated we won't question.

Perhaps our conquest of outer space will ease the criminal's claustrophobia. One can hope.—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

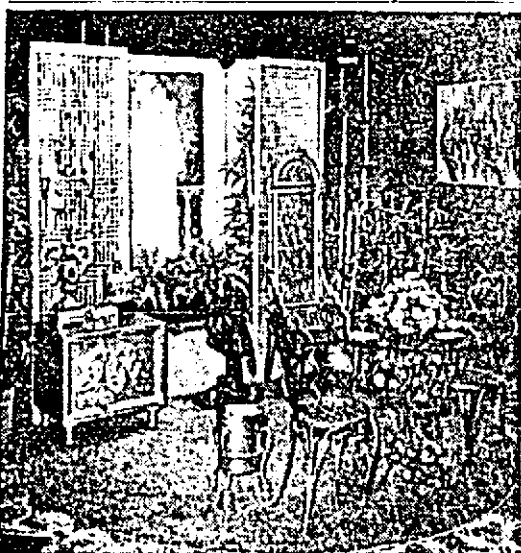

What do you think of a wife who sends her husband cards? Cute little ones that say, "Come up and see me some time, I give stamps." Or holiday cards that say, "You're all the celebration I need." Or get-well cards when he's not even sick?

He seems to really love her in spite of this.

—NEIGHBOR.

DEAR NEIGHBOR:

I think she's a perfect doll that can bring any man to life. More wives should care enough to give stamps. Even with the postal price rise.—M.M.

Past Should Be Forgotten

DEAR ABBY: I work in a store and became friendly with a customer who used to confide in me. One day he told me he was in love with a beautiful, wonderful girl and was going to marry her. When he brought her into the store for me to meet, I was dumbfounded. She was beautiful, but far from wonderful. I had known this girl for years and she had a terrible past. Thinking she might have changed, I offered my best wishes and said nothing. He married her and she had not changed. My friend discovered it too late and he took his own life. I feel that I am responsible because had I told him the truth he might not have married her. I failed him, Abby, and my heart is heavy with guilt.—J.

DEAR J.: Perhaps he would have married her anyway. You did what you thought was right at the time. Do not blame yourself.

DEAR ABBY: Our son attends College Park High School. His girl friend attends Pleasant Hill. College Park plays Pleasant Hill for their homecoming game. Does our son sit on the girl's side or should she sit on his side?—CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Your son sits with his classmates, and his date sits with him.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 13-year-old stepson whose table manners are revolting! His father yells at me if I correct him or criticize him in any way. The worst part of it is that his father doesn't even notice how dirty the boy's hands are. The boy goes a whole day without washing them. He plays with the dog and then comes right to the dinner table.—MRS. X.

DEAR MRS. X.: It shouldn't matter whether this boy is a stepson or of your own blood and bone. He should be taught cleanliness. Announce that everyone must come to the table with clean hands or he can eat alone. And stick to it... if YOU have to eat by yourself in the kitchen.

DEAR ABBY: I think our postal service is disgusting. My father has ordered several things through the mail and when they arrive they are either bent, broken or cracked. Several people in our neighborhood have the same complaint.—DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: Don't blame the postal system. Packages must be properly WRAPPED in order to be delivered in good condition.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Halloween Ghosts Create Dye Scare

Mom's may get their biggest scare Halloween not from little ghosts and goblins but the damage left in their wake.

Cheaply dyed Halloween costumes and crepe paper decorations can cause permanent stains on rugs and carpets.

According to technicians of the National Institute of Rug Cleaning, the danger is especially great on rainy, autumn evenings.

Fugitive dyes found in these costumes and decorations are almost always indelible after transferred to textiles. They become permanent when allowed to dry.

WHEN A STAIN is discovered, they recommend immediate first-aid action.

Mix a teaspoonful of neutral soapless detergent in one-half pint of lukewarm water. Apply solution directly to stain with an eye dropper a few drops at a time.

Blot the stained area with clean, white unstarched cloth or cleansing tissue, beginning at the outer edge and working toward the center. Repeat, if necessary, remembering to blot rather than rub.

Finish by absorbing moisture completely since poor drying may cause a water stain. Place clean, unstarched towels or a half-inch thickness of cleaning tissues on the area.

Weight the blotting material down so it remains in constant contact with dampened area and leave in place until the spot is completely dry.

Schools Should Not Have Fire Hazards

By Richmond Barbour, Ph.D.

Are your children safe from fire while they're at school? We'll have at least 2,000 school fires this year. That's a lot of conflagrations. School fire season is ahead. Will you check the fire precautions at your children's school? Do it soon.

Are fire drills held frequently? There should be at least one drill a month. They should come at unscheduled times, without warning. The drills should be varied by blocking different exits from time to time.

Are the outside doors at your school fitted with "panic bolts"? They're the metal gadgets with a bar across the door which open when pressed hard. Are the panic bolts in working order? Or are they chained shut? Sometimes careless custodians chain doors shut to keep kids from hanging in and out.

ARE THE stairways kept clear? Is anything burnable stored on or near them? Are there at least two ways for

Bert's Baked Bass Better Than Bubbling Batter

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I, P-T Food Editor

He got in on the ground floor at an early age and is tops today in "understanding" of what goes below. Chef of the Week Burton S. Galleher has been selling hardwood flooring since 1919. He owns the Galleher Hardwood Company.

A Nebraskan by birth, Atkinson, Neb., and then Stuart where he taught school for two years, Galleher decided at the age of 19 that he had outgrown the boundaries of that state—so he left. In South Dakota, his next stop, he had his first taste of the lumber business.

Colorado came next on his itinerary—not, however, before he married a Nebraska girl. That was in 1912, the year her parents came to Chino. A year later the Gallehers followed. Long Beach beckoned them in 1914 and he, quite naturally, joined another lumber company.

Five years later he and a partner, Jim Reid, bought the hardwood flooring department of the Haywood Lumber and Investment Co. That partnership lasted until 1930, when he started his present company.

GALLEHER HAS a profound interest in youth work. With four daughters and 11 grandchildren, (six boys and five girls), he surely has the proper mental stimuli. The Boy Scouts come in for much of his enthusiasm, he being a member of the Boy Scouts 100 Club. Nothing, absolutely nothing, could take precedence over its annual dinner with the boys.

A member of Virginia Country Club, Galleher is also a charter member, 1919 vintage, of the Kiwanis Club of Long Beach.

He makes a practice of touring golf links at least two or three times a week, but has about decided to give-it-all-up in favor of bowling. (He's a member of the now famous Kiwanis Bowling team, you know.) Galleher is an avid gardener, too—especially in the realm of roses and dahlias.

He loves to fish and can hold his own in a game of gin rummy. While he has been called the "neatest man around the house," his aim at an ash tray is rather remiss. In that respect, he could compete with Winston Churchill.

AND, SPEAKING of fishing, our "chefs" recipe today is his own innovation—Baked Bass for Campers. He and five confirmed buddies are well known at Lake Mead for their fishing from a converted LST named "Dumbo." It's their pride and joy. The LST—not the bass.

Galleher's baked version of bass is rather recent. Formerly he fried it. However, that recipe meant rolling the fish in cornmeal. Well... one time the cornmeal turned out to be White King Soap Powder. That bass simply bubbled all over the campground, so he changed the recipe. The baking procedure is fool-proof, we assure you.

BAKED BASS FOR CAMPERS

Reserve large bass for this overnight cooking.

At night, clean fish and remove head. Season inside and out with salt and pepper and spread with margarine. Roll each fish separately in waxed paper, folding ends in, and wrap in thick wet newspaper.

Dig a trench for each fish just deep enough to allow ONE inch of earth on top. Bury bundles and build campfire over trenches and leave until breakfast time.

TRICK OR TREAT ON BEHALF OF UNICEF

Two Long Beach State groups will be trick-or-treating Wednesday, but their Halloween activities are for the benefit of kids around the world.

One is the group with the catchy name—ACE (Association for Childhood Education) who don costumes for a door-to-door campaign with proceeds to UNICEF.

Also engaged in collecting financial goodies for UNICEF are members of Spurs, women's national sophomore honorary. The girls continue their drive to aid the underprivileged with a three-day sale of UNICEF Christmas cards Nov. 6, 7, and 8. You can obtain these attractive reminders of the holiday season at the LBSC bookstore and five other campus locations.

Delta Gamma news notes: Lynne Davis, DG pledge, is the honorary pledge of this year's Phi Kappa Tau fraternity pledge class... homecoming is past, but the satisfaction still lingers 'cause Queen Connie Sonntag and Princess Judy Krenwinkel are Delta Gammas... sorority members should have even a better idea of what goes on in student government: Phyllis Mouw is now the secretary to AS prexy, Gary Little.

WE NOTE with interest that the recently received newsletters of Wesley Foundation and SAM (Society for the Advancement of Management) both carry out our college's California Gold Rush theme: Wesley's goes by the name "Assayer," and SAM's is "Mineshaft." For "Mineshaft," it was Volume I, No. 1, and the wheel organ- ized first issue promises great things for future publications, "Assayer," which came to our desk with regularity last year, is again chock full of information. We salute it, editor Carolyn Jorgenson, and Wesley Foundation for a low key but high efficiency presentation of WF news.

Looks like Alpha Phi sorority is pulling the wool over the eyes of those cotton pickin' judges. Both Long Beach candidates for the state Maid of Cotton title (to be determined in two weeks at Fresno) wear the AP pin: Ralaine Ramer, representing Long Beach State, and Barbara Lundell, representing Port of Long Beach.

PHI BETA (women's speech, drama, and music group) is four members richer after Janet Bates, Yvonne Divans, Gina Hagen, and Marie Roberts were pledged in recent ceremonies. PB is another group active on the Halloween scene: members will take children from a nearby orphanage trick-or-treating.

Quickie Calendar for the LBSC Little Theater: Tonight, 5 and 7:30 p.m.: Foreign Films — "The Roof"; Monday at 8 p.m., Roy Harris, noted American composer, "My Experiences as a Composer"; Tuesday, 8:30 p.m., pianist Johana Harris in concert.

ON COVER:

Men and women whose big interests are money—old coins, that is—will converge on Long Beach Thursday for a four-day, semiannual session of the California State Numismatic Convention. They'll come from practically all points of California and from many cities of the United States and Canada. Cover girl Lois Stevens of Long Beach looks over a layout of valuable old coins—such as the Saint Gaudens Double Eagle or $20 gold piece at top of glass. Among others shown: Spanish milled dollar, Great Britain 1887 dollar, Peru 1 sol, 1795 bust-type silver dollar—a controversial coin, one of which sold in 1960 for $28,000, and the Liberty head $20 gold piece. Coin in center is a 1795 silver dollar, first dollar-size coin minted in the United States. More about coins and collectors on Page 7.

You Ask, We Answer

By Haskin

Q. What is the name of the poison in poisonous mushrooms? What causes it? A. J.

A. There is no one toxic substance common to all poisonous fungi. Closely related species may contain quite different poisons, and a single species may have more than one kind. The poisons are products of the plants' metabolism and may be waste products which have accumulated in their cells. The various poisons affect different parts of the human body—some acting on nerve centers, others affecting the digestive system. The same poison may have different effects on different people, and many animals eat with safety fungi which have toxic effects on mankind.

Q. In the 1961 national poll of favorite hymns, what were the top 10 favorites? R. S.

A. The National Newspaper Hymn Poll, conducted from July 15 to Oct. 10, 1961, showed the following hymns and gospel songs leading the list: (1) The Old Rugged Cross, (2) How Great Thou Art, (3) What a Friend We Have in Jesus, (4) In the Garden, (5) Amazing Grace, (6) Rock of Ages, (7) Sweet Hour of Prayer, (8) Abide With Me, (9) Beyond the Sunset, (10) Whispering Hope.

Q. How do bacteria reproduce? C. T.

A. Each bacterium splits, and in doing so forms two new bacteria. These in turn, split after a certain time—each forming two new ones. In some types a new generation appears as often as every 15 minutes.

Q. Before the invention of sonar, how many soundings had been taken of ocean depths? R. G.

A. About 15,000, or roughly one for every 6,000 square miles. The first successful sounding of ocean depths was obtained by Sir James Clark Ross in the Pacific Ocean in 1839. Using a heavy hemp line over four miles long, he obtained a sounding of 2,425 fathoms, which he described as "very little short of the elevation of Mont Blanc." Sounding was done by dropping to the bottom a long sounding line marked in fathoms—a long, laborious task. Even when equipment was improved, a sounding required several hours or sometimes an entire day.

Q. Please define "poundal." E. L.

A. The poundal is a unit of force in the foot-pound-mass-second system. One poundal is the force which will impart an acceleration of one foot per second to a mass of one pound.

EVERYBODY enjoys a turkey feast at Thanksgiving time — especially if it's outdoors and has a first flavor.

In the shaded plaza of Pilgrim Place at Claremont — home of 280 retired Christian Workers—the celebrated turkey comes on, steaming in king-size baking dishes,

On Sunday and Monday, Nov. 9-10, several thousand visitors will enjoy this luncheon in a turn-back-the-clock New England atmosphere. The occasion is the annual two-day Pilgrim Festival with bazaar, conducted tours, and the presentation of an hour long out-door historical pageant, "Pilgrims Triumphant."

Pilgrim Place, a 28-acre plot of homes, established in 1924, is located at the corner of Harrison and Berkley Avenues in Claremont, 50 miles from Long Beach via Long Beach and San Bernardino Freeways.

VISITORS WILL SEE dozens of elderly citizens, youthful in traditional Pilgrim garb, moving about the bazaar tables, waiting on customers. All wares on display — jams and jellies, cakes and candies, dolls, needlework, Oriental art, — are made by residents of Pilgrim Place. The women—modern Priscillas in colorful costumes — look like May flowers, walking. The John Aldens, in black and gray costumes with buckles and high hats, scout through the crowds to lend a helpful hand. Many chores are involved in carrying out this yearly benefit.

Even as Gov. Bradford in the early Pilgrim colony solved problems as they arose, so this unique community of senior citizens meets its needs. When an alert administrator, a discerning board of directors and generous cash gifts get together every problem gets full attention.

Caring for the physical

Residents of Pilgrim Place, costumed for their yearly festival, bazar and pageant, board modern Mayflower.

needs of the ailing is the simplest problem of all. On the premises are a well-equipped rest home and an infirmary. In the near future, "The Lodge"—a 20-room home, accommodating couples unable to carry the physical burden of housekeeping — will be ready for occupancy.

Needs of the many active trained men and women, desiring to work part-time also demand attention. Administrator Herkelrath says, "One of the greatest problems of stopping of one's lifetime retirement is the abrupt work. It's important to bridge that gap."

AND THE GAP has been bridged. Aside from recreational facilities for fun games and hobbies, the institution encourages its qualified lodgers to perform outside tasks, like part-time teaching in one of the nearby colleges, church and social club work, lectures, crafts and dramatics. Then there is always gardening and yard work to be done. The 130 attractive homes, all differently styled, show good care and upkeep.

As pedestrians, a close-up view of these houses presents a problem, for 28 acres of winding streets means endless walking.

The solution is an interesting, 4-wheeled conveyance (see photo) in the Mayflower mood.

To a few, Pilgrim Place means a safe haven, after turbulent past experiences — jungle mission work in Africa, earthquakes in Turkey, riots in Calcutta, imprisonment in Japan.

To all living there, it spells a contentment, born of gratitude.

Scene of humiliation and moment of discipline: This bit is from "Pilgrims Triumphant," Claremont pageant.

Numismatists open Long Beach

Rare Money? Here's All Kinds of It!

By Charles M. Johnson

A FORTUNE in loose change may be rattling around in your pocket! Not long ago a collection of old coins was sold at public auction in Los Angeles. A 1913 U. S. nickel was knocked down to the highest bidder—for $40,000! An 1804 U. S. dollar brought $29,000 and an 1866 quarter was purchased by a happy collector for $24,500!

If you aren't a numismatist—fancy word for coin collector—you may not know that collectors will pay $150 for a 1909S vdb uncirculated or a 1914D Lincoln cent. (S means it was minted in San Francisco, and vdb are the initials of the designer on the reverse side. D means it was minted in Denver. If a U. S. coin bears no initial, it was minted in Philadelphia.)

California Diamond Jubilee half dollar of 1925. Value today, $10.

A 1939D nickel uncirculated brings $40, and a half-dollar of the same date issued in Philadelphia brings $12.

These figures, of course, presuppose that the coins are in first-class condition. If they are battered, they do not bring so much.

COIN COLLECTORS and dealers from all over California and different sections of the U. S. and Canada will converge on Long Beach Thursday for the four-day 31st semiannual California State Numismatic Convention in the grand ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel, 140 Linden Ave.

Amateur and professional collectors and students of numismatics will bring all kinds of coins, paper money, tokens and medals. In addition to exhibits, the program calls for a coin auction where collectors may bid upon and buy for their collections. Dealers will buy and sell coins. Speakers will talk about coins, and a banquet and entertainment will close the convention. Specimens for sale are described in a large convention catalogue.

All exhibits and activities will be open to the public each day and evening. Hours will be 10 a. m. to 11 p. m. Thursday and Friday; 10 a. m. to 7 p. m. and 9 p. m. to midnight Saturday; 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. Sunday.

SPONSORING CLUB will be the Long Beach Coin Club, of which William Wisslead is president. The club, with 200 members, meets at 7:30 p. m. the first Tuesday of each month in the Recreation Department Building, Ocean Boulevard and Elm Way.

The California Numismatic Assn., a nonprofit, hobby organization, holds

Among coin collectors, one of the busiest is William W. Wisslead, Long Beach Coin Club president and co-chairman of a numismatists' convention.

This commemorative half dollar was struck in honor of the Oregon Trail and those who traveled it. It is one of most attractive commemoratives.

Not a magician's fake but a Washington "boo-boo." One sheet of these bills with $5 on one side and $10 on the other got out into general circulation.

Even though there is a saying, "Queer as a three-dollar bill," there were such notes prior to 1862, issued by individual backers, not by government.

Pretty young soprano, winner of opera honors, Carol Todd is pictured at home with her daughters, Kim, 7; Kathy, 3. Carol was raised in Long Beach.

By Bette Tyler

A FEW WEEKS ago a young singer stood on the giant stage in San Francisco's venerable War Memorial House and accepted the ringing plaudits of thousands of spectators who had just witnessed her victory in the national finals of the 1962 San Francisco Opera auditions. For soprano Carol Todd, a 27-year-old performer born and raised in Long Beach, the moment marked the greatest personal triumph of her brief career.

If there was any question as to whether or not Carol Todd had "arrived" it was quickly dispelled when Kurt Herbert Adler, general director of the San Francisco Opera Company, extended to the pretty soprano a contract engaging her services for the 1962 season. The San Francisco Opera Company is easily one of the two finest such organizations in the Western Hemisphere.

Probably the greatest pride in Carol's success was felt in Long Beach. Her father, Otto E. Taylor, of 2468 Linden Ave., who recently retired from the Long Beach Fire Department following 35 years of active service, had particular cause to beam.

"There never has been any doubt in my mind that Carol's voice would some day be appreciated on a large scale," Taylor says. "Carol has always been musical and both her mother and myself always encouraged her. When she was just a little snip of a thing at Burnett Elementary School, she learned to play piano and read music. Later, when she was going to Hamilton Junior High School, she studied cello. She was darn good at it, too. Finally, when she got to Poly High, she decided that she wanted to learn to sing."

THE LATTER decision has proved a happy one for anyone who has ever heard Miss Todd sing. In recent months alone, she has captured two of the highest honors in her field, having appeared on numerous television programs and starred with virtually every major opera company in California. Her dual national awards include the forementioned San Francisco conquest which had been preceded by her capture of the New York Met Special Award in Los Angeles.

Carol's success is particularly gratifying in light of the fact that she also has an important commitment as a wife and mother. In her non-professional moments, she is Mrs. Tod Faulkner of Studio City—wife of a Beverly Hills public relations executive and mother of two daughters, Kim, 7, and Katherine, nearly 3.

"People ask why I use the name 'Carol Todd' as a singer. Actually," claims Carol, "it was my husband's idea. He represents me as agent and personal manager and discovered that it's far easier to represent me if our names are different. This way, he can operate more effectively and avoid giving the impression that he's a biased husband rather than an objective representative."

HOW DOES CAROL'S family feel about their wife and mother trodding the boards?

"We're naturally very proud of her," says Tod. "She manages somehow to meet all her responsibilities head-on without one career encroaching or interfering with the other.

Carol recently won the national finals of the San Francisco Opera auditions.

"Although Kathy is really too young to have formed any definite opinions of her mother being a singer, Kim's a big fan and tries to attend every performance in which Carol is involved. For instance, Kim is probably the only 7-year-old around who ever sat through seven straight performances of the New York City Ballet." (Carol vocally supported the ballet company when it recently presented "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Greek Theater.)

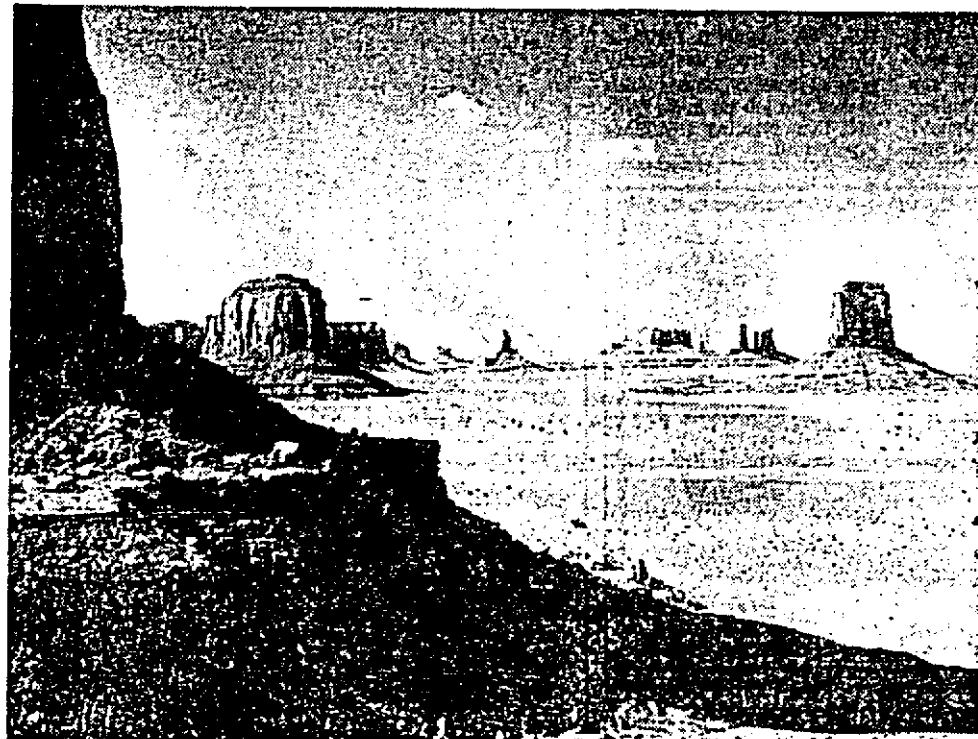

Another interesting aspect of Carol's life is that, while not married to a musician, the professions of the two still blend.

"My job of representing television shows and motion picture personalities at a national level also provides me with an opportunity to make an occasional contribution to Carol's ca-

Monument Valley is a vast land of beauty and mystery, defying man's feeble attempts to describe in the inadequacy of words. This is a view from North Window, showing red sandstone statues casting blue shadows.

Mitten Buttes offer unlimited interest for shutterbugs in a fantastic land.

*Land of Space Enough,
Time Enough,
Scenery More Than Enough*

Monument Valley

By E. C. McCrimmon

SIX HUNDRED miles northeast of Long Beach is Monument Valley, one of the most spectacular but least known places in the United States—a land of space enough, time enough and scenery more than enough.

Monument Valley Navajo Tribal Park is a 40x50-mile square in the middle of the Navajo Indian Reservation. Part in southern Utah, part in northern Arizona, the state lines cut it in half.

Brilliantly colored monoliths rise above a high desert plateau. "From broad, vertically scored cliffs to slender needles of rock, a constantly changing spectacle is unfolded. So level is the valley floor that the evening sun casts the shadow of The Totem Pole 35 miles over the desert." Made of harder material than the surrounding ground, wind and weather have carved these gigantic stones into fantastic shapes.

A GOOD ROAD, Highway 47, traverses it. The route from the south is by way of Tuba City, then east to Kayenta, Ariz.; from there north on Navajo Route 18 to the park access road. The season is year around but this country is especially lovely in the fall. Camping is allowed but travelers should bring their own supplies, fuel and water.

A couple of miles west of the main road is Goulding's Trading Post where there are motel accommodations, jeeps and horses, the latter to seek out ancient cave dwellings. During the moving of some tribes this land was thrown open for entry. Harry Goulding and his wife "Mike" homesteaded a section of land, one square mile. They piped their water from five miles away. Since then they provided land for an Indian clinic run by the Seventh-day Adventists.

The first colored outdoor moving picture, "Stagecoach," was filmed here. And descendants of the Navajos that Kit Carson rounded up in Canon du Chelly, made money by acting in a movie about him.

Going from the Grand Canyon to Monument Valley one might see a squaw weaving a blanket on the banks of the Little Colorado, a family group of Indians with an infant on a cradle board, a buck wearing silver and turquoise jewelry, or a woman in a red silk waist and a crimson velvet skirt lying in the shade of a wall.

IN THE VALLEY itself an Indian

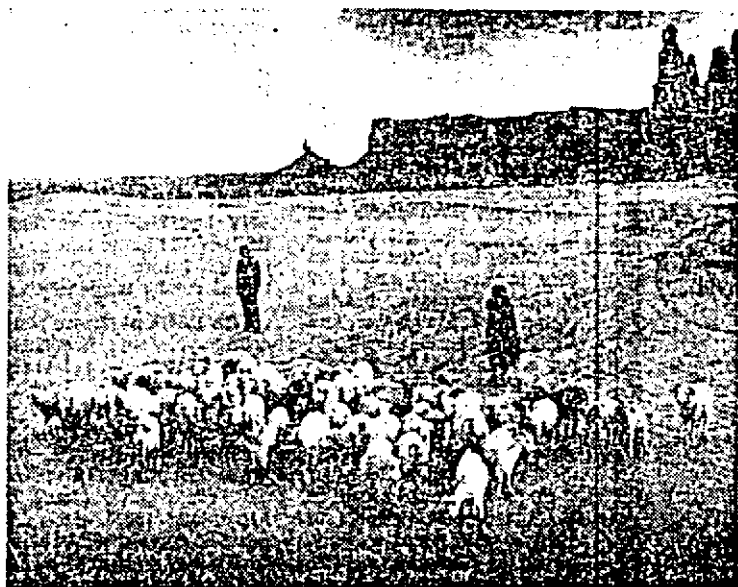

girl may tend a flock of sheep mixed with goats.

The first impressive monuments are the Elephant's Feet, so large that a man looks like a fly speck beside them. Further along is the Owl. On the west side are Castle Rock and Setting Hen. The buttes and spires that extend to the east include the Emperor, the Stagecoach, the Bear and the Rabbit, facing each other; the Big Chief and Brigham's Tomb. When viewed from the side or rear these may just look like a pile of rocks.

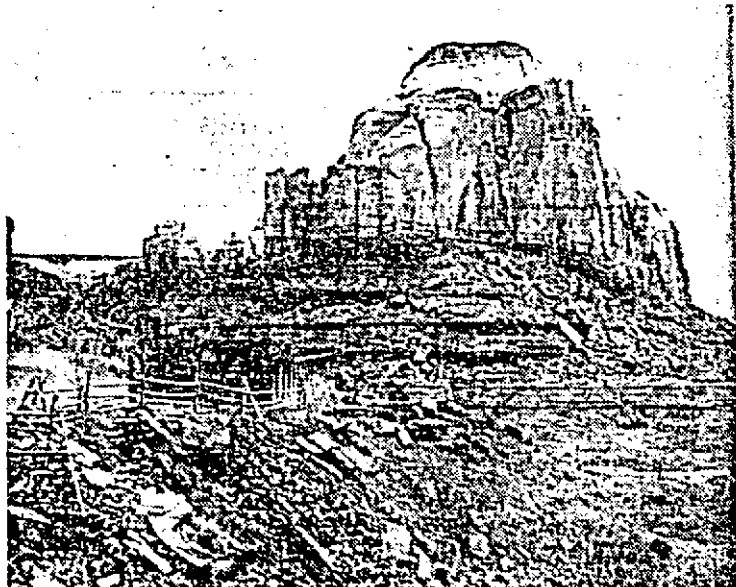

Merrick Butte and Mitchell Butte are visible. These were named for two silver prospectors who lost their lives there.

Four miles to the east the government has built a handsome, modern observatory, staffed by young Navajo college men. Authentic blankets and

Formations, colors of rocks and sky, cloud effects, shadows and vast distances all join in making Monument Valley a paradise for photographers.

Water is piped from five miles away to make possible this homestead set in Monument Valley. A monolith is the backdrop for this far-off dwelling.

Grow Peonies

Peonies are not as widely grown in California as they deserve to be. There are two types—tree peonies and herbaceous peonies and the former do better here than the latter. Check with your nurseryman this month and ask him about peonies for your garden. In planting them, dig the soil deeply and work in plenty of steer manure before setting the plants out. Tree peonies (actually shrubs, not trees) are usually planted from containers which makes the job no more difficult than planting any other ornamental.

Swedish auto license plate of the 1920s is an interesting item in the unusual collection of Dale Holmes.

A Lot of License

By Vera Williams

MOST PERSONS are satisfied with one set of automobile license plates at a time.

Dale Holmes, 6935 Espanita St., has 800 plates! They're from all 50 states of the union, most Mexican provinces, most Western European countries. A few come from the Pacific Islands, some from South America. Oldest is a 1909 New Jersey license; next oldest a 1913 New Hampshire license.

License plates cover the walls of his garage, and now he is beginning to tack them to the rafters.

WHEN HOLMES, a laboratory technician at Garden Park Hospital, Anaheim, was a youngster in Encinitas, he acquired a 1931 New Mexico plate, then a North Dakota 1934, then a 1940 Nebraska plate.

"I got license plates in dribbles for years," he says, "Then a couple of years ago I joined the Auto License Plate Collectors Assn, which has 400 members in the United States, in Central and Western Europe, and one member in Japan. We talk plates and swap plates and help each other get plates."

Holmes has plates used on cars in the 1953 and 1957 inaugural parades, bearing pictures of Eisenhower and Nixon, and the 1961 inaugural parade plate which did not bear Kennedy's picture but could be used in any state of the Union in lieu of that state's own plate through the month of January 1961.

He has a plate issued to U. S. forces in Ethiopia in 1959, a plate issued to U. S. forces in Germany, a plate issued by the West Berlin government after the war, a plate issued by Florida to Seminole Indians, plates from most of the provinces of Bolivia.

HE HAS a special fondness for his Yukon Land of the Midnight Sun plate, bearing a miner shaking a pan of sand, a gold nugget gleaming in the sand. And he likes the Wyoming plate of bucking horse and rider. "Bill Gollings, Western artist, drew that design, I think," he says.

One of his most unusual plates is a Swedish plate of the early 1920s, a large S in an oval, with the number below it.

Several of the oldest plates have detachable numbers.

Some foreign plates are good for the lifetime of the car. Some are good for one ownership—if the car changes hands, the new owner gets a new license plate.

Holmes most would like to have a plate from every state, every year. And from EVERY province in Bolivia. "I already have more different Bolivian plates than any other member of the association," he said. He especially wants Pando and Beni plates from Bolivia.

"And hand-made plates. ANY handsome plates. Particularly California handmade plates, before they were turned out by machinery."

THE BANE of license plate collectors, he says, is stickers—the stickers we get every year in lieu of new plates.

The next bane is freeways. Why freeways?

"They cut through the farms where we used to find old license plates stored in barns, tool sheds, etc. . . . Some of my best plates came from a hog ranch. The owner had stacked them up and forgotten about them until I came along!"

Simple, casual elegance spreads throughout the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll King. Above, a view of living room.

Glass walls also are a feature of the family room which views a screened "hiki hut" facing rear point of the wedge-shaped property.

Careful and skillful design, inside and out, makes for gracious living in this home.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

A Design for

By Stella George

ROOMS THAT complement each other and achieve a continuing interest throughout the house are a feature of the gracious home of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll King, 5400 La Pasada St. The interior design was done by Chris Christensen.

The property is on a pie-shaped lot with the home winding around the wide area leaving the V end for the garden. The theme is contemporary with a slight Oriental accent, greatly emphasized with a separate tea room which overlooks the garden.

An entrance hall with a slate floor which leads to the living room on the right and the family room on the left, three steps up. The long living room, carpeted in white, seems almost a part of the patio and garden with a long glass wall opposite a stone fireplace. A customed, curved white couch is at the far end with a fitted table at the rear on one side. All the walls are paneled in mahogany, with one long beam across the center of the ceiling accenting the paneling and adding interest to the room.

Gracious Living

Screened hut in the background overlooks a waterfall and the garden, a quiet retreat in a serene dwelling.

The coffee table is mosaic tile. A color note is added with blue, copper and brown pillows on the sofa, touched again with fine paintings on the walls.

PLANTS are King's hobby and they are placed strategically throughout the rooms. They greatly add to the warmth and hominess of the house as well as becoming a decorating theme in themselves.

The dining room is beyond the living room. The set is birch, and the room has television in one corner. A shoji screen behind the buffet separates the room from the kitchen.

The carefully planned kitchen is done in mahogany, blond in tone and rich in appearance. Cupboards include a walk-in pantry with U-shaped shelves which are easy to reach. The beige formica on the work areas is carried up along the walls, lending a streamlined appearance to the kitchen as well as alleviating the problem of soiled walls.

THE DEN is artistically designed and furnished to take full advantage of the garden in the rear of the home. Two glass walls merge and, when drapes are drawn back, the garden is virtually a part of the room. A curved brown and beige silk couch faces the glass walls at the opposite corner.

The guest bedroom is done with turquoise accents in the bedspreads and drapes. The nearby bath is done in orange, with an attractive window treatment carrying out the bright color.

The master bedroom is cool and serene. The bedspread is champagne. A handsome mural is in back of the bed. The headboard is noteworthy: perhaps only a professional decorator such as Christensen would think of having the headboard match the cornice above the window and along the wide mirror in the adjoining bathroom, thus uniting the rooms as a suite.

ALTHOUGH the home is only about a year old, the garden is expertly landscaped. Full grown trees and shrubs were brought in so the garden has the rich appearance which, as a rule, only time will develop.

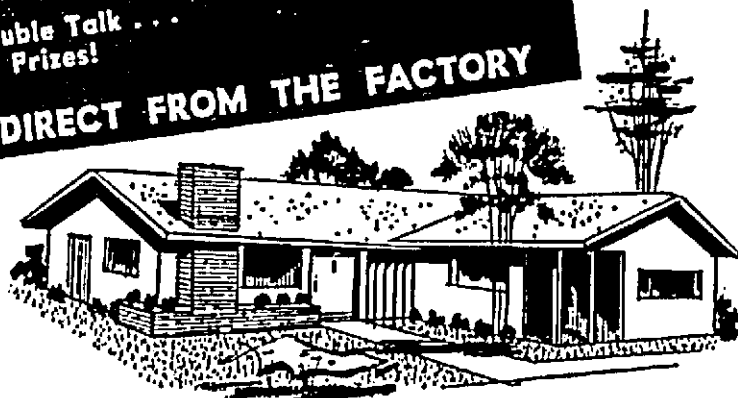

A screened-in tiki hut, elevated three steps the same as the family room, overlooks the garden. Near the hut is a waterfall which is kept running day and night. The quiet, restful atmosphere that prevails makes the visitor feel that he is in a country garden, miles from traffic and population.

This home for two is designed for quiet, gracious living and exemplifies the casual warmth inside and out for which fine homes in Southern California are noted.

MAINTAIN AND YOU

Simple Lung Test

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

TRY THIS TEST: Hold a lighted paper match three inches from your mouth. With mouth wide open—no pursed lips—try to blow out the flame.

If you can't do it, your MBC—maximal breathing capacity—is not up to standard and you should have your lungs checked.

Dr. C. Robert Olsen, La Jolla, of Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation, says the test enables the doctor to estimate quickly whether his patient with obstructive pulmonary disease has moderate or severe obstruction of the breathing passages.

The test is described in the American Review of Respiratory Disease.

ROUTINE LOW-FAT DIETS for persons with liver disease are unwarranted, a Syracuse, N. Y., researcher says.

Diets unrestricted in fat offer many advantages to the patient with hepatitis or cirrhosis of the liver, according to a report in the AMA Journal.

With a liberal fat allowance, diets are more palatable, for one thing. Recovery is more rapid in hepatitis (liver inflammation) and there is evidence of healing in patients with cirrhosis, the researcher reports.

DOCTORS ESTIMATE that only 20 per cent of babies born to women who took thalidomide have been afflicted with limb deformities.

A German physician, Dr. Walter J. Hirsch, offers this explanation:

Mothers who give birth to deformed babies after taking thalidomide appear to have a genetic (hereditary) tendency toward limb malformations.

In other words, Dr. Hirsch believes there is an interplay between genetic type and the drug.

Dr. Hirsch is medical director of the Municipal Psychiatric Children's Hospital in West Berlin.

Thalidomide, a sedative drug, is now off the market.

A RINGWORM ailment that bedeviled a patient for 42 years has been cured by the antifungal antibiotic griseofulvin, two physicians in the Philippines report.

The drug was given by mouth for five weeks.
Improvement in the condition began six days later.
By the ninth day the skin had cleared of eruptions, and itching had disappeared entirely, the doctors report in Archives of Dermatology.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Could you give brief genealogy on WYATT—D. W., Paramount.

D. W.: WYATT was adapted by the English in its original form Wyot, from the French name Guyot meaning "little warrior." In remote Wyatt ancestry, Henry Wyot owned land in Cambridge in 1273. Later records list William Wyatt of Devon, 1576. The Wyatts owned Allington Castle, built in 1282 in south English Kent for many generations. The coat-of-arms of this illustrious family has a pair of silver barnacles, instruments used to restrain horses during riding, on a red shield. Epitaphs from Milton, Mass., include "Here Lyes ye Body of Mary Wyat, wife to Edward Wyat aged 92 years died Feb. ye 6, 1705." This lady is mentioned in town records as being "instrumental for the bringing into the world" of 1,100 children in her occupation as midwife.

DEAR MISS RULE: Can you give data on MENDOZA.—J. R., Anaheim.

J. R.: MENDOZA, a widely known Spanish name, is from the Basque provinces of north-west Spain. This name is an extension of the ancient Basque word "Mendi" and means "from the mountains." The family coat-of-arms, held by the Portuguese Mendonca lineage, is a shield divided into four sections by an X-shaped cross. Two sections are gold, bordered with a diagonal red strips over a green background; the other sections have the words Ave Maria in blue on a gold background. Don Antonio de Mendoza was the Viceroy of New Spain (Latin America) in 1542.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you history on GREGORY?—M. L., I. G., Long Beach.

M. L., I. G.: GREGORY is an English version of the ancient Greek baptismal name Gregorios meaning "watchful one." Four saints named Gregory made the name greatly revered in the Middle Ages, especially in England, Elyas, son of Gregor, was an English taxpayer in 1273. The English Gregory coat-of-arms has two blue bars below a blue lion on a gold shield. In Scotland, some members of the ancient Clan MacGreagair translated their Gaelic name as Gregory, although most descendants used MacGregor.

DEAR MISS RULE: One of the boys in the VA hospital would like ASPELL.—H. R., Long Beach.

H. R.: ASPELL evolved from the early English words "Aspleah" meaning "aspentree meadow." Development of this name occurred through the spellings Aspleah, Asple, Aspelle, then Aspell. Remote forefathers in Norfolk, England, include Gilbert de Asple, 1311, and Robert de Asple, 1323. The Aspelle-Aspell coat-of-arms is a shield covered with six horizontal stripes alternating silver and red in color.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the origin of BLASINGAME. R. A., Long Beach.

R. A.: BLASINGAME was formed from early Saxon English words that gave a clear description of the archetypal ancestor's appearance. The source phrase for this name was "Blaes-inga-ham," translated as "Pale complexioned man's family estate."

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have data on EHRHARD.—W. S., Long Beach.
W. S.: EHRHARD came from an old German hero

name of the same spelling. It was an esteemed appellation for a man known for his sincerity, loyalty and determination, for it meant "honor-strong." The family coat-of-arms from Bavaria has a ring formed from a two-headed serpent crowned with precious stones centered on a blue field.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze Whitney.—M. A., P. W., Long Beach.

M. A., P. W.: WHITNEY, a true English surname, began as a place description used in the 6th Century. "Hwitan-ig," the source phrase, meant "white's river-island." White was a primitive baptismal name for a blond man. A place called Whitney is on the River Wye in Herefordshire, England. Eustachius Whitney of Hereford, recorded in 1086, was a remote ancestor. The Whitney coat-of-arms has a black and gold-checked cross on a blue shield. The most famous American descendant was Eli Whitney, inventor of the cotton gin in 1793.

To Review a Book

By Harry Karns

Educational Research Associates

QUESTION: "Could you offer some plan that will help me write book reports for my literature class?"

ANSWER: A good report is far more than a summary of the events of the book. When reporting on a work of fiction, for example, you should consider:

1. Plot. The plot is the essential story, the skeleton, stripped of details. Here's the plot of a famous novel: A sea captain haunted by the memory of an old foe sails in a mad search; the finds his foe and is destroyed. There's much more to "Moby Dick" than that, of course, but this is the bare plot. When you find the plot, your task of "telling what the story is about" becomes greatly simplified. You need not waste hundreds of words describing material that is purely incidental.

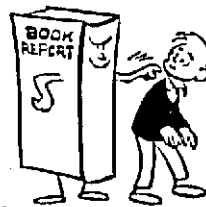

2. Theme. Most books have a single predominant topic or idea. Sometimes this topic or idea—the theme—may be stated in a single word: "Guilt," "Innocence," "Search," "Ambition," "Chase." Sometimes more specific ideas are involved: "War is a terrible experience," "Excessive pride destroys," "Real love survives all." Ask yourself whether the theme is strong and original or weak and banal. Does the author forcefully support his theme, or does he leave you doubting its truth?

3. Characterization. Are the people vivid and real? Do they have many sides to their personalities, with both strength and weakness, good traits and bad? Or are they flat, thin, vague characters?

4. Readability. Is the writer's style clear and crisp, loose and confusing, old-fashioned, modern? Does the story hold you? Do you want to read another of the author's books? Does the story hold you? Do you want to read another of the author's books?

5. Emotional impact. After putting the book down, how do you feel about it? Does it leave you with a sense of hope? Resentful of conditions described? More understanding of other human beings? Discouraged? Satisfied? Amused?

6. Examples. Show what you mean. Select passages and episodes to illustrate your opinions of the book. But make them brief. Your job is to tell about the book, not to rewrite it in twice the number of words used by the author.

New Look
in Beauty

Potent Pastels

Low Key Is High Style

Pink Cognito, most vibrant of pinks in the Avant Garde collection, are seen here in massed flowers. A touch of brown eye-liner, a dash of violet shadow complete the make-up. Earrings are by Cadoro.

By Beverly Ronson

NOW THERE'S an entirely new look in beauty, created to complement the whole new elegant understated look in fashion.

A recent issue of LOOK magazine describes "the young elegants" . . . a group of socially-prominent, internationally-famous women, who have been the real pace-setters in the trend . . . "they have a distinctive international look, which comes from developing a style all their own and sticking to it . . . They reject fads . . . rely on flawless grooming, individual hair styles, understated make-up and simplicity in clothes to achieve the image that is now the new ideal . . . prefer pale lipstick, reserve more emphatic make-up for the eyes . . . Understatement in make-up and clothes is the new hallmark of beauty . . . We couldn't have said it better!

Since a cosmetic look is always part and parcel of the fashion picture, a more subtle, understated approach to beauty is inevitable. The problem in making pastel lipsticks and nail enamels has been in formulation but Revlon has solved that problem with the advent of Colors Avant Garde—low-key, high-fashion shades (ten of them!) that are perfect distillations of deeper tones.

But these pastel lipsticks do not look chalky on the mouth and the nail enamels have not used either silver (as in the "frosted" type) or white to soften the shade. The colors are pure, pale, potent pastels . . . infinitely flattering, indisputable pretty, very Avant Garde.

To illustrate several of these exciting new shades, Revlon photographed actress-model Suzy Parker, who certainly qualifies as one of the "young elegants" of the international set. Suzy, who commutes from New York to Hollywood to Paris, is famous for (1) having been born in Texas (2) her devotion to Chanel and a wardrobe that consists almost exclusively of custom clothes from this great French designer and (3) her own incredible natural beauty—peaches-and-cream complexion, strawberry shoulder-length hair, basically lovely features that need little adornment.

Special flower arrangements for the accompanying picture in tones of Colors Avant Garde were created and executed by Patricia Kroh who is well-known as a teacher and lecturer and whose new book, "Japanese Flower Arrangement Notebook" has just been published by Doubleday and Company.

Get Ready for Santa

Joan Chandler of NBC-TV displays Santa and Elves.

By Steve Ellingson

IT'S GETTING to be that time of year again — the time when merry old Mr. Whiskers takes over the minds of children, the commercials of newspapers, billboards, radio and TV—and the shopping lists of adults.

For those who like to decorate their homes for the happy Christmas season, it's time to get on with plans and properties.

If you have in mind some joyous yard or rooftop decorations for this year's yule season and need a starter, take a look at Santa's little helpers all lined up with old St. Nick himself and pretty NBC-TV actress Joan Chandler (see photo).

The decorations are all printed in full color, are waterproof, they'll stand severe outdoor weather and may be used year after year. Just glue the pictures on plywood, saw them out and they are ready for display. It's easy!

In addition to six-foot Santa and the elves, 3-foot high candy canes and candles are also available. These may be ordered by the dozen.

To obtain one or all of the items, send name and address and check, currency or money order to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif., as follows: No. 189, Santa Claus, $2; No. C-10, Five Elves, $2; No. 292, Candy Canes (per dozen), $1; No. 293, Candles (per dozen), $1; and No. 297, Santa's Helpers sign, 35 cents.

Architect's Sketchbook

By Bill Meyerriecks

WHETHER you build this week's sketchbook project for yourself, or as a present for some friend or relative, it's sure to get plenty of use during the holidays.

Nothing is more handy when guests fill the living room than a set of these hostess helpers—small, folding tray-tables that can be pulled from the closet in a jiffy and set up to make buffet dining a pleasure instead of a juggling act, or to get those ash trays and glasses up off your new carpet.

THE BEST PART is their mobility. They provide a sturdy surface, 16 by 22 inches wide anywhere you need it, then can be folded flat to occupy storage space less than 3 inches deep, 27 inches high and 22 inches wide.

SEND 50 CENTS with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for Table Plan S-82.

Other 50-cent Sketchbook plans available from this source and which would make fine Christmas presents for youngsters, include:

Toy wooden Steam Shovel: S-54.

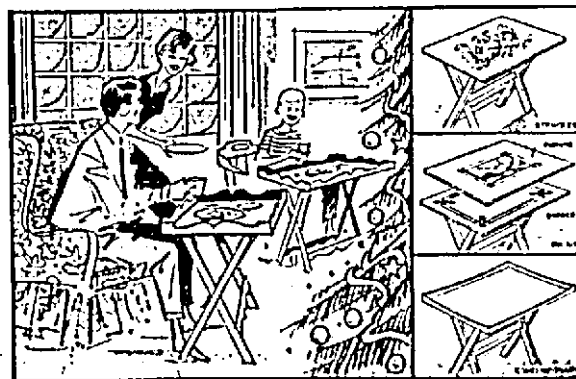

Two-story Colonial Dollhouse: S-31.

Play Kitchen Furniture (Refrigerator, Stove, Cupboard and Sink): S-73.

Indoor-Outdoor Playhouse: S-35.

Boy's Workbench: S-47.

Girl's Tea Table: S-76.

Basic foldaway tables are easy, inexpensive to make.

'Spooks' Approve These Treats

Caramel apples and popcorn balls are principal figures in this Halloween party fare for young "spooks."

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

HALLOWEEN is at hand again and, after your little "spooks" have finished their bewitching they'll welcome a party to make ghost-and-goblin night a time to be long remembered. So make your ghost-approved treats well ahead of time, and why not plan to invite the young-ones in to show-off their costumes and have caramel apples around a buffet table laden with jugs of cider, tangerine punch or hot chocolate, nuts and candies.

Caramel apples are easy to make when you melt handy caramel candies for the dipping sauce. Just insert a stick in each apple — the sticks come with the bag of candies — dip and swirl in the warm caramel sauce and place the completed caramel apples on waxed paper. Chill for a short time and serve; there's nothing more to it, and my how good they are! Better make plenty or you'll find yourself running short because of the "tricks" of a few family ghosts who got hungry.

If you like, make faces or decorate the caramel apples with candies, life savers or raisins before cooling them in the refrigerator.

Caramel Apples

- 1 bag vanilla caramels (49 caramels)
- 2 tablespoons water
- 4 or 5 medium size apples, washed and dried
- Wooden sticks

Place the caramels and water in the top of a double boiler. Heat, stirring frequently, until the caramels are melted and the sauce is smooth. Insert a wooden stick into the stem end of each apple. Dip them into the hot caramel sauce and turn until the surface is completely coated. Scrape off caramel sauce from the bottom of the apples. Put on waxed paper and place in the refrigerator until firm. Remove and serve.

Popcorn Balls

Mix in saucepan 1 cup sugar, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup water, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup light corn syrup, 1 tsp. salt and $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter. Cook to 250° or until a few drops form a hard ball when dropped into cold water. Remove from heat. Stir in 1 tsp. vanilla. Pour in thin stream over 7 cups popped corn in large bowl, stirring constantly to mix well. Shape, with buttered hands, into balls or any other shapes. Makes 12 to 15 large balls.

Halloween Tangerine Punch

- 1 package tangerine instant soft drink mix
 - 1 cup granulated sugar
 - $\frac{3}{4}$ quarts water
 - 1 can (6 ounces) quick-frozen concentrated lemonade
 - 1 can (6 ounces) quick-frozen concentrated orange juice
 - 1 can (18 ounces) pineapple juice
 - 1 large bottle (28 or 29 ounces) chilled ginger ale
- Dissolve instant soft drink mix and sugar in water. Add concentrates and pineapple juice. Chill. Add ginger ale. Serve with slices of orange. Makes $1\frac{1}{2}$ gallons, or about 50 servings, about 4 oz. each.

Recipe of the Week

DOUGHNUTS always "hit the spot" and a variation of this popular item wins the \$5 recipe contest this week for Mrs. Margaret Johnston, 343 $\frac{1}{2}$ E. 5th St., Long Beach 12. The recipe:

Drop Orange Doughnuts

- 4 egg yolks beaten
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cups sugar
- 2 tblsp. melted shortening
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 3 tsp. grated orange rind
- 1 cup milk
- 3 cups flour sifted with baking powder
- 4 tsp. baking powder
- $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt

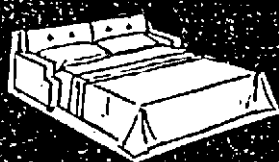

Beat egg yolks and add the sugar. Then add the melted shortening, vanilla, orange rind, milk. Sift the baking powder, flour and salt together and mix with other ingredients. Fix batter dry before using and place in refrigerator. Use a teaspoonful and drop into hot fat. After frying, dip in plain sugar.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address, to: Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

OUTSIDE HOUSE PAINTING NOW ELIMINATED

Textured Coatings of America has developed a remarkable product for exterior walls that virtually eliminates outside painting for many years to come. This product, called TEX-COTE, combines the long lasting properties of fiberglass asbestos, mica, and perlite to make a wall surface that resists all climatic extremes.

Throughout the country School Boards have found textured coatings so economical and lasting over the past several years that they are now specifying this type of material for a large amount of new construction and renovation work.

Many thousands of textured coating applications have been made on home, commercial and industrial buildings throughout the world, and these buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years' exposure in all weather extremes.

The United States government and most of the large companies have used textured coatings for many years. This remarkable exterior surfacing provides waterproofing, insulation and beauty, far outlasting any ordinary paint.

Comes in Colors

TEX-COTE comes in 12 beautiful decorator colors—and does not change the structural lines of the building. Actually it adds beauty to any home or structure and increases its value.

Waterproofs, Insulates, Fire Retardant

In addition to beauty, TEX-COTE has the additional advantages of waterproofing and insulation. Through the use of silicone, a modern day scientific advance, a water repellent "blanket" envelops the entire building so that no moisture can penetrate and damage the interior of the home. Through the use of fiberglass and perlite, highly efficient insulating material, the building becomes cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter. TEX-COTE incorporates long fiber asbestos in its formula thus reducing the possibility of a fire hazard.

Applied With a Gun

TEX-COTE is applied with heavy duty spray equipment under high pressure. It fuses itself to the wall surface to a thickness 15 to 20 times that of normal paint. It remains flexible and withstands cracking and normal surface expansion and contraction.

Factory Guaranteed

Every TEX-COTE job is registered and factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking or peeling.

No Obligation

Applications of TEX-COTE are being made in this area by Newport Construction, licensed and approved applicators. Free information on how easily you may have TEX-COTE applied at low bank terms may be obtained by calling collect LE 9-8648 or by mailing coupon below.

PET PARADE

A Week to Upgrade Kitty

By Eleanor Avery Price

NATIONAL Cat Week is observed the first week in November, which is a well-timed period to elevate kitty, since the harvest season, including the observance of Halloween, never has done much for cats. In fact, it has downgraded felines since the Middle Ages.

Cats during this time were supposedly allied with evil and therefore, along with witches (who were usually persons who owned cats) were held responsible for any misfortune including autumn crop failures. And it was considered useless to eliminate only one cat at a time since a witch was capable of taking on the guises of nine different cats in succession (a story that gave rise to the nonsense that a cat has nine lives).

The cat's position was eventually restored to one of dignity, although not of idolatry as in the days of early Egypt. But isolated incidences of kitty being a figure of bad luck, foul weather, and penury continued to exist. In some European countries cats, representing cornsprites, were garlanded then sacrificed. Others were superstitiously offered to various deities to ensure good fortune or to protect against storms, earthquakes, and the like. As late as the early 1900s, a witch was presumed to be alive in Lancashire, England.

But now let us consider the good, normal things about cats. Cats do not cling. After kittenhood they become independent and sublimely content. Of course, they need assistance in matters concerning health and hygiene. Cats are fastidiously clean but need help with their coats, however. Cats can amuse themselves but appreciate entertainment. Kittens enjoy anything they can pounce upon. Painted toys should be avoided.

Cats have no guilt complexes, and no amount of rebuke will change them. Your kitty can steal food, stalk birds, catch mice and see no reason for your being sentimental.

And now, a plea on behalf of pets:

"PLEASE, will owners keep their pets under lock and key during hours children are going to and returning from school. And parents, please teach your children not to coax along nor to pick up puppies and kitties they see on streets. And teach them not to open gates to pet other people's animals.

The Willbanks Story

The Willbanks Carpet Co. is a departure from the usual carpet specialty shop. It was founded on the premise that quality carpet, backed by expert installation, could be sold at a minimum mark up, in sufficient volume to be profitable.

The extension of this premise was to operate without frills and costly fixtures from a low rent and thus low overhead location in a factory warehouse on a side street in Signal Hill.

By eliminating high rent and other cost raising features, the company decided it could afford to pass on to its customers the substantial savings by giving more carpet value at less cost.

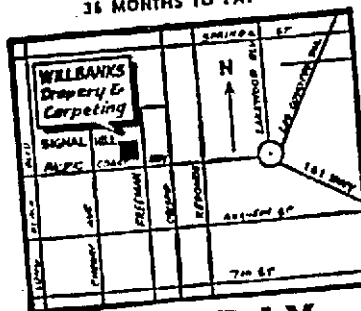

Here Is Our Realistic Pricing Policy. Our Expert installation is $1.25 per yd., and the finest 50-oz. rubberized felt pad is 75c yd. The red Cushionaire pad is $1.75 per yd.

The Stuff Cartoons Are Made Of

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

RICHARD WALLMEYER and Clyde Winslow, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram artists are considered among the best cartoonists in the United States and Canada.

They and their work rate double-page spreads in "TODAY'S CARTOON" including the work of 140 outstanding cartoonists, brought out by Hauser Press of New Orleans, $10.

The title page explains that the book is "by John Chase and 139 other cartoonists who drew 'them damn pictures!'"

William M. Tweed, political boss of New York, enraged by a front page cartoon by Thomas Nast in Harper's Weekly in August 1871, is supposed to have thundered "Let's stop them damn pictures! . . . I don't care what they write about me, my constituents - can't read, but damn it, they can see pictures."

All cartoons by Winslow and Wallmeyer included in "Today's Cartoon" appeared in the Independent and Press-Telegram.

Wallmeyer, 31, a staff member for a year, is one of the youngest cartoonists in the book. His chosen cartoons include "Why Can't Grandma Come for the Holidays, Papa?" with Grandma waving to son and small grandson through the East-West German gate; a Castro cartoon and a thundering race around the globe by the Peace Corps, the Arms Race and the Human Race.

Americana and human interest are the favorite subjects of Clyde Winslow whose cartoons have been featured by the Independent and Press-

Telegram since 1941. Altogether, Clyde estimates he has been a cartoonist for 40 years. He has won a number of national prizes. Included in "Today's Cartoon" are his famed Liberty bell cartoon, "It Tolls for Thee" and "Number 4," a nostalgic picture and verse of barefooted youngsters waving at a speeding train.

William H. Crawford and Vaughn Shoemaker whose cartoons occasionally appear in the I. P.T., also are included. So, for the record, is Bill Mauldin, considered the outstanding cartoonist of World War II.

Alphabetically the 140 cartoonists range from Franklin Alexander of the Philadelphia Bulletin to Robert York of the Louisville, Ky. Times. John Chase, who compiled the volume is cartoonist on the New Orleans States-Item.

Inside the cover of "Today's Cartoon" are 76 caricatures of President Kennedy drawn by members of the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists, bound in a book and presented to JFK at the White House.

A COMPREHENSIVE report of the opening by American ingenuity of aerial communications across the Frozen North in World War II is most timely—and significant geographically—as the Cold War, too, becomes ever more frigid.

William S. Carlson, Toledo University president, blends newly declassified information, plus his experience as an

Air Force officer and scientist on the strategic wartime project, with recent research into "LIFELINES THROUGH THE ARCTIC" (Duell, Sloan, Pearce, $5.95).

Here is exciting true adventure—the building of bases on Greenland, Labrador and Alaska; early perils and daring in flying through snow and ice; survival or death in forced landings on ice fields; life at remote air bases.

Two "lifelines" helped destroy Hitler. One ferried to England the planes which shattered Germany and defeated the Luftwaffe; the second carried to Siberia the planes and supplies which helped Russia repulse the Wehrmacht. On the third lifeline may hinge our security: the radar defense DEW line across Canada and the BMEWS missile-detection bases of Greenland, Alaska and England.

"THE TRIAL of Harry Thaw, six months after he murdered Stanford White, can still be described as the most sensational trial ever held in an American court," writes Gerald Langford in "THE MURDER OF STANFORD WHITE" (Bobbs-Merrill, $5).

On the night of June 25, 1906 Thaw, a wealthy Pittsburgh playboy, shot the famous architect before a crowd in the roof garden of the old Madison Square Garden, a building designed by White. The architect, of high social position and supposedly blameless reputation, had taken a great interest in Thaw's wife, the gorgeous former Florida girl, Evelyn Nesbit. By using actual testimony from both trials, Langford creates the atmosphere of high tension courtroom drama.

Disneyland's Own John Glenn

By Aubrey B. Haines

WHEN 6-foot, 9-inch, 240-pound John Glenn of Pomona ducked his head through the Disneyland employment office door, interviewers believed that they had outdone themselves with perfect casting. From his height to his name, Glenn fitted into a "spaceman" role as smoothly as a radio wave that bounces off the moon. There remained the problem, however, of getting people to believe it.

Too show that it was not a publicity stunt, Disneyland made photostat copies of John Glenn's selective-service card and his driver's license, available for any skeptics.

Strangely, John, the oldest of four children, was the smallest when born. In August 1911, the baby weighed slightly more than eight pounds—at least two pounds lighter than his brother and two sisters. The Glenns moved to California in 1952. John is the son of a facility engineer at North American Aircraft Co. His height soon outdistanced the rest of the family in a "race for space." His sister Page, 18, and his brother Kenneth, 13, are both five feet, seven inches tall. "You can almost see Ken grow," John says. The height of his sister Patty, 11, is normal for her age.

AT POMONA High School, where he graduated, John played basketball, but his hobbies ran to riding a surfboard and to track. He attends Mount San Antonio Junior College in Walnut, where he majors in business administration.

Garbed in a silver space-jumper suit and globe headgear, Glenn has been working the past several months meeting children who visit Tomorrowland. "The job has its amusing moments," he says. "One afternoon, enchanted by an attractive little blonde girl, I leaned down and whispered to her, 'You're a cute little blonde. Do you know it?'"

Tall in any crowd, John Glenn, 6-foot-9 "spaceman," is official greeter at Disneyland's "Tomorrowland."

"I know it," she smiled coyly. "I just got over the measles." Then he took a second look at her and got out of the way.

Shaking hands with children is Glenn's principal job, but he must be careful. "Some children have sticky suckers in their hands," he says. "I don't usually notice this until I've shaken a sticky hand and start getting frowns from the children who follow them when I pass the stickiness on."

GLENN IS so tall that when tiny children pass by, all they see are his silver knees. He tells of one little girl whose mother kept telling her, "Look at the spaceman." The child kept looking everywhere but was so short that she could not see him. Finally her mother lifted her head up. The girl was so startled that she jumped back several feet.

Smiling down from his lofty height, Glenn says that his plans for the future are like everything else about him — "all up in the air."

The hobby of collecting and studying old coins and paper money has increased rapidly locally and over the nation in the past 40 years. Within 40 miles of Long Beach are 60 different coin clubs. Besides the Long Beach Coin Club, local area clubs include the Douglas Numismatic Society and the Lakewood Coin Club.

COIN COLLECTING in the United States is considered to be a $170 million business for dealers, suppliers, manufacturers of accessories and publishers.

What is the history of coins? Numismatists say the first coins were made in ancient Greece 700 years before Christ. Since then many nations and civilizations have appeared and perished, but their coins frequently are found buried in the ruins and dust of the ages.

On these coins appear the portraits of Alexander the Great, Julius Caesar, Charlemagne and such recent arrivals on the scene as Napoleon and Hitler.

The distinction of being the first coin issued by authority of the United States goes to the "Fugio Cent," dated 1787 and designed by Benjamin Franklin. On one side were 13 linked circles representing the 13 colonies and the words "United States, We Are One." On the reverse, a sun dial, the word "Fugio" meaning "time flies" and an additional slogan, "Mind Your Business."

THE FUGIO cent was privately coined, but in 1793 the half-dime appeared, the first coin struck by the government. President George Washington gave some of his private silver plate to furnish the metal and the coin bore the portrait of his wife, Martha Washington.

In 1690, Massachusetts issued the first paper money in the Western Hemisphere.

The design of a U. S. coin may be changed no oftener than once in 25 years, so the average person is aware of only a few changes in his lifetime.

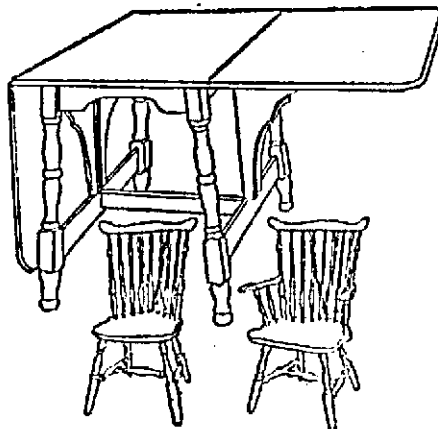

Color in a Hurry

When a gardener needs color in a hurry, he can always turn to pot-grown chrysanthemums. Thanks to hot-house culture, these full bloom beauties are available through C.A.N. nurseries for 12 months of the year. They are always most welcome in fall. Their autumn-like colors, the rich bronzes and yellows, are excellent either for spot color outdoors, or for decoration indoors.

A Piano of Bygone Days

By Helen L. Gillum

A RARE old piano, owned by Mrs. J. K. Thomas of Cooper Arms Apartments, is exceptionally beautiful. The rosewood cabinet is dated 1839, but it was handcrafted in the elegant Louis XV style, and no effort was spared by the maker to follow the elaborate features for which this French period is known (1723-1774). Graceful curves, bronze ormolu mounts, and incredibly skillful marquetry are harmoniously incorporated into the piano, so that it is a magnificent showpiece as well as a fine musical instrument.

Ormolu (an alloy of copper, tin, and zinc) was used extensively in 18th and 19th century France for ornamentation and furniture mounts. The rich golden tones and clear outlines of the ormolu trim on the piano reveal a high quality of workmanship; such examples as this are highly valued. Ormolu caryatids 10 inches high embellish the two front upper corners, and ormolu handles at each end of the case are firmly anchored for easy moving. The gold-effect metal is used lavishly in other decorative spots, such as outlining inlaid panelings and in moldings.

MARQUETRY, a remarkably ingenious method of using extensive inlays of colored woods to ornament furniture, was also generously applied. Garlands, scrolls and leaves in superb artistry entwined across the upper panel of the piano, while others decorate the two gracefully curved doors beneath the keyboard. These doors swing open for easy access to the strings when necessary for tuning or repair.

Spinets, virginals, and harpsichords, all ancestors of the piano, were brought to America as long ago as the mid-17th century. The true piano (or pianoforte, as it was known) was invented about 1720. (One Bartolommeo Cristofori of Florence is generally accredited with the invention.) The difference between the older instruments and the newer piano exists principally in the manner in which the music is produced—the piano being an instrument using a "hammer" action, while the more ancient ones emitted music by the "plucking" of the strings with a "quill" arrangement.

MRS. THOMAS acquired her

piano some years ago from a dealer. It is 42 inches high and measures 22 inches across at the widest point. The keyboard cover opens and folds back in such a manner that this label can be seen: "Medaille d'or 1839. Glusman 23, Rue Cadet."

Attempts to trace former owners have been unsuccessful, but that it once graced a sumptuous home or grand palace of France long ago, there can be no doubt. An interesting sidelight here is an old advertisement in 1792 by the Messrs. Dodd & Claus, musical instrument manufacturers of New York City, who claimed that "... the forte piano is becoming so fashionable in Europe that few polite families are without it."

Pass the Pepper, Please!

"PASS the pepper, please."

Such a remark is commonplace at our tables today. The pepper, black and fragrant, is passed and sprinkled on food. No one has given a thought to the role this black spice has played in the history of the world. And, in the western hemisphere, especially. For without it, or the demand for it, Columbus would not have been granted the ships and the money to make his discovery voyages when he did. We might have waited a much longer time to be found.

We do not know exactly when pepper was first used. But we do know that historians mention it almost as far back as there is history. In those far-off days it was considered equal in value to gold or silver. In some cases when it was in low supply, it was held to be of more worth than any metal or jewel. We are told that when, in the Fifth Century, Alric besieged Rome he demanded 3,000 pounds of pepper as part of the ransom. No amount of gold or jewels would do. He must have pepper. Taxes and tributes were paid with pepper. In many years in Europe, as well as in the East, the use of this spice was restricted to royalty and high-ranking nobles.

PEPPER IS native to the East Indies, to parts of tropical India, Indonesia and the Island of Sumatra. It grows on a vine as peppercorns. Picked before it is fully ripe, the entire kernel is ground to make black pepper. White pepper is made from the inside of the fully-ripened berry.

When once this pepper had invaded Europe there was nothing, it seems, the people would not do to procure it. The desire for it more than for any other eastern product led the Portuguese to seek an all-sea route to the Orient. This resulted in Vasco da Gama sailing around the Cape of Good Hope. And of more importance to those of the New World, it also influenced Queen Isabella in her fitting out of Columbus in his search for the spice islands of the east. That he discovered America was beside the point and a big disappointment to the people who were hoping to find pepper.

England came late into the pepper trade. Sir Francis Drake's voyages around the world drew British attention to the possibilities of transporting and selling the shriveled black berries. To get them in quantity and as inexpensively as possible England acquired India, Ceylon, Singapore — all pepper growing countries.

AMERICA entered the pepper commerce later still, in 1768, when the 100-ton brig Cadet slipped out of Massachusetts harbor. More than three years later when she returned she was loaded with pepper from Sumatra.

This successful trip of the Cadet marked the beginning of the New England monopoly of the pepper traffic which was called "The China Trade." And the China Trade resulted in the rise of our Merchant Marine. This was because pirates were still active on the seas and a cargo of pepper was a choice prize. But the pirates were not the only enemy to the men and ships. Even the Malaysians, who did not want the pepper and had no way of transporting it, attacked the ships as they lay in port, swarming onto them and overwhelming the crews by the weight of numbers. The Merchant Marine with armed fighters on every ship was the answer to attack.

By Enola Chamberlin

Today, although we use more pepper than we ever did, 90,000,000 pounds a year, procuring and transporting the spice are taken as much for granted as the careless request, "Pass the pepper, please."

THE CHANGING MOTEL

The Changing Motel

By Fred Taylor Kraft
 Travel Editor

ARE YOU old enough to remember—it was not so long ago, at that—when you traveled by car and would stop nights at a "tourist cabin?"

Looking back, it didn't seem to be a cabin at all, but a jiffy-built, one-room frame cottage.

Usually, mosquitoes had taken squatter's right to it by the time you arrived.

If the weather happened to be cold, you were directed to a woodpile behind the "office" where you could get fuel for the crude stove in one corner of the room.

Other features of the cabin were air conditioning by nature, a long trek out behind the trees to the bathroom and (sometimes) a community shower house.

THIS SETUP offered one more important thing—service by the owner, and often the owner's wife. They told you where to get breakfast, where to get your pants pressed (but who worried about pressed pants in those days?), and how to get back on Hwy. 99.

Thanks to 20th Century progress, there have been a good many changes in motels.

They're permanent structures, of modern construction, tastefully furnished and, more often than not, beautifully landscaped.

In place of the community shower house, swimming pools are routine. Some of the fancier stops have rooftop pools, or pools on the "second level" or "third level."

How about radios? Sure. And television? Naturally. Color television. At some motels, you can even check in by television.

THEY HAVE smart cafes where breakfast, lunch and dinner are served; or, if you prefer, breakfast dinner and supper.

Many serve wake-up coffee, and it's on the house.

As a rule, they have room service. Ice is free.

Nowadays, a good many travelers stop at motels associated with a recognized chain.

There are advantages in doing so. Travelers find most chain motels uniformly excellent. And tonight, when you stop at a chain motel, you can reserve your room for the next night and it will be waiting for you; no fretting about finding a place to stay if you arrive a little late.

THIS IS attested to by M. K. Guertin, the Long Beach secretary of Best Western Motels, a coast-to-coast outfit with more than 26,000 rooms in all.

"Motels are constantly improving their service that it's hard to tell what they'll come up with 10 years from now," says Guertin. "But you can bet the motor traveler will like it."

BEST WESTERN chain includes some of the finer motels in the entire country—Ascot in downtown Chicago, the Desert Saharan in Spokane, Las Vegas Motor Hotel in Houston, Glenwood Manor Motor Hotel in Mission, Kan., and Georgetown Inn in Washington, D.C.

Georgetown Inn undoubtedly is the ultimate in motels. Among other things, it features butlers on each floor, bldets, and a different decor on each of its six floors.

In ultramodern motels like these, says Guertin, practically all rooms have phones, and some have a second phone in the bathroom. (What kind of emergency would necessitate a second phone in the bathroom?) Most of them have direct dialing, and you can call almost any place in the country without going through the motel's switchboard.

Or, you can dial directly from your room for various services: valet, laundry, travel accommodations, tickets for the theater or a football game, stock quotations, the weather, or for car repairs.

USUALLY THERE is no charge to use an iron, ironing board, hair dryer, electric blanket, non-allergic pillow, or even a bottle warmer.

Your car can be serviced while you sleep. Simply leave instructions for washing, greasing and fueling and it will be done before you have your wake-up coffee and your morning dip in the topside pool.

Babysitters are available.

Survey showed 80 per cent of guests at Georgetown Inn, Washington, D. C., were enamored of phone in bathroom.

Your credit cards will be honored.

Stationery and postcards, shoeshine cloths, plastic bags for damp clothes, and shower caps are routine. And in the soft drinks (often hard drinks, too, on the premises), books and periodicals, cigarettes, candy, combs, lipstick, tooth brush, or aspirin tablets.

But tell me, Claudia, who needs aspirin in spots like these?

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELAPLANE

"We would like to go to a warm place for Christmas about one week. Would Tahiti be out of the way? Not many tourists?"

THE RAINS are starting in Tahiti and a week of them gets to be too much. But Mexico has a lot of warm places with few tourists.

Out of Merida in Yucatan, you fly to the island of Cozumel. Next door to it, Islas de las Mujeres. A lot of Caribbean beach and the hotels are okay.

Zihuatenejo (by air only from Mexico City) has one very good hotel. It's on the Pacific side.

Puerto Vallarta (by air only from Guadalajara) is on the Pacific. Getting more popular. But a whole series of little bays and beaches are open to a rented boat.

All of these being in Mexico, you probably do best to make your reservations in Mexico. Guadalajara for Puerto Vallarta. And Mexico City travel agent for the others.

"How do you get your shoes polished if, as you said, there are no bootblacks in London?"

YOU DO IT YOURSELF. (I found a couple of polishers in Piccadilly Circus, but I think they are ornamental. The shine isn't too good.)

For women, I got something called Shu-Mak-Up and tried it out on some English girls. They thought it was the greatest thing since frozen Yorkshire pudding.

You clean the shoe and paint it a new color and wax it — keep changing colors if you like. They make this at 3317 E. 50th St., Los Angeles.

"... something you wrote about the Free Day in Ireland?"

Well, I hear the Free Day has gone up to $15. The idea was to let you off at Shannon Airport — any airline will do this. Ireland took you on an afternoon tour of County Clare. Dinner at Bunratty Castle. Night in a hotel and a tour in the morning.

Going Places

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

FOR THE PRICE, there's hardly a better tour going than the 70-cent ride on the chunky, canvas-topped harbor ferry Triton from Hamilton Harbor, Bermuda, to Watford Bridge, Cavello Bay, Somerset Bridge and back. It's a 90-minute voyage and never leaves the Great Sound.

Bikes, motorbikes and tourists are taken aboard, the makeshift gangplank is landed and the Triton chugs out into the harbor.

The great clutter that surrounds the Great Sound is soon apparent—yachts, sailboats and cruisers fill the basins; the shocking-pink of the Bermudiana Hotel and the peeling-pink of the soon-to-be-demolished old wing of the Princess Hotel float past to starboard. And to port the equally pink Inverurie and Belmont Manor Hotels dominate the scene. In Bermuda, the best of all possible colors is pink.

The island is one long coral rock of vista-rich hills covered with flaming foliage, scrubby woods and mile after mile of pink stone homes. There are few towns and villages as such, but there is scarcely any break in the urban string.

Coves and inlets, beaches and islets speckle the scene. Somehow roads lead to all of them; the most typical of all Bermuda sights is a couple on a lonely strand, their bicycles parked on the path above.

SUMMERY white clouds, charmed at their assigned altitude, float idly as the reefs spin out under the Triton. The water turns from shallow green to deep blue, and Hamilton Harbour widens into the Great Sound.

It is calm today, but sometimes 50-knot winds whip the waters.

We slow for a landing at

Watford Bridge alongside a coral rock, striped in colors of the rainbow at the water line. Women in Bermuda shorts carrying shopping bags clamber aboard, their off-spring scurrying wildly ahead of them.

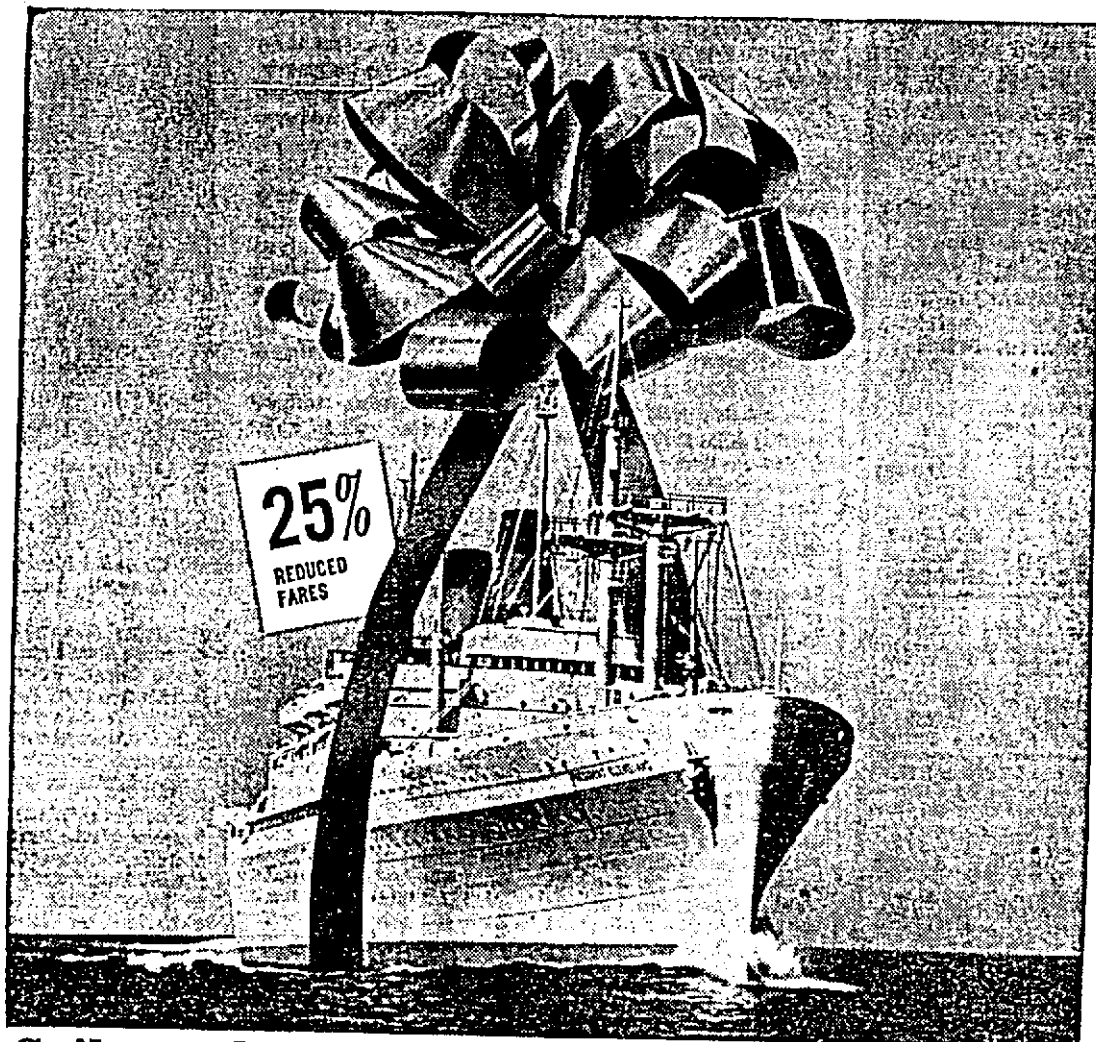

The Triton turns west along the shore towards Cavello Bay. After a repeat of the Watford landing, we chug past Fort Scaur to Somerset Bridge, the curious little span across Ely's Bay that is known as the world's smallest drawbridge. Only a few feet long, its opening is but 18 inches—enough for the mast of a sailboat. The crew must debark to open it, and passers-by usually stop to assist in this whimsical nautical maneuver.

Somerset itself is a picturesque, remote village, with the curious tranquility that is so much a part of Bermuda despite the island's congestion and surface bustle.

WE TURN on the home leg of our trip here, back to Hamilton Harbour. Along the south rim of Bermuda this time, past the yacht harbors and discreet homes sheltered by hibiscus and oleander, and into Two Rock Passage, the only entry to the harbour.

The Queen herself must pass this way. With more than 400 shipwrecks charged to them, Bermuda's shoals have never been respecters of individuals.

Rooms Aplenty

No worries about a room shortage in Germany, where some 1,100,000 beds are available for tourists. These facilities are scattered in 2,376 communities, excluding Berlin, reports the German Tourist Office.

SETTING plants in hanging baskets and letting their blooms tumble down from on high is a trick with which every gardener should be familiar. Few methods of growing plants are more effective.

Anyone who doubts this should visit one of California's begonia-growing centers this summer and be convinced. The flowing beauty of countless begonia blooms is a breath-taking sight that all but defies description.

Begonias are not the only flowers which lend themselves to hanging basket culture, but they provide a good starting point for a beginner. Use a large terra cotta or redwood container and plant two, three or four of the young plants which members of the California Association of Nurserymen offer in plant bands now. Just be sure they are the hanging or pendulous type.

THE IDEA with basket tuberous begonias is to promote as many trailing arms as possible. This requires some pinching if growth is being concentrated on too few shoots. If you keep the basket down where you can reach it until growth is well on its way, the pinching process can be done much more easily. Food and water are the primary requirements, as they are with any begonia.

Trailing fuchsias are also excellent plants for the inexperienced gardener, provided he remembers that basket-grown plants dry out faster than those in the ground.

Water is all-important when growing hanging fuchsias, as the slightest drought will inhibit growth and detract from the lushness of the planting.

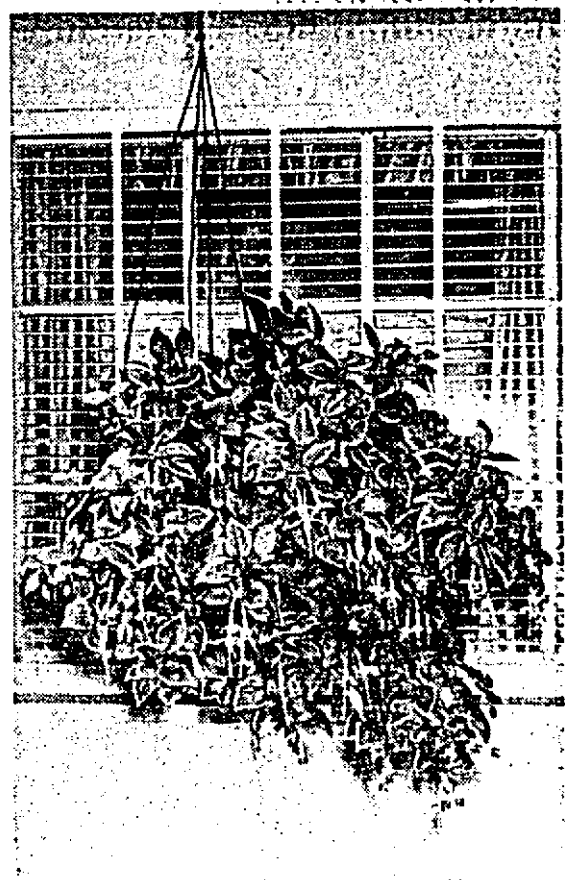

Here again you want to be sure that it's the hanging or trailing type of plant which you buy from your nurseryman. Use two or three small fuchsias to the average hanging basket and start pinching them right off to keep the container brimful of new shoots. Pinch out upright growth especially so that all of the plant's energy will be concentrated in producing a pendulous habit.

Like begonias, fuchsias need food as well as water to push growth along.

FOR BASKETS in the sun, the ivy geraniums are a good bet. Try mixing them with the annual trailing lobelia, another sun lover for special effect. The clear blue of the lobelia offsets the various colors in the ivy geranium and gives beauty that neither of the pair could match on its own.

There are some unusually attractive overhead plants which gardeners often fail to use to advantage. One of these is the trailing Berthelot lotus, not to be confused with the water-lily lotuses. Berthelot lotus is a silvery-gray trailer from the pea family which stands limited neglect and would be attractive even without the maroon-red blooms. These latter grace the plant from early season to mid-summer.

There is also the trailing

Cascaded blooms of fuchsias in hanging baskets are a decorative feature. Begonias also may be thus grown.

asparagus fern which produces an abundance of crisp green foliage. Grown in an overhead basket, its cascade of green is cooling to look at, either indoors or out. Its pink summer flowers are followed by red berries in late fall.

Finally, the list of neglected hanging plants includes the star-like white Italian bellflower. Such beauty deserves a better break, especially since it is so easily grown. This bellflower is relatively resistant to drought and will grow in either part sun or shade. Feeding helps but is less important than with fuchsias and begonias. The plants should be pinched, however, to encourage bushiness and to restrain rampant shoots which often develop.

As a general rule, it can be stated that all basket-grown plants need more than the normal amount of water to counteract the drying influence of air. They also need more food than when grown under normal conditions to replace that which constant watering washes out of the soil. Liquid and soluble fertilizers are ideally suited for basket-grown plants, since they are easily applied and serve to water the plants and feed them at the same time.

Winter renovation of lawns need not be a major project. Many gardeners find that there is an easier way.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week . . . Uproot faded annuals and replace them with new plants for winter bloom. Calendulas, violas, fairy primrose, cyclamen are four to try.

Early blooming sasanqua camellias will start blooming this month. Select them from plants in bloom so that you can see the exact colors and flower types.

Tuberous begonias that are still in bloom should be fed with liquid fish. As these summer bulbs go out of bloom, replace them with cyclamen.

Be sure chrysanthemums are staked to prevent their toppling from the weight of their bloom.

Start culling out poor performers in the rose garden and getting ready to plant new varieties in December.

Plant ranunculus and anemones along with other spring-blooming bulbs. Ranunculus are also available in seedling form.

Cool season vegetables such as peas, lettuce, cauliflower, cabbage and broccoli may be set out. Many are available as flat-grown seedlings in nurseries.

Plant cineraria for early spring color. The best time is now through November.

Many gardeners rush out and get their bulb planting done in a hurry in October. This is not necessarily the best practice, however. According to the California Association of Nurserymen, tulips, especially, are better when not planted until later in the fall. And when you do plant them bury them deeper than is normal for colder climates—eight inches is none too deep.

Fuchsia Society

Results of the election of new officers of California National Fuchsia Society and discussion of plans for the 9th annual Fuchsia and Shade Plant Show in July in Long Beach will be agenda items at a meeting of the board of directors of the society at 1:30 p.m. Nov. 4 at Hollydale School, 6511 Main St., Hollydale. A. Roy Joyce is current president of the group and Elton Kidder heads a slate of candidates for 1963 offices.

all winter! It's that easy.

TO AVOID possible infestation from cow manure or inferior steer manure, and to obtain almost twice the food value, be sure to use the best grade of lawn steer manure possible.

Dichondra lawns fed now stay richer, greener during the winter, than one not so fed.

Any dichondra lawn planted now, or throughout the winter season, should have some grass seed sown into it. The grass serves as a protection to the dichondra during the cold winter months.

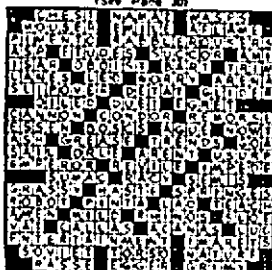

Later, we discontinued churning up the lawn. Instead we hand raked it briskly, mowed it closely, sowed the seed and top dressed with steer manure.

Now, we've finally gotten wise to ourselves, finding it unnecessary to work so hard redoing the lawn. The easiest, and smartest way is simply to mow closely, sow fresh grass seed, and top dress with good grade of lawn manure. Presto! the lawn perks up with a rich green color for

By Dorothy Jonson

THIS is the time to mulch your avocado trees, and your fruit trees in general. I wish that you and I could get the old-fashioned dairy manure because I don't think that anything else is quite so good for the purpose. However, that is impossible for most of us so we must use the commercial steer manure.

Used now, steer manure will have the rainy season in which to be washed into the soil, and this is of great value to both the trees and the soil itself. Spread the manure heaviest out at the drip line, where the feeder roots are, being careful not to get it too close to the base of the trees.

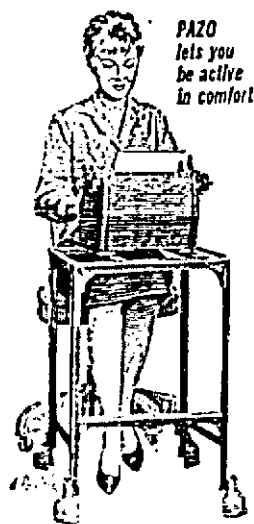

Pruning your deciduous fruit trees comes later, during the winter; however, this is exactly the right time to prune your berry bushes. Cut back the old canes on those and begin stringing the new ones to get them started where you want them to grow next year.

Recent research reveals fast new way to shrink hemorrhoid tissues, stop pain and itching—all without surgery. It's a combination of six modern medications in one complete formula: The Pazo Formula.

NEW, RELIABLE RELIEF. Pazo is the only leading formula with these six active ingredients to shrink and soothe hemorrhoid tissues. Research shows this new combination brings symptomatic relief even to long-time pile sufferers.

various clients. I'm pretty impressed with the client list I help represent, so you can imagine how I feel when I see these people, most of whom have made it pretty well themselves as entertainers, being thoroughly entertained by Carol's voice." Tod's clients include Fred MacMurray, Laraine Day, Lorne Greene, Walter Brennan and Richard Egan.

CAROL'S development as a singer has not been easy. In addition to running her home and family, she is constantly learning new and difficult roles. She cites language as among her biggest problems and attacks them with something less than relish.

In any case, she has built a solid foundation for her career. Jack Metz, her vocal coach, who also coaches Kathryn Grayson, sums it up: "There's really no way of telling how far Carol can go. She has a wonderful combination of visual and vocal beauty, in addition to her natural talent. It seems to be just a matter of time before her singing is universally appreciated."

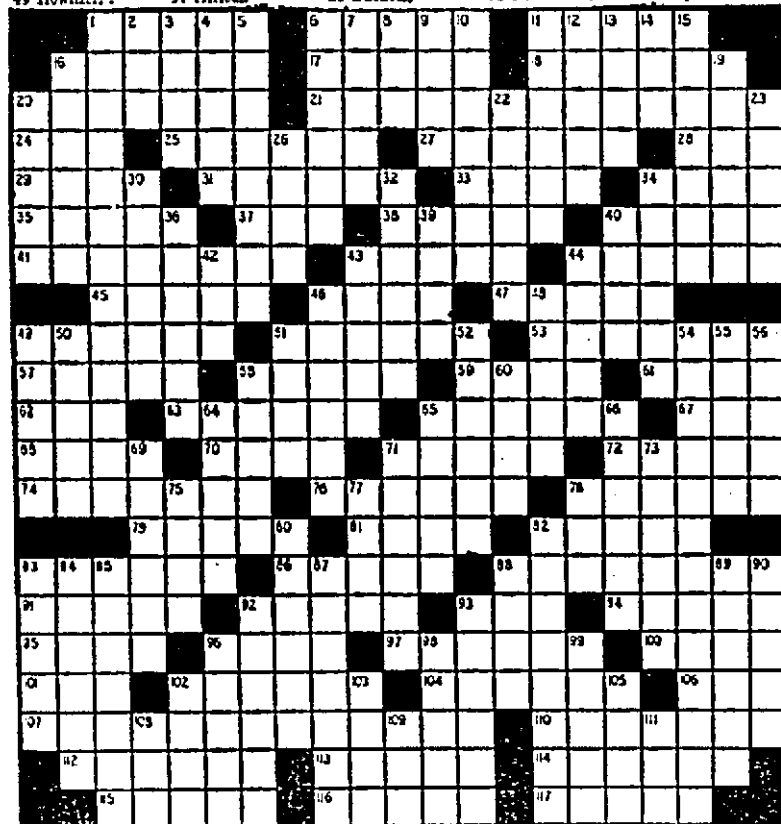

Carol's immediate plans call for several national television appearances and singing engagements with opera companies in New York, Philadelphia and Mexico. She was recently offered a number of opera roles and concert engagements in Europe, but declined. "I wouldn't want to go without my family. But, both Tod and Dad would never think of leaving—at least not as long as the Dodgers and Rams are in town."

Perhaps Telstar will furnish the solution to this dilemma—in time.

Luncheon in the Sky

AND HERE'S why the waiters and kitchen staff at the Breakers International Hotel are scurrying around so cheerfully these days.

Luncheons in the sky with spectacular views of Long Beach, are once again one of the features of dining at this famed, luxurious hostelry. And the guests are delighted with the whole interesting arrangement. N. L. (Len) Hill, assistant manager in charge of the hotel's food service, spent many weeks preparing the redecorated Skyroom's new menus, utilizing his background as former director of cuisine at the Cliff House in San Francisco and the Indian Room in Montreal. As a result, Skyroom luncheon-goers are treated to the following, served from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.:

Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays are "Blackboard Menu" days, with the items listed on a 5-by-4-foot blackboard. Available are complete luncheons including soup du jour or salad, potato, vegetable, bread, beverage and such entrees as sirloin tips ($1.45), chicken pie and roast lamb.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays the setup is quite different, offering all-you-can-eat hot and cold buffet luncheons, for $1.50, with the hot meats carved before the guests' eyes by skilled chefs. Also available daily are special sandwiches and fancy salads, including shrimp, crab and lobster Louies.

Splendid new dinners are offered in the Skyroom nightly, except Monday, from 6 to 10 p.m. Included are table d'hote complete dinners with dessert or after-dinner drinks and a la carte dinners which offer tossed green salads and beverage with the entree. Priced from $2.95, the dinners include grilled filet of halibut, capon, lobster thermidor, beef Stroganoff, chicken cooked in wine, prime rib au jus, lobster-and-steak combination, and a 16-ounce charcoal broiled New York cut steak. Also featured is a top sirloin, steak sandwich.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

She was at the second-floor window of her home as I started climbing the steps.

"I see you," trilled Spring Byington. "I'll be right down."

In the flesh she is just as effervescent as she was when she was "December Bride's" Lily Rushkin and as she currently TV is as "Laramie's" Daisy Cooper on Tuesdays, channel 4.

She opened the door, welcomed me and said:

"I'm going to get—let's see, what was I going to get you? Oh, yes."

She was off and running.

She came back the same way and found me admiring one of the pictures framed on her livingroom wall.

"Do you like it?" she asked. "$2.95 at Sears."

With that she pressed upon my wrist a damp face-cloth. It was very cooling, having been moistened in some kind of scented camphor preparation.

"This is the thing they do in tropical countries," said Spring. "Sit down, please."

I sat.

"I bought this house 15 years ago on a Wednesday and had it completely furnished the next day," she said.

"This is the same furniture—re-covered."

SHE AFFECTIONATELY patted her chair.

"I'm not satisfied with the chairs they make today," she said. "The cushions pick you up and say it's time to go."

How does she like "Laramie"?

"I love doing 'Laramie,' she replied. "I go out and have a good time."

"Look, westerns are westerns. They're marked 'Let's Pretend for Grownups.'"

"The only trouble with the quiz shows is that they weren't marked 'Let's Pretend.'"

Spring doesn't feel a person has to apologize for not having strength of character if he watches a western.

"Don't confuse 'escape from reality' with 'release into make-believe,'" she said. "If you like westerns, you're just releasing yourself into make-believe—you're not escaping anything."

I tried that on a couple of times for size, then found the elucidation in Spring's next statement.

"I love westerns," she said.

It was as simple as that.

ADDING THE ROLE of Daisy Cooper to "Laramie" last season gave that particular western something it needed.

"I added—it could have been someone else in the same role—just enough reality so that the boys are not merely cardboard figures who jump on a horse and go bang-bang," said Spring.

She, personally, is not about to jump on any horse.

"Horses and I don't get on socially."

"We don't understand each other. I talk to them and get cold looks back. There's no response."

"Dogs are different. When I talk to them, they cock their ears and say, 'What did you say?'"

What Spring has to say about "staying young" might not interest dogs, but could possibly influence the activities of other "middle-aged" ladies.

"Keep busy," said Spring. "Find something to do—something with a future in it."

"Always look ahead. You don't have time to look back."

★ ★ ★
SPRING, LOOKING FAR AHEAD into the future when her "Laramie" days as Daisy Cooper are over, definitely is interested in another TV series.

"I don't care what it is so long as I play a pretty real person with a good deal of intestinal fortitude about living," she said.

"I don't want to play complainers. They're depressing—unless the author is trying to make them funny."

"And depressed persons, even in what's supposed to be a comedy, rarely seem funny to me."

"I want to play comedy that you laugh with, not at."

She paused, quite an accomplishment.

"I was a very lucky person when I was born," she con-

The new television season is a month old. What do the television critics think of the new - model programming? Opinions range from "most disappointing" ever to "the good things are there if you look for them."

UPI asked a panel of critics from coast to coast to assess the fall network offerings. Here are their opinions:

Terry Turner, "Chicago Daily News" — "This season is the most bland and unimaginative I can recall, but I wouldn't call it the worst because of the continued emphasis on news, news specials and documentaries which help viewers maintain their sanity."

Red O'Donnel, "Nashville Banner" — "I don't think it is any better or any worse. There are good shows and bad shows. The big town critics get jaded at watching things. I think this year the networks are trying much harder."

Jack Lloyd, "Atlanta Journal" — "Not much different from previous year. Same number of outstanding, mediocre and bad programs. 'Beverly Hillbilly' probably the funniest. Loretta Young a flop so far. Return of Gleason refreshing."

Fairfax Nisbet, "Dallas Morning News" — "This season is no more or less disappointing than ever. It is marked by return of oldies like Lucy Ball, humorous and serious war stories and more situation comedies."

Terence O'Flaherty, "San Francisco Chronicle" — "I see

no reason for discouragement with the 1962 season — provided you don't watch too often. Hollywood has decided the West has been won and we can now turn our attention to the more civilized savagery of bronco busting, psychiatry, World War II and the servant problem.

"Surgery has replaced cattle rustling — and this is in the nature of an improvement provided you aren't contemplating an operation. But most encouraging of all, TV continues to excel in its specialty—documentaries, sports and special events. The good things are there if the viewer wishes to seek them out."

Bill Kennedy, WXYZ-TV (Detroit), host and former movie star—"In my opinion, this fall's television programs tend to be on the spotty side. One bright note is the Gene Kelly show, 'Going My Way.' All the standards like 'Ben Casey,' and 'The Garry Moore Show' have lost their original emphasis. I'm happy with Red Skelton."

Minow Comments

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Communications Commission Chairman Newton N. Minow's comments on new TV programming:

"There are some bright moments."

"New children's programs to stretch a child's imagination and mind are on the air. Unfortunately, some of these are offered at conflicting and inconvenient times for youngsters."

As I was leaving, Spring stopped me for another moment.

Woman Tortured by Agonizing ITCH

"I nearly itched to death 7 1/2 years. Then I found a new wonder cream. Now I'm happy," writes Mrs. P. Remington of L.A. Calif. Here's a blessed relief from tortures of vaginal itch, rectal itch, chafing, rash and eczema with an amazing new scientific formula called LANACANE. This far-acting medicated cream kills harmful bacteria germs while it soothes raw, irritated and inflamed tissue. Stops scratching—to speeds healing. Don't bother! Get LANACANE at drug stores.

"Talking about the future," she twinkled, "I know what I'd really like to do."

"I'd like to sit at arithmetic all over again."

"I was a dumbbell, so scared of it."

"To me, a quotient was a bug-eyed monster."

Quotient. Smollient.

The sum total of Spring's career can be equaled by only a few.

Some of the commercials get on my nerves.

The woman with the delicate skin—I would like to send her some sandpaper.

And the various soaps who have women claiming, "I have never been so clean."

I always considered myself clean. Of course, I started washing myself as a baby. I didn't have to wait until I grew up.

I wouldn't like to eat at the home of those ladies with the lovely hands. Don't they ever rinse after washing all those soapy dishes?

One more. Would those lovely girls, when advertising hair shampoo, etc., show their teeth slightly and not where you can see down to their stomachs?

Anne Baird, Long Beach If they show their teeth, even slightly, they're liable to swallow some of the shampoo.

I have sampled a few of

Pan and Fan Mail

the new TV shows. They are for the birds.

Evelyn Quipp, Long Beach What makes you think the birds want them?

Could you please answer two of our weekly questions as we watch and listen to Lawrence Welk?

The saxophonist, Don Bonnee, does he have an artificial right eye?

Does the lady cello player, Charlotte Harris, wear contact lenses? If she does, then we will know why it is so hard for her to open her eyes when the big light is on her.

W. A. Phillips, Long Beach

Charlotte does wear contact lenses but please don't involve me in an argument with an optometrist as to whether that's the reason

it's hard for her to face the lights.

Don's eyes, both of them, are the pair he was born with.

Q. How old is President Kennedy's father, and will he ever regain his full faculties? — Henry Ostermann, Winchester, Va.

A. Joseph P. Kennedy is 74. Doctors do not expect him to recover completely.

Q. What lies behind all the attempts to assassinate President de Gaulle of France? — Claire Stewart, Easton, Md.

A. A thirst for vengeance by his political enemies, a desperate hope that the death of de Gaulle will throw France into a panic, bring on a nationalism which would drive France to recover an Algeria in turmoil.

Q. Is it true that Darlene Hard cries when she loses a tennis match? — Nina Wallace, Rye, N.Y.

A. Not generally. She did cry, however, in her losing match against Margaret Smith last month at the women's nationals in Forest Hills, N.Y.

Q. Is Pablo Picasso responsible for modern art? — B. Klein, Winnetka, Ill.

A. Picasso is generally regarded as the most original and inventive painter of the century. He originated many of the basics of modern art and for the past 50 years has greatly influenced all styles.

Q. Almost two years ago Tony Accardo, the Chicago ganglord, was convicted and sentenced to prison for deducting phony auto expenses from his income tax. How come he is not yet in jail? — Dennis Coughlan, Tucson, Ariz.

A. Accardo's conviction was reversed by the U.S. Court of Appeals which ordered him re-tried.

Q. Janet Leigh was recently married. Is this her fifth or sixth marriage? Also her new husband, Bob Brandt: how many times had he been married? — F.P., Fresno, Calif.

A. Janet Leigh's current marriage to Bob Brandt is her fourth, his third.

Q. I would like to know who has made the most money to date from a film, The Guns of Navarone. — Dresser Howard, Ithaca, N.Y.

A. Probably Gregory Peck, whose share from a percentage of the profits to date is about $1,250,000.

Q. In the Doris Day-Marty Melcher marriage, who calls the shots? — George Schreiber, New York, N.Y.

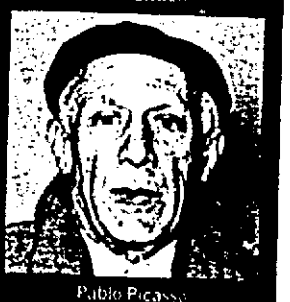

A. Miss Day listens to her husband, but she very much runs her own career.

Charles de Gaulle

Edith Sitwell

Pablo Picasso

Doris Day

Q. Dame Edith Sitwell, the great English writer, is now 75, but looks much younger. She has a list of secrets for eternal youth. Has she ever revealed them? — N.R., Dallas, Texas.

A. Edith Sitwell says, "No one need ever grow old except in body. The trick, of course, is to think of other persons and things besides yourself. The people who grow old are those who are completely self-centered. You grow old if you fret about ridiculous things."

Q. Who is Fernanda Pignatari, and what is her relationship with actor Louis Jourdan? — G.Y., El Paso, Texas.

A. Fernanda Pignatari is the multi-millionaire sister of playboy Baby Pignatari. She lives on Majorca where she has entertained Jourdan and others.

Q. I would like to know how many times Groucho Marx has been married. — Bertha Tracton, Olympia, Wash.

A. Groucho has been married three times.

Q. At President Kennedy's press conferences, how many reporters show up, and how many questions are asked, and which reporter is Kennedy's favorite? — F.L., Washington, D.C.

A. More than 300 reporters usually attend. Approximately 20 questions are asked. The President plays no favorites.

Q. Who provided the $100,000 bail which the late Dr. Robert Soblen jumped? — Janice Lemert, Tucson, Ariz.

A. His wife put up $40,000. The other $60,000 was put up by Mrs. Helen Buttenweiser, a member of the law firm handling Soblen's appeals, and George G. Kirstein, publisher of The Nation. Eight private bondsmen had previously been approached and declined to accept the business.

Q. Is it true that dictators Franco of Spain and Salazar of Portugal have hired public relations agencies in the U.S. to give them a better, kinder public image? — Lawrence Siegel, New York, N.Y.

A. True.

Q. Who is Mary Anderson and for what is she famous? — Helen Cox, Vincennes, Ind.

A. Mary Anderson, 90, is a pioneer for women's rights in the field of labor. She helped pioneer collective bargaining and was largely responsible for the provision in the federal Wage and Hour Law that there be no discrimination by employers on the basis of sex or age in paying the legal minimum wage.

My favorite jokes

by RUSTY WARREN

The story is told of the inebriated motorist who started his car while it was in gear and went crashing into a ladies' dress shop. Looking around at the mannequins in the window, he said: "I knew it—women drivers."

An aspiring young actress went to audition for a role in a Broadway play. She read one part and then another. When she was through, she turned to the director and asked: "What shall I do now?"

"Find yourself a husband," replied the director, "and get married."

An optimist is a guy who keeps his motor running while his wife pops in to buy a new hat.

A man took his dog into a bar. "Don't bother making me a drink," he told the bartender. "My dog will make it for me."

With this, the dog ran behind the bar, got a bottle of gin and a bottle of dry vermouth, mixed them in a mixing glass with ice cubes, poured them into a martini glass and then added a twist of lemon. When he finished making the martini, the dog took a dollar bill from his master, ran to the cash register, came back with the exact change and dropped it on the bar.

The amazed bartender said: "Say, I could make a fortune with that dog! How much will you sell him for?"

"You wouldn't want him," replied the owner. "He always forgets to take out for the sales tax."

A young doctor queried a veteran physician: "Why do you always ask your patients what they have for dinner?"

"It's a most important question," said the elder, "because I make out my bills according to their menus."

A henpecked husband finally put his foot down. He ordered his kids not to bother him while he was washing the dishes.

A rich Texan was called to school because his son wasn't getting along with his teachers.

The Texan walked into the principal's office and said: "I can't understand why the teachers don't get along with my Billy; all the servants do!"

Three old ladies in a home for the mentally disturbed were sitting on their rockers and chatting. "Know what I wish?" said one. "I wish a big, handsome man would come here and take me away."

To which the second lady turned to the third and said: "Sara ain't going to be with us long. She's beginning to talk sense."

A recent survey revealed that most crimes are committed by single men. It just proves what can happen when a man doesn't have anyone to scold him!

A man at a party told his host: "No more for me, thanks. My wife might insist on driving home, and you know how dangerous that is!"

A socially-conscious matron visited a real estate agency and inquired about a home in Beverly Hills. "I have the perfect place for you," the agent told her. "It's spacious, it has three fireplaces, separate servant quarters and is in excellent condition."

"Is it in an exclusive neighborhood?" asked the matron.

"Are you joking?" replied the agent. "This neighborhood is so exclusive that it has an unlisted postal zone number!"

A college professor passed a restaurant and saw a sign for "Lam Stew." He entered the restaurant and told the owner about the error.

The next time the professor passed the eatery he looked for the sign. This time it read: "Clamb Chowder."

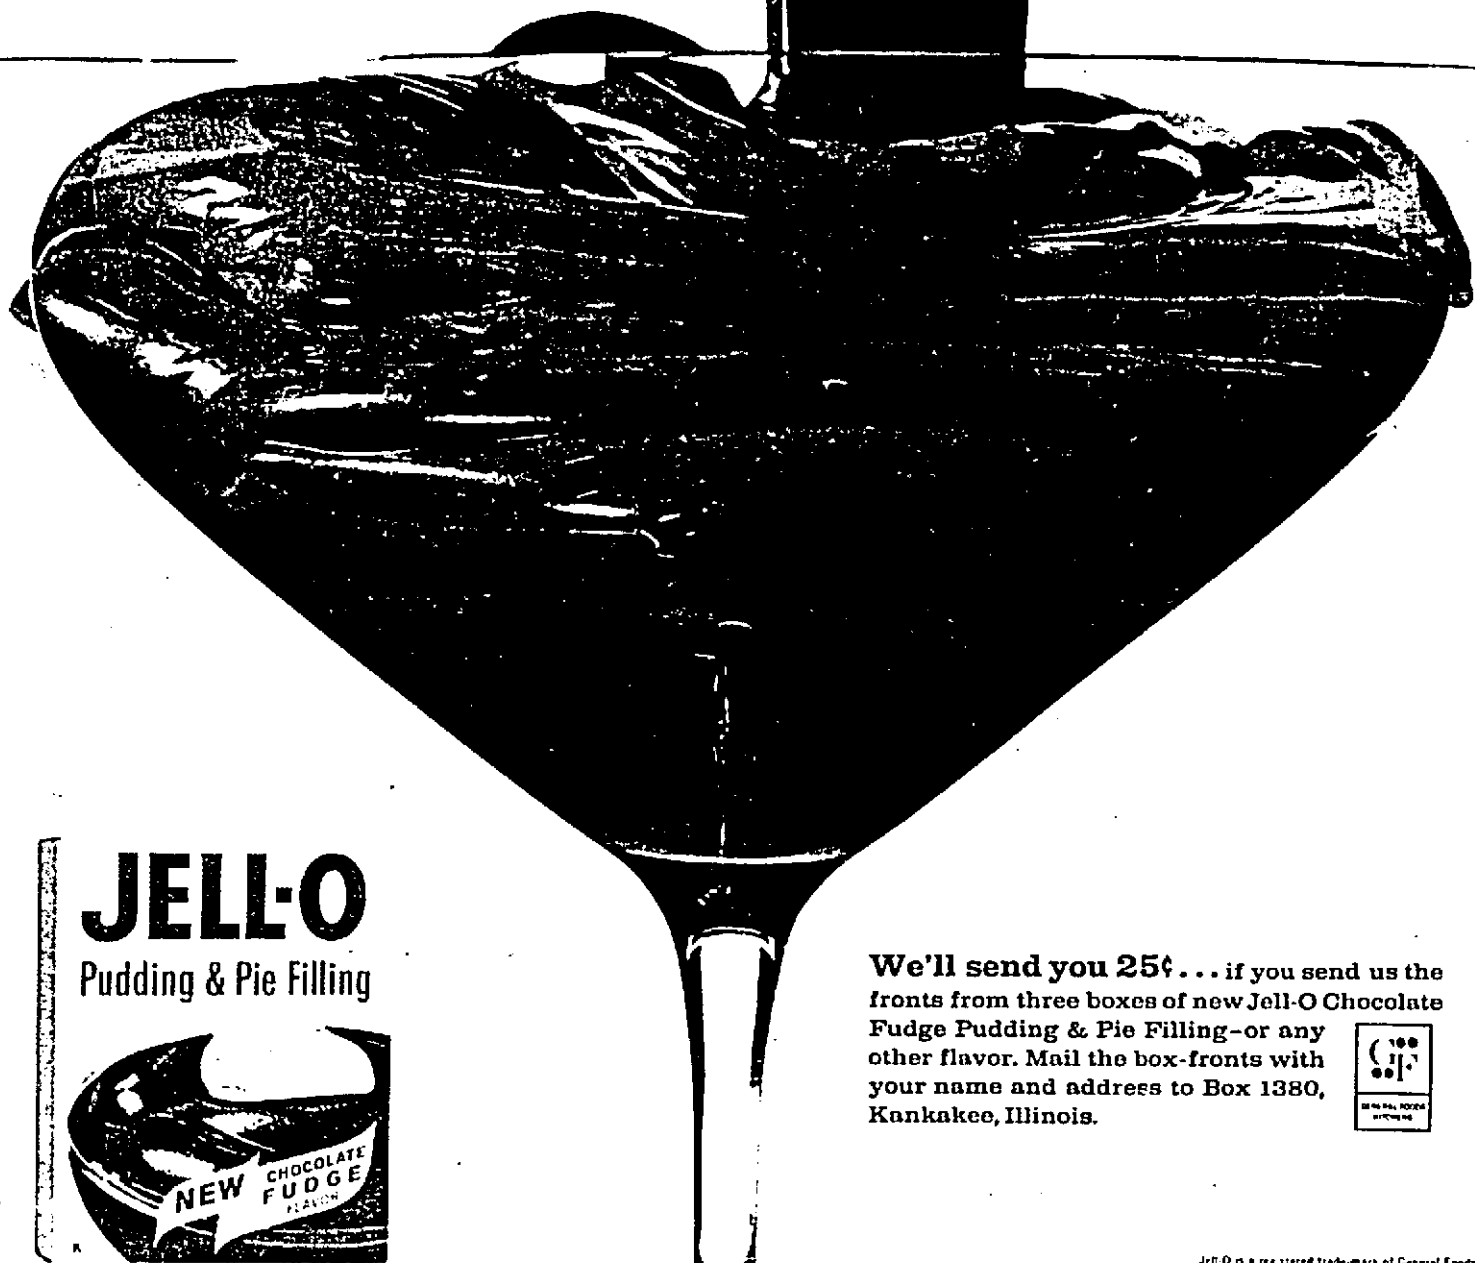

A wife had too much to drink at a party. As her husband drove her home, she suddenly screamed: "Look! There's a snake crawling up the window."

"Boy—you're really drunk!" the husband replied. "That's not a snake—it's the windshield wiper."

Scott Carpenter, 37, second American to orbit the earth, flashes famous grin as he addresses message to U.S. youth. Carpenter's advice: Don't be fooled by the glory of being an astronaut; pick the field best suited to your own special talents and interests.

AMERICA'S FIRST TWO MEN-IN-ORBIT TELL HOW TO GET READY

by ED KIESTER

HOUSTON, TEX.

WHILE I CERTAINLY am interested in seeing that we get fine astronauts in the future, I'm certainly not advising everyone to be an astronaut. There is going to be a lot of living to be done and a lot of progress to be made outside the space field. We also are going to need great statesmen, great lawyers, great doctors and great farmers.

"But I can tell you this: those who contribute the most, in the space field or any other field, are going to be the same types of youngsters. They will be those who are willing to assess their capabilities, set high but realistic goals, and then work hard to attain these goals."

The man speaking was an authority on what it takes to succeed in space — America's first man-in-orbit, Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn, Jr. Along with the nation's second man-in-orbit, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Scott Carpenter, he was addressing himself to this question posed by PARADE:

"The generation in school today is the generation that will go to the moon—and perhaps to the planets as well. What can you advise them that would help some of them to qualify as astronauts—and all of them to live in the Space Age?"

Because they are frequently asked this question by parents, both men had agreed to take time out from their duties on upcoming U.S. space projects—the two-men-in-space Project Gemini and the men-on-the-moon Project Apollo—to answer. Seated at a conference table on "Astronaut Row" in the new Manned Spacecraft Center here, they chose their words carefully.

"I'm not sure anyone should try to influence an impressionable kid too much too early," said Glenn at one point. Yet obviously both men had given much thought to counseling young people. And essentially they agreed that the following recipe has some of the ingredients for life in the Space Age:

▲ A solid, basic education, heavy in math and science but with emphasis on the humanities: "The world still will be run by people," Glenn says.

▲ A personal physical training program, based on simple, vigorous, regular exercise, or plain hard labor, which can be an equally good body conditioner.

▲ Setting yourself specific goals and competing against yourself to attain them, thus sharpening such qualities as industry, diligence, persistence, idealism and self-reliance.

▲ Military service, both for its lessons in discipline and (for astronauts) the opportunity for flight training.

▲ A refusal to be counted out. Even though only physically-fit young men and women will go to the moon, even people who cannot physically qualify for flight may contribute in some other very important ways.

"It's difficult," says Carpenter, "to say precisely today what the astronauts will need tomorrow, or what the average citizen will need to live in an age of space flight. After all, no one could have told us 10 years ago exactly how to prepare ourselves. Yet I cannot conceive that education will not be even more critical in the future than it is today."

"Scholastically, I think it's apparent that an engi-

John Glenn, 40, nation's orbital-flight trail blazer, gives studied thought to needs of future astronauts. Ohio-born Marine colonel thinks religion may be of importance to astronaut—"at least," Glenn says, "it was to this particular astronaut."

YOUNG PEOPLE AND THEIR PARENTS: FOR THE SPACE AGE

neering-scientific background will continue to be a requisite for astronauts. Subjects to stress in high school would be primarily physics, math, chemistry and biology. Other scientific talents may be needed in the future. For instance, geology could be very important in the follow-on programs that will land on the moon and planets.

Humanities go along with science

"In college, I would think aeronautical engineering would be best, maybe followed by a master's degree in physics. Nuclear physics is bound to be important for future astronauts."

For non-astronauts, too, both Carpenter and Glenn agree, an understanding of science will be essential in an age of astronautics. However, the astronauts add that science should not be overemphasized.

"The humanities go right along with the sciences," Glenn says. "We have found from our own experience the need to write, speak and think clearly. A person can have the finest ideas in the world and it does no good just to keep them in his head. He must be able to express his good ideas clearly."

"The humanities are not out by any means, not at all."

Both Carpenter, who is of medium height, wiry and slim, and Glenn, who is taller and broader, follow their own personal programs to keep in trim. Carpenter, who began lifting weights when he was in high school, works out on the trampoline and still lifts weights daily. Glenn runs two miles every day. Before his flight he increased the distance to five miles.

"For young people, I don't think an elaborate program or elaborate equipment is necessary," Carpenter says. "You don't need any equipment to run, swim or do calisthenics, for instance. I do think, though, that it should be strenuous exercise."

"I think young people need to work at not getting soft," Glenn adds. "The main equipment necessary is a sincere desire to be physically fit. If that will be there, a way will be found to get a daily workout."

Glenn, who is not a trampoline buff—"Look what it did for you," he kids Carpenter—advocates exercise which uses all the muscles and tones all parts of the body. He favors swimming as well as running. However, Glenn says, the approach to exercise may be more important than the exercise itself. "You have to set goals and strive for them against yourself," he says. "Those old body-building courses which pitted one muscle against another may well have had the right idea because you certainly can't find better competition anywhere than yourself."

Glenn is a self-confessed "bug" on the subject of establishing objectives and striving to reach them.

"None of us ought to just drift around and around," he says. "I remember some years ago I went to the State Fair in Ohio and I saw what was billed as the world's most powerful tractor. It was running in a big circle, pulling a big load. They had the steering wheel cranked over, and round and round it went. Here you had this powerful tractor accomplishing absolutely nothing. Yet this tractor guided or having a proper objective could accomplish a great deal. And the same thing applies to people."

Military life teaches valuable lessons

The two spacemen are agreed that military service can be of value not only to future astronauts, but to other young Americans as well.

"Aviation training in high-performance aircraft may well aid tomorrow's astronauts," says Carpenter. "That is, astronauts who want to contribute in a command position. The only place this training is now available is through the military. This also applies to test-pilot training, which up to now has been a requisite. We have some astronauts now who are civilians, but you'll find that even they have had aviation and test-pilot training."

Carpenter, who enlisted as a naval cadet in World War II, was discharged after the Japanese surrender

and then re-entered in 1949, thinks the military teaches other lessons as well. It conditions young people to follow orders, shows them how to be independent and self-reliant in critical situations. Carpenter thinks these are basic attributes that will prove invaluable whether young people are in space or on earth.

He also believes that mechanical aptitude is of value to men in space. As boys, both Carpenter and Glenn were tinkers who bought and tore apart automobiles and then rebuilt them to their own specifications. Carpenter as a schoolboy had a 1934 Ford coupe which he worked on continually. Both men feel that mechanical skills can be learned but the ability to understand things mechanical probably stems from innate aptitudes.

Carpenter is also convinced of the value of hard work. He thinks that every young boy should spend some of his summers at something vigorous and physical—chopping wood, digging ditches, carrying hod, working in the fields. Although he weighs only 155 pounds, Carpenter has extraordinary strength and endurance.

The three main areas of needed improvement

"I grew up in the outdoors," says Carpenter, who was raised around Boulder, Colo., "and I worked hard as a high school boy, and I guess I was lucky in that respect. I didn't have this kind of future in mind, but my background certainly helped me when it came along. I can't think of much I did as a boy that wasn't valuable to me as an astronaut. Every day added a little bit. It wasn't just the physical expenditure that was good. It was the habits it taught you, the willingness to work."

Glenn, who grew up in New Concord, Ohio, recalls his boyhood, too, and specifically remembers training he got as a member of the Hi-Y, the high school affiliate of the YMCA, which he thinks is the type of training and thinking that will be valuable to everyone in the Space Age.

"We used to talk," says the nation's first man-in-orbit, "about the individual's three general areas—body, mind and spirit. We all have different capabilities in each of these areas. Some children grow up particularly strong in one, some grow up particularly strong in another. The thing is to find out where your talents lie, in whatever field they may be. Then you are probably going to make your greatest contribution in that field. However, you are still going to be made up of body, mind and spirit so it behooves any young person or any of us to improve ourselves, to set up objectives in each of these areas."

"Not everyone is going to be qualified to be an astronaut. Some are not going to be physically qualified, some not educationally qualified. On the other hand, a boy may assess himself and find that he is not going to be an astronaut but he may be a tremendous nuclear physicist and do more than astronauts ever do."

"I don't think parents, or other grownups, should push their kids too hard in one particular direction. When parents ask me to autograph a picture: 'To the world's greatest future astronaut,' I never do it, because I don't think a kid should grow up thinking he's a disappointment because he's not become the astronaut his dad wanted him to be at the age of two."

Glenn: 'The man who succeeds is the man of balance.'

Carpenter: 'You can do wonders with industry.'

Personally I almost became a chemist—I even took chemical engineering in college—just because a man I greatly admired tried to steer me that way. I feel now that I would have been a poor chemist.

"To my children, who are 15 and 16," Glenn continues, "I say, 'Don't make up your mind too early. There's plenty of time to make up your mind in late high school or early college about what you want to be.' And I just try to give them as many varied experiences as I can possibly give them, that's all."

"But I do want them to set goals, realistic goals, work toward them, and attain them. To me, when there are goals there's no delinquency, and fewer problems. And it's the beauty of this country that you can attain realistic goals. All you must do is assess your capabilities, set your objective and you can make it."

"Gee, to me, that's America. It's the only place on this earth where that's true."

CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS. In this forthcoming election, will you contribute a single dollar to the candidate of your choice? Have you ever contributed a single dollar to either political party? Most of us have not. Where then do politicians get the money to run for office? Largely from industrialists, labor unions, corporations and other business firms. Do these contributions compromise them? Honest men say no. But even so incorruptible a senator as Paul Douglas points out that this method of campaign financing is "corrupting in a subconscious way...The candidate turns to his friends and supporters as flowers turn toward the sun." Suggested solutions to the problem: (1) Allow income tax deductions for campaign contributions; (2) Have the federal government defray all campaign costs; (3) Educate the citizenry to contribute willingly; (4) As in Great Britain, pass a law requiring the radio and TV networks to contribute free time to candidates since TV time has lately become one of the heaviest of all campaign expenses.

FACT. One-fifth of the 4,000,000 undergraduates at U.S. colleges today are married.

Linda Christian: She says producers chased her.

EISENHOWER'S FORTUNE. Ex-President Eisenhower, who earned $750,000 from his first book Crusade in Europe, has another one in the works -- his so-called memoirs, which publishers say should be good for a cool million. Ike is rare among military men in American history in that he started out as a poor farm boy and will finish a multi-millionaire. During his two terms in the White House, Eisenhower had his financial portfolio managed by a group of shrewd Texas oil men, among them the late Alton Jones. Reportedly these experts quadrupled in value the Eisenhower investments. Ike and Mamie will leave in a few months for Palm Desert, Calif., where they rent for a nominal sum the $175,000 golf cottage built for them by motor magnate Bob McCulloch. In much the same way that President Kennedy gravitates towards newspapermen and politicians, Ike seeks out the society of golfers and businessmen.

DOCTORS' CHOICE. If you were a young doctor, where would you like best to practice? According to the placement service run by the American Medical Association, the doctors' number one choice is California. Other favorite locations for a pleasant and profitable practice: Florida, Arizona, Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, Oregon and Washington.

LINDA'S HANDICAP. Linda Christian, ex-wife of Tyrone Power who recently finished her autobiography, reveals her virtue cost her stardom in Hollywood. "If I'd played ball with the Hollywood producers," she said recently, "I'd be a big star today. Whenever I walked into one of their offices, they started chasing me around the desk, but I just wouldn't play that way." Hollywood reaction to Linda's claim: "Baloney."

TROUBLE FINDERS. How do we keep track of what the Soviets are doing in space? Supposedly it's top secret but since our surveillance system is already known to the Soviets, it can now be revealed. It consists of Spasur and Spacetrack, two series of radars run by the Navy and the Air Force on the North American continent. These are controlled by the North American Air Defense Command with headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo. In addition we have the BMEWS (Ballistic Missile Early Warning System) with high-powered radar setups at Thule, Greenland; Clear, Alaska; and Flyingdales, Great Britain. A third arm of the surveillance system is our special electronics and radar center on the Turkish border which monitors Soviet missile launchings. A fourth consists of our Midas and Samos spy satellites which pass over the Soviet Union. We have further electronic espionage devices but of these the Defense Department will reveal nothing. Suffice it to say that we know darn well whereof we speak when we announce flatly that the Russians have failed five times to launch a spacecraft to Venus. More important yet, the Russians know we know.

SUPERMARKET CHANGE. Ten years ago the average supermarket in this country carried 1,500 items. Today it carries 7,500. Any wonder about the tremendous competition among merchandisers for available shelf space?

ALL ABOUT EVE ARDEN

by LLOYD SHEARER

Eve Arden at Las Vegas does a turn from her new act, a smash hit in which she sings, dances, and tells jokes—a big change from old role in Our Miss Brooks.

LAS VEGAS, NEV.

LAST MONTH when Eve Arden was booked into the Sahara Hotel here to make her night club debut at $20,000 per week, people asked: "What can she do?"

These same fans had seen Eve in motion pictures, had heard her on radio, had watched her for years on TV in Our Miss Brooks. Yet when it came to night clubs they wondered, justifiably enough, whether she would cut the mustard or whether she would fail, as so many of her motion picture colleagues have failed.

This is to report that, at 50, Eve Arden is a show business phenomenon. She can do just about everything and do it well.

In her supper club stint, which she plans to take around the country, she sings, she dances, she tells jokes, she reminisces about her lengthy career, she performs a series of hilarious impersonations, lampooning Bette Davis, Marlene Dietrich, Nikita Khrushchev, Jackie Kennedy and Loretta Young.

Aided by four talented young men, her act is a wow, featuring mostly a gentle and good-natured humor.

The key to Eve Arden's personality is this same gentility, warmth and kindness of spirit; which is precisely why everyone in show business loves the woman.

You cannot find any actress in Hollywood, for example, where Eve has lived and worked since 1938, who will say a harsh word about her—this, despite the fact that Eve is happily married, has four children (three of them adopted), a tall, dark, handsome actor-husband named Brooks West, and a tidy little nest-egg worth at least two million.

Success Breeds Envy

In Hollywood, more than anywhere else, success arouses envy and resentment, especially in females. In the case of Eve Arden, it has aroused nothing but admiration.

One reason for this is that on her way up, Eve Arden never climbed the ladder of success lad by lad. She never knifed a fellow actress, never took advantage of subordinates, never spoke harshly of her peers, never broke into tantrums. Always she generated the feeling that she was pleasant, easy-going, non-competitive.

The great beauties like Joan Crawford, Irene Dunne and Loretta Young never regarded her as more than a fine character actress. Her stock in trade was playing the cool, crisp, caustic career-dame who wore brass knuckles on her tongue when she wasn't dipping it in sulphuric acid.

The truth, of course, is that Eve Arden is completely unlike the typed character she enacts in films. She's a home-loving softie who supports a flock of foreign kids in addition to her own brood. She lives on a farm with all sorts of animals: a cow named Elizabeth Taylor, a rooster named Tommy Manville, a heifer named Jane Russell, a Jersey named Anna Magnani, a colt named Perry Como, and a flock of other similarly-named stock.

Unfortunately, she's been acting since childhood and has a compulsion not only to perform but to earn money for so doing.

"I just can't sit around," she explains, "and grow broad in the beam. I tried that."

I took up painting after we finished Our Miss Brooks. But I paint sitting down, and I could feel myself beginning to spread, so a few months ago I decided I'd do something I'd never before done—entertain in night clubs. It's really much easier than doing a TV series week after week. You get more money for doing less work. And it gives you more time to spend with your family.

"I don't want to put off living, which so many people in show biz do when the right part or series comes along. I want to travel with my children, grow with my children, enjoy my children. I've got dozens of family projects I want to get underway."

"If I've learned anything in life," she goes on, "it's to live now, to enjoy nowness. I don't want to mention any names, but so many people in this business have never learned to enjoy themselves. They're too busy getting ahead."

"I've learned to enjoy the goodness in myself, in my family, and in other people, and that's made life a very sweet and bountiful thing to me. Believe me, I haven't always felt this way. I learned the hard way to look for the goodness and happiness in life and to bring out the best in those you love and work with."

Frustrated Domesticity

In 1939 when Eve was married to her first husband, Edward Bergen, an author's agent, she became mildly obsessed with the domestic life. But her obsession resulted in frustration, because Bergen worked in New York and she worked in Hollywood, and there was no togetherness, never much domesticity. Then World War II came along, and she lost her husband to the Army. Following the war, they were divorced and for years Eve was so miserable she went into analysis.

"I discovered," she says, "that in this world there are two kinds of neurotics—those who take their frustrations out on the world and those who take them out on themselves. I used to take them out on me." But if Eve shed tears, she shed them in private and never projected her troubles or transferred them to anyone.

In 1948 Bill Paley, president of CBS, suggested she portray a schoolteacher on radio, and a few years later Our Miss Brooks was moved to television. In this period Eve Arden not only became a professional success but also a domestic one. She met actor Brooks West, who played opposite her in summer stock, and in 1951 after constantly being urged by her two daughters, married him.

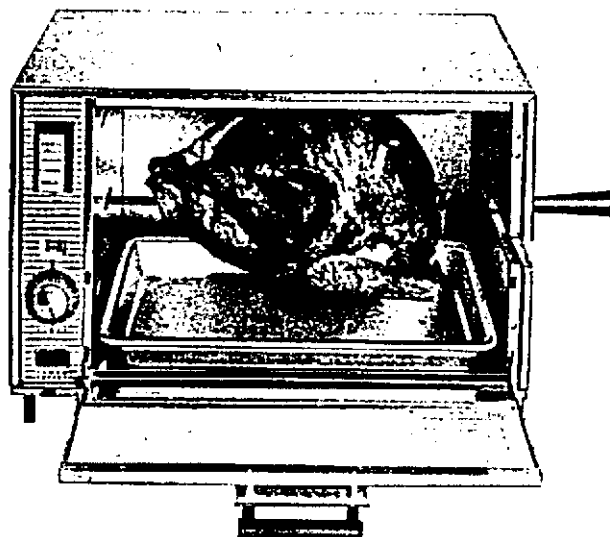

Today, Eve Arden, originally from Mill Valley, Calif., with the name Eunice Quelens, is the classic example of the complete, fulfilled woman who has managed to turn the neat trick of combining career and marriage and making a roaring success of both.

Her latest triumph, of course, is in night clubs. But it may be turned into a $300,000 TV special, so that you can all see how truly versatile Our Miss Brooks really is.

Happy Hollywood brood consists of Eve and husband, actor Brooks West, whom she married in 1951; and children Lisa, 17, Connie, 14, Duncan, 9, and Douglas, 8. All but Douglas are adopted.

Why do you blush?

Is it innate modesty or is it because of guilt feelings? Or does the color rise because you hate to be the center of attention?

Many new and unknown aspects of blushing now are coming to light. They are based on 40-year studies of blushing made by Dr. Sandor S. Feldman, Clinical Professor of Psychiatry, the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry, a man who may be called the world's foremost authority on red faces. In the quiz below, circle or underline the answers you believe are correct, then check your results against those of the expert. If you score nine right, consider yourself a connoisseur of the blush.

ANSWERS

1 False. People blush even when alone. "Solitary blushing" occurs when a person visualizes himself in a situation where he did blush or where he probably would blush.

2 True. Blushing does not occur until a child has learned to be ashamed of certain feelings and to deny or conceal them to avoid disapproval. It may appear in two- or three-year-olds. Usually, it comes after a child is old enough to laugh at jokes.

3 False. Blushing can occur when a person visualizes himself in the sort of situation which ordinarily would cause him to blush.

4 False. Men and women blush with equal ease.

5 False. Blushing is common to all races and occurs regardless of skin pigment. Blushing has been observed in albinos, Negroes, Orientals, Polynesians, and Brazilian aborigines, among others. When dark-complexioned people blush their skin becomes darker.

6 True. Blushing occurs most frequently from puberty until the age of 30, then tends to diminish. It can persist in old age, however, and has been observed in oldsters in their 80s.

7 True. In Victorian days, women were expected to blush as an indication of innocence. However, woman's role in society has changed; she is no longer expected to blush at a faux pas, a four-letter word or an off-color story. Generally, today's woman doesn't.

8 False. A member of a group can be ashamed for what another member has done—and blush.

9 False. Blushing can be caused by any kind of public attention, whether it brings praise or punishment. "Even such routine acts as entering a store or being introduced may cause such a person to blush," Dr. Feldman says.

10 True. If A sees B blush, A may assume that this is a response to the same sort of situation that would cause A to blush. A thereupon identifies with B—and promptly blushes!

11 False. Blushing may occur on the face, ears, neck, and upper part of the chest. In tribes whose members habitually go naked, the blush may also be seen on the abdomen and arms.

12 False. Once a feeling of shame or embarrassment has been produced, there is no way in which a person can keep from blushing.

Is your face red?

If your cheeks are tingling over your score on today's quiz, you might want to brush up on the little-known subject of blushing. Here are some of Dr. Feldman's more interesting findings in his 40-year study.

"Blushing is caused by our repression of the normal, universal desire to be the focus of attention.

"At an early age, we are taught that it's wrong to want to draw attention to ourselves. As a result, we pretend to be humble—we don the mask of hypocrisy so that others (initially our parents; later, members of our social group or society in general) will think well of us.

"But the truth will out: repressing our desire for attention brings redness to our skin—particularly to the face—and draws the attention we wanted in the first place!

"People don't blush until they are old enough to be made ashamed of their desire for attention; thus, blushing starts when the child is old enough to try to hide his craving for attention as a means of adjusting to his environment.

"Theoretically, if a person could be completely and constantly aware of his own inner drives (including the drive to attract attention) and would admit these drives under reasonable circumstances, he would never blush."

Most of us never achieve this advanced state of self-awareness. Result: practically all of us blush—at least, occasionally!

THE THUNDERING HERD
When the plainsman asked Tom Doan why he wanted to hunt buffalo, Tom replied "I can ride ... I'm quick on the draw ... and I ain't seen man nor beast yet I'd run from!" "You'll do," the plainsman said. "I reckon I'll need every hand I can get. Them Indian varmints is a-min' to run every hide-huntin' white man off the plains — YOUR SCALP WILL DO AS GOOD AS ANY FOR THEM!"

ROBBERS' ROOST

The Hank Hays Gang was as large! These blood-crazed killers were wanted — DEAD OR ALIVE — for robbery ... rustling ... murder ... and now for KIDNAPPING a beautiful young girl!

But the girl was doomed to perish! No one dared go near their hideout ... where Hank Hays himself had boasted of a "Robbers' Roost" where no posse could ride in twenty years!

THE DUDE RANGER

Ernest Howard was a new tenderfoot on the Red Rock Ranch. The ranch manager wouldn't even let him go near a horse. His daughter treated Ernest like dirt! And the foreman hated him — even tried to KILL him!

But The Tenderfoot had an ace up his sleeve. The others didn't know it, but HE was the new OWNER of Red Rock Ranch! He wanted to find out why the manager had $200,000 in the bank while the ranch itself was barely breaking even! He would find out, too — if he lived long enough!

ANIMALS LIVING IN THE WILD STATE ARE USUALLY CAREFUL TO KEEP THEMSELVES SPOTLESSLY CLEAN...

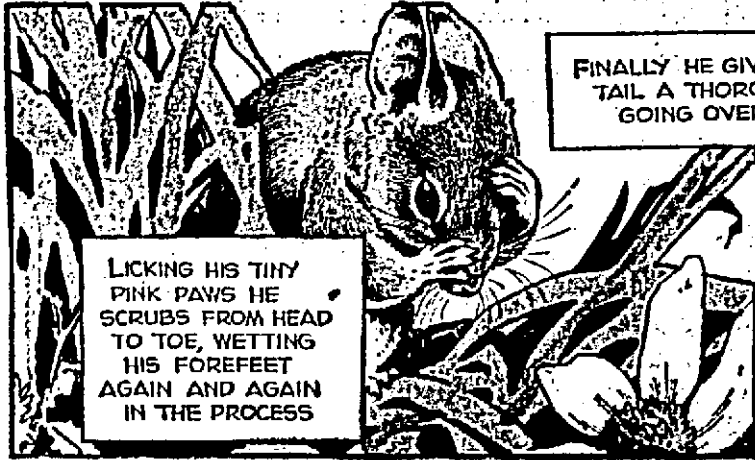

AND ONE OF THE MOST ASSIDUOUS BATHERS IS, OF ALL CREATURES, THE HARVEST MOUSE!

EVEN THE FACE-WASHING HOUSE CAT IS CARELESS COMPARED TO THE LITTLE RODENT

SEVERAL TIMES A DAY THE HARVESTER STOPS WHAT HE'S DOING AND TIDIES UP

LICKING HIS TINY PINK PAWS HE SCRUBS FROM HEAD TO TOE, WETTING HIS FOREFEET AGAIN AND AGAIN IN THE PROCESS

FINALLY HE GIVES HIS TAIL A THOROUGH GOING OVER...

AND ONLY WHEN THE MOUSE IS SURE HE IS ABSOLUTELY CLEAN DOES HE TURN HIS ATTENTION TO OTHER THINGS

GOOD! AS WE FLY OVER THE RUINS OF THE FORT, WE CAN COMPARE ITS OUTLINE WITH THE 'PIGGY BANK' SKETCH FOUND IN BANKER GEORGE KANNON'S HAND!

YOU WERE RIGHT, MISS KIRK! THAT MUST BE THE KEY WHERE HE WAS MAROONED FOR TWO YEARS AFTER ABSCONDING WITH HIS BANK'S FUNDS!

LATER...

... MY SOUL AND BODY! WE COULD SPEND A YEAR OF FRUITLESS DIGGING IN THESE RUINS!

WE'LL HAVE TO WAIT TILL THE TURTLES COME ASHORE TO LAY THEIR EGGS AND FLIP EACH TURTLE OVER, SUH!

EASY! MR. MCKEE!

HERE THEY COME! THE SPAWNING PARADE HAS BEGUN!

BLAZES! WE'LL HAVE TO WORK FAST... ONE O' THOSE REPTILES COULD BE WORTH $250,000!!
